Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Within the Department of the Treasury, the information contained in this system of records is routinely used in connection with the issuance of securities, the payment of interest thereon, processing of claims therefor, responding to inquiries thereon, processing of transactions therein and the redemption and retirement thereof. Users for these purposes are officials, authorized employees and agents of the Department for the purpose of administering the Public Debt of the United States. Information in this system is also routinely furnished to the Internal Revenue Service for use by officials and authorized employees for the purpose of facilitating collection of tax revenues by the United States. In addition to these uses within the Department, records concerning holdings are routinely disclosed outside the Department as follows: (1) To the next-of-kin, voluntary guardian, legal representative or successor in interest of a deceased or incapacitated owner of securities and others entitled in connection with transfer, exchange, distribution or payment thereof; users for this purpose are as described for the purpose of assuring equitable and lawful disposition of securities and/or interest. (2) Information is routinely furnished pertaining to securities reported as lost or stolen to the United States Secret Service for inclusion in the National Crime Information Center of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice and to other Federal agencies; users for this purpose are law enforcement officials, for the purpose of reducing monetary losses of the United States and to aid in law enforcement. (3) Information is routinely disclosed pertaining to holdings of securities and transactions therein to the Department of Justice in connection with lawsuits to which the Bureau is a party; users are law enforcement officials for the purpose of administration of justice. (4) Information concerning holdings of Armed Forces Leave Bonds is routinely furnished to the Veterans Administration in connection with redemption or disposition of these securities. Users of the resultant information furnished by the Veterans Administration are officers and authorized employees of the Bureau, for the purpose of making proper disposition of these bonds. (5) Information regarding records of holdings of securities registered in the names of two or more owners is routinely disclosed to either owner upon his request. (Note: requests for disclosure by owners other than the first-named owner should include the name or social security number of the first-named owner.) Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records in this system are stored in their original paper form and as information in electronic media and on microfilm.

Retrievability: Information can be retrieved alphabetically by name or, in some cases, numerically by social security number. In the case of securities registered in more than one name, which matured prior to January 1, 1973, information relating thereto can only be retrieved by the name or social security number of the first-named owner.

Safeguards: Information is contained in secure buildings, Federal Records Centers, or in areas which are occupied by officers and responsible employees of either the Department who are subject to personnel screening procedures and the Treasury Department Code of Conduct, or by Federal Reserve Banks and Branches as Fiscal Agents. Additionally, since in most cases, numerous steps are involved in the retrieval process, unauthorized persons would be unable to retrieve information in a meaningful form. Information stored in electronic media is safeguarded by automatic data processing security procedures in addition to physical security measures.

Retention and disposal: Records of holdings are maintained permanently. Forms, documents and other legal papers which constitute the basis for transactions subsequent to original issue are maintained for such time as is necessary to protect the legal rights and interests of the U.S. Government and the persons affected or otherwise until they are no longer historically significant. Other records are disposed of at varying intervals in accordance with records retention schedules reviewed and approved by the National Archives and Records Service, General Services Administration.

CHAPTER VII—AGRICULTURAL STABILIZATION AND CONSERVATION SERVICE (AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT), DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

SUBCHAPTER B—FARM MARKETING QUOTAS AND ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS

[Amdt. 7]

PART 726—BURLEY TOBACCO

Burley Tobacco, 1971–72 and Subsequent Marketing Years

In 40 FR 12670 there was published a notice of proposed rulemaking which, among other proposals, related to the inclusion of toxaphene and endrin, with DDT and TDE, as pesticides which, if used on tobacco, would make the tobacco ineligible for price support. Interested persons were given 30 days after publication of the notice to submit data, views, and recommendations with respect to the proposal. After consideration of the responses received, these changes were made in the loan regulations. This amendment makes corresponding changes in the burley tobacco marketing quota regulations (7 CFR § 726.50 et seq.). This amendment also contains other minor revisions and deletions which do not materially affect the 1975–76 crop of burley tobacco.

The following changes and additions are made:

1. Section 726.68 is amended to provide that transfer agreements filed outside the counties in which the farms are administratively located shall be filed at a county office of a county having a burley tobacco market.

2. Section 726.70 is amended to authorize the State committee to determine counties affected by a natural disaster.

3. Section 726.81 is amended to add the use of toxaphene and endrin to the requirement for entering "No Price Support" on the marketing card and to provide for issuance of a partial quota marketing card.

4. Section 726.86 is amended by adding the penalty rate for excess tobacco for the 1975–76 marketing year.

5. Section 726.88 is amended to require that the penalty on excess marketing for a dealer will be determined by comparing the burley tobacco resales with the burley tobacco purchases. Penalty will be due at any time the burley tobacco resales exceed the burley tobacco purchases.

6. Section 726.92 is amended to remove the references to MQ–108–1 as the producer report on MQ–108–1 is eliminated.

7. Section 726.95 is amended to remove the requirement that prior approval be obtained from the Director, PO Division before a dealer or buyer may be exempt from regular records and reports on MQ–79. Other conditions for exemption remain unchanged.

8. Section 726.104 is amended to provide for determinations relating to the use of DDT, TDE, toxaphene, and endrin.

9. Other editorial changes are made as appropriate.

Since farmers are now harvesting their tobacco, it is essential that these regulations be made effective at the earliest possible date. Accordingly, this document is being made effective upon date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The amendment to the regulations is as follows:

1. The table of contents is amended by revising the reference to 726.104 as follows:

Sec.

726.104 Determination of use of DDT, TDE, toxaphene, or endrin.

* * * * *

2. Section 726.68 is amended by changing the word "allotment" to "quota" in the last sentence of paragraph (v), and by revising paragraphs (d), (e), and (n) (1) as follows:

V40N233 DEC 3 75 XUM

§ 726.68 Transfer of burley tobacco farm marketing quotas by lease or by owner.

• • • • •

(d) Filing and approval of transfer. The transfer of part or all of a farm marketing quota shall not be effected unless a copy of the lease agreement is filed with the county committee of the county in which the farms are administratively located or with the county executive director in a county having a burley tobacco market. The transfer shall not be effective until the county committee or its designee (the county executive director or other county office employees) or, for leases filed outside the producing county, the county executive director or a county office employee designated by the county executive director determines the lease agreement to be in compliance with the provisions of this section. The county executive director or a designated county office employee in a market county shall be authorized to approve annual leases under the terms and conditions of this section, even though the farms involved (which must be located in the same county) are from outside the county, subject to the review of the county committee for the county where the farms are administratively located. The filing of a properly executed record of transfer of quota, Form ASCS–375, will be considered to meet the requirement of this paragraph.

(e) Record of transfer on ASCS–375. No lease and transfer of any quota under this section shall become effective unless a record of the transfer has been filed on Form ASCS–375 by February 15 of the current marketing year. If the owner(s) and operator of the farm from which transfer by lease is made are different persons, both owner(s) and operator shall execute the record of transfer; however, only the owner or operator of the receiving farm is required to sign the transfer. A State or county committee member or employee (of any State or county) must witness the signature of either the owner or operator of the transferring farm and the owner or operator of the receiving farm. The requirement that signatures be witnessed for producers who are ill, infirm, reside in distant areas, or are in similar hardship situations or may be unduly inconvenienced may be waived provided the county office mails Form ASCS–375 for the required signature.

• • • • •

(n) Limitation on transfer to and from a farm (subleasing). (1) Filed before August 1. The county committee shall not approve any transfer filed for the current year before August 1 where, after approval, a transfer would be in effect both to and from the same farm: Provided, That a transfer may be approved where the quota is temporarily transferred from a farm subsequently combined with another farm that is otherwise eligible to receive quota by transfer.

• • • • •

2. Section 726.70 is amended by revising paragraph (a) to read as follows:

§ 726.70 Transfer of tobacco farm acreage allotment for farms affected by a natural disaster.

(a) Designation of counties affected by a natural disaster. The State committee shall determine those counties affected by a natural disaster (including but not limited to hurricane, rain, flash flood, hail, drought, and any other severe weather) which prevents the timely planting or replanting of any of the tobacco marketing quota for any farm in the county. The county committee of each county affected by the determination shall publicize the determination.

• • • • •

3. Section 726.81 is amended by revising paragraphs (d)(2) and (f)(1) to read as follows:

§ 726.81 Issuance of marketing cards.

(d) • • •

(2) Toxaphene, endrin, DDT, or TDE was used on the tobacco produced on the farm after being transplanted in the field or after being harvested.

• • • • •

(f) (1) Farm quota data entered on marketing card and supplemental card. Any marketing card issued to market tobacco shall show when issued, in the space provided on the reverse side, the pounds computed by multiplying 110 percent times the effective farm marketing quota: Provided, That, if the tobacco available for marketing from the farm is determined by the county committee or the county executive director to be less than the effective farm marketing quota and the quota is not eligible to be transferred from the farm under the provisions of § 726.68, the pounds determined to be available for marketing for purposes of issuing a marketing card shall be considered the effective farm marketing quota for the farm; And provided further, That if any producer on the farm satisfies the county committee or county executive director that the production of tobacco on the farm exceeds the pounds of quota initially entered on the marketing card, the pounds may be increased but not to exceed 110 percent times the effective farm marketing quota: Provided, That where a farm marketing quota is transferred by lease to a farm having no farm marketing quota (basic quota), such entry shall be limited to the effective farm marketing quota.

• • • • •

5. Section 726.86 is amended by revising paragraph (c) to read as follows:

§ 726.86 Rate of penalty.

• • • • •

(c) (1) Average market price. The average market price as determined by the Crop Reporting Board for the marketing year specified was:

AVERAGE MARKET PRICE

1971–72	80.9
1974–75	113.7

(2) Rate of penalty per pound. The penalty per pound upon marketings of excess tobacco subject to marketing quotas during the marketing year specified shall be:

RATE OF PENALTY

Marketing year:	Cents per pound
1973–74	59
1975–76	85

6. Section 726.88 is amended by revising paragraph (d) to read as follows:

§ 726.88 Penalties considered to be due from warehousemen, dealers, buyers, and others (excluding producers).

• • • • •

(d) Dealer's tobacco. The burley tobacco resales by a dealer (as shown or due to be shown on Form MQ–79), which are in excess of his total prior burley tobacco purchases (as shown or due to be shown on Form MQ–79) shall be considered to be a marketing of excess tobacco and penalty thereon shall be due at the time the marketing takes place which results in the excess. If the resale which results in penalty being due is made at auction, the warehouse shall deduct the penalty from the proceeds of the sale and shall remit the penalty to the marketing recorder. Penalty due which is not withheld by a warehouseman shall be remitted weekly by the dealer to the State office with his reports on Form MQ–79.

• • • • •

7. Section 726.89 is amended by deleting the last sentence in paragraph (b).

8. Section 726.92 is amended by revising paragraph (e) to read as follows:

§ 726.92 Producer's records and reports.

(e) Report of production and disposition. In addition to any other reports which may be required by this subpart, the operator on each farm or any producer on the farm (even though no quota was established for the farm) shall, upon written request by certified mail from the State or county committee, within 15 days after deposit of such request in the U.S. mail, addressed to such person at his last known address, furnish the Secretary on MQ–108, Report of Production and Disposition, a written report on the production and disposition of all tobacco produced on the farm by sending the same to the State or county committee showing, as to the farm at the time of filing such report: (1) The total harvested acres, (2) the pounds of tobacco on hand and its location, (3) as to each lot of tobacco marketed, the name and address of the warehouseman, dealer, or other person to or through whom such tobacco was marketed and the number of pounds marketed, the gross price paid, and the date of marketings, and (4) the complete details as to any tobacco disposed of other than by sale. Failure to file the MQ–108 as requested, the filing of an MQ–108, which is found by the State or county committee to be incomplete or incorrect shall, to the extent that it involves tobacco produced on the farm, constitute failure of the producer to account for disposition of tobacco produced on the farm and the quota next established for such farm shall be reduced, except that such reduction for any such farm shall not be made if it is established to the satisfaction of the county or State committee that (i) failure to furnish such proof of disposition was unintentional and no producer on such farm could reasonably have been expected to furnish such proof of disposition: Provided, That such failure will be construed as intentional unless such proof of disposition is furnished and payment of all additional penalty is made, or (ii) no person connected with such farm for the year for which the quota is being established caused, aided, or acquiesced in the failure to furnish such proof.

• • • • •

9. Section 726.104 is revised to read as follows:

§ 726.104 Determination of use of DDT, TDE, toxaphene, or endrin.

(a) Definitions. DDT, TDE, toxaphene, and endrin are defined in 40 CFR 180.147; 180.187; 180.138; and 180.131, respectively.

(b) Producer's report. The operator, or any producer, on each farm producing burley tobacco shall file a report on MQ–38 (Burley) showing whether or not toxaphene, endrin, DDT, or TDE was used on the tobacco in the field or after being harvested. If the operator refuses to file a report on MQ–38 (Burley), all burley tobacco produced on such farm shall be considered by the county committee to have been treated with such a pesticide.

(c) Producer's right to recertify. Any producer on a farm shall have the right to recertify on MQ–38 (Burley) if the recertification is filed with the county committee prior to the time any tobacco has been marketed from the farm or a request has been made to collect a sample of cured leaves.

(d) Collection of samples for chemical analysis. Samples shall be collected at random from producer tobacco crops during weigh-in at the auction warehouse. Samples shall also be collected on any farm where the county committee has reason to believe the producer used toxaphene, endrin, DDT, or TDE on the tobacco and the producer certified to nonuse of these pesticides on the crop.

(e) Producer refusal to permit sampling. If a producer or producer representative refuses to permit the sampling of a tobacco crop, all tobacco of such crop produced on the farm shall be considered by the county committee to have been treated with DDT, TDE, toxaphene, or endrin.

(f) Notice to farm operator. A written notice shall be furnished to the operator of each farm for which the county committee determines that tobacco, after being transplanted or after being harvested was treated with DDT, TDE, toxaphene, or endrin. Such determination by the county committee shall be based on (1) the certification on MQ–38 (Burley) or (2) refusal to file MQ–38 (Burley), or (3) refusal to permit sampling, or (4) chemical analysis showing total parts per million of residue to be equal to or greater than:

(i) Three for DDT and/or TDE,
(ii) Five for toxaphene, or
(iii) One for endrin.

The notice to the farm operator shall constitute notice to all persons who as owner, operator, landlord, tenant, or sharecropper, are interested in the tobacco being grown on the farm.

(g) Producer's right to appeal. Any producer on a farm who believes that the DDT, TDE, toxaphene, or endrin determination for the farm is not correct may file a request that the county committee reconsider such determination. The request for reconsideration must be submitted in writing and postmarked or delivered to the county committee within seven days after the date of mailing of the notice of determination. The request must be signed. If the appellant believes that the county committee's determination on such reconsideration is not correct, he may appeal to the State committee. The appeal must be submitted in writing and postmarked or delivered to the State committee within seven days after the date of mailing of the notice of the decision of the county committee. The decision of the State committee shall be final.

(Secs. 301, 312, 313, 314, 316, 318, 319, 362, 363, 372–375, 377, 378, 52 Stat. 38, as amended, 46, as amended, 47, as amended, 48, as amended, 62, as amended, 75 Stat. 469, as amended, 80 Stat. 120, as amended, 52 Stat. 63, as amended, 65, as amended, 66, as amended, 85 Stat. 23, 70 Stat. 206, as amended, 72 Stat. 995, as amended, (7 U.S.C. 1301, 1312, 1313, 1314, 1314b, 1314d, 1314e, 1362, 1363, 1372–1375, 1377, 1378))

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, AREA LOW ROUTES, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Alteration of Transition Area

On page 34140 of the FEDERAL REGISTER, dated August 14, 1975, the Federal Aviation Administration published a Notice of Proposed Rule Making which would amend § 71.181 of Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to alter the transition area at Vincennes, Indiana.

Interested persons were given 30 days to submit written comments, suggestions or objections regarding the proposed amendment.

No objections have been received and the proposed amendment is hereby adopted without change and is set forth below.

Because the amended transition area is already appearing on aeronautical charts and in the interest of safety, good cause exists to make this change effective immediately.

This amendment is made under the authority of Section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348), and of Section 6(c) of the Department of Transportation Act (49 U.S.C. 1655(c)).

Issued in Des Plaines, Illinois, on November 25, 1975.

R. O. ZIEGLER,
Director, Great Lakes Region.

In § 71.181 (40 FR 441), the following transition area is amended to read:

VINCENNES, INDIANA

Alteration of Transition Area

On page 36777 of the FEDERAL REGISTER dated August 22, 1975, the Federal Aviation Administration published a Notice of Proposed Rule Making which would amend § 71.181 of Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to alter the transition area at Madison, Wisconsin.

Interested persons were given 30 days to submit written comments, suggestions or objections regarding the proposed amendment.

No objections have been received and the proposed amendment is hereby adopted without change and is set forth below.

Because the amended transition area is already appearing on aeronautical charts and in the interest of safety, good cause exists to make this change effective immediately.

This amendment is made under the authority of Section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348), and of Section 6(c) of the Department of Transportation Act (49 U.S.C. 1655(c)).

CHAPTER I—FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

SUBCHAPTER B—REGULATIONS UNDER THE FEDERAL POWER ACT

[Docket No. RM74-15; Order No. 541]

PART 35—FILING OF SCHEDULES

Fixed Rate Contract Provisions in Initial and Superseding Electric Rate Schedules

NOVEMBER 21, 1975.

By notice issued April 22, 1974, the Commission proposed to amend § 35.1 of its regulations under the Federal Power Act by requiring public utilities to include in their initial and superseding rate schedules certain specified language designed (a) to avoid the uncertainty and controversy caused by ambiguous contractual provisions as to whether certain contracts are in fact fixed rate contracts,[1] and (b) to eliminate "undue discrimination" where one customer receives service under a fixed rate contract while another customer's service is subject to the filing of unilateral changes by the seller.

The Commission set May 28, 1974, as the last day on which written comments would be received. Written comments from a number of utility companies, municipal electric systems, cities, and various associations and organizations interested in the proposed rulemaking were received.[2]

In addition, the Commission's notice provided for a public conference on the proposed rulemaking to be held on June 6, 1974. The public conference was attended by representatives of New England Power Company, the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association and 19 other cooperative organizations, and the American Public Power Association.

To facilitate the determination of whether a contract is in fact a "fixed rate" contract, the proposed rulemaking would have amended Section 35.1 of the Regulations to require utilities to include in initial and superseding rate schedules the specific language contained in either of two proposed provisions. Provision No. 1 would permit any party furnishing or receiving service to make a unilateral filing of changes in rates, charges, classification or service, or in any rule, regulation or contract relating thereto, or to petition for an investigation of existing rates, under Section 205 or 206. Provision No. 2 would provide for a fixed rate for a specified period, not subject to change under section 205, unless agreed to by all parties.

To eliminate "undue discrimination," the proposed rulemaking would have required the utility to file the same provision in all its rate schedules as was filed in its first rate schedule following implementation of the rule. This proposal evoked widespread criticism from the responding parties. A majority of the responding parties disapproved of this proposal because it would apply to all rate schedules of the utility, regardless of the type of service rendered. These parties recommended that the proposed rulemaking should apply only to those rate schedules for the sale of firm power for resale, as distinguished from those transactions such as pooling arrangements, economy exchanges, etc. generally found in interconnection agreements.

Another sizeable group of responding parties opposed this aspect of the proposed rulemaking, contending that it would illegally interfere with their freedom to contract.

The third criticism of this proposal was that the utility could possibly find one willing customer who would accept the option preferred by the utility, thereby forcing all other customers to accept the same provisions.

Based on our review of the comments received and the record established in this proceeding we conclude that the public interest would be best served by eliminating that portion of the proposed rulemaking which would have required the utility to file the same provision in all its rate schedules as was filed in its first rate schedule following implementation of the rule.

We further note that modification of provision No. 1 is necessary to reflect the fact that a purchaser's remedy to effect a rate change is available only under Section 206. This objective has been accomplished by deleting from this provision reference to possible action by the purchaser.

Our review of the written comments submitted by the parties and of the transcript of the public hearing has led us to believe that the proposed rulemaking, as revised herein, should be adopted.

The Commission finds: Good cause exists to adopt a new paragraph (d) of § 35.1 of the Commission's regulations under the Federal Power Act in order to aid the Commission in carrying out its regulatory responsibility under such Act to insure just and reasonable rates and the maintenance of adequate and reliable service to customers.

The Commission orders: Pursuant to section 553 of Title 5 of the United States Code and to Section 309 of the Federal Power Act, the Commission hereby amends its regulations under the Federal Power Act by redesignating the present subsection (d) under § 35.1, (Subchapter B, Chapter I, Title 18 of the Code of Federal Regulations) "Application; obligation to file rate schedules" as paragraph (e) and adding the following as a new paragraph (d);

§ 35.1 Application; obligation to file rate schedules.

(d) This subsection shall not apply to rate schedule filings which were tendered for filing prior to March 1, 1976, nor to contracts executed prior to March 1, 1976. On of after March 1, 1976, for other than the above exceptions, if a public utility files with the Commission a rate schedule applicable to the transmission or sale of firm power for resale to an all-requirements customer, whether filed as an initial rate schedule in accordance with § 35.12 or whether filed as a change in accordance with § 35.13 where such change is to an existing rate schedule whose term has expired, or where the term is to be extended, such rate schedule shall contain one of the following provisions:

(1) "Nothing contained herein shall be construed as affecting in any way the right of the party furnishing service under this rate schedule to unilaterally make application to the Federal Power Commission for a change in rates, charges, classification, or service, or any rule, regulation, or contract relating thereto, under Section 205 of the Federal Power Act and pursuant to the Commission's Rules and Regulations promulgated thereunder."

(2) "The rates, terms and conditions of service specified herein shall remain in effect for the term of _____ or until _____, and shall not be subject to change through application to the Federal Power Commission pursuant to the provisions of Section 205 of the Federal Power Act absent the agreement of all parties hereto."

2. This rule shall become effective on March 1, 1976.

3. The Secretary shall cause prompt publication of this order to be made in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] KENNETH F. PLUMB,
Secretary.

ron (N-[5-(1,1-dimethylethyl)-1,3,4-thiadiazol-2-yl]-N,N'-dimethylurea) on growing sugarcane with a tolerance of 0.3 part per million (ppm) in sugarcane syrup, molasses, and bagasse, in accordance with an experimental use permit that is being issued concurrently under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA).

The scientific data provided in the petition have been evaluated. Because residues of the herbicide will result in sugarcane syrup, molasses, and bagasse from the uses as provided for by the experimental use permit issued under FIFRA, it has been determined (1) that both 21 CFR 123 and 561 should be amended since sugarcane syrup and molasses may be used in both human food and animal feed, and (2) that the tolerances proposed by the petitioner will protect the public health. These actions by the Agency will permit Elanco Products Co. to:

1. Evaluate the efficacy of the herbicide on various weed species.

2. Obtain data on residue concentrations in sugarcane syrup, molasses, and bagasse resulting from application of tebuthiuron to growing sugarcane.

3. Market the sugarcane syrup, molasses, and bagasse produced from sugarcane which has been treated with tebuthiuron.

Any person adversely affected by this regulation may, on or before January 2, 1976, file written objections with the Hearing Clerk, Environmental Protection Agency, Room 1019, East Tower, 401, M St. SW., Washington D.C. 20460. Such objections should be submitted in quintuplicate and should specify both the provisions of the regulation deemed to be objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing. A hearing will be granted if the objections are supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought.

Dated: November 26, 1975.

Deputy Assistant Administrator for Pesticide Programs.

(Section 409(c)(1) & (4) of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act [2] U.S.C. 346 (c)(1) & (4) transferred to the Administrator EPA in Reorganization Plan No. 3 (35 FR 15623])

1. Part 123 is amended by establishing the new § 123.415 to read as follows.

§ 123.415 Tebuthiuron.

A tolerance of 0.3 part per million is established for residues of the herbicide tebuthiuron (N-[5-(1,1-dimethylethyl)-1,3,4 - thiadiazol - 2 - yl] - N,N' - dimethylurea) in sugarcane syrup and molasses resulting from application of the herbicide to growing sugarcane. Such residues may be present therein only as a result of application of the herbicide in an experimental use program which expires November 26, 1976. Residues not in excess of this tolerance remaining after expiration of this program will not be considered actionable if the herbicide is legally applied during the term and in accordance with the provisions of the experimental use permit/food additive tolerance.

2. Part 561 is amended by establishing the new § 561.317 as follows:

§ 561.371 Tebuthiuron.

A tolerance of 0.3 part per million is established for residues of the herbicide tebuthiuron (N-[5-(1,1-dimethylethyl)-1,3,4 - thiadiazol - 2 - yl] - N,N' - dimethylurea) in sugarcane syrup, molasses, and bagasse resulting from application of the herbicide to growing sugarcane. Such residues may be present therein only as a result of application of the herbicide in an experimental use program which expires November 26, 1976. Residues not in excess of this tolerance remaining after expiration of this program will not be considered actionable if the herbicide is legally applied during the term and in accordance with the provisions of the experimental use permit/feed additive tolerance.

CHAPTER X—FEDERAL INSURANCE ADMINISTRATION

PART 1916—CONSULTATION WITH LOCAL OFFICIALS

Changes Made in Determinations of Brazoria County, Texas, Base Flood Elevations

On May 8, 1971, at 36 FR 8567, the Federal Insurance Administrator published a list of communities with Special Flood Hazard Areas and the map numbers and locations where Flood Insurance Rate Maps were available for public inspection. The list included Flood Insurance Rate Maps for portion of Brazoria County.

The Federal Insurance Administrator, after consultation with the Chief Executive Officer of Brazoria County, has determined that modification of the base (100-year) flood elevations of some locations in Brazoria County, Texas, is appropriate. These modified elevations are currently in effect and amend the Flood Insurance Rate Map. A revised rate map will be published as soon as possible. The modifications are made pursuant to Section 206 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-234) and are in accordance with the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, P.L. 90-448) 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 24 CFR 1916. For rating purposes, the new community number is 485458B and must be used for all new policies and renewals.

The changes in base flood elevations are as follows:

Previous FIA zones (as on map)	Previous base flood elevations (as on map) (mean sea level)	New FIA zones	New base flood elevations (mean sea level)
A12	12	A3	5.5

These changes apply only within the following area:

All of the unincorporated part of Brazoria County within the confines of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Freeport and vicinity Hurricane Flood Protection Levee System and contained in the area bounded by Oyster Creek on the north and east, by the Dow Chemical Company's Barge Canal on the south, and by State Highway 288 on the west, specifically excluding the incorporated City of Clute and the Village of Oyster Creek.

Under the above mentioned Acts of 1968 and 1973 the Administrator must develop criteria for flood plain management. In order for the community to continue participation in the National Flood Insurance Program, the community must use the modified elevations to carry out the flood plain management measures of the Program. These modified elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

From the date of this notice, any person has 90 days in which he can request through the community that the Federal Insurance Administrator reconsider the changes. Any request for reconsideration must be based on knowledge of changed conditions or new scientific and technical data. All interested parties are on notice that until the 90-day period elapses, the Administrator's new determination of elevations may itself be changed.

Any person having knowledge or wishing to comment on these changes should immediately notify:

The Honorable E. E. Brewer, County Judge of Brazoria County, Brazoria County Courthouse, Angleton, Texas 77515.

Title 33—Navigation and Navigable Waters

CHAPTER I—COAST GUARD, DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

PART 117—DRAWBRIDGE OPERATION REGULATIONS

Snake River, Washington

This amendment changes the regulations for the Interstate highway bridge across the Snake River between Lewiston, Idaho, and Clarkston, Washington, to provide certain periods when the draw shall open for the passage of vessels if at least two hours notice is given. This amendment was circulated as a public notice dated May 1, 1975 by the Commander, Thirteenth Coast Guard District, and was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER as a notice of proposed rule making (CGD 75-099) on April 30, 1975, (40 FR 18794). Included in this notice was a proposed change for the operation regulations for the Camas-Prairie railroad bridge across the Clearwater River, mile 0.6. Unresolved differences as to the operation requirements for this bridge dictate that this change, if made, be published at a later date.

Fifteen replies were received. Six either concurred in the proposal or offered no objection or no comment. Two were not related to the proposal. Of the seven that opposed this proposition, four objected to any restrictions on the opening of the draw, one objected to any restrictions on openings but suggested that a two hour advance notice at any time (except during rush hour vehicular traffic) would be acceptable, and two objected, but would accept one opening a day. After considering all comments, the Coast Guard feels that the reasonable needs of navigation and the corresponding needs of land traffic will be provided for. The elimination of four opening periods which the Coast Guard feels are not needed at this time should further facilitate the flow of both modes of traffic. This matter will be closely monitored and if further revisions of these regulations are needed, modifications may be made as required.

Accordingly, Part 117 of Title 33 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended by adding a new § 117.762 immediately after § 117.760 to read as follows:

V40233 DEC 3 75 XUM

§ 117.762 Snake River at Lewiston, Idaho, and Clarkston, Washington.

(a) Idaho/Washington Interstate Highway Bridge, Mile 139.6.

The draw shall open at the following times if at least two hours notice is given to the Washington State Department of Highways:

March 15 to November 15:
6 a.m., 10 a.m., 3 p.m., 7 p.m., 9 p.m.
November 16 to March 14:
9 a.m., 10 a.m., 2 p.m., 3 p.m.

(b) The owner of or agency controlling the bridge shall keep a copy of these regulations, and a notice stating how the advance notices are to be given conspicuously posted on both the upstream and downstream sides of the bridge.

(Sec. 5, 28 Stat. 362, as amended, sec. 6(g)(2), 80 Stat. 937; 33 U.S.C. 499, 49 U.S.C. 1655(g)(2); 49 CFR 1.46(c)(5), 33 CFR 1.05-1(c)(4)).

Effective date. This revision shall become effective on January 5, 1976.

Dated: November 26, 1975.

R. I. PRICE,
Rear Admiral, U.S. Coast Guard, Chief, Office of Marine Environment and Systems.

PART 128—REGULATED NAVIGATION AREAS

Mooring Barges on the Mississippi River Between Miles 88 and 127 Above Head of Passes

● Purpose. This amendment to the regulated navigation areas regulations adds requirements for the mooring of barges on the Mississippi River between miles 88 and 127 above the Head of Passes. This amendment regulates the mooring, operating, and fleeting procedures of barges during normal and flood stage conditions. ●

Interested persons were given an opportunity to participate in the rule making by a notice that appeared in the February 4, 1975 issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 5165). In addition to receiving written comments on the proposed rules, a public hearing was held by the Coast Guard on February 19, 1975 to receive oral and written comments.

Comments made at the public hearing and all written comments submitted to the Coast Guard were considered in promulgating these final rules. The public docket on the rule making contains correspondence from approximately thirty-three commenters. All commenters suggested changes to the proposed regulations.

Many commenters stated that an inflation impact statement was necessary before the Coast Guard could promulgate these regulations. The Secretary of Transportation has issued Interim Guidance for the Preparation of Inflation Impact Statements, to comply with Executive Order 11821 and OMB Circular A-107. This guidance, submitted to the Office of Management and Budget for review, establishes criteria for considering the inflationary impact of major proposals for legislation and regulations.

The Coast Guard has determined that under these criteria, the regulations in this document are not a major proposal and a Negative Declaration has been prepared. Copies of the Economic Assessment and Negative Declaration are available upon request to the Executive Secretary (G-CMC/81), U.S. Coast Guard, Washington, DC 20590.

Several commenters stated that the wake created by passing vessels moving at high speeds cause moored barges to strain their moorings and break away. They requested that speed limitations be added to the proposed regulations. The purpose of the regulations in this document is to ensure that barges are moored adequately against the rigors of the environment, which includes the wakes from passing vessels. Since the concept of the regulations concerned the adequacy of moorings, a speed limitation requirement was not included at this time.

Many commenters suggested that a section allowing emergency deviation from the rules be added since, the commenters stated, no one would deviate in an emergency situation unless the regulations included such permission. Anyone may deviate from a rule in an emergency situation and the administrative agency takes this into consideration in assessment of the violation; however, in view of the requests received, the Coast Guard has added the section.

Several commenters expressed concern that LASH barges weren't considered under the proposed rules. LASH barges have been considered and must meet the requirements for barges. LASH barges that cannot meet the requirements in these regulations, but meet a standard of mooring that is found to be equivalent by the Captain of the Port, may be issued a waiver.

Some commenters requested that proposed § 128.1500 (redesignated § 128.801.1) be changed to include the entire Port of New Orleans. This would extend the lower limit to mile 82 instead of the proposed lower limit at mile 88. Since there are few barge breakaways occurring below mile 88, the Coast Guard did not adopt the suggestion at this time.

Proposed § 128.1503 (redesignated § 128.801.3) elicited a number of comments concerning the word "service" in the definition of "fleeting facility." "Service" connotes a "for hire" situation to a number of people. The Coast Guard rewrote the definition by stating that service includes either "for hire" or "not for hire" situations.

In response to other comments and recommendations, each definition in § 128.801.3 has been rewritten for clarification.

Some commenters were concerned that the regulations contained no appeal procedures. Civil penalty procedures, including appeal procedures, are contained in 33 CFR Subpart 1.07. Appeal procedures if a waiver has been denied are in new § 128.801.7.

Commenters stated that the requirement in proposed § 128.1507 (redesignated § 128.801.11), for barges to be secured at each corner, would prevent barges from being secured at the quarter cavals even if that would result in the safest mooring. Section 128.801.11 has been rewritten to allow moorings at fittings near each corner.

Commenters criticized proposed § 128.1509 (redesignated § 128.801.13) because it would require manual handling of 1¼" diameter wire rope to secure the downstream end of a barge after the upstream end is already secured with at least 1¼" diameter wire rope. As the slack decreases, the handling of this wire rope becomes more difficult. In addition, the Coast Guard determined that the proposed 1¼" diameter wire rope for the securing of the downstream end would give a minimal increase in the margin of safety. Accordingly, § 128.801.13 has been rewritten to allow the downstream end of a barge to be secured with a wire rope of at least ⅞" diameter.

One commenter suggested that the regulations should specify how many oarges may be safely moored side by side. This suggestion was not adopted. The mooring requirements in § 128.801.-11 through § 128.801.15 contain requirements considered necessary for the safe mooring of barges side by side, regardless of the number of barges in the tier. In addition, by the requirements in § 128.801.17, all mooring devices, wires, chains, lines, and connecting gear must be of sufficient strength and in sufficient number to withstand forces that may be exerted on them by the moored barges.

There were a number of comments on proposed § 128.1517 (redesignated § 128.-801.19). The commenters maintained that it would be difficult for a watchman to inspect inaccessible tiers. A Coast Guard study of breakaways shows that most breakaways occur after a towboat has added to, withdrawn from, or moved barges within a fleet. The inspection of moorings after each fleeting activity would prevent most barge breakaways. Accordingly, this section was not changed.

Proposed § 128.1519 (redesignated § 128.801.21) received several comments. The commenters apparently concluded that this regulation required every "in fleet" move to be logged. Since the requirement precisely lists the records required to be kept, no further clarification was considered necessary.

Proposed § 128.1521 (redesignated § 128.801.23) received numerous comments. The word "watchman" was unclear to several commenters. The words "person to be in continuance surveillance and to observe the barges in the fleeting facility" have been substituted for clarification. Commenters also questioned the phrase "constant surveillance." Commenters were concerned that the Coast Guard would require the person who observes to literally watch the barges every seoond that he is on duty. This section has been rewritten to require the person who observes the barges to stand an alert, attentive watch by detecting movements that are unusual for properly secured barges and taking immediate action to correct each deficiency. Instructions for waivers have also been included in this section.

Proposed § 128.1525 (redesignated § 128.801.31) requires the person in charge of a vessel engaged in the recovery of a breakaway to monitor and communicate on Channel 13 (156.65 MHz) VHF-FM. Commenters pointed out that vessels engaged in towing must be capable of transmitting and receiving Channel 13 by the requirements in 33 CFR Part 26, but shore based facilities are not allowed by the Coast Guard to transmit on Channel 13.

This is not a local prohibition, but rather, is a national policy being consistently pursued by the Coast Guard to preserve the Vessel Bridge-to-Bridge Radiotelephone frequency (Channel 13) for the purpose intended by Congress in the Vessel Bridge-to-Bridge Radiotelephone Act (33 USC 1201): "• • • to provide a positive means whereby the operators of approaching vessels can communicate their intentions to one another through voice radio, located convenient to the operator's navigation station." Shore based facilities may utilize any appropriate and FCC authorized VHF-FM frequency, house frequencies or, as dictated by the situation, the international distress, safety, and calling frequency for the maritime mobile VHF radiotelephone service (Channel 16 (156.8 MHz)). Section 128.801.31 has been rewritten to allow the person in charge of a vessel engaged in recovery of a breakaway to monitor and communicate with other vessels and the Coast Guard on VHF-FM.

The Coast Guard has accepted a suggestion from commenters to change proposed § 128.1527(b) (redesignated § 128.-801.33(b)) by substituting "10 feet" for the proposed "8 feet" reading on the Carrollton Gage. In addition this change makes the requirements consistent with 33 CFR 207.200(c).

Proposed § 128.1529 (redesignated § 128.801.35) received many comments. The commenters stated that it was unrealistic and wasteful to require a towboat in attendance that performs no service other than await a free-drifting barge. The Coast Guard feels that the second towboat, required in the emergency regulations for the past two winter seasons was instrumental in preventing barge breakaways and capturing free-drifting barges. Accordingly, this requirement was not changed. Other commenters objected that only 5 or less barges were exempted from the requirements in § 128.801.35. The Coast Guard changed this section by having the requirements apply to eight or more barges. Instructions have been added for waivers.

Proposed § 128.1531 (redesignated § 128.801.37) also received numerous comments. The commenters stated that this section would force tows in the area to hold up in midstream until the low visibility lifted before they could moor. It is not the intention of the Coast Guard to create unsafe practices. Accordingly, this section has been rewritten to allow a tow to moor when the person in charge notifies the Captain of the Port of his intentions.

Commenters stated that the mooring of barges should not be permitted where the barges would abut river areas that adjoin residential developments or where water intake structures are located. Commenters also requested rules for the protection of the individual's right to peace and quiet. These suggestions could not be acted upon because they concern local zoning laws and police powers.

In consideration of the foregoing, the regulations proposed in the February 4, 1975 issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 5165) are hereby adopted subject to the changes as discussed in the preceding paragraph.

An environmental assesment with a negative declaration dated January 13, 1975 was prepared on the regulations in this document and was made available to the President's Council on Environmental Quality and the public. Copies are available upon request to the Executive Secretary (G-CMC/81), U.S. Coast Guard, Washington, DC 20590.

(d) Each wire rope used between the downstream end of a barge and a mooring device must have at least a diameter of ⅞". Chain or line used between the downstream end of a barge and a mooring device must be of at least equivalent strength of ⅞" diameter wire rope.

§ 128.801.15 Moorings: Barge-to-barge: barge-to-vessel: barge-to-wharf or pier.

The person in charge shall ensure that a barge moored to another barge, a mooring or spar barge, a vessel, a wharf, or a pier, is secured as near as practicable to each abutting corner of the barge being moored by—

(a) Three parts of wire rope of at least ⅞" diameter with an eye at each end of the rope passed around the timberhead, caval, or button;

(b) A mooring of natural or synthetic fiber rope that has at least 75 percent of the breaking strength of three parts of ⅞" diameter wire rope; or

(b) The person in charge shall ensure that all mooring devices, wires, chains, lines, and connecting gear are of sufficient strength and in sufficient number to withstand forces that may be exerted on them by moored barges.

SUPERVISION OF FLEETING FACILITIES

§ 128.801.19 Fleeting facility: Inspection of moorings.

(a) The person in charge of a fleeting facility shall assign a person to inspect moorings in accordance with the requirements in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) The person assigned to inspect moorings shall inspect.

(1) At least twice during each day during periods that are six hours or more apart, each mooring wire, chain, line, and connecting gear between mooring devices and each wire, line, and connecting equipment used to moor each barge; and

(2) After a towboat adds barges to, withdraws barges from, or moves barges at a fleeting facility, each mooring wire, line, and connecting equipment of each barge within each tier affected by that operation.

(c) The person who inspects moorings shall take immediate action to correct each deficiency.

(c) The time of, date of, identification of, and presence of any hazardous cargo in each barge entering and departing the fleeting facility.

(d) The identification of each towboat that moves a barge into, within, or out of the fleeting facility.

NOTE: The requirements in § 128.801.21(c) for the listing of hazardous cargo refers to cargoes regulated by Subchapter D and O of Chapter I, Title 46, Code of Federal Regulations.

§ 128.801.23 Fleeting facility: Surveillance.

(a) The person in charge of a fleeting facility shall assign a person to be in continuous surveillance and to observe the barges in the fleeting facility. Joint use of this person by adjacent facilities may be considered upon submission of a detailed proposal for a waiver to the COTP. Alternative surveillance techniques permitting one observer to maintain the required observation over adjacent fleeting facilities may also be considered upon submission of a detailed proposal for a waiver to the COTP.

(b) The person who observes the barges shall:

(1) Inspect for movements that are unusual for properly secured barges; and

(2) Take immediate action to correct each deficiency.

Title 38—Pensions, Bonuses, and Veterans' Relief

CHAPTER I—VETERANS ADMINISTRATION

PART 1—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Safeguarding Personal Information in Veterans Administration Records

On page 14783 of the FEDERAL REGISTER of April 2, 1975, there was published a notice of proposed regulatory development adding a new § 1.575 in Title 38, Code of Federal Regulations, to implement section 7, Pub. L. 93–579 (88 Stat. 1897) of December 31, 1974, as it affects the Veterans Administration. Section 7, Pub. L. 93–579 makes it unlawful with certain exceptions for any Federal, State, or local government agency to deny to any individual any right, benefit, or privilege provided by law because of such individual's refusal to disclose a social security number. It further provides that any Federal, State, or local government agency which requests an individual to disclose a social security number shall inform that individual whether such disclosure is mandatory or voluntary; by what statutory or other authority such number is solicited and what uses will be made of it. Interested persons were given 30 days in which to submit written comments, suggestions or objections regarding the proposed regulation.

Six letters of comment were timely received by the Veterans Administration. One letter supported the entire regulation; the remaining five letters offered a number of specific comments.

The Acting Executive Director of the Domestic Council Committee on the Right of Privacy commented that the regulation should be clarified in four respects. First, he stated that paragraph (b)(1) of the proposed section asserts that the Veterans Administration might discriminate against individuals who do not willingly divulge their social security numbers by delaying action on their requests for benefits. (Another respondent also articulated the same objection.) The language used in the proposed regulation was not meant to imply any discriminatory action toward claimants who refuse to make voluntary disclosure of their social security numbers. It referred rather to the fact that determinations of entitlement to veterans' benefits are based on information in military service records, many of which are maintained in social security numbered files in records depositories. Essential information concerning the character of a veteran's military service is available to the Veterans Administration only by reference to the veteran's service records. The promptness with which the Agency can assemble records necessary in adjudicating claims or providing medical treatment may therefore, be enhanced when the veteran's social security number under which relevant service records may be filed can be given to the military records depository. To prevent misunderstanding, § 1.575 is amended to delete the reference to delay.

His second comment expressed concern related to paragraph (b)(2) wherein the individual is informed that the Veterans Administration may obtain an individual's social security number elsewhere if it is not voluntarily disclosed. He felt that the individual's refusal to disclose a social security number would be a meaningless gesture if the agency representative to whom it was refused succeeds in obtaining it elsewhere. His third concern related to the second clause in paragraph (b)(2)—the assertion that the social security number may be necessary for developing certain evidence and documentation. Fourthly, he stated that the description of uses in paragraph (b)(3) should identify the Veterans Administration programs in which the social security number is used and also the instances in which the number is used to locate and obtain records held by other agencies. We believe that the rewritten version of § 1.575 will satisfy the above-stated objections. The Veterans Administration needs to procure certain information from military records in order to verify a claimant's entitlement to benefits; but at no time is the Veterans Administration unwilling to process an application for benefits because of a claimant's refusal to disclose a social security number. Rather, such refusal to disclose presents a situation in which the Veterans Administration is unduly delayed in processing an application because of an inability to secure promptly the requisite service information from a filing system based on social security numbers. In such an instance, the Agency would attempt to learn the social security number from an alternate and official source so that action on the application can proceed.

A commenter asserted that the proposed regulation is without merit and should be voided in the best interest of veterans and the government. This respondent contended that the use of the social security number as an individual's unique identifying number should be encouraged in the interest of efficient government operations.

Another commenter urged the Agency to reconsider using the social security number as a veteran's identifying number on Veterans Administration records. Reference was made to the fact that the Veterans Administration has an already-established system for assigning unique numbers, other than social security numbers, to claimant's records. Attention was drawn to the fact that the Veterans Administration has historically assigned "C-numbers" (claim numbers) to applications for benefits administered by the Agency. The commenter further stated that there is no justification for the Veterans Administration to have access to a non-VA data base which is accessed by use of a universal number such as an individual's social security number. The assertion was made that no delay in processing claimant's applications would then result from an individual's refusal to disclose a social security number. As is stated above, it must be emphasized that the Veterans Administration needs to procure certain information from military records in order to verify a claimant's entitlement to benefits. It must also be understood that increasing volumes of service records are now maintained in social security numbered files in records depositories. The situation is not one in which the Veterans Administration has chosen to make use of social security numbers as prime identifiers; rather, it is one in which requisite information contained in military records frequently is available to the Veterans Administration only by reference to a veteran's social security number. Thus, the ability of the Agency to expeditiously process applications for benefits is impaired when a claimant refuses to disclose a social security number. Agency action on applications can indeed be delayed.

The Veterans Administration converted to use of the social security number as the prime numerical identifier of patient records on January 1, 1966 and of certain financial benefit records on July 1, 1973. These conversion actions were taken because of the circumstances described above and in order to implement a proposal emanating from the Office of Management and Budget.

One of the other commenters sought to learn if the requirements of § 1.575 will become a part of all Federal programs. A written reply from the Agency explained that the section in question will implement the law with respect to social security numbers in veterans' benefits matters. The letter went on to explain that Section 7 of the Privacy Act of 1974 declares it unlawful for any Federal, State, or local government agency to deny to any individual any right, benefit or privilege provided by law because of such individual's refusal to disclose a social security number.

Another person commenting suggested that lines 7 and 8 of paragraph (b) be rewritten to read: "will be counseled or advised in writing that:". The commenter stated that it may be advantageous to have written evidence that an individual has been counseled concerning voluntary disclosure of a social security number; it was suggested further, that written proof might prove useful when an individual states oral counseling has not been received when in fact it was given. The Agency concurs in this comment; however, implementing directives, rather than this section, will require that oral counselors furnish each individual counseled a printed statement concerning the Agency's solicitation and use of the social security number in much the same format as will be included on applications for benefits or other solicitations forwarded by mail.

As noted above, paragraph (b) of the proposed § 1.575 in Title 38, Code of Federal Regulations, is therefore revised by the substitution of a new paragraph (b). An editorial change, for purposes of clarity, is made to the former paragraph (b)(3). The center head and accompanying note are deleted.

Effective date. This VA Regulation is effective December 31, 1974.

Approved: November 26, 1975.

[SEAL] R. L. ROUDEBUSH,
Administrator.

A new § 1.575 is added to read as follows:

§ 1.575 Social security numbers in veterans' benefits matters

(a) No one will be denied any right, benefit, or privilege provided by law because of refusal to disclose to the Veterans Administration a social security number.

(b) Anyone requested by the Veterans Administration to disclose a social security number will be advised, as prescribed by § 1.578(c), that disclosure is voluntary, that it is solicited under authority of title 38, United States Code, and that it will be used in the identification of veterans and their records in the administration of veterans' benefits.

PART 3—ADJUDICATION

Subpart A—Pension, Compensation, and Dependency and Indemnity Compensation

Disability Rating Determinations

On pages 45854 and 45855 of the FEDERAL REGISTER of October 3, 1975, there was published a notice of proposed regulatory development to change provisions in Part 3 of Title 38, Code of Federal Regulations, relating to disability rating determinations. Interested persons were given 30 days in which to submit comments, suggestions, or objections regarding the proposed regulation.

One written comment on the proposed change was received: This comment was directed to § 3.157(b)(2), Title 38, Code of Federal Regulations. It suggested that the proposed amendment would eliminate the requirement that evidence from a private physician be verified by official examination prior to granting benefits for service-connected disability compensation. The regulatory amendment as published does not affect the meaning of the section. The change is editorial in nature and § 3.157(b)(2) continues to state that the only exceptions to the requirement, that a statement of a private physician be verified by official examination, are those listed in the proposed amendment to § 3.326(d). Since § 3.326(d) does not list service-connected disability compensation as an exception, such cases still require verification by VA examination.

For this reason the proposed amendment is hereby adopted without change and is set forth below.

Effective date. Sections 3.157, 3.314 and 3.326 are effective November 26, 1975. The amendment to § 3.315 is effective May 7, 1975, the date designated by Presidential Proclamation 4373 as the last day of the Vietnam era.

Approved: November 26, 1975.

[SEAL] R. L. ROUDEBUSH,
Administrator.

1. In § 3.157, paragraph (b)(2) and (3) is revised to read as follows:

§ 3.157 Report of examination or hospitalization as a claim for increase or to reopen.

(2) Evidence from a private physician or layman. The date of receipt of such evidence will be accepted when the evidence furnished by or in behalf of the claimant is within the competence of the physician or lay person and shows the reasonable probability of entitlement to benefits. Except where the statement of a private physician meets the requirements of § 3.326(d), the evidence must be verified by official examination prior to granting benefits.

(3) State and other institutions. When submitted by or on behalf of the veteran and entitlement is shown, date of receipt by the Veterans Administration of examination reports, clinical records, and transcripts of records will be accepted as the date of receipt of a claim if received from State, county, municipal, recognized private institutions, or other Government hospitals (except those described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section). These records must be authenticated by an appropriate official of the institution. Benefits will be granted if the records are adequate for rating purposes; otherwise findings will be verified by official examination. Reports received from private institutions not listed by the American Hospital Association must be certified by the Chief Medical Officer of the Veterans Administration or physician designee.

2. In § 3.314, paragraphs (a)(2) and (b)(1) and (2) are revised to read as follows:

§ 3.314 Basic pension determinations.

(2) Veterans entitled to pension on the basis of service in the Spanish-American War may be entitled to an increased rate of pension if rated as being in need of regular aid and attendance. Veterans who have elected pension under Public Law 86-211 (73 Stat. 432) who are not rated as being in need of regular aid and attendance may be entitled to increased pension based on 100 percent permanent disability together with independent disability of 60 percent or more or by reason of being permanently housebound as provided in § 3.351(d). (38 U.S.C. 502(b), (c), 512).

(b) Mexican border period and later war periods. Non-service-connected disability and death pension may be paid based on service in the Mexican border period, World War I, World War II, the Korean conflict and the Vietnam era. Rating determinations in such claims will be required in the following situations:

(1) Claims based on service of less than 90 days may require a determination as to whether the veteran was discharged or released from service for a service-connected disability or had at the time of separation from service a service-connected disability, shown by official service records, which in medical judgment would have warranted a discharge for disability. Eligibility in such cases requires a finding that the disability was incurred in or aggravated by service in line of duty without benefit of presumptive provisions of law or Veterans Administration regulations (38 U.S.C. 521(g)(2)) unless, in the case of death pension, the veteran was, at the time of death, receiving (or entitled to receive) compensation or retirement pay based upon a wartime service-connected disability. (38 U.S.C. 541(a) and 542(a))

(2) Determinations of permanent total disability for pension purposes will be based on non-service-connected disability or combined non-service-connected and service-connected disabilities not the result of willful misconduct or vicious habits. However, for pension under Public Law 86-211 (73 Stat. 432), permanent and total disability will be presumed where the veteran has attained age 65. (38 U.S.C. 502(a), 523(a)).

3. In § 3.315, paragraphs (b) and (c) are revised to read as follows:

§ 3.315 Basic eligibility determinations; dependents, loans, education.

* * * * *

(b) Loans. Where a World War II veteran or a Korean conflict veteran had less than 90 days' service, or a veteran who served on or after February 1, 1955, had less than 181 days' service on active duty as defined in §§ 36.4301 (gg) and 36.4501 (o) of this chapter, eligibility of the veteran for a loan under 38 U.S.C. ch. 37 requires a determination that the veteran was discharged or released because of a service-connected disability or that the official service department records show that he or she had at the time of separation from service a service-connected disability which in medical judgment would have warranted a discharge for disability. These determinations are subject to the presumption of incurrence under § 3.304(b). Determinations based on World War II, Korean conflict and Vietnam era service are also subject to the presumption of aggravation under § 3.306(b) while determinations based on service on or after February 1, 1955, and before August 5, 1964, or after May 7, 1975, are subject to the presumption of aggravation under § 3.306(a) and (c). The provisions of this paragraph are also applicable, regardless of length of service, in determining eligibility to the maximum period of entitlement based on discharge or release for a service-connected disability.

(38 U.S.C. 1802, 1818)

(c) Veterans' educational assistance. Where a veteran who served on or after February 1, 1955, had less than 181 days' service on active duty, as defined in § 21.1040 of this chapter, eligibility for educational assistance under 38 U.S.C. ch. 34 requires a determination that the veteran was discharged or released because of a service-connected disability or that the official service department records show that he or she had at the time of separation from service a service-connected disability which in medical judgment would have warranted a discharge for disability. These determinations are subject to the presumptions of incurrence under § 3.304(b) and aggravation under § 3.306(a) and (c), based on service rendered on or after February 1, 1955 and before August 5, 1964, or after May 7, 1975, and under § 3.306(b) based on service rendered during the Vietnam era.

(38 U.S.C. 1652(a))

4. Section 3.324 is revised to read as follows:

§ 3.324 Multiple noncompensable service-connected disabilities.

Whenever a veteran is suffering from two or more separate permanent service-connected disabilities of such character as clearly to interfere with normal employability, even though none of the disabilities may be of compensable degree under the 1945 Schedule for Rating Disabilities the rating agency is authorized to apply a 10-percent rating, but not in combination with any other rating.

5. In § 3.326, paragraphs (a) and (d) are revised to read as follows:

§ 3.326 Examinations.

(a) Where the reasonable probability of a valid claim is indicated in any claim for disability compensation or pension, whether as an original claim, a reopened claim, or a claim for increase, including claims for benefits under the situations set forth in § 3.351 (d) and (e) and for benefits based on the need of a veteran, widow, widower, or parent for regular aid and attendance and for benefits based on a child's incapability of self-support, a Veterans Administration examination will be authorized.

* * * * *

(d) A statement from a private physician may be accepted for rating the pension claim of a veteran, widow, or widower, a claim for aid and attendance allowance by a widow, widower, or parent, or a claim by a child based on permanent incapability of self-support, without further examination where it includes clinical manifestations and substantiation of diagnosis by findings of diagnostic techniques generally accepted by medical authorities, such as pathological studies, X-rays and laboratory tests as appropriate, and is otherwise adequate for rating purposes.

Title 40—Protection of the Environment

CHAPTER I—ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

SUBCHAPTER N—EFFLUENT LIMITATIONS AND GUIDELINES

[FRL 463-5]

PART 414—ORGANIC CHEMICALS MANUFACTURING POINT SOURCE CATEGORY

Amendment to Regulations—Butadiene

The Environmental Protection Agency today amends the effluent limitations and guidelines with respect to the discharge of water pollutants generated in the manufacture of butadiene by the dehydrogenation of n-butane and subsequent oxidative-dehydrogenation of n-butene or butylene. (In some cases, a manufacturer may purchase rather than make an intermediate product such as butene. As long as the manufacturer uses the process involving oxidative-dehydrogenation of n-butene or butylene, it is covered by today's amendment.)

On Thursday, April 25, 1974, notice was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of the adoption by the Environmental Protection Agency of effluent limitations and guidelines for existing sources and standards of performance and pretreatment standards for new sources within the major organic products segment of the organic chemicals manufacturing point source category (40 C.F.R. 414). This notice was published pursuant to Sections 301, 304 (b) and (c), 306(b) and 307(c) of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended, 33 U.S.C. 1251, 1311, 1314 (b) and (c), 1316(b) and 1317 (c); 86 Stat. 816 et seq.; Pub. L. 92-500 the "Act").

On June 12, 1974, a notice was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (30 FR 20597) of corrections to portions of Part 414. Among these corrections were modifications to the regulations with respect to the manufacture of butadiene.

On September 9, 1974, the Petro-Tex Chemical Corporation and the Phillips Petroleum Company petitioned for review of the organic chemicals manufacturing effluent limitations and guidelines insofar as those regulations address the manufacture of butadiene by the oxidative-dehydrogenation of butane (U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, No. 74-3306).

Concurrent with the filing of the petition for review, the petitioners asked the Environmental Protection Agency to reconsider those regulations being challenged in the Court of Appeals. The Agency agreed to this reconsideration and joined in a motion to the Court to defer formal proceedings pending outcome of the reconsideration process. EPA published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on April 16, 1975 (40 FR 17041) a notice of reconsideration of the regulations. In addition, EPA sent to manufacturers of butadiene, letters (pursuant to Section 308 of the Act) requesting detailed information relating to those manufacturing processes. The Agency has received substantial information from the recipients of those letters.

Based on information received in these letters, the Agency determined that the potential economic impact of the promulgation of these effluent limitations is minimal. In addition, it was found that none of the criteria for which Inflationary Impact Statements are required are met by the promulgation of these effluent limitations.

In addition to undertaking a review of the regulations relating to the manufacture of butadiene, the Agency staff has reviewed substantial submissions of data in connection with four other product-process lines included in the major organic products segment of the organic chemicals manufacturing point source category. By notice published August 15, 1975, (40 CFR 34409) the Agency indicated that it intends to modify the methodology used to develop the regulations for all of the product-process lines included in the major organic products segment. The reader should consult that notice for a thorough description of the probable change in regulatory methodology. The amendment announced today is consistent with the overall methodology set forth in that notice.

Pursuant to a court order issued by the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit in case No. 74-3306, the amendment announced today relates only to effluent limitations and guidelines based upon best practicable control technology currently available. On these regulations the industry petitioners and the Agency agree. In the near future, EPA will propose amendments covering best available technology economically achievable and new source performance standards.

The amendment announced today employs a numbering system which is consistent with changes proposed on August 15, 1975 (40 FR 34409), which changes will be finalized within the next two months.

A summary of findings, the data collected and the information received will be available for inspection and copying at the EPA Public Information Reference Unit, Room 2922 (EPA Library), Waterside Mall, 401 M Street SW., Washington, D.C. The EPA information regulation, 40 CFR Part 2, provides that a reasonable fee may be charged for copying.

In consideration of the foregoing, 40 CFR Chapter I, Subchapter N, Part 414 Organic Chemicals Manufacturing Point Source Category, Subcategory B, Manufacture of Butadiene is amended to read as set forth below. Proposal of this amendment was not published because of the need to meet deadlines contained in the court approved stipulation and in order to promptly resolve the litigation and end uncertainty concerning these regulations. The Agency, therefore, believes that good cause exists for the elimination of proposal and public comment prior to promulgation. The final regulation is promulgated as set forth below and shall be effective January 2, 1975.

Dated: November 21, 1975.

PART 414—EFFLUENT LIMITATIONS GUIDELINES AND STANDARDS FOR THE ORGANIC CHEMICALS MANUFACTURING POINT SOURCE CATEGORY

Reconsideration of Ethylene Oxide, Ethylene Glycol, Methyl Amines and Oxo Chemicals Processes

The Environmental Protection Agency today establishes final amendments to regulations for the manufacture of ethylene oxide, ethylene glycol, methyl amines and oxo chemicals production subcategories of the organic chemicals manufacturing point source category. A notice of proposed amendments to these regulations appeared in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 15, 1975 (40 FR 34409).

On April 25, 1974, the Environmental Protection Agency pursuant to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended, 33 U.S.C. 1251, et seq., promulgated effluent limitations guidelines for the Organic Chemicals Manufacturing Point Source Category (39 FR 14576) creating a new part 414 of 40 CFR Chapter I, Subchapter N. These regulations included limitations on discharges from the following manufacturing processes: ethylene oxide and methyl amines (40 CFR 414.20, 414.23 and 414.25) and ethylene glycol and oxo chemicals (40 CFR 414.30, 414.33 and 414.35).

Several corporations soon thereafter filed petitions for review with the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit (No. 74-1459 etc.). On October 1, 1974, the Court ordered all the actions consolidated into two groups, the first group relating to effluent limitations and the second group relating to standards of performance for new sources. On October 7, 1974, the Court granted a joint motion and stipulation to sever consideration of Pretreatment Standards for New Sources and to defer consideration of Pretreatment Standards for New Sources until Pretreatment Standards for existing sources were promulgated.

On September 6, 1974, the DuPont Company requested that EPA reconsider regulations as they pertain to methyl amines. On September 20, 1974, in reliance on representations that substantial additional information would be forthcoming, EPA entered into a stipulation and joint motion to the Court, calling for the review by EPA of data the Petitioners had supplied and were to supply, with respect to the production of methyl amines. Under this stipulation and motion, which was granted by the Court on November 19, 1974, EPA was to make a determination on the basis of the new data, and recommend regulations for control of discharges resulting from production of methyl amines. On this basis, methyl amines were segregated from other processes at issue before the Court.

On September 18, 1974, the Celanese Chemical Company requested EPA to reconsider the regulations for ethylene oxide. On September 27, 1974, Union Carbide Corporation requested that the regulations for the ethylene glycol and ethylene oxide processes be reconsidered. On October 3, counsel for Exxon Chemical Company and Union Carbide Corporation asked for reconsideration of the limitations for the oxo chemicals manufacturing process. On the basis of representations from the companies noted above, and others, that substantial new data would be forthcoming, EPA joined in a stipulation and motion for reconsideration of the effluent limitations guidelines and new source performance standards for ethylene oxide, ethylene glycol, and oxo chemicals, which stipulation called for issuance of a determination respecting these manufacturing process lines by January 15, 1975, and for removing these categories from the cases before the Court for review. This motion was granted on November 19, 1974.

In early November EPA sent letters to manufacturers of all four chemicals under review at that time, requesting detailed information that would be useful in review of the existing regulations for those manufacturing processes. In response to these letters and as part of the general review some additional data was provided to EPA. This information was insufficient for EPA to determine that changes to the existing regulations were warranted. The industry representatives agreed that the data was insufficient and that additional data was necessary, and requested additional time to collect and submit these data.

In January, 1975, EPA sent letters to manufacturers of the four chemicals being reconsidered, requesting additional information, citing section 308 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act as authority for EPA to require discharger to submit information for the purpose of developing effluent limitations guidelines. On January 27, 1975, the industry petitioners and EPA filed with the Court a joint motion and stipulation to extend the time for completion of reconsideration and issuance of a determination as to all four chemicals, to April 1, 1975. This motion was granted on January 29, 1975.

During February and March, 1975, the active industry petitioners in the cases pending before the Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit asked for additional time to develop and submit data. EPA agreed with petitioners that if substantial new information were submitted, EPA also would require additional time to review it. The information that had been submitted to the Agency was too fragmented to provide a legitimate basis for revising the existing effluent limitations guidelines. The Court ordered that any additional information must be submitted to EPA by June 10, 1974, and that EPA was to complete its review of the information by July 31, 1975. It was in compliance with that order that EPA published the notice of proposed rulemaking which appeared in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 15, 1975 (40 FR 34409).

I. SUMMARY OF COMMENTS

Comments were received from the following sources in response to the August 15, 1975 notice:

Air Products and Chemicals Corporation; Allied Chemical Corporation; BASF Wyandotte Corporation; Celanese Corporation; Cities Service Oil Company; Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen and Hamilton; Dow Chemical Company; E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Company; ICI United States, Incorporated; Monsanto Corporation; Northern Petrochemical Company; Olin Corporation; Oxochem Enterprise Company; PPG Industries, Incorporated; Rohm and Haas Company; Shell Oil Company; Sun Olin Corporation; Texas Eastman Company; and Union Carbide Corporation.

The summary of the major comments and responses follows:

1. The Air Products and Chemicals Company commented that an erroneous statement appeared on page 34414 of the August 15, 1975 FEDERAL REGISTER Notice: "* * * Air Products and Chemicals Company responded that (it) no longer manufacture(s) this product (methyl amines)."

The Agency acknowledges that this statement is erroneous and that the Air Products and Chemicals Company does manufacture methyl amines on a campaign basis. Raw waste load data was not available from the Air Products and Chemicals methyl amines process since its production schedule would not permit the collection of data within the Agency's established timetable.

2. The DuPont Corporation provided extensive comments concerning the interpretation and application of data from its Houston, Texas and Belle, West Virginia plants. DuPont suggested that the raw waste load values for the Houston and Belle plants be increased approximately 300 percent to account for less efficient operation of distillation equipment.

The raw waste load data for methyl amines production at the Belle, West Virginia plant was included in the data base for methyl amines effluent limitations and standards. The suggestion that raw waste loads per unit of production be increased approximately 300 percent was evaluated and is rejected. Evaluation of the suggested higher raw waste load levels indicated that the BOD5 effluent limitations and standards for BPCTCA (1977), BATEA (1983) and new sources would be unaffected since the limitations are controlled in this case by limiting values of effluent concentrations. The effluent limitation for the COD pollutant parameter would be higher for the BATEA (1983) if the suggested higher raw waste loads were used. The data available to the Agency indicate that the loss in distillation efficiency as a function of the higher production rate is the result of undersized distillation equipment and that this can be readily remedied by installation of additional distillation capacity to the process by 1983. Thus, the Agency has not changed the regulation.

3. Several commenters stated that the methodology in calculating raw waste loads on the average of the best plants does not account for factors such as age, size of plant and mechanical differences in the processes. It was suggested that either all plants be considered in the average or separate subcategories be established to account for those processes with higher raw waste loads.

Both as part of the extensive reconsideration which preceded today's promulgation and in the original consideration of Phase I organic chemicals regulations, factors such as age, size of plant, mechanical differences were examined to determine if there are reliable relationships with raw waste loads. The Agency concluded that these factors were not, for various reasons, a basis for subcategorization. One of the major reasons is that although a plant may structurally be quite old, the industry follows a practice of replacing equipment and making process and equipment modifications at frequent intervals. Unlike some other industrial categories, the facilities with the highest raw waste loads were not uniformly the oldest plants. The size of plants does not affect raw waste load per unit of production in a uniform fashion.

4. The Texas Eastman Company commented that the raw waste load data attributed to their plant for the ethylene oxide and ethylene glycol processes were incorrectly calculated.

The unit raw waste loads for the Texas Eastman plants for ethylene oxide and ethylene glycol were incorrectly interpreted from the data which was made available to the Agency. Corrected unit raw waste loads supplied by the commenter have been substituted in the calculations for the average of the best plants, where applicable.

5. PPG Industries (Houston Chemical Company) and several commenters noted that the Houston Chemical raw waste load for ethylene glycol contains process waste water from the ethylene oxide process. It was suggested that the Houston Chemical data not be considered in the calculations for ethylene oxide and ethylene glycol since these process wastes are combined.

The Houston Chemical plant raw waste loads for ethylene oxide were understated and the raw waste loads were overstated for the ethylene glycol process. These data points were not used in the calculation of the average of the best plants.

6. The Cities Service Oil Company (Citgo) commented that the data submitted to the Agency for the Lake Charles, Louisiana ethylene oxide and ethylene glycol plants should be deleted from the data base since the BOD5 data is too low and may be in error.

The Agency finds little substantive reason to allow deletion of the raw waste load data submitted to it from the Citgo ethylene oxide and ethylene glycol processes. The Citgo submission of March 21, 1975 states "that the BOD5 data could possibly be too low". The Agency concludes that these BOD5 data as analyzed by the industry commenter cannot be correlated with recent COD data submitted. EPA therefore concludes that the industry analytical system was faulty. The data from Citgo was not used in the raw waste load calculations.

7. Many commenters disagreed with the use of raw waste load data from plants that have unusually high COD to BOD ratios. It was suggested that only those plants, which have a COD to BOD ratio below approximately 2.5 should be considered.

The Agency has attempted to use all available industry supplied data which have been represented to be correct by the company supplying it. One of the major criticisms of earlier Agency organic chemicals regulations was the alleged lack of a sizable data base. There is reason to believe that one would encounter a range of BOD to COD ratios from varying process operations. Efforts to firmly discern a specific value of the relationship of COD to BOD to raw waste load reliability have been unsuccessful.

8. Several commenters disagreed with the Agency's use of 93 percent reduction of the raw waste load (limited by a 20–30 mg/l range) and a maximum reduction of 99 percent. Some commenters suggested a lower reduction of 85 percent and others suggested that a fixed percent reduction be applicable to the raw waste load.

Evaluation of the data base indicates that a fixed percentage reduction without an appropriate minimum and maximum range would be unreasonably restrictive for some product-process segments and overly liberal for others. The Agency's approach establishes a lower concentration of 20 mg/l so as not to be overly restrictive to cleaner plants and an upper limit of 99 percent at 30 mg/l. The maximum reduction establishes a reasonable limit at which the BPCTCA technology model can be expected to perform. The average reduction factor for the industry of 93 percent whenever the resulting effluent concentration is between 20–30 mg/l is a reasonable figure based on the performance of similar treatment systems in this industry.

9. Several commenters suggested that the Agency's BATEA effluent limitations which are based on the addition of activated carbon technology to a model represented by biological treatment be deferred to a later date (1980) pending further evaluation and demonstration of the activated carbon technology for individual plants. It is suggested that the Agency's data base is inadequate, the required reductions are overly restrictive and the cost effectiveness questionable.

Activated carbon treatment has been demonstrated to be a viable technology (either alone or in combination with biological treatment) for removal of dissolved organic chemical pollutants which are resistant to biological oxidation. It is well established that the effectiveness of carbon treatment increases as the proportion of high molecular weight compounds increases. In this respect carbon adsorption technology is complementary to the biological treatment systems (1977 Standard). Activated carbon treatment may also be utilized as an in-process control, for byproduct recovery, pretreatment of toxic and biorefractory pollutants and reduction of raw waste loads to the biological treatment system. It must be emphasized that the 1983 BATEA limitations do not require use of any one technology. Some facilities found it possible to reduce waste loads and improve treatment by use of recycle water systems and in-plant modifications.

10. The Union Carbide Corporation commented that studies of activated carbon treatment of biological treatment plant wastes at organic chemical plants indicate positive results. Union Carbide suggested that 40 percent reduction of BOD and 50 percent COD were reasonably achievable reductions for add-on carbon treatment systems.

The Union Carbide data appears substantially to verify the Agency's BATEA effluent reduction criteria for BOD and COD. Recent data gathered by the Agency and EPA contractors on 10 chemical plants indicate that an average reduction of 89 percent of the COD contained in biological treated effluent would be feasible by use of activated carbon systems.

11. Dow Chemical Company commented that data for the Freeport, Texas and Palquemine, Louisiana, plants producing ethylene oxide and ethylene glycol were sent to EPA prior to publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 15, 1975, although the notice of that date indicated that the data was not available for the Dow plants.

Information for the Dow plants was received on September 12, 1975 and is noted here. The Dow, Plaquemine, Louisiana plant data was submitted as a combined raw waste load determination from both ethylene oxide and ethylene glycol production and did not contain COD data. The new data for the Dow, Freeport, ethylene oxide plant was submitted but did not include COD data and did not include data on the ethylene glycol process.

Further analyis of data and comments received as a result of the August 15, 1975 notice of proposed rulemaking are summarized in Section VI.

II. Potential Benefits and Costs To Be Achieved

The presence of organic chemicals (products, byproducts, intermediate chemicals and raw materials) in the nation's waters is a significant—in some scientists' views, the most significant—threat to human health. Many organic chemicals, including many products covered by the "Phase I" and "Phase II" Organic Chemical regulations, are acutely toxic to people and aquatic life, cause cancer in test animals and man, bring about first generation birth deformities or abnormaly alter genetic patterns. A majority of those product-processes regulated by the Phases I and II of the Organic Chemical Manufacturing Point Source Category are listed in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare's Toxic Substances List (1974 ED.).

Recent disclosures that many synthetic organic chemicals are present in the drinking water supplies of this Country have resulted in increased Congressional, public and Agency concern that the problem may have been grossly underestimated. Following hearings on proposed safe drinking water legislation, the House of Representatives Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce Stated that:

> It must be noted that more than 12000 chemical compounds are now being used commercially, not counting additional variants and fractions. About 500 new chemical compounds are added each year. Many of these will find their way into the Nation's drinking water supplies. H. Rep. No. 93–1185. (93rd Congress 2d Session, 1975).

EPA has conducted several recent surveys of contamination of drinking water by organic chemicals. It recently discovered, for example, that at least 187 organic compounds are present in one or more of the nation's water supply systems. Suspect Carcinogens in Water Supplies, April 1975. As that report states, "This list will undoubtedly grow as work continues in the analysis of drinking waters and as analytical techniques are improved for the concentration, separation, identification and measurement of organic compounds in drinking water." Id., p. 1. With few exceptions, the organic compounds found in drinking water are also found in the effluent of organic chemical plants regulated by Phases I and II. Many synthetic organics have their origins in the effluent of organic chemical plants.

While the Agency has the authority to require public water supplies to reduce the quantities of organic chemicals in the water provided to the public for drinking purposes, it has found that the costs associated with reductions of the quantities of organics in raw drinking water at the water supplier stage and the financial burdens on communities, are substantial. Many commenters on proposed drinking water regulations, under the Safe Drinking Water Act, P.L. 93–523, 88 Stat. 1660, have protested the placing of the pollution abatement burden directly on the public sector, while the main cause of the problem, industrial sources of the chemicals, are allowed to continue to release substantial loading of COD prior to 1983. It is also more difficult to remove troublesome organics from raw drinking water supplies because (a) the constituent organics are in low concentrations (b) the presence of any one organic is hard to predict and (c) monitoring costs for detection of a changing number of synthetic chemicals are extreme. On the other hand, the operator of an organic chemical plant is able to deal with a predictable number of synthetic products and by-products in high enough concentrations to make treatment effective and more efficient. Moreover, it is more equitable to ask the party who introduces a pollutant to remove it or prevent it, rather than placing that burden on downstream users. For these reasons the Agency has relied to a great extent on equitable, industry-wide, technology-based standards such as these published today to achieve significant public health benefits.

The pollution parameters chosen for reference in the Phase I (and Phase II) Organic regulations do not specifically deal with the toxic qualities of the effluent; rather, the more conventional BOD, TSS and COD parameters are addressed. This was done because the effluent limitations guidelines are technology based regulations in which these familiar parameters more accurately reflect the proper operation of treatment systems considered in the preparation of the regulations. Nevertheless, by using methods such as activated sludge, mixed, media filtration and carbon adsorption, large percentages and quantities of toxic synthetic organic materials are removed.

As noted in the August 15 notice, generally the costs of compliance with the changes proposed are low and are not expected to significantly affect prices, profitability, industry production, or growth. In most cases, it is expected that these costs can be passed on to the consumer through small price increases. However, in the ethylene glycol segment up to three producers which are not integrated backward into the production of ethylene oxide may discontinue ethylene glycol production. This results from the very large abatement capital investment for BPT relative to process investment which cannot be averaged over both processes as is possible for the integrated producers. These plants are believed to represent no more than five percent of industry capacity, and would thus, have minimal impact on industry capacity, employment, balance of trade, or industry growth.

III. Derivation of Variability Factors

The choice of variability factors has been the focus of many comments from industry and arguments by industry petitioners in the case of Union Carbide et al. v. Train, No. 74–1459, etc., now pending before the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. Variability factors are used by the Agency to convert long term treatment plant performance data into regulations based on daily maxima and monthly averages, which regulations would reasonably take into account fluctuations in performance of treatment facilities. Section VII of the Development Document for the Major Organic Products Segment of the Organic Chemicals Manufacturing Point Source Category presents the basis for the original variability factors, which were 4.5 and 2.0 for the daily maximum and maximum thirty day ("monthly") average limitations, for the BOD and TSS parameters to be achieved by 1977. The variability factors for COD (1983 regulations) were 1.8 and 2.5 for the monthly average and daily maximum, respectively, and 1.7 and 3.0 for the BOD and TSS parameters. As noted in the FEDERAL REGISTER announcement of August 15, 1975, (40 FR 34409) which proposed revisions to the regulations for the four product-processes addressed in this rulemaking, the Agency has extensively reconsidered all the variability factors in light of the extensive criticisms offered by the organic chemicals industry, and has decided to change the variability factors with respect to the 1977 regulations. Based upon data from 21 organic chemical, plastics and petrochemical plants, the variability factors of 2.1 and 3.9 (as opposed to 2.0 and 4.5) will be used to establish Phase II regulations. But as announced in the August 15 notice, because industries presumably have relied upon the original regulations using the 2.0 and 4.5 figures, and because the Agency wishes to avoid any prejudice to those parties, it is retaining those original variability factors for use in calculating effluent limitations for Phase I product-processes. However, the Agency today changes the variability factors which are to be applied to compute the 1983 regulations.

The most reliable data base for the determination of variability factors is the analysis of the variability of 21 comparable (for purposes of variability calculations, organic, plastics and petrochemical plants. This data source, commonly referred to as the "Cook Memo" is to be used as the basis for the 1983 variability factors. Thus, instead of the 1.7 and 1.8 values for monthly average, and the 2.5 and 3.0 values for daily maxima for the BATEA and New Source Performance Standards, the Agency has used values of 2.1 and 3.9 respectively. The use of these new values will increase the allowable discharges for all product-processes for 1983.

Since the 1983 limitations are not the bases for the discharge permits issued and to be issued in the near future, and since there will be a new round of permit issuance which will incorporate the 1983 effluent limitations, there should be no prejudice to dischargers by announcing the change at this date, especially since the change results in less stringent regulations.

The Agency is conducting several studies are analyses of variability in per of carbon adsorption devices, and other approaches suitable for complying with the 1983 regulations. Included in these studies are analyses of variability in performance. There are also several private studies underway which should produce information in this area. The Agency will examine these results and may change the variability factors used in generating the 1983 regulations if this is appropriate. Indeed, consistent with the instruction of 33 U.S.C. 1311(d), the Agency attempts to review new information and modify regulations if appropriate on a continuous basis.

IV. Effect of Use of Different Microorganisms for BOD5 Analyses

One of the major reasons the industry petitioners and EPA agreed to develop and evaluate new information in the four product-processes for which regulations are promulgated today, was to consider the industry allegation that for four of the forty Phase I product-processes, the type of "seed" used in the BOD5 analyses was crucial.

The Agency and its contractor, the Roy F. Weston Company, examined the data filed by petitioners in support of their contentions, and have conducted a thorough review on their own. The results of these analyses are set out in the August 15 notice (40 F.R. 34410–34412). The comments received following the August notice repeated prior statements on this subject, added little to the existing understanding of the problem, and suggested no reason why the conclusions outlined in the August 15 notice are in error.

V. Development of Specific Regulations

A. Methyl Amines. Data and information were requested from all known manufacturers of methyl amines. Two companies, DuPont and Commercial Solvents, Inc. responded with data. Another company, GAF Corporation, offered to respond with data but has not forwarded data at this time. Rohm and Haas Corporation and Pennwalt Corporation responded that they no longer manufacture this product. Air Products and Chemicals Company manufactures methyl amines on a campaign basis and was not able to provide this information within a reasonable time frame.

Both the Commercial Solvents and DuPont data were obtained over a 30 day period or longer and are considered long term averages. The Commercial Solvents, Terre Haute, Indiana plant data was determined to be significantly different from the DuPont plant's data since the former does not employ methanol recovery and recycle. The resultant wastes from this process are, as a result, very high and are discharged to a unique land application treatment system.

DuPont Corporation submitted data for a 60 day period from the Houston, Texas plant and for a 35 day period from the Belle, West Virginia plant. Both sets of data were reported on the basis of net saleable production and on the basis of gross throughput production. The most appropriate basis for calculation of methyl amines limitations is gross throughput production.

It was also suggested by DuPont that the actual raw waste loads per unit of production be increased by 300 percent to allow for less efficient operation of distillation equipment at a projected 100 percent capacity operation. This increase, although significant, would not affect effluent limitations for the BOD pollutant parameter for BPCTCA, BATEA and New Source Standards since the flow basis is unchanged at the higher production rate and the limitations are concentration limited. The COD pollutant parameter for BATEA would increase commensurately with a higher unit raw waste load. New sources and existing sources by 1983 can reasonably be expected to have adequate distillation equipment capacity for efficient operation. Thus, the 300 percent increase in unit raw waste loads and effluent limitations was not justified.

The following is a summary of the unit raw waste load for the two plants:

	Houston, Tex., plant		Belle, W. Va., plant [3]
	Data, Aug. 15, 1975 [1]	Data, Sept. 1, 1975 [2]

Gross throughput production basis:
Flow, gal/1,000 lb	175	198	237

[2] Houston plant data for a 60-d sampling period which was submitted to the Agency (40 F.R. 34409) on Sept. 15, 1975.

[3] Belle plant data for a 35-d sampling period submitted to the Agency on Sept. 15, 1975, with comments on 40 F.R. 34409.

On the basis of the average of the best plants those below the median plant raw waste load (BOD5 raw waste load), the better of the two plants is the Houston plant. The raw waste load value used for calculation has not changed as a result of the new data submitted for the Belle plant. Current data of September 15, 1975 for the Houston plant, as indicated above are slightly different from the previous data submitted prior to the August 15, 1975 FEDERAL REGISTER notice (40 F.R. 34409). Using the raw waste load values indicated and application of the appropriate reduction factor (or concentration limit) the design effluent limitations are derived. Limitations based on the daily maximum and 30 day maximum average were derived as follows:

BOD5=198×8.34×10⁻⁶×30 mg/l=0.05 lb/1000 lb
0.05×2=0.10 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)
0.05×4.5=0.22 lb/100 lb (daily maximum)
TSS=198×8.34×10⁻⁶×30 mg/l=0.05 lb/1000 lb
0.05×2=0.10 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)
0.05×4.5=0.22 lb/1000 lb (daily maximum)

for NSPS:

BOD5=0.05×(1—0.17)=0.042 lb/1000 lb
0.042×2.1=0.088 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)
0.042×3.9=0.16 lb/1000 lb (daily maximum)
TSS=198×8.34×10⁻⁶×15 mg/l=0.025 lb/1000 lb
0.025×2.1=0.052 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)
0.025×3.9=0.098 lb/1000 lb (daily maximum)

for BATEA:

COD=1.5×(1—0.92)=0.10 lb/1000 lb
0.10×2.1=0.21 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)
0.10×3.9=0.39 lb/1000 lb (daily maximum)
BOD5=198×8.34×10⁻⁶×10 mg/l=0.016 lb/1000 lb
0.016×2.1=0.034 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)
0.016×3.9=0.062 lb/1000 lb (daily maximum)

V40233 DEC 3 75 XUM

TSS=198×8.34×10⁻⁴×15 mg/l=0.025 lb/1000 lb
0.025×2.1=0.052 lb/1000 lb (30 days maximum average)
0.025×3.9=0.098 lb/1000 lb (daily maximum)

The values for BPCTCA, NSPS and BATEA are slightly increased from those which were proposed in the August 15, 1975 due in part to the addition of the more current data for the Houston plant.

B. Ethylene Glycol. Data and information on the production of ethylene glycol were requested from all known manufacturers. Nine companies responded with data and one company responded that it no longer manufactures this product.

The data received were generally collected over a 30 day period or longer. The following is a summary of the available data.

Summary of data and responses ethylene glycol

Source	Flow, gal/1,000 lb	BOD, lb/1,000 lb or kg/kkg	COD, lb/1,000 lb or kg/kkg

[1] These data were taken from the development document. Current data for ethylene glycol was not available. The data was submitted as combined load for ethylene oxide and ethylene glycol production.
[2] This data replaces earlier data reported in the Aug. 15, 1975, FEDERAL REGISTER notice. That data was misinterpreted and subsequently corrected.
[3] This data was submitted on Aug. 15, 1975, and did not appear in 40 F.R. 34409. Process waste waters for the ethylene oxide and ethylene glycol processes which were combined could not be apportioned by plant personnel. This data was not considered in the average of the best plants.
[4] Process waste waters are combined with ethylene oxide process waters. This data was not considered in the determination of best plants.
[5] Waste waters from this process are combined with the ethylene oxide process waste water. Since the data base consisted of combined flows which were not separated, this plant was not considered in the determination of the best plants.
[6] Citgo reported that this data is suspect due to possible incorrect analysis. These data were deleted from consideration of the average of the best plants.

Of the seven plant data considered, three plants were below the median BOD5 raw waste load: Dow Chemical's Freeport plant; Union Carbide's Ponce plant and Jefferson Chemical's Company, Port Neches plant. The average of the best, in terms of BOD5 is therefore 0.62 lb/1000 lb product. Corresponding mean flow for the three plants is 264 gallons per 1000 lb product and COD raw waste is 3.9 lb/1000 lb product.

From these raw waste loads and the appropriate reduction factors (or concentration limits), the design limits are calculated. Application of the appropriate variability factors results in the following effluent limitations for the ethylene glycol product-process in Subcategory C.

BOD5=264×8.34×10⁻⁴×20 mg/l=0.044 lb/1000 lb
0.044×2=0.088 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)

TSS=264×8.34×10⁻⁴×30 mg/l=0.066 lb 1000 lb
0.066×2=0.13 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)
0.066×4.5=0.30 lb 1000 lb (daily maximum)

for NSPS:

BOD5=0.044×(1−0.17)=0.036 lb 1000 lb
0.036×2.1=0.076 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)

0.022×2.1=0.046 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)
0.022×3.9=0.086 lb/1000 lb (daily maximum)
TSS=264×8.34×10⁻⁴×15 mg/l=0.033 lb 1000 lb =0.033 lb/1000 lb
0.033×2.1=0.069 lb/1000 lb (30 day maximum average)
0.033×3.9=0.13 lb/1000 lb (daily maximum)

C. Ethylene Oxide. Data and information on the production of ethylene oxide were requested from all known manufacturers. Nine companies responded with data and one responded that it no longer manufactures this product. The data supplied generally represents production over a 30 day period or longer for each plant and are considered long term averages:

[1] Process waste water is combined with the ethylene glycol process and could not be apportioned by plant personnel. This data was deleted from consideration of the average of the best plants.
[2] This data represents long-term sampling and replaces the data from the development document for the Dow, Freeport, plant which appeared in the Aug. 15, 1975, FEDERAL REGISTER (40 F.R. 34409). COD data was not available.
[3] This data was made available after Aug. 15, 1975, but is not included in the average of the best plants because of the combination of waste water from the ethylene glycol process.
[4] Earlier data for the Texas Eastman plant were misinterpreted and subsequently corrected. These data are as corrected by the industry coumenter.
[5] These data were submitted on Aug. 15, 1975, and did not appear in 40 F.R. 34409. These are not used in the calculation since they represent combination of ethylene glycol and ethylene oxide production waste streams.
[6] Citgo data was said to be suspect due to possible incorrect BOD5 analyses. This data was deleted from consideration of the average of the best plants.

The best plants as exemplified by BOD5 unit raw waste loads below the median for the eight plants considered are Jefferson Chemical's Port Neches plant, Dow Chemical's Freeport plant, Texas Eastman Company's Longview plant and Union Carbide's Taft Plant. Raw waste load for BOD5 represented by the average of the best is therefore 1.6 lb/1000 lb product. The mean corresponding flow from the same plants is 62 gallons per 1000 lb product and the COD raw waste load is 3.1 lb/1000 lb product.

From these raw waste loads the appropriate reduction factors (or concentration limits) are calculated. Application of the appropriate variability factors result is the effluent limitations for the ethylene oxide product-process in Subcategory B.

D. Oxo Chemicals. Data and information on the production of oxo chemicals were requested from all known manufacturers. Five companies responded with data including one plant's data which was available from the contractor's earlier study as reported in the Development Document. Data from additional plants which was not reported in the August 15, 1975 notice (40 FR 34409) are also included in this summary:

Dow Badische,[1] Freeport, Tex.	420	3.20	4.25
Exxon Chemicals, Houston, Tex.	1,400	5.40	9.15
Shell Chemical Co., Houston, Tex.	15	11.20	14.40

Union Carbide Corp., Texas City, Tex.	816	20.60	40.8
Union Carbide Corp., Port Lavaca, Tex.	1,121	24.30	45.40
USS Chemical Co.,[4] Ironton, Ohio.	212	NA	NA

[1] This data was reported in the development document.
[2] This plant data was included since the Aug. 15, 1975, notice (40 F.R. 34409).
[3] These new data were submitted to the Agency on Aug. 15, 1975, and was not included in the Aug. 15, proposed.
[4] Raw waste load data were not available.

The four best plants selected out of eight plants evaluated are Dow Badische's Freeport plant, Exxon Chemical's Houston plant, Shell Chemical's Houston plant and Texas Eastman's Longview plant. The Shell Chemical Geismar plant was not selected as one of the four best plants because of the high volume of water used as a result of barometric condensers. The Texas Eastman plant whose raw waste loads are similar to the Shell Chemical data was selected as one of the best plants. This plant does not employ barometric condensers. The raw waste load for the average of the best plants is therefore 8.3 lb/1000 lb product. Corresponding average flow and COD are 500 gallons per 1000 lb product and 13.2 lb/1000 lb product.

From these values and the appropriate reduction factors (or concentration limits) the design limits are calculated. Application of the appropriate variability factors results in the effluent limitations for the oxo chemicals product-process in Subcategory C.

Title 49—Transportation

SUBTITLE B—OTHER REGULATIONS RELATING TO TRANSPORTATION

CHAPTER I—MATERIALS TRANSPORTATION BUREAU, DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

[Docket No. HM-127; Amdt. No. 107-1]

PART 107—PROCEDURES

Exemption Procedures

On October 10, 1975, the Materials Transportation Bureau issued procedural regulations governing the filing and processing of applications for exemptions from the Department of Transportation's hazardous materials regulations (40 FR 48466, October 15, 1975). Since that time the Bureau has become aware that a number of technical and clerical amendments to those regulations are necessary.

In section 107.111, Party to an exemption, paragraph (a) provides that:

Any person who is eligible to apply under § 107.103 for an exemption may apply to the Director, OHMO, to be made a party to an application filed under that section or to an exemption granted under § 107.109(d).

It was the Bureau's intention that a person could apply to be made a party to an initial application for an exemption or an application for renewal of an existing exemption. It was also the Bureau's intent to permit a person to apply to be made a party to an exemption or renewal of an exemption granted under § 107.109(d). Section 107.111 as presently written does not satisfy either of these intents. This discrepancy will be clarified by these amendments.

In § 107.113, Application for and processing of emergency exemption, paragraph (b), the reference to § 107.103(b)(2) through (10) has inadvertently been written to read "§ 107.103(2) through (11)".

The last sentence in paragraph (c) of § 107.113 reads:

If the Director, OHMO, cannot determine that an emergency exists or that there is not adequate justification for the exemption, he immediately notifies the applicant.

For clarity the word "determines" will be inserted between the words "or" and "that".

In Appendix A to the exemption regulations there was a list of Department of Transportation officials through whom applications for emergency exemptions could be initiated. It has come to the Bureau's attention that the list does not identify the FAA field officials through whom commercial operators of large aircraft and aircraft operators operating under FAR Part 91 (14 CFR, Part 91) may initiate such applications. These amendments will correct this oversight.

In consideration of the foregoing, Subpart B of Part 107 of title 49, Code of Federal Regulations, is amended as follows:

1. Section 107.111(a) is amended to read as follows:

§ 107.111 Party to an exemption.

(a) Any person who is eligible to apply under § 107.103 for an exemption may apply to the Director, OHMO, to be made a party to an application filed under that section or § 107.105 or to an exemption or renewal granted under § 107.109(d).

* * * * *

2. In § 107.113, paragraph (a) is amended by changing the reference to § 107.103(2) through (11) to read "§ 107.103(b)(2) through (10)".

3. In section 107.113, paragraph (c) is amended by inserting the word "determines" between the words "or" and "that" in the last sentence.

Appendix A [Amended]

4. Appendix A is amended by revising the two paragraphs captioned "AIR CARRIERS" and "AIR TAXI OPERATORS AND COMMERCIAL OPERATORS OF SMALL AIRCRAFT" to read as follows:

APPENDIX A

LIST OF DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION OFFICIALS THROUGH WHOM APPLICATION FOR EXEMPTIONS SEEKING PRIORITY TREATMENT ON THE BASIS OF EXISTING EMERGENCIES MAY BE INITIATED BY TELEPHONE

CERTIFICATE HOLDING AIRCRAFT OPERATIONS

The Federal Aviation Administration Flight Standards District Office, Air Carrier District Office, or General Aviation District Office which serves the place where the flight[s] concerned will originate or which is responsible for overall inspection of the operator's operations.

NONCERTIFICATE HOLDING AIRCRAFT OPERATORS (OPERATORS OPERATING UNDER FAR PART 91)

The Federal Aviation Administration Flight Standards District Office, Air Carrier District Office, or General Aviation District Office which serves the place where the flight[s] concerned will originate.

Since these amendments are procedural rather than substantive and because of the need for immediate public guidance with respect to the new exemption procedures, they are being made effective in less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Thus, persons submitting written comments should not include therein material that they consider to be confidential or inappropriate for disclosure to the public. It will be presumed by the Internal Revenue Service that every written comment submitted to it in response to this notice of proposed rule making is intended by the person submitting it to be subject in its entirety to public inspection and copying in accordance with the procedures of 26 CFR 601.702(d)(9). Any person submitting written comments who desires an opportunity to comment orally at a public hearing on these proposed regulations should submit a request, in writing, to the Commissioner by January 2, 1976. In such case, a public hearing will be held, and notice of the time, place, and date will be published in a subsequent issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER, unless the person or persons who have requested a hearing withdraw their requests for a hearing before notice of the hearing has been filed with the Office of the Federal Register. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in sections 103(d) and 7805 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (68A Stat. 917; 26 U.S.C. 7805).

DONALD C. ALEXANDER,
Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under section 103(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, relating to arbitrage bonds, in order to conform such regulations to the provisions of section 601(a) of the Tax Reform Act of 1969. These amendments supersede the provisions of § 1.4 of this chapter which were prescribed by T.D. 7072 and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for November 13, 1970 (35 FR 17406), as amended by T.D. 7174 published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for June 26, 1972 (37 FR 10932), and T.D. 7273 published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for May 27, 1973 (8 FR 10927).

This document withdraws rules regarding refunding issues contained in § 1.103–13(b)(5) (ii) and (iii) and § 1.103–14(e) of the notice of proposed rule making published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for June 1, 1972 (7 FR 10946) and prescribes new rules in lieu thereof. In addition, conforming revisions are made to the notice of proposed rule making published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for May 3, 1973 (38 FR 10944).

In general, the revision of § 1.103–13(a)(3) provides that a refunding issue issued before is not an arbitrage bond if it either satisfies the rules regarding refunding issues proposed in this document and the rules contained in the May 3, 1973, notice of proposed rule making or satisfies the rules contained in the June 1, 1972, notice of proposed rule making. After a refunding issue must satisfy the rules proposed by this document and the May 3, 1973, notice of proposed rule making. Furthermore, after the yield produced by acquired obligations acquired with the proceeds of an issue of governmental obligations which is an overissuance under § 1.103–13 (b) (5) (iv), is materially higher than the yield on the governmental obligations if it exceeds the yield on the governmental obligations.

Section 1.103–13 (b)(1)(ii) and § 1.103–14 (d) (1) are revised to simplify the determination of a major portion and a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund.

Section 1.103–13 (b)(9) incorporates the rule for multipurpose issues which previously appeared in § 1.103–14 (a) (2) and (3) and expands on the prior rule by requiring that an issue of governmental obligations be treated as several issues of governmental obligations if part of the issue will be used for refunding or to finance a governmental program or if an election under § 1.103–13 (b) (5) (i) (B) to waive the temporary period has been made for a portion of the proceeds of an issue of governmental obligations. The issue must be split for purposes of the temporary period requirements, the determination of materially higher yield, and the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund and major portion test.

Section 1.103–13(b)(5) (ii) and (iii) and § 1.103–14(e) provide new rules for governmental obligations which are issued for the purpose of refunding the principal or interest of a prior outstanding issue of governmental obligations. While both the prior issue and the refunding issue are outstanding, the yield on investments acquired with the proceeds of the refunding issue is materially higher than the yield on the refunding issue if the yield on the investments exceeds the yield on the refunding issue. This rule does not affect the yield on investments which are acquired with the proceeds of the prior issue. Proceeds of the prior issue ratably become proceeds of the refunding issue (referred to as "transferred proceeds") and cease to be proceeds of the prior issue as the prior issue is discharged. When proceeds of the prior issue become transferred proceeds, the determination whether investments of such proceeds produce a materially higher yield is made by substituting the yield of the refunding issue for the yield of the prior issue.

A general 30-day temporary period is provided in § 1.103–14(e)(3) for the proceeds of the refunding issue. In addition, § 1.103–14(e) provides a temporary period in excess of 30 days and up to 2 years, depending on the length of the prior issue and the refunding issue, provided that the period beginning on the date the refunding issue is issued and ending on the date the prior issue is discharged does not exceed the temporary period.

Section 1.103–14 (e) (4) provides that the proceeds of a refunding issue may be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations for purposes of the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund or the major portion test. The amount of proceeds that may be so invested is the smaller of the amount permitted for the refunding issue or the prior issue, unless, prior to the date of issue, the issuer obtains a ruling from the Commissioner permitting a larger reasonably required reserve or replacement fund. During the period when both issues are outstanding, the amount of proceeds of the refunding issue which may be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations pursuant to these rules is reduced to the extent that proceeds of the prior issue are so invested.

ADOPTION OF AMENDMENTS TO THE REGULATIONS

To conform the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) to certain amendments made to the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 by section 601 (a) of the Tax Refrom Act of 1969 (83 Stat. 656), relating to arbitrage bonds, such regulations are hereby amended as set forth below:

PARAGRAPH 1. Section 1.103–13, as set forth in the notice of proposed rule making of May 3, 1973 (38 FR 10944), as corrected by notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for May 11, 1973 (38 FR 12405) is revised as follows:

a. Paragraph (a)(3) is changed;

b. The first two sentences of paragraph (b)(1)(ii) are changed;

c. New paragraphs (ii) and (iii) are added to paragraph (b)(5);

d. Paragraph (b)(5)(iv) is revised by adding a new sentence at the end of such thereof; and

e. New paragraph (9) is added to paragraph (b).

The revised and added provisions read as follows:

§ 1.103–13 Arbitrage bonds.

(a) Scope. • • •

(3) Effective date. The provisions of section 103(d), this section, and § 1.103–14 apply with respect to obligations issued after October 9, 1969. Notwithstanding the rule in the preceding sentence, obligations issued prior to June 4, 1973, will not be arbitrage bonds if such obligations are not arbitrage bonds under the provisions of the proposed regulations under section 103(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, relating to arbitrage bonds, appearing in the FEDERAL REGISTER for June 1, 1972 (37 FR 10946), but in determining whether obligations issued after March 8, 1973, are arbitrage bonds, the yield on governmental obligations and acquired obligations may be computed pursuant to the method described in § 1.103–13(c) of such proposed regulations only if such method does not significantly distort yield. In the case of a refunding issue which is issued prior to January 2, 1976, the rules of § 1.103–13(b)(5)(i), (ii), and (iii), and § 1.103–14(e) of the proposed regulations under section 103(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, relating to arbitrage bonds, appearing in the FEDERAL REGISTER for June 1, 1972 (37 FR 10946), may be applied in lieu of the rules of paragraph (b)(5) (ii) and (iii) of this section and § 1.103–14(e). In the case of governmental obligations issued prior to January 2, 1976, the provisions of both § 1.103–13(b)(1)(ii) and § 1.103–14(d)(1) of the proposed regulations under section 103(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, relating to arbitrage bonds, appearing in the FEDERAL REGISTER for May 3, 1973 (38 FR 10944), may be applied in lieu of the provisions of both paragraph (b)(1)(ii) of this section and § 1.103–14(d)(1), and the provisions of § 1.103–14(a) (2) and (3) of such proposed regulations may be applied in lieu of the provisions of paragraph (b)(9) of this section. The rules of § 1.103–14(b)(8) do not apply with respect to obligations issued before January 2, 1976. See paragraph (b)(6) of this section for definition of the term "date of issue."

• • • • •

(b) Definitions. • • •

(1) Arbitrage bonds. • • •

(ii) A major portion of the proceeds is an amount in excess of 15 percent of the original face amount of the issue. If the original proceeds of an issue (determined without regard to issuing expenses) are less than 98 percent of the original face amount of such issue, then the percentage specified in the preceding sentence shall be based on the amount of such original proceeds. • • •

• • • • •

(5) Materially higher. • • •

(ii) In the case of an issue of governmental obligations which is a refunding issue, the rules of paragraph (b)(5)(iii) of this section apply to such issue in lieu of the provisions of paragraph (b)(5)(i) of this section and paragraph (e)(1)(ii) of this section. The term "refunding issue" is defined in § 1.103–14(e)(2)(i).

(iii)(A) Prior to the date on which the last obligation of the prior issue (as defined in § 1.103–14(e)(2)(i)) is discharged, the yield produced by acquired obligations allocated to the proceeds (other than transferred proceeds as defined in § 1.103–14(e)(2)(ii) of the refunding issue is materially higher than the yield produced by such issue if the yield of such acquired obligations exceeds the yield of such issue.

(B) The rules of paragraph (b)(5)(i) of this section apply to the yield produced by acquired obligations allocated to (1) transferred proceeds, and (2) on or after the date on which the last obligation of the prior issue is discharged, other proceeds of the refunding issue. The determination as to whether the yield on acquired obligations allocated to transferred proceeds is materially higher shall be made with reference to the yield of the refunding issue. The rules of paragraph (b)(5)(i)(B) and (iv) of this section and the rules of paragraph (e)(1)(ii) of this section shall apply to transferred proceeds if such rules applied to the prior issue.

(iv) • • • However, in the case of obligations issued after January 2, 1976, the yield produced by such acquired obligations is materially higher than the yield produced by such issue of governmental obligations if the yield of such acquired obligations exceeds the yield of such issue.

(9) Multipurpose issues. (i) In the case of an issue of governmental obligations—

(A) Issued to finance two or more projects with respect to which the temporary periods provided in paragraph (b)(1), (b)(5), or (e)(3) of § 1.103–14 are different (including different temporary periods resulting from an election under paragraph (b)(5)(i)(B)) of this section, or

(B) Part of the proceeds of which are used for refunding to which the rules of paragraph (e) of § 1.103–14 apply or for a governmental program to which the rules of paragraph (d) of this section apply, the portions of the proceeds of such governmental obligations to be used to finance projects having different temporary periods or to be used partly for refunding or partly for a governmental program shall be treated as separate issues of governmental obligations for purposes of determining the temporary period requirements, the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund, the application of the major portion test with respect to each such separate issue, and whether the yield on acquired obligations is materially higher than the yield produced by the governmental obligations.

(ii) For purposes of this section and for purposes of § 1.103–14, the term "project" means any governmental purpose financed by the issue of governmental obligations. Such purpose does not include the investment of the proceeds of such issue in acquired nonpurpose obligations.

PAR. 2. Section 1.103–14, as set forth in the notice of proposed rule making of May 3, 1973 (38 FR 10944), is revised as follows:

a. The heading of § 1.103–14 is changed;

b. Paragraph (a)(2) is changed;

c. Paragraph (a)(3) is deleted;

d. Two new sentences are added at the end of paragraph (b)(1);

e. New paragraph (8) is added to paragraph (b);

f. The last two sentences of paragraph (d)(1) are changed; and

g. A new paragraph (e) is added.

§ 1.103–14 Temporary investments, reserve fund, and refunding issues.

(a) Temporary investments. • • •

(2) Multipurpose issues. See § 1.103–13(b)(9) for rules regarding application of the temporary period requirements to an issue which finances two or more projects with different temporary periods.

(3) [Deleted]

• • • • • •

(b) Temporary period—(1) In general. • • • This paragraph (b) does not apply in th case of an issue of obligations issued in anticipation of taxes or other revenues. See paragraph (c) of this section for rules relating to temporary priods for tax and other revenue anticipation notes.

• • • • • •

(8) Replacement issue. (i) In the case of a replacement issue of obligations (as defined in paragraph (b)(8)(ii) of this section) that replaces an earlier issue of obligations of the issuer, the period described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section for the replacement issue shall be reduced by a period equal to the period during which the obligations of the earlier issue were outstanding. See paragraph (e)(3) of this section for rules relating to temporary periods for a refunding issue.

(ii) The term "replacement issue of obligations" means any obligations which are issued after the retirement of all or a portion of an earlier issue of obligations if the proceeds of such subsequently issued obligations—

(A) Are used to replace any proceeds of such earlier issue (or of such retired portion) which were not expended on the project for which such earlier issue was issued, and

(B) Are used for substantially the same project as was intended for such replaced and unexpended proceeds.

* * * * *

(d) Reasonably required reserve or replacement fund—(1) In general. * * * As a general rule, a reserve or replacement fund will be considered to be reasonably required only if the amount so invested at any time during the term of the issue does not exceed 15 percent of the original face amount of the issue. If the original proceeds of an issue (determined without regard to issuing expenses) are less than 98 percent of the original face amount of such issue, then the percentage specified in the preceding sentence shall be based on the amount of such original proceeds.

* * * * *

(e) Refunding issue—(1) In general. (i) This paragraph provides rules that apply in the case of a refunding issue. The general rules regarding temporary period investments (paragraph (b) of this section), the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund (paragraph (d) of this section), and the major portion test (§ 1.103–13(b)(1)) do not apply to a refunding issue except as provided in this paragraph. The provisions of this paragraph do not apply to proceeds of the prior issue until such proceeds become "transferred proceeds" of the refunding issue under the rules of paragraph (e)(2) of this section.

(ii) If the proceeds of an issue of governmental obligations are used to refund two or more prior issues, the portion of the proceeds used to refund each such issue is treated as a separate refunding issue. Where the principal or interest of all or part of a prior issue is refunded with the proceeds of two or more refunding issues under circumstances such that the refunding is in substance a single transaction, such refunding issues shall be treated as a single issue for purposes of this paragraph. If less than the entire outstanding principal amount of the prior issue is refunded with the proceeds of a refunding issue, the refunded and nonrefunded portions of such prior issue shall be treated as separate issues, and the amount of any proceeds of such prior issue and the amounts described in paragraph (d) of this section or in § 1.103–13(b)(1)(ii) with respect to the prior issue shall be allocated between the refunded and nonrefunded portions in the same proportion as the refunded portion bears to the total outstanding principal amount of such prior issue.

(2) Definitions. (i) A refunding issue is an issue of governmental obligations the proceeds of which are used to pay any principal or interest of a prior issue of governmental obligations (hereinafter referred to as the "prior issue"). The term "prior issue" means (A) any outstanding issue of governmental obligations (including any governmental obligations issued for temporary financing) issued by the governmental unit or (B) any outstanding issue of governmental obligations issued by any governmental unit that is included within the governmental unit issuing the governmental obligations the proceeds of which are used to pay principal or interest of such outstanding governmental obligations. The use of proceeds of an issue of governmental obligations within 1 year after the date of issue of such issue to pay interest on other governmental obligations need not be treated as the refunding of a prior issue unless the principal of the other governmental obligations is also refunded. In addition, the use of proceeds of an issue to pay certain capitalized interest (as defined in paragraph (e)(2)(iii) of this section) on a prior governmental issue need not be treated as the refunding of such prior issue. An issue of obligations to which paragraph (c) of this section applies issued in anticipation of revenues to finance annual budget expenses of the issuer (including supplemental appropriations and other expenses) shall not be treated as a refunding issue unless issued to refund a prior issue of obligations of such issuer issued in anticipation of revenue for the same budget period.

(ii) At the time that proceeds of the refunding issue discharge the outstanding principal of the prior issue, proceeds of the prior issue become proceeds of the refunding issue (hereinafter referred to as "transferred proceeds") and cease to be proceeds of the prior issue. In the case of a discharge of a portion of such principal, the amount of proceeds of the prior issue that become transferred proceeds is an amount which bears the same relationship to the total proceeds of such prior issue at the time of such discharge as the amount of such discharged principal bears to the total principal of the prior issue outstanding immediately prior to such discharge. Investment proceeds resulting from the investment of transferred proceeds shall be treated as transferred proceeds. Amounts received during the term of the refunding issue and after the discharge of the prior issue which would have been indirect proceeds of the prior issue and included within the definition of proceeds of such issue if such issue had not been discharged earlier than its maturity date by the refunding issue shall be treated as transferred proceeds when received. For the purpose of determining whether any amounts received by the issuer during the term of the refunding issue are indirect proceeds under § 1.103–13(b)(2)(iii)(A), any acquired purpose obligations or property acquired or financed with the proceeds of the prior issue shall be treated as also acquired or financed with the proceeds of the refunding issue. Any amounts treated as indirect proceeds solely by reason of the preceding sentence shall not be treated as proceeds of the refunding issue until the prior issue is discharged. Thus, notwithstanding that at the date of issue of the prior issue the issuer did not reasonably expect to receive a repayment of principal on an acquired purpose obligation or to recover principal from the sale or disposition of property, any amounts reasonably expected at the date of issue of the refunding issue to be received as a repayment of principal on an acquired purpose obligation acquired with the proceeds of the prior issue or as a recovery of principal from the sale or other disposition of property acquired or financed with the proceeds of the prior issue are treated as indirect proceeds of the refunding issue.

(iii) For purposes of paragraph (e)(2)(i) of this section, interest on a prior governmental obligation shall be treated as capitalized interest if such interest accrues within the period of time necessary to complete the construction or the acquisition of the project for which such prior issue was issued plus 1 year thereafter. In lieu of the 1 year referred to in the preceding sentence, there may be substituted a period not longer than 5-years if, prior to the issuance of the obligations the proceeds of which are used to pay interest on a prior issue of obligations, the issuer demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that because of inadequate revenues during the period of commencement of operations of the project such interest should be treated as capitalized interest. For example, if a first issue is issued on January 1, 1976, to provide funds to construct a hospital and it is necessary to issue a second issue on January 1, 1979, to provide additional funds to complete construction of the hospital, the use of any proceeds of the second issue to pay interest on the first issue during the period needed to complete contruction of the hospital, plus one year thereafter, need not be treated as a refunding of the first issue. However, if the hospital had been completed on January 1, 1979, and a second issue is issued on January 1, 1981, both to provide funds for a new wing for the hospital and to pay interest on the 1976 issue, interest on the first issue is not treated as capitalized interest unless the issuer demonstrates that there are not sufficient revenues from the hospital (without regard to any revenues or losses from the new wing) to pay the interest on the first issue accruing during the period beginning January 1, 1979, and ending not later than January 1, 1984.

(3) Temporary period. (i) Proceeds (other than transferred proceeds) of a refunding issue that are invested for a period described in paragraph (e)(3)(ii) of this section are invested for a temporary period. Paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B) and (C) of this section applies only if the period beginning on the date of issue and ending on the date of discharge of the last obligation of the prior issue is not longer than the period determined under such paragraph. The issuer shall certify in any certification under § 1.103–13(a)(2)(ii) whether paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(A), (B) or (C) of this section applies to the issue.

(ii) The periods provided by this subdivision are—

(A) A 30-day period beginning on the date of issue;

(B) A period which is not in excess of the shortest of—

(1) A period beginning on the date of issue and ending on the date on which the last obligation of the prior issue is discharged,

(2) 2 years,

(3) A period equal to 25 percent of the term of the refunding issue,

(4) A period equal to the greater of—

(i) 50 percent of the term of the prior issue, but not more than 6 months, or

(ii) 25 percent of the term of the prior issue, or

(5) In the case of a refunding issue which is part of a series of refunding issues, where a refunding issue is refunded by a refunding issue, 2 years reduced by the sum of all temporary periods for all prior refunding issues in such series to which this subdivision (B) or paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C) of this section applied. See paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C)(3) of this section for the application of this subdivision (5) to a refunding issue described in paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C)(1) of this section.

(C) (1) In the case of a refunding issue for which different temporary periods under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(A) or (B) of this section would apply to portions of such issue because

(i) Proceeds of the refunding issue are used to pay principal or interest on two or more prior issues, or

(ii) One or more portions of the issue is part of a series of refunding issues under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B)(5) of this section, the period described in paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C)(2) of this section.

(2) The period described in this subdivision is a period determined by (i) multiplying the number of months (rounded to at least one decimal point) or days in the period determined under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(A) or (B) of this section (determined without regard to paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B)(1) of this section and without regard to any allocation under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C)(3) of this section with respect to such issue) for each such portion of the refunding issue by the amount of principal and interest of the prior issue discharged by each such portion and (ii) dividing the sum of the amounts determined under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C)(2)(i) of this section by the total amount of principal and interest to be refunded by all portions of the refunding issue.

(3) In the case of the refunding of any prior issue to which this subdivision (C) applied, the reduction referred to in paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B)(5) of this section for the temporary period for such prior issue shall be the temporary period of the issue determined under this subdivision (C) rather than the periods under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(A) or (B) of this section used in determining the temporary period of the issue under this subdivision (C). Because of the application of this subdivision (C) to a refunding issue, the sum of the temporary period for a portion of such issue and all prior temporary periods under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B) or (C) of this section for such portion may exceed 2 years. If such sum exceeds 2 years then, for purposes of determining the amount of the reduction under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B)(5) of this section for the portions of such issue in which the sum of temporary periods does not exceed 2 years, the temporary period determined under this subdivision (C) for such other portions shall be increased by a period determined by multiplying such excess by a fraction the numerator of which is the amount of principal and interest to be discharged by the portion exceeding 2 years and the denominator of which is the amount of remaining principal and interest to be discharged by all other portions of such issue. If the temporary period in paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(A) of this section is used for any portion of the issue in determining the temporary period of the issue under this subdivision (C), and the temporary period under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B)(5) of this section for such portion is a period shorter than 31 days, then, for purposes of the preceding sentence, the excess shall be the period by which the temporary period under this subdivision (C) for such issue exceeds 30 days. If, as a result of any increase under this subdivision (3), the cumulative temporary period for another portion exceeds 2 years, such excess shall also be allocated in accordance with this subdivision (3).

(iii) Proceeds to which any temporary period provided in paragraph (b) of this section for the prior issue applied (or to which any temporary period would apply if such prior issue had been issued after October 9, 1969) which become transferred proceeds and are invested during the period beginning on the date of transfer and ending on the date on which the applicable temporary period for such prior issue would end (determined without regard to the discharge of the prior issue) are invested for a temporary period.

(iv) If proceeds of a prior issue are permitted to be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations beyond any temporary period provided in paragraph (b) of this section because such proceeds were not expended as anticipated (or could be so invested if such prior issue were not discharged), and if prior to the issuance of the refunding issue the issuer demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that, on the basis of facts, estimates and circumstances in existence on the date of issue, a reasonable extension of such investment is necessary for such proceeds, then such proceeds may be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations when such proceeds become transferred proceeds. In determining whether an extension under this subdivision is necessary and in determining the period of any such extension, the Commissioner shall take into account (A) whether the proceeds can be expended on the project or projects in a reasonable period of time, and (B) the effect of applying such proceeds to pay all, or any portion of the principal or interest, when due, of the prior issue.

(v) The temporary periods provided in paragraph (b)(6) of this section (relating to investment proceeds) and paragraph (b)(7) of this section (relating to indirect proceeds) apply to the refunding issue. For the purpose of applying the preceding sentence to investments that are not made with transferred proceeds, a reference to paragraph (e)(3)(i) and (ii) of this section shall be substituted for the reference to paragraph (b)(1) of this section appearing in paragraph (b)(6) of this section.

(vi) Where an issue of obligations to which paragraph (c) of this section applies is a refunding issue, transferred proceeds shall be deemed invested for a temporary period if the obligations of the refunding issue (A) will not be outstanding after the period applicable to the prior issue under paragraph (c)(1)(i) of this section (determined, in the case of the 6 months referred to therein, on the basis of the facts, estimates, and circumstances in existence on the date of issue of the refunding issue), and (B) will not be issued in an amount greater than the amount determined under paragraph (c)(1)(ii) of this section.

(4) Reasonably required reserve or replacement fund and major portion test. (i) Subject to the exception of paragraph (e)(4)(ii) of this section and the limitation of paragraph (e)(4)(iii) of this section, proceeds (including transferred proceeds) of a refunding issue may be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations for purposes of the major portion test and the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund to the extent that such proceeds are not invested in an amount in excess of the lesser of—

(A) The amount provided in § 1.103–13(b)(1)(ii) or paragraph (d)(1) of this section determined with reference to the refunding issue, or

(B) The amount provided in § 1.103–13(b)(1)(ii) or paragraph (d)(1) of this section for the prior issue. See the allocation rule in paragraph (e)(1)(ii) of this section if less than the entire outstanding principal amount of the prior issue is refunded with the proceeds of a refunding issue.

(ii) A reserve or replacement fund for a refunding issue in excess of the amount permitted under paragraph (e)(4)(i) of this section will be considered to be reasonably required only if the State or local governmental unit issuing the refunding issue establishes to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, prior to such issuance, that the specified reserve or replacement fund is necessary.

(iii) Prior to the date on which the last obligation of the prior issue is discharged, the amount of proceeds of the refunding issue (including transferred proceeds) that may be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations under paragraph (e)(4)(i) or (ii) of this section is reduced by the amount of proceeds of the prior issue that are invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section and § 1.103-13(b)(1)(ii).

(5) Examples. The provisions of this paragraph may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). (i) In 1970 Authority A issued a 20 year $20 million issue with a yield of 6 percent. On January 1, 1980, Authority A issues a 10 year $9 million issue with a yield of 5 percent solely to refund the 1970 issue. Four million dollars of the proceeds of the 1980 issue will be used on July 1, 1980, to discharge $4 million of principal of the 1970 issue. The remaining $5 million principal of the 1970 issue will be discharged on July 1, 1981. On January 1, 1980, the 1970 issue has $3.5 million in proceeds. By July 1, 1980, the 1970 issue will have an additional $100,000 in proceeds of interest earned on investments. Three million dollars of these proceeds are held in a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund and are invested in acquired obligations with a yield of 7 percent. The remaining proceeds are invested in acquired obligations which yield 6½ percent. None of these proceeds will be expended prior to July 1, 1981. An amount of proceeds of the refunding issue equal to $1.35 million (the lesser of the amount of the major portion test or the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund provided for the 1980 issue, $1.35 million, or the amount of the major portion test or the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund provided for the 1970 issue, $3 million) may be invested in materially higher yield obligations as a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund or under the major portion test without a prior ruling. However, Authority A has established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner prior to the issuance of the 1980 issue that a $2.3 million reserve or replacement fund is necessary, since property constructed with the proceeds of the 1970 issue will continue to require a replacement fund after July 1, 1981. The $2.3 million of proceeds of the 1980 issue which may be invested in materially higher yield obligations is reduced by the amount of any proceeds of the 1970 issue which are invested at a materially higher yield as part of a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund or under the major portion test.

(ii) The proceeds of the refunding issue may be invested for a 1½-year temporary period beginning on January 1, 1980. The 1½-year temporary period is a period equal to the shortest of (A) a period ending on July 1, 1981, the date on which the last obligation of the prior issue is discharged (1½-years), (B) a 2-year period, (C) a period equal to 25 percent of the term of the 1980 issue (2½-years) or (D) 5 years, a period equal to the greater of 50 percent of the term of the 1970 issue (10 years) but not longer than 8 months, or 25 percent of the term of the 1970 issue (5 years). All of the proceeds of the 1980 issue may be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations during such temporary period.

(iii) On July 1, 1980, $1.6 million of the proceeds of the 1970 issue will become transferred proceeds. This figure represents 4/9 (the ratio of the $4 million principal to be discharged on July 1, 1980, to the total $9 million principal outstanding immediately before such discharge) of $3.6 million (the total proceeds of the 1970 issue on July 1, 1980). Since the last proceeds of the prior issue which become transferred proceeds are the proceeds of the prior issue which are invested in a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund at a materially higher yield, $600,000 of the transferred proceeds will come from the proceeds of the prior issue which are not invested in such a fund. Such $600,000 of transferred proceeds may be invested in acquired obligations which do not yield more than 5 1/8 percent (1/8 of 1 percentage point above the 5 percent yield on the 1980 issue). Of the $1,000,000 in transferred proceeds that are treated as coming from the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund of the prior issue, $300,000 may be invested as part of the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund of the refunding issue ($2.3 million reserve fund minus $2 million invested in the reserve fund of the prior issue). (Because any investment proceeds received after July 1, 1980, and on or before July 1, 1981, resulting from investment of the proceeds of the 1970 issue in the reserve fund for that issue will all be received within 1 year, they need not be treated as reinvested in the reserve fund but instead may be treated as invested for a temporary period under paragraph (b)(6) of this section. If the $5,000,000 principal amount of the 1970 issue were discharged on September 1, 1981, and if such investment proceeds were reinvested in the reserve fund after a one year temporary period, the reserve fund for the refunding issue would have to be further reduced for the period July 1, 1981 to September 1, 1981, by the amount of any increase in the reserve fund of the 1970 issue resulting from the reinvestment of investment proceeds.) The remaining $700,000 of transferred proceeds may be invested in acquired obligations which do not yield more than 5 1/8 percent. The remaining $2 million of untransferred proceeds of the prior issue may continue to be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations as a part of the prior issue's reasonably required reserve or replacement fund.

(iv) On July 1, 1981, all remaining proceeds of the 1970 issue will become transferred proceeds. As of July 1, 1981, the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund for the 1970 issue will be extinguished. The amount of the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund for the 1980 issue is $2.3 million. All proceeds which are a part of the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund are invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations. After July 1, 1981, all proceeds of the refunding issue, other than the $2.3 million invested as a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund, are subject to the rule that such proceeds may not be invested in acquired obligations which yield more than 5½ percent.

Example (2). In 1970 City A issued a 30-year $70 million issue of obligations which are all first callable in 1985. Five million dollars of the 1970 issue are invested in a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund. In 1980 City A, to take advantage of lower interest rates and to modify restrictions in the indenture for the 1970 issue, refunds the 1970 issue with a 20-year $100 million issue the principal amount of which is adequate to pay both principal and interest of the 1970 issue. The $100 million refunding issue is necessary because State law requires full cash defeasance for a refunding issue. City A certifies that the 1980 issue is not an "over-issuance." The amount of proceeds of the 1980 issue that may be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations as a part of the major portion test or the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund without a prior ruling is $10.5 million, the lesser of $15 million (the amount of the major portion test or the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund provided for the 1980 issue) or $10.5 million (the amount of the major portion test or the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund provided for the 1970 issue). However, until the 1970 issue is discharged in 1985, the $10.5 million amount is reduced by $5 million, the amount of the proceeds of the 1970 issue already invested at a materially higher yield under the major portion test. (While the effect of the issuance of the refunding obligations and the escrow of their proceeds may be to defease the reserve or replacement fund of the 1970 issue, the $5 million of proceeds previously invested as a part of a reserve or replacement fund for the 1970 issue will be treated as being invested under the major portion test.)

Example (3). Assume the same facts as in example (2) except that instead of issuing a single $100 million issue City A issues two refunding issues. The first refunding issue, designated series "A", is a $70 million issue and its proceeds will be used to refund the principal of the 1970 issue. The second refunding issue, designated series "B", is a $30 million issue and its proceeds will be used to pay the interest when due on the 1970 issue. Because the combined proceeds of the two issues are used to refund the principal and interest of the prior issue under circumstances such that the refunding is in substance a single transaction, the two refunding issues are treated as a single refunding issue. Accordingly, as in example (1), $10.5 million of the combined proceeds of the series "A" and series "B" issues may be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations as a part of the major portion test or the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund, reduced by the $5 million of proceeds of the 1970 issue invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations.

Example (4). (a) On January 1, 1980, City B issues a note due on January 1, 1983 in the principal amount of $100,000. On May 1, 1982, City B issues a note due May 1, 1992, in the principal amount of $400,000. One hundred thousand dollars of the proceeds of the 1982 note are used to refund the 1980 note on January 1, 1983, and the other $300,000 of proceeds are used for a new governmental project. The temporary period for the $100,000 refunding portion of the 1982 note under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B) is 8 months (the period beginning on May 1, 1982, and ending on January 1, 1983, when the 1980 issue is discharged).

(b) City B wishes to issue a single 10-year note to refund the 1982 note. Because one portion of the 1982 issue was a refunding issue, a portion of the new issue is part of a series of refunding issues. The temporary period under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B) of this section is 24 months for the $300,000 portion and 16 months for the $100,000 portion (24 months minus the 8 months temporary period used for the 1982 refunding issue). Because the temporary periods under such paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B) are different for the two portions, paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C) of this section applies. The temporary period for the new issue is 22 months, determined as follows:

$$\begin{array}{rr} 24 \text{ (months)} \times 300{,}000 = & 7{,}200{,}000 \\ 16 \text{ (months)} \times 100{,}000 = & 1{,}600{,}000 \\ \hline $400{,}000 & 8{,}800{,}000 \end{array}$$

$$\frac{8{,}800{,}000}{400{,}000} = 22 \text{ months}$$

Accordingly, proceeds of the new issue may be invested for a 22-month temporary period if the new issue is issued within 22 months prior to the discharge of all obligations of the 1962 note.

Example (5). (a) In 1978 Authority A issues a $5 million refunding issue to refund five prior issues. The amount of principal and interest of each prior issue to be discharged by the 1978 issue and the temporary period under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B)(2) through (5) of this section for the portion of the 1978 issue that refunds each prior issue is as follows:

Issue A=$1 million (4 months)
Issue B=$500,000 (8 months)
Issue C=$2,000,000 (10 months)
Issue D=$1,000,000 (12 months)
Issue E=$500,000 (24 months)

Different temporary periods apply to each portion of the refunding issue and paragrah (e)(3)(ii)(C) of this section applies to the refunding issue. Issue A is a prior refunding issue and has previously used 18 months of temporary period. Under the series rule in paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B)(5) of this section the portion of the 1978 issue that refunds issue A may not have more than a 6-month temporary period (24 months less the 18 months temporary period previously used for issue A). Issue C is also a prior refunding issue and has previously used 14 months of temporary period. Under the series rule the portion of the 1978 issue that refunds issue C may not have more than a 10 month temporary period.

(b) The temporary period for the 1978 issue under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C)(2) of this section, determined without regard to the last sentence of such paragraph, is 10.4 months, computed as follows:

$$\begin{array}{rr} \text{Issue A: } 4 \text{ (months)} \times 1{,}000{,}000 = & 4{,}000{,}000 \\ \text{Issue B: } 8 \text{ (months)} \times 500{,}000 = & 4{,}000{,}000 \\ \text{Issue C: } 10 \text{ (months)} \times 2{,}000{,}000 = & 20{,}000{,}000 \\ \text{Issue D: } 12 \text{ (months)} \times 1{,}000{,}000 = & 12{,}000{,}000 \\ \text{Issue E: } 24 \text{ (months)} \times 500{,}000 = & 12{,}000{,}000 \\ \hline 5{,}000{,}000 & 52{,}000{,}000 \end{array}$$

$$\frac{52{,}000{,}000}{5{,}000{,}000} = 10.4 \text{ months}$$

However, the last obligation of issues A, B, C, D, and E will be discharged 10 months after the 1978 issue is issued. Accordingly, the temporary period under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C) of this section is limited to 10 months.

(c) In the event that the 1978 issue, or any portion of it, is refunded, then for purposes of determining under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B)(5) of this section the temporary period previously used as part of a series of refunding issues, the temporary period used by each portion of the 1978 issue (without regard to the temporary period used by the previous refunding of issues A and C) is 10 months plus any increase under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C)(3) of this section. Because the cumulative temporary period for the portion of the 1978 issue that refunds issue A exceeds 2 years, the temporary period of the 1978 issue for portions B, C, D, and E is increased by 1 month from 10 months to 11 months, determined as follows:

(a) Principal and interest discharged by issue A=1,000,000,

(b) Principal and interest discharged by issues B, C, D and E=4,000,000,

(c) Excess temporary period attributable to issue A for purposes of the series=4 months (the 10-month temporary period for the 1978 issue plus the 18-month temporary period previously used for issue A under the series rule),

Thus, for purposes of the series rule, portions B, D, and E of the 1978 issue have used a temporary period of 11 months and portion C of the 1978 issue has used a temporary period of 25 months (11 months plus 14 months previously used). Because the cumulative temporary period of portion C exceeds 24 months, it is necessary to increase the temporary period attributable to portions B, D, and E by 1 month from 11 months to 12 months, determined as follows:

$$\frac{2{,}000{,}000 \text{ (issue C)}}{2{,}000{,}000 \text{ (issue B, D, E)}} \times 1 \text{ month} = 1 \text{ month.}$$

Accordingly, for purposes of aggregating the temporary periods in a series of refunding issues in the event of a subsequent refunding of all or a portion of the 1978 issue, the portions of the 1978 issue used to refund issue A and issue C have used a full 24 months of temporary period and the portions used to refund issues B, D, and E have used 12 months of temporary period.

Example (6). (a) In 1980 County B issues a $15 million refunding issue to discharge $12 million of principal and interest of prior issue A and $3 million of principal and interest of prior issue B. Prior issue A is a refunding issue and County B applies the 30-day temporary period under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(A) of this section to the portion of the 1980 issue that refunds issue A since under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B)(5) the sum of the prior temporary periods for issue A is 24 months and no temporary period remains under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B). Prior issue B is not a refunding issue and the temporary period under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B) of this section for the portion of the 1980 issue that refunds issue B is 7 months. The temporary period for the 1980 issue as determined under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C) of this section is 2.2 months, and the 1980 refunding issue is issued 2.2 months before the date on which the last obligation of the two prior issues is discharged. The excess temporary period attributable to the portion of the 1980 issue that refunds issue A is 1.2 months (2.2 months minus 1 month). See paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(C)(3) of this section. Consequently, the portion of the 1980 issue that refunds issue B must be adjusted for purposes of aggregating temporary periods in the series of refunding issues of which issue B is a part. This adjustment is:

$$1.2 \text{ (excess temporary period)} \times \frac{$12 \text{ million (issue A)}}{$3 \text{ million (issue B)}} = 4.8 \text{ months}$$

Accordingly, for purposes of aggregating the temporary periods in a series of refunding issues in the event of a subsequent refunding of the 1980 issue, the portion of the 1980 issue used to refund issue B has used a temporary period of 7 months (2.2 months plus 4.8 months).

(b) In 1985 County B issues a $12 million refunding issue to discharge the portion of the 1980 issue used to refund issue A. Since the 1985 issue is part of a series of refunding issues and has previously used 24 months of temporary period, no temporary period remains under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B) of this section. However, the 1985 issue may have a 30 day temporary period under paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(A) of this section.

(c) In 1986 County B issues a $3 million refunding issue to discharge the portion of the 1980 issue used to refund issue B. Since the 1986 issue is a part of a series of refunding issues, the period provided in paragraph (e)(3)(ii)(B)(5) of this section for such issue is a 17 month period (24 months minus 7 months of temporary period allocated to the portion of the 1980 issue used to refund issue B).

GRANT PROGRAM

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

By virtue of the authority vested in it by 5 U.S.C. 301, sections 501 and 518(c) of the Crime Control Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-83, 87 Stat. 197) and Section 262 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-415, 88 Stat. 1109), the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) hereby promulgates as proposed rules the following proposed additions to, and revisions of, its regulations affecting recipients of LEAA funds. In that the material contained herein is a matter relating to the grant program of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the relevant provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553) requiring notice of proposed rulemaking, opportunity for public participation, and delay in effective date are inapplicable.

However, in order that LEAA may have a full opportunity to consider the opinions of interested persons, comments, suggestions, and data or arguments may be submitted to Administrator, Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, D.C. 20531, Attention: Office of Civil Rights Compliance, on or before January 19, 1976. Material thus submitted will be considered by LEAA prior to promulgation of final rules.

Subpart D—Equal Employment Opportunity in Federally Assisted Programs and Activities

1. Section 42.203 is amended by designating the existing paragraph as (a), and by adding a new paragraph (b) to read:

§ 42.203 Discrimination prohibited.

* * * * *

(b) The following guidelines of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission are incorporated in this section by reference: Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex, 29 CFR 1604; Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Religion, 29 CFR 1605; Guidelines on Discrimination Because of National Origin, 29 CFR 1606; and Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures, 29 CFR 1607.

2. Section 42.206(a) is revised to read as follows:

§ 42.206 Conduct of investigations, procedures for effecting compliance, hearings, decisions, and judicial review; forms, instructions, and effect on other regulations.

(a) Each responsible Department official shall take appropriate measures to effectuate and enforce the provisions of this subpart; and shall issue and promptly make available to interested persons forms, instructions and procedures for effectuating this subpart as applied to programs for which he is responsible. The conduct of investigations and the procedures for effecting compliance, holding hearings, rendering decisions and initiating judicial review of such decisions shall be consistent with those prescribed by §§ 42.107 through 42.111 of subpart C of this part; provided that no recipient of Federal financial assistance or applicant for such assistance shall be denied access to the hearing or appeal procedures set forth in sections 510 and 511 of the Act for denial or discontinuance of a grant or withholding of payments thereunder resulting from the application of this subpart.

3. Section 42.306(b) is revised to read:

§ 42.306 [Guidelines]

* * * * *

(b) Post award compliance review of recipient agencies will be scheduled by LEAA, giving priority to any recipient agencies which have a significant disparity between the percentage of minority persons in the service population and the percentage of minority employees in the agency. Equal employment program modification may be required by LEAA whenever identifiable referral or selection procedures and policies evidence to LEAA the appropriateness of improved selection procedures and policies. Such modification may require that recipients establish goals and timetable for the hiring of qualified minority and female employees where there is evidence that a recipient has engaged in unlawfully discriminatory practices. Such practices need not have been intentional, as for example the use of a nonvalidated test which has an adverse impact on female or minority applicants. Use of goals and timetables in such a situation may be required as a temporary measure to overcome the effects of the past discriminatory practices. Accordingly, any recipient agencies falling within this category are encouraged to develop recruitment, hiring or promotional guidelines under their equal employment opportunity program which will correct, in a timely manner, any identifiable employment impediments which may have contributed to the existing disparities.

4. Subpart F is added as follows:

(A) The criterion has been validated in accordance with the EEOC Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures, 29 CFR 1607; and

(B) The department or agency acting upon the results of the criterion can demonstrate that alternative suitable criteria which do not adversely affect minority persons, or women, are unavailable for its use.

(2) A recipient in determining the type of disposition, services, financial aid, benefits or facilities which will be provided under any such program, or the class of individuals to whom, or the situations in which, such will be provided under any such program, or the class of individuals to be afforded an opportunity to participate in any such program, may not directly or through contractual or other arrangements, utilize criteria or methods of administration which have the effect of subjecting individuals to discrimination under section 518(c) of the Crime Control Act or section 262 of the Juvenile Justice Act, or have the effect of defeating or substantially impairing accomplishment of the objectives of the program as respects individuals of a particular race, creed, color, sex, or national origin.

(3) In determining the site or location of facilities, a recipient or applicant may not make selections with the purpose or effect of excluding individuals from, denying them the benefits of, or subjecting them to discrimination prohibited by this subpart under any program to which this subpart applies; or with the purpose or effect of defeating or substantially impairing the accomplishment of the objectives of the Act or this subpart.

(c) The enumeration of specific forms of prohibited discrimination in paragraph (b) of this section does not limit the generality of the prohibition in paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 42.404 Complaint investigation.

(a) The LEAA shall investigate every complaint received within 180 days of the alleged discrimination that alleges a violation of:

(1) Section 518(c) of the Crime Control Act of 1973; or

(2) Section 262 of the Juvenile Justice Act of 1974; or

(3) Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964; or

(4) The LEAA Non-Discrimination Regulations, Subparts C-G, 28 CFR 42.101, et seq.

(b) The LEAA may defer its investigation of complaints where:

(1) An SPA has been authorized by the LEAA to conduct the initial investigation of such complaints; or

(2) The complainant has filed a complaint with EEOC or a state or local civil rights agency certified by EEOC under 29 CFR 1601.13(m); or

(3) Authority to investigate allegations of prohibited discrimination has been delegated by LEAA to other federal or state agencies.

(c) If, upon a review of the findings of fact of an agency referred to under (b)(2) or (3) of this section, the LEAA finds that further investigation is warranted, it shall commence its own investigation into the unresolved issues.

§ 42.405 Compliance reviews by the LEAA.

(a) The LEAA shall, from time to time, conduct pre-award and post-award civil rights compliance reviews of recipents. In determining which recipient shall be scheduled for a compliance review, the LEAA shall:

(1) Consider the following factors:

(i) The amount of funds due under current awards to the recipient;

(ii) The amount of funds requested by the recipient in pending applications; for awards;

(iii) The disparity between the percentage of a minority group, or women, in the employment of the recipient and the percentage of the minority group, or women, in the service population of the recipient;

(iv) The number and substance of complaints received by the LEAA, EEOC, the Civil Rights Division of the Department of Justice, or the civil rights compliance offices of other Federal agencies, alleging unlawful discrimination by the recipient; and

(2) Consult with the SPA where the recipient is located in a state where the SPA has been authorized by OCRC to initiate and conduct compliance reviews.

§ 42.406 Civil rights compliance activities by SPA.

(a) An SPA seeking to participate in the enforcement of the civil rights obligations of LEAA recipients shall submit a plan to include the following:

(1) A statement that the SPA, or a state or local civil rights agency assigned civil rights compliance duties by the SPA, has the capacity and willingness to establish a comprehensive program to enforce LEAA civil rights compliance obligations at the state level;

(2) A statement that the SPA desires to conduct the initial investigation and voluntary resolution of complaints against recipients within its state, or pre-award and post-award civil rights compliance reviews of recipients, or both;

(3) A statement describing the civil rights compliance structure within the SPA, providing the number, grade, person-hours available, race, sex, and ethnicity of staff assigned to civil rights compliance matters;

(4) A statement concerning the legal processes available to the SPA to enforce civil rights compliance obligations, and copies and a comprehensive analysis of all state statutes, regulations, rules, or executive orders applicable to civil rights aspects of the LEAA program;

V 40 233 DEC 3 75 XUM

(5) A description of other organizations within the state, i.e., state or local civil rights agencies, that have the power to investigate, conciliate, or otherwise enforce civil rights obligations, to whom the SPA may delegate its authority to address the civil rights compliance obligations of LEAA recipients within the state;

(6) A statement indicating where the SPA, or a state or local civil rights agency to which the SPA proposes to assign civil rights responsibilities, is likely to be deficient in resources or time for the activities it proposes to undertake, and where the LEAA could best provide training, temporary personnel, or other assistance;

(7) An assurance that the SPA shall audit the Equal Employment Opportunity Programs of all LEAA recipients within its state to insure that they conform to the requirements of Subpart E, 28 CFR 42.301, et seq., and that no funds will be awarded to any recipient whose EEOP is not in compliance with Subpart E;

(8) An assurance that the LEAA will be advised at least every 90 days, and at such other times as it may require, of the status of all investigations or compliance reviews being conducted by the SPA;

(9) An assurance that the SPA shall comply with such guidelines as the Administration may issue with respect to the conduct of complaint investigations and compliance reviews;

(10) An assurance that the SPA will promptly notify LEAA of its findings of fact and attempts to secure compliance whenever negotiations leading to voluntary compliance have been concluded in a manner satisfactory to both the recipient and the SPA, or whenever the SPA has determined that voluntary compliance cannot be achieved; and

(11) An assurance that the SPA shall thoroughly investigate all complaints referred to it by the LEAA, or conduct comprehensive compliance reviews of recipients, or both.

(b) The SPA may delegate its compliance duties to another state or local agency when:

(1) The SPA has informed the LEAA, in its plan, of its intention to do so;

(2) The state or local agency has provided the LEAA with a plan containing the information and assurances required by § 42.405(a) (1–11); and

(3) The LEAA has expressly informed the SPA and state or local agency, in writing, that it is authorized to conduct the initial investigation of complaints or to undertake compliance reviews.

(c) The SPA, or state or local agency acting for it, may undertake only those civil rights compliance activities it is expressly authorized to undertake by the LEAA.

(d) (1) An SPA, or state or local agency acting for it, the plan of which has been approved by LEAA, shall be responsible for both the initial investigation of a compliance matter, and attempts to secure voluntary compliance. If matters are not resolved within 120 days from the date a complaint is received, or a compliance review is initiated, the LEAA may assume primary responsibility for seeking resolution.

(2) The LEAA retains the authority to conduct the initial investigation and voluntary resolution of complaints, and to undertake compliance reviews, in a state where an SPA plan for civil rights enforcement has been approved, whenever the Administration determines that the LEAA can more expeditiously determine the facts in a particular matter once the facts are determined and conclusions of law are reached.

(e) The SPA or that state or local agency acting for it shall notify LEAA of its intention to undertake a compliance review at least 30 days in advance of undertaking a review of a recipient agency, and shall consider at least the following factors, before determining which recipient shall be scheduled for a compliance review:

(1) The amount of funds received under current block and DF awards to the recipient;

(2) The amount of funds requested by the recipient in pending applications for block and DF awards;

(3) The disparity between the percentage of a minority group, or women, in the employment of the recipient and the percentage of the minority group, or women, in the service population of the recipient;

(4) The number and substance of complaints received by the SPA, the LEAA, and human rights agencies within the state, alleging unlawful discrimination by the recipients in LEAA-funded activities and programs; and

(5) Such comments or suggestions as LEAA may have with respect to the need for undertaking a review of the recipient in question.

§ 42.407 LEAA oversight over SPA compliance efforts.

(a) Whenever negotiations leading to voluntary compliance have been concluded in a manner satisfactory to both the recipient and the SPA, or whenever the SPA has determined that voluntary compliance cannot be achieved, LEAA shall promptly review the findings of fact and undertake, in consultation with the SPA, such other measures as it determines to be necessary in order to assure consonance of proceedings at the state level with Federal law. No voluntary resolution of matters between the recipient and the SPA shall be binding upon the Administration unless expressly approved, in writing, by LEAA.

(b) In no event shall the SPA undertake enforcement proceedings at the state level until LEAA has been notified and given the opportunity to participate in further negotiations or the coordination of enforcement proceedings at the Federal and state level.

(c) LEAA may, at any time, withdraw its authorization of an SPA, or designated state or local civil rights agency, whenever it believes the SPA, or agency, has not adequately met the obligations it assumed under § 42.405.

§ 42.408 Determination of non-compliance by Administrator.

(a) No action to defer, suspend, or terminate an award to a receipent for the failure of the recipient to comply with sec. 518(c)(1) of the Crime Control Act, sec. 262(b) of the Juvenile Justice Act shall be taken until LEAA has:

(1) Made a determination that a State government or a unit of general local government is in non-compliance;

(2) Requested, in writing, the chief executive of the state to secure voluntary compliance; and

(3) Waited a reasonable time for the chief executive to secure compliance.

(b) LEAA shall be deemed to have made a determination only when, after an attempt by the Administration to secure voluntary compliance within a reasonable time has failed, it notifies the recipient, in writing of:

(1) In summary form, the factual basis for the conclusion that the recipient is in non-compliance;

(2) The requirements of law with which the recipient has failed to comply; and

(3) Its intention to request the chief executive of the state to secure compliance.

§ 42.409 Request to Chief Executive of a State.

(a) Where the Administration determines that a state government or a unit of general local government is in non-compliance, it shall request the chief executive of the state to secure compliance. Its request shall advise the chief executive:

(1) Of the general legal and factual basis for its determination:

(2) That compliance with the law and these regulations cannot be achieved by voluntary means;

(3) Of the action to be taken, and the provisions of law under which the proposed action is to be taken should the chief executive fail to secure compliance.

(b) LEAA may not exercise any of the enforcement powers provided in § 518(c)(2) of the Crime Control Act or § 42.409 of these regulations until it has permitted the chief executive of the state a reasonable time to secure the compliance of the recipient.

(c) In determining what constitutes a "reasonable time" under the preceding paragraph, the Administration shall consider:

(1) The urgency of protecting or securing the rights of individuals adversely affected by the non-compliance of the recipient;

(2) The length of time for which the Administration has attempted to secure the voluntary compliance of the recipient;

(3) The scheduled date or dates of payment of funds due under existing awards to the recipient;

(4) The amount of funds due under proposed awards to the recipient;

(5) The length of time in which the chief executive was able to secure compliance pursuant to previous requests to do so by the Administration in similar cases; and

(6) The previous inability of the chief executive to secure compliance pursuant to previous requests to do so by the Administration in similar cases.

(d) Ordinarily, a reasonable time shall not exceed 60 days from the date of the Administration's request.

§ 42.410 Administrative hearing.

(a) Where the Administration has made a determination of non-compliance and the chief executive of the state has been unable to secure voluntary compliance within a reasonable time, the Administration shall give notice to the recipient by registered mail, return receipt requested, of:

(1) The legal and factual basis for its determination of non-compliance;

(2) The failure of the Administration and the chief executive of the state to secure the compliance of the recipient by voluntary means;

(3) The opportunity to request, within 20 days from the date of notice, a hearing on the matters at issue; and

(4) Its intention to order, unless a hearing is requested within the prescribed time, the termination of all or part of those awards which the recipient is currently receiving.

(b) (1) At any time after the Administration has given the notice required by paragraph (a) of this section, the Administration may:

(i) Institute an appropriate civil action;

(ii) Exercise the powers and functions pursuant to Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964; or

(iii) Take such other actions as may be provided by law.

(2) Where the Administration initiates judicial or administrative proceedings in accordance with section 518(c)(2) of the Crime Control Act and paragraph (b)(1) of this section, it may defer convening a hearing pursuant to section 509 of the Crime Control Act until such time as final orders issue from a court or administrative law judge adjudicating the same issues that would be involved in such a hearing. If, in the opinion of the Administration, one or more of those issues has been resolved by such court or judge, LEAA may limit presentation of evidence in a hearing convened pursuant to section 509 of the Crime Control Act to those issues as yet unresolved.

(c) If the recipient requests a hearing within 20 days of the date of the notice, a hearing shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of 28 CFR section 42.109, et seq., unless, within the 20 day period, the Administration:

(1) Secures the voluntary compliance of the recipient; or

(2) Exercises its discretion under section 42.209(b)(2), supra.

(d) If, after notice and opportunity for hearing, the Administration determines that the recipient is in substantial non-compliance, it:

(1) Shall order that no further payments, or no further payments which in any way abet, sanction, or perpetuate the non-compliance, shall be made to the recipient, until it is satisfied that the recipient is in compliance with the applicable provisions of the law; and

(2) May also invoke one or more of the lesser sanctions provided in the LEAA Administrative Review Procedure, 28 CFR 18.32.

(e) No order of the Administration terminating, deferring, or suspending payments to a recipient for non-compliance with section 262(b) of the Juvenile Justice Act shall be effective until the expiration of 30 days after the Administration has filed with the committee of the House and the committee of the Senate having legislative jurisdiction circumstances and the grounds for such action.

(f) If the Administration determines, after notice and opportunity for a hearing, that the recipient is in less than substantial non-compliance, it may, in its discretion:

(1) defer or reduce further payments due under existing awards; or

(2) deny all applications for future awards until such time as it is satisfied that the recipient is in compliance with the applicable provisions of the law.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

Social Security Administration

[20 CFR Part 405]

[Regulations No. 5, further amended]

FEDERAL HEALTH INSURANCE FOR THE AGED AND DISABLED

Modification in Standards for Home Health Agency Supervision in Connecticut

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553), that the amendment to Subpart L of Regulations No. 5 set forth in tentative form below is proposed by the Commissioner of Social Security, with the approval of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

In order to participate in the health insurance for the aged and disabled program, a home health agency must meet the statutory requirements of section 1861(o) of the Social Security Act and, as further specified by section 1861(o)(6), certain conditions provided by regulation in the interest of health and safety. Under section 1863 of the Act the Secretary, in establishing conditions of participation for home health agency participation in the Medicare program, may, at the request of a State, require that home health agencies in such State have health and safety requirements which are higher than those required in other States.

The high standard for home health agency supervision reflected in the present addenda to § 405.1221(d) relating to Connecticut (in the Appendix to Subpart L) was adopted at the request of the State of Connecticut. This requires, in order for a home health agency to meet the agency supervision condition of participation, that it designate a physician or registered professional nurse qualified as a public health nurse director or nursing supervisor to supervise the agency's performance in providing home health services. The minimum qualifications of the nursing supervisor are a baccalaureate degree from a university program in nursing approved by the National League for Nursing for public health nursing preparation and a minimum of 2 years of experience in a public health nursing program under qualified nursing supervision which included supervisory responsibilities. (The minimum requirement adopted by the Secretary in the absence of higher State standards is that the agency be under the direction of a physician or registered nurse (who preferably has at least 1 year of nursing experience and is a public health nurse)).

The State of Connecticut has now requested that the agency supervision condition of participation be amended to provide that the minimum qualifications for a nursing supervisor in a town having a population of more than 30,000 shall be a baccalaureate degree from a university program in nursing approved by the National League for Nursing for public health nursing preparation, and a minimum of 2 years of experience in a public health nursing program under qualified nursing supervision which included supervisory responsibilities. The proposed amendment would also provide that a nursing supervisor in a town having a population of 30,000 or less shall be at least a registered nurse, licensed to practice in Connecticut, with 5 years of experience as a nurse in charge of a visiting nurse agency or other home health agency; or a registered nurse, licensed to practice in Connecticut, with a baccalaureate degree in nursing and 2 years of experience in a visiting nurse agency or other home health agency.

Since the standard requested by the State would still be higher than the minimum Medicare requirement, the proposed amendment to the addenda (in the Appendix) incorporates that standard into the regulations.

Consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in triplicate to the Commissioner of Social Security, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Social Security Administration, P.O. Box 1585, Baltimore, Maryland 21203, on or before January 2, 1976.

Copies of all comments received in response to this notice will be available for public inspection during regular business hours at the Washington Inquiries Section, Office of Information, Social Security Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, North Building, Room 4146, 330 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20201.

The proposed amendment is issued under the authority contained in sections 1102, 1861(o), 1863, and 1871 of the Social Security Act, 49 Stat. 647, as amended, 79 Stat. 320, as amended, 79 Stat. 325, and 79 Stat. 331 (42 U.S.C. 1302, 1395x(o), 1395z, and 1395hh).

Dated: October 24, 1975.

J. B. CARDWELL,
Commissioner of Social Security.

Approved: November 26, 1975.

DAVID MATHEWS,
Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Regulations No. 5 of the Social Security Administration, as amended (20 CFR Part 405), is further amended by revising that part of the addenda to § 405.1221(d) in the appendix to Subpart L which relates to Connecticut to read as follows:

CONNECTICUT

Agency supervision—condition. The home health agency designates a physician or registered professional nurse qualified as a public health nurse director or nursing supervisor to supervise the agency's performance in providing home health services in accordance with the orders of the physician responsible for the care of the patient and under a plan of treatment established by the physician. The following qualifications apply to the supervisor and director:

(1) Supervisor. (i) Towns having a population of more than 30,000. The minimum qualifications for a nursing supervisor are a baccalaureate degree from a university program in nursing approved by the National League for Nursing for public health nursing preparation, and a minimum of 2 years of experience in a public health nursing program under qualified nursing supervision which included supervisory responsibilities.

(2) Towns having a population of 30,000 or less. Any nursing supervisor shall be at least:

(i) A registered nurse, licensed to practice in Connecticut, with 5 years of experience as a nurse in charge of a visiting nurse agency or other home health agency; or

(ii) A registered nurse, licensed to practice in Connecticut, with a baccalaureate degree in nursing and 2 years of experience in a visiting nurse agency or other home health agency.

(b) Director. When a unit through which home health services are provided reaches a total nursing staff of 9 to 12, depending upon the number of towns involved and area served, a qualified public health nursing director shall be employed in addition to the nursing supervisor. The qualifications for the director are:

(1) Preferred. A master's degree with a major in public health nursing administration or supervision from a university program approved by the National League for Nursing, or a master's degree in public health from a university program approved by the American Public Health Association, and at least 5 years of experience in public health nursing, including 2 years under qualified supervision and 3 years as a supervisor.

(2) Acceptable. A baccalaureate degree from a university program in nursing approved by the National League for Nursing for public health nursing preparation, supplemented by approved courses in public health nursing supervision and administration, and at least 5 years of experience in public health nursing, including 2 years under qualified supervision and 3 years as a supervisor.

2. Authority. The "Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act," Public Law 93-400, 41 U.S.C. 401 et seq., the Budget and Accounting Act, 1921, the Budget and Accounting Procedures Act of 1950, Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1970, and Executive Order 11541, July 1, 1970.

3. Background. The acquisition of major systems by the Federal Government constitutes one of the most important, vital, and expensive activities performed in the Nation. Its impact is critical on technology, on the Nation's economy, and on the accomplishment of Government agency missions in such areas as defense, space, energy, and transportation. For a number of years, many people expressed deep concern regarding the effectiveness of the management of major system acquisitions. The report of the Commission on Government Procurement recommended fundamental changes in the process of acquiring major systems. This Circular is based on findings and conclusions growing out of executive branch consideration of the Commission's recommendations.

4. Responsibility. Each agency head shall insure that the provisions of this Circular are followed.

5. Application. This Circular applies to the management of the acquisition of major systems including: analysis of the agency mission, determination of mission needs and the setting of mission goals, determination of system requirements, system program planning, budgeting, funding, research, engineering, development, testing and evaluation, contracting, production, program control, and introduction of the system into use. The Circular is applicable to all major acquisition programs even though some agencies may not have full or direct responsibility for each of these functions. For instance, an agency may not procure systems for its own use but instead may develop optional demonstration hardware for private sector choice, or may procure one-of-a-kind systems. Such variations do not justify the exclusion of programs from the management concepts of this Circular.

6. Definitions. As used in this Circular:

a. "Executive agency" means an executive department or an independent establishment within the meaning of sections 101 and 104(1), respectively, of Title 5, United States Code.

b. "Agency head" means the head or deputy head of an executive agency.

c. "Agency component" means a major organizational subdivision of an executive agency; i.e., the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Defense Supply Agency are agency components of DOD; the Federal Aviation Administration, Urban Mass Transportation Administration, and the Federal Highway Administration are agency components of DOT.

d. "Mission need" means within an agency's overall purpose a desired capability, including cost and schedule considerations, expressed in mission functional terms, not equipment terms. A mission need may be the result of a deficiency in existing agency capabilities or the decision to establish new capabilities in response to technologically feasible opportunity. Mission needs are independent of any particular system or technological solution.

e. "Major system" means that combination of elements which will function together to produce the desired capabilities to achieve an agency mission need or goal. The elements may include, for example, hardware, equipment, software, construction, or other improvements of real property. Major system acquisition programs are considered all those which (1) are directed at and critical to achieving agency mission responsibilities, (2) entail the allocation of relatively large resources, and (3) warrant special management attention. Additional criteria and dollar thresholds for the determination of agency programs to be considered major systems under the purview of this Circular shall otherwise be at the discretion of the agency head.

f. "Acquisition process" means the sequence of activities starting with reconciliation of mission needs and goals with capabilities, priorities and resources and extending through the introduction of a system into operational use or the otherwise successful achievement of program objectives.

7. General policy. The guidelines of this Circular are designed to work as an integrated whole toward the improvement of the effectiveness and efficiency of the major system acquisitions process. They are based on the general policy that Federal agencies when acquiring major systems shall:

a. Establish needs and goals based on broad agency mission definition.

b. Perform planning, programming, and budgeting built on analysis of such missions and goals which implies: better resource allocation resulting both from improved agency articulation of missions and goals, and from improved communication with Congress in accord with the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, Public Law 93-344 (31 U.S.C. 1301).

c. Create and explore alternative system concepts within the broad agency "mission" context—with emphasis upon generating increased innovation, participation, and conceptual competition from industry as opposed to undue reliance upon agency internally developed concepts and/or preliminary designs to meet a particular mission need or goal.

d. Rely on private industry in accordance with the policy established by OMB Circular No. A-76.

e. Encourage agency early R&D funding for exploration of alternatives as relatively inexpensive insurance against the possibility that a premature or preordained choice may later prove to be either a less effective or a more costly means of fulfilling a mission need.

f. Focus competition on alternative system concepts as opposed to confining competition to price or performance differentiation within a single system design concept.

g. Choose a final system from among alternative systems that result from a competitive development and demonstration environment.

h. Manage systematically the entire mission need determination, development, and production process.

i. Utilize appropriate managerial level for decisionmaking and an effective management hierarchy of authority, responsibility and accountability.

j. Provide strong checks and balances for systems destined for use by ensuring adequate unbiased system test and evaluation. Such tests and evaluation should be independent, where practicable, of developer and user.

8. Management objectives.

a. A major system acquired by the Government must fulfill a mission need, be affordable, operate effectively in its intended environment, and demonstrate a performance level and reliability that justify the allocation of resources to its acquisition and ownership. In providing a system with acceptable mission performance levels, efforts shall be made to minimize life cycle costs by including the appropriate use of technology, competition, and incentives.

b. An "acquisition strategy" must be tailored for each individual system program as soon as a determination is made to solicit design concepts which could lead to the acquisition of a new major system. Such strategy should include test and evaluation criteria and business management considerations such as: the timing of essential elements of the acquisition process, the content of proposal solicitations, whom to solicit, methods for obtaining and sustaining competition, data rights, use of warranties, need for developing contractor incentives, and selection of contract types. The contracting process should be recognized as an important tool in system acquisitions.

9. Management structure.

a. Each agency that acquires major systems, or is responsible for the activities leading to the acquisition of major systems, shall have an acquisition executive, designated by the head of the agency, who shall be held responsible for integrating and unifying the agency's system acquisition management process and for monitoring policy implementation and practice under this Circular. There shall be clear channels of delegation of responsibility and authority within the agency's acquisition management process. Technical and program decisions normally should be made at the operating activity or component level with clear channels of accountability within the agency. However, the following four key decision points should be retained by the agency head over the course of the system acquisition program:

(1) Identifying and defining mission need, and the goals that an acquisition program is to achieve, including the relative priority within the agency and the general magnitude of resources required.

(2) Selecting those competitive candidate systems to be advanced to a test and/or demonstration phase, or entering noncompetitive (single concept) system development.

(3) Committing a system to full-scale development and limited production.

(4) Committing a system to full production release.

b. Major system acquisition programs shall be managed by a program manager, who should be designated when a decision is made to fulfill a mission need by pursuing design concept alternatives and who, with satisfactory performance, should be retained for a sufficient period to provide reasonable continuity and personal accountability. Program managers should have an understanding of user needs and constraints, familiarity with development principles, and program management skills and experience in the following functional areas where applicable: research and development, operations, engineering, construction, testing, contracting, prototyping and fabrication of complex systems, production, business, budget, and finance. A program manager shall have a written charter which provides responsibility and authority to accomplish approved program goals. Budget guidance should be provided to a program manager at the inception of a system acquisition.

c. Each agency shall rely, to the greatest extent possible, on competitively derived concepts and designs. The agency should limit management layering, staff reviews, reporting procedures and paperwork requirements placed on program managers and contractors to those requirements that are essential to mission accomplishment.

d. Each agency shall develop the capability to predict, review, assess, negotiate and monitor costs for system development, engineering, design, test, production, operation and support (i.e., life cycle costs). Acquisition costs, schedules and performance shall be assessed against predictions, and examined by the agency head at key decision points, and new cost/schedule/benefit analyses shall be performed where significant cost, schedule or performance variances occur. Life cycle cost techniques shall be employed during concept evaluation and selection, full-scale development, facility conversion, and production, to insure identification and achievement of the lowest lifetime costs in consonance with the capability being required. Independent cost estimates should be used, where feasible, for comparison purposes.

e. Joint interagency working groups should be established where appropriate as a means to enhance interagency technology transfer, prevent unwarranted duplication of technological efforts, reduce system costs, promote standardization and help create a competitive acquisition environment.

10. Mission needs and goals.

a. Initiation of all major system acquisition programs should be based on an analysis of an agency's mission and a determination of needs and goals reconciled with overall capabilities, priorities and resources. If analysis of an agency's mission shows that a need for a new major system exists, such a need should be defined in terms of the mission, purpose, agency components involved, capability, schedule and cost goals, and operating constraints. Benefits to be derived should be optimized by competitive exploration of alternative system concepts, and trade-offs of capability goals, time, and cost. Care should be exercised during the initial steps of the acquisition process not to distort needs and goals by forcing their conformance to any known systems or products that might foreclose consideration of alternatives.

b. Agencies having more than one component shall assign roles and responsibilities at the outset. If so desired, agencies may have components sponsoring competing system concepts in order to consider innovative approaches and select the most tchnically suitable and most cost effective approach to fulfilling a mission need.

c. Those agencies requiring a technological base should conduct, support, or sponsor research, system concept studies, proof of concept work, exploratory subsystem development, and tests and evaluations in both the private sector and Government in-house technical centers relevant to the agency's assigned responsibilities. More advanced technology efforts oriented to system developments shall be performed in response to approved mission needs.

11. Alternative systems.

a. System concept design alternatives shall be solicited from a broad base or qualified firms, specifically including the smaller and newer businesss in order to achieve the most preferred system solution through encouraging innovation and competition. Conceptual designs are to be primarily solicited from private industry. Federal laboratories, federally funded research and development centers, educational institutions, and other not-for-profit organizations may also be considered as sources for competitive system concepts.

b. Ideas, concepts, or technology, developed by Government laboratories or at Government expense for which Government rights have been established, may be made available to private industry through the procurement process. Industry proposals to the agency may be made on the basis of these ideas, concepts, or technology or on the basis of alternatives which industry considers superior.

c. Requests for system concept design proposals shall contain explanation of the emission need, time, cost, and capability goals, and operating constraints. Each offerer shall be free to propose his own technical approach, main design features, subsystems, and alternatives to time, cost, and capability goals. In the conceptual and less than full-scale development stages, the contractors should not be restricted by detailed Government specifications and standards. Selections from among competing proposals shall be based on a review by a team of experts, preferably from inside and outside the responsible development organization. Such a review shall consider proposed system functional and performance capabilities to meet mission needs, and program goals, including resources required, and benefits to be derived by trade-offs of technical performance, acquisition costs, ownership costs, time to develop and procure, and the accomplishment record of competitors.

d. During the uncertain period of identifying and exploring alternative system concepts, contracts covering relatively short time periods at planned dollar levels shall be used. Timely technical reviews of alternative system concepts will be made to effect the orderly elimination of those least attractive.

e. System acquisitions programs shall be structured and resources planned to insure demonstration and evaluation of competing alternative system concepts in fulfilling mission needs. This would include competition between similar or differing concepts and whenever economically beneficial throughout the entire acquisition process. Contractors shall be provided with operational test conditions, mission performance criteria, and lifetime ownership cost factors that will be used by the agency in the evaluation and selection of the system(s) for full-scale development and production.

f. Appropriate interaction between agency representatives with relevant operational experience and participating contractors should be encouraged as necessary in developing performance and other requirements for each system alternative as tests and trade-offs are made. Such interaction should be conducted through the program manager.

g. Development of subsystems which are intended to be included in a major system acquisition program should be restricted to less than fully designed hardware (full-scale development) until the subsystem is identified as a part of a system candidate for full-scale development. Exceptions may be authorized by the agency head if the subsystems are long lead time items fulfilling a recognized generic need or if they have a high potential for common use among several existing or future systems.

h. Approval for development of a system design concept which has not been competitively selected should be considered only if justified by factors typified by either extreme urgency of need with only one viable approach, or physical and financial impracticality of demonstrating alternatives. Design concepts which have been neither competitively selected nor demonstrated should be implemented using strong program management and technical capabilities.

12. Full-scale development and production.

a. Full-scale development, including limited production, shall not be approved until agency mission needs and goals are reaffirmed and competitive demonstration results verify that the chosen technical approach is sound.

b. Full production shall not be approved until agency mission needs and goals are reaffirmed. In addition, full production shall not be approved until system performance has been satisfactorily tested, independent of the agency development and user organizations, and evaluated in an environment that assures demonstration in expected operational conditions. Exceptions to the independent testing portions of this policy may be authorized under such circumstances as physical or financial impracticability or extreme urgency.

c. Selection of a system and system contractors for full-scale development and production should be made on the basis of system performance measured against current mission needs and goals and include such factors as (1) an evaluation of estimated acquisition and ownership costs and (2) the contractor's demonstrated management, financial, and technical capabilities as related to program requirements.

d. System tests and contractor performance relative to meeting system performance, cost, and schedule commitments shall be monitored by the program manager. Significant actual or forecast variances shall be brought to the attention of the appropriate management authority for corrective action. The acquisition executive shall be informed of such variances and corrective actions.

13. Budgeting and financing. Agencies shall develop and allocate research and development budgets in accordance with mission functional needs and goals. In so doing, the agencies shauld identify funding between (1) the general technology base in support of the agency's overall missions and (2) the specific development efforts in support of system candidates to accomplish mission functions. Each agency should insure that research and development is not undesirably duplicated across its mission functions.

14. Information to Congress.

a. Agencies shall develop procedures, in conjunction with the Office of Management and Budget and the various committees of Congress having oversight responsibility for agency functional responsibilities, to inform Congress in the normal budget process about agency missions, capabilities, deficiencies and needs and goals related to new acquisition programs in consonance with Section 601(1) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, Public Law No. 93-344.

b. Disclosure of the basis for proceeding with a single design concept without competitive selection and demonstration shall be made to the appropriate congressional committees as a part of the normal budget process.

15. Implementation.

a. Agency guidelines, policy directives, or regulations implementating this Circular shall be furnished the Administrator for Federal Procurement Policy (OMB) for review as soon as available. Within six months after the date of release of the Circular, each agency shall submit to the Administrator for Federal Procurement Policy (OMB) a time-phased action plan for meeting the requirements of this Circular. During this period, the agencies shall work with the Administrator to resolve implementation problems.

b. Agency approval of any exceptions permitted under the preceding paragraphs of this policy shall be forwarded to the Administrator for Federal Procurement Policy (OMB).

U.S. V. ATOMIC FIRE EQUIPMENT CO., ET AL.

Proposed Consent Judgment and Competitive Impact Statement

Notice is hereby given pursuant to the Antitrust Procedures and Penalties Act, 15 U.S.C. 16 (b) through (h), that a proposed consent judgment agreed to by the United States and all the defendants, and a competitive impact statement have been filed with the United States District Court for the Northern District of Ohio (Civil No. C72-1185). The complaint alleges that five corporations, Atomic Fire Equipment Co.; Fire Equipment Associates, Inc.; Fire Safety Company, Inc.; L & L Fire Fighting Equipment Co.; S. R. Smith Company, Inc.; and two individuals, Joseph V. Rattay dba Cleveland Fire Equipment Company, and Maxine Siebert dba Fire Equipment Service and Sales, violated Section 1 of the Sherman Act by conspiring to fix prices on sales and services of fire extinguishers, and to allocate service customers in the Cleveland, Ohio area.

The judgment perpetually enjoins the defendants from participating in any agreement or arrangement to fix prices, to set discounts, or to allocate customers. Defendants are enjoined from maintaining any existing agreement or arrangement, or entering into any new agreement or arrangement, to fix prices, discounts, or other conditions for the sale or service of fire extinguishers; from communicating or exchanging price information or terms and conditions of sale or service of fire extinguishers with any person or group of persons involved in the sale or service of fire extinguishers; and allocating customers for the sale or service of fire extinguishers. The proposed judgment requires that each defendant not discuss with any other fire extinguisher distributor the price charged or other terms and conditions of sale and service to third parties or the identity of such defendant's customers; and that each defendant establish new prices and other terms and conditions of sale and service of fire extinguishers, or to file an affidavit stating that it has already complied with this requirement. The injunctive provisions are nationwide in geographic coverage and perpetual in time.

Public comment is invited on or before February 2, 1976. Such comments and responses thereto will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER and filed with the Court. Comments should be directed to John A. Weedon, Chief, Cleveland Office; Department of Justice, Antitrust Division, 995 Celebreezze Federal Building, Cleveland, Ohio 44199.

Within sixty (60) days of the entry of this Final Judgment, each defendant is ordered and directed, individually and independently:

(A) To review, determine and establish its prices and other terms and conditions of sale and service of fire extinguishers, on the basis of its independent judgment; provided, however, that compliance with the provisions of this Section VII (A) and (B) shall not be required if within such sixty (60) day period an affidavit signed by the officer or officers responsible for the determination of such prices, terms and conditions is filed with this Court (with a copy to the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Antitrust Division) stating that such defendant, prior to the effective date of this Final Judgment and subsequent to November 2, 1972, reviewed, determined and announced the prices, discounts, or terms and conditions of sale and service of fire extinguishers in accordance with the requirements of this Section.

(B) To withdraw its then current price lists, if any, and adopt and publish price lists, if any are used, arrived at pursuant to subparagraph (A) above.

matters. Any defendant, upon such written request of the Attorney General or the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Antitrust Division, made to its principal office, shall submit such reports in writing with respect to any of the matters contained in this Final Judgment as may from time to time be requested. No information obtained by the means provided in this Section IX shall be divulged by any representatives of the Department of Justice to any person other than a duly authorized representative of the Executive Branch of the United States, except in the course of legal proceeding to which the United States is a party for the purpose of securing compliance with this Final Judgment, or as otherwise required by law.

PROPOSED CONSENT JUDGMENT; COMPETITIVE IMPACT STATEMENT

Pursuant to Section 2(b) of the Antitrust Procedures and Penalties Act (15 U.S.C. 16(b)–(h)), the United States of America hereby files this Competitive Impact Statement relating to the Proposed Consent Judgment submitted for entry in this civil antitrust proceeding.

I. NATURE AND PURPOSE OF THE PROCEEDING

On November 2, 1972, the Department of Justice filed a civil antitrust complaint alleging that five corporations and two individuals conspired to fix prices and allocate customers in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. § 1).

II. PRACTICES AND EVENTS GIVING RISE TO THE ALLEGED VIOLATIONS OF THE ANTITRUST LAWS

The complaint alleged that beginning sometime prior to 1962 the defendants had conspired to raise, fix and maintain the prices to be charged for the sale and service of fire extinguishers and to allocate certain service customers in the Cleveland, Ohio area. The complaint sought a judgment by the Court declaring that the defendants had engaged in a combination and conspiracy in unreasonable restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman Act, and an order by the Court to enjoin and restrain the defendants from such activities in the future.

The corporations named in the complaint were: Atomic Fire Equipment Company; Fire Equipment Associates, Inc.; Fire Safety Company, Inc.; L & L Fire Fighting Equipment Company; and S. R. Smith Company, Inc. The individuals named in the complaint were Joseph V. Rattay d.b.a. Cleveland Fire Equipment Co., and Maxine S. Siebert d.b.a. Fire Equipment Service and Sales.

Fire extinguishers are portable, hand-operated fire extinguishing equipment which are generally used to control and extinguish small, localized fires. They are generally classified according to the chemical agent employed (water, CO_2, foam, dry chemical, etc.) or the type of hazard for which each is suited (paper and wood, electrical equipment, and oil). There are several sizes of fire extinguishers (e.g., 5 lbs., 10 lbs., 20 lbs.) within each classification. Fire extinguishers require periodic servicing to maintain their functional efficiency. Servicing is frequently performed on an annual basis and consists of installing, inspecting, testing, maintaining or recharging fire extinguishers.

During the period of time covered by the complaint, the defendants had sold substantial quantities of fire extinguishers to and performed substantial services for commercial, industrial, and government customers located in the Cleveland area.

The defendants held meetings to discuss, and ultimately to agree upon, the minimum prices to be charged for various fire extinguishers and upon a method to fix, raise, and maintain the prices to be charged for the service of fire extinguishers. The result was a two-price system which was also used as a means of allocating service customers. A specified price was to be quoted to any new customer, and if a "present" customer of one distributor sought to switch to another, the customer became a "new" customer of the latter distributor and was therefore quoted the higher price. The effect of the two-price system was to allow the fire equipment distributors to increase their prices and still retain their present customers, without fear of price competition from other distributors.

III. EXPLANATION OF THE PROPOSED CONSENT JUDGMENT

Under the provisions of the Antitrust Procedures and Penalties Act, entry of the proposed consent judgment is conditioned upon a determination by the Court that the proposed judgment is in the public interest.

The proposed consent judgment provides a number of measures to dispel the anticompetitive effects alleged in the complaint. Each defendant is enjoined from maintaining any existing agreement or arrangement, or entering into any new agreement or arrangement, to fix prices, discounts or other conditions for the sale or service of fire extinguishers; from communicating or exchanging price information or terms and conditions of sale or service with any person or group of persons involved in the sale or service of fire extinguishers, prior to that information being disclosed to the public or trade generally; and allocating customers for the sale or service of fire extinguishers.

Each defendant may not discuss with other fire extinguisher distributors the price charged or other terms and conditions of sale and service to third parties, or the identity of such defendant's customers.

Each defendant must also either establish new prices and other terms and conditions of sale and service of fire extinguishers on the basis of its own independent judgment, or in the alternative, may submit an affidavit stating that it has already complied with this requirement.

The judgment also makes provision for the United States to have access to the defendant's records, and to interview officials of each defendant to determine if they are abiding by the terms of the judgment.

The judgment does not prohibit the following business activities which are either usual and customary in the trade, ordinary business practices, or required by local law: (1) any bona fide arm's length purchase, sale, or service negotiations between any defendant and any supplier or distributor of fire extinguishers or fire extinguisher parts, components or supplies; (2) affixing to fire extinguishers tags or labels which identify a defendant as the seller or servicer of the extinguisher; (3) any advertisement or article which discloses the identity of a customer of a defendant provided that the advertisement or disclosure is not made in a trade journal for distributors for fire extinguishers; and (4) the mere suggestion by any defendant fire extinguisher manufacturer to its distributors of suggested retail prices for fire extinguishers manufactured by or for it.

The proposed consent judgment will have the effect of causing fire extinguishers to be sold at independently established and competitive prices. The injunction provisions are nationwide in geographic coverage and perpetual in time.

The Government and Joseph V. Rattay, dba Cleveland Fire Equipment Co., have entered into a stipulation whereby Mr. Rattay is released from complying with Sections VII and VIII of the proposed consent judgment, since he is no longer doing business as Cleveland Fire Equipment Co., provided, however, that he does not, for ten years, become an owner, partner, or majority or controlling stockholder in any company distributing fire extinguishers. Section VII requires each defendant either to independently establish new prices and other terms and conditions of sale for fire extinguishers and services or to submit an affidavit signed by an officer stating that it has done so since November 1972. Section VIII requires each defendant to file with the plaintiff, each year for ten years, a report setting forth the steps it has taken to advise its officers, directors, employees, and agents of its and their obligations under the judgment.

IV. ALTERNATIVES TO THE PROPOSED CONSENT JUDGMENT

The alternative to the proposed consent decree considered by the Antitrust Division was a full trial on the merits wherein the Government would have contended that the defendants had engaged in a combination and conspiracy to fix prices and to allocate customers in the fire equipment sales and service industry.

The Division considers the substantive language of the proposed judgment to be of sufficient scope and effect to make litigation unnecessary, and provides all of the relief requested in the complaint. Upon approval of the Court to this proposed consent judgment, the public should once again be assured the benefits of free and open competition in the sale and service of fire extinguishers and related equipment.

V. REMEDIES TO POTENTIAL PRIVATE PLAINTIFFS

Section 4 of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. § 15) provides that any person who has been damaged as a result of conduct prohibited by the antitrust laws may bring suit in federal court to recover three times the damages such person has suffered, as well as costs and reasonable attorney fees.

Any potential private plaintiffs who might have been damaged by the alleged violations will retain the same right to sue for monetary damages and any other legal and equitable remedies which they would have had, were the proposed consent decree not entered.

VI. PROCEDURES FOR MODIFICATION OF THE PROPOSED CONSENT JUDGMENT

As provided by the Antitrust Procedures and Penalties Act, any persons believing that the proposed judgment should be modified may for a 60-day period submit written comments to John A. Weedon, Chief, Cleveland Office, Department of Justice, Antitrust Division, 995 Celebrezze Federal Building, Cleveland, Ohio 44199. The Department of Justice will evaluate any and all such comments and determine whether there is any reason for withdrawal of its consent to the proposed consent judgment. The Department of Justice will file with the Court and publish in the FEDERAL REGISTER the comments and its responses to such comments.

By its terms, the proposed judgment provides for retention of jurisdiction of this action in order, among other things, to permit any of the parties to apply to the Court for such orders as may be necessary or appropriate for its modification.

No materials and documents were considered by the Government to be determinative in the formulation of the proposed judgment, and, consequently, none are submitted pursuant to Section (b) of the Antitrust Procedures and Penalties Act (15 U.S.C. § 16(b)).

Dated: November 26, 1975.

INSPECTION OF VIRGINIA FOOD PROCESSING AND STORAGE FACILITIES

Memorandum of Understanding With the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce

The Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce's Division of Product and Industry Regulation and the Food and Drug Administration have renewed their agreement concerning certain related objectives in carrying out their respective responsibilities. The agreement, which sets forth the working arrangements to be followed concerning inspection of all Virginia food processing and storage facilities of mutual obligation, reads as follows:

Memorandum of Understanding between the Food Inspection Section, Division of Product and Industry Regulation, Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce and the Baltimore District, Food and Drug Administration.

I. Purpose. It is the purpose of this understanding to provide more effective consumer protection through more efficient coverage of the Virginia food industry to maximize federal and state manpower utilization by the complete elimination of duplication.

II. Work-sharing program.

A. Goals and responsibilities. The Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce (VDAC) Food Inspection Section and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) Baltimore Investigations Branch will share the responsibility for the inspection of all Virginia food establishments of mutual obligation. Close coordination and communication must be maintained and joint planning and work scheduling will be performed to assure that manpower is efficiently utilized and regulatory efforts are properly meshed to achieve a high level of industry compliance.

B. Commitment: 1. Inspection inventory: An inventory of firms covered by this understanding, hereinafter referred to as the cooperative establishment inventory (CEI) will be maintained by FDA's data processing unit (DPU) and updated continuously as data is received from both agencies.

2. Inspection commitment: Each agency will make an annual commitment for the number of inspections it plans to make of CEI firms. The commitments will be made at each September planning session and will be included as an addendum to this agreement. The commitments may be reviewed and adjusted if necessary.

III. General provisions.

A. Information exchange: There will be a complete interchange of information between the agencies with respect to the CEI and to all areas of mutual obligation.

1. CEI inspections: All inspection reports, assay reports and correspondence pertaining to firms in the CEI will be exchanged in a timely fashion.

a. VDAC inspection reports: The complete inspection report will be submitted with an FD–481 (cover sheet. An FD–481a (endorsement sheet will be prepared and submitted with violative reports only and with reports of contract inspections. VDAC inspection classification, followup inspection date, and inspection priority will be included on all reports with the date and initials of the endorser.

b. FDA inspection reports: Completed FDA inspection reports will be sent to VDAC in a timely fashion. The list of observations will be mailed to VDAC as soon after inspection as possible.

2. Samples: Copies of reports of analysis of violative out-of-state food products sampled by VDAC under its surveillance programs will be forwarded to FDA for appropriate followup. In addition, each agency's assay reports of CEI firms' products will be exchanged for informational purposes. Violative reports will be appropriately flagged.

3. Complaints: Consumer complaints involving CEI firms will be investigated by the agency receiving the complaint. The exception to this procedure would involve consumer complaints concerning CEI firms which are scheduled for inspectional coverage by the other agency. In such instances the complaint will be forwarded immediately to the supervisor of the inspector/investigator scheduled for that firm. This will allow the inspector/investigator to handle the complaint during his routine inspection.

B. Work planning: 1. Planning: DPU will prepare a printout of the CEI by August 31 each year to be used for the annual cooperative work plan to be prepared jointly by September 15.

2. Scheduling: DPU will prepare a printout of firms scheduled for inspection during a particular month by the 15th of the preceding month and will return assignment printouts to VDAC by the 25th. Between the 15th and 25th of each month, work will be scheduled by the Falls Church Supervisory Investigator and Food Section Assistant Supervisor for the following month.

3. Accomplishments: A monthly accomplishment report will be prepared by the 15th of each month by the FDA Investigations Branch and sent to the VDAC Food Section.

C. Compliance followup: 1. Responsibility: Compliance problems will be handled on a case-by-case basis. It will be the responsibility of the agency which discovers a violation to determine the impact required for achieving compliance and to follow through.

2. Impact actions: The responsible agency may elect to use one of several types of impact—reinspection, sample collection, seizure, product recall, warning letter, joint inspection, hearing, prosecution, referral to the other agency, etc. The partner agency will cooperate within its authority with the responsible agency if compliance followup is requested. If referral is selected for impact, it will then become the responsibility of the agency to which referred to pursue the violation to achieve compliance.

D. Recall and emergency: The agencies will cooperate to the fullest extent possible in handling emergency public health problems and in checking effectiveness of product recalls.

1. Disaster work: Problems involving food contamination caused by such disasters as flood, fire, hurricane, carrier wreck, etc. will be handled jointly with VDAC in command. The food section supervisor or assistant supervisor will promptly notify the FDA investigations branch director or Falls Church supervisory investigator of the situation and request help as needed.

2. Recall: Each agency will cooperate with the other in checking the effectiveness of product recalls. The recall initiator will request the assistance of the partner agency if necessary.

3. Food poisoning: Each agency will notify the other about food poisonings brought to its attention involving foods of mutual obligation. Investigation of such food poisonings will be a cooperative effort.

E. Program review: Joint planning sessions will be held within the first two weeks of March and September each year to review this agreement, discuss the cooperative program, evaluate accomplishments, and plan future cooperative work. During the March meetings a review of the inspection commitment will be made, if not previously accomplished. A new inspection commitment for the year beginning October 1 will be made at each September meeting.

F. Training: Training is considered essential for the maintenance of effective inspectional units. It will be discussed and planned for at each planning session.

1. Formal: Formal training courses sponsored by either agency will be available whenever possible for the other's personnel.

2. On-the-job: Joint inspections will be used frequently for training inspectors of both agencies. It will be the responsibility of the inspection unit head to recognize inspectional weaknesses and request joint inspection when indicated.

3. Joint inspection techniques courses will be conducted periodically to attempt to achieve a uniform approach to inspectional coverage of CEI firms.

G. Mutual performance evaluations: Evaluation of the quality of each agency's inspectional performance is necessary to assure that its responsibility for enforcing its respective laws is being carried out. Performance evaluation will be a continual process in which three techniques will be used.

1. Scheduled joint evaluation inspection: Each VDAC food inspector and each FDA inspector regularly performing inspections of CEI firms will be evaluated through one joint inspection per agreement year to provide one measure of his performance.

a. Evaluation of FDA investigators: The supervisor of VDAC's food section or a mutually acceptable designee will accompany each FDA investigator assigned regular inspection of CEI firms on one inspection per year to observe and evaluate his performance. The investigator, evaluator, and the firm will be determined by the VDAC supervisor or his designee during the joint monthly scheduling sessions. An evaluation memo will be prepared and submitted to the director of Baltimore District's Investigations Branch, who will be responsible for correcting any deficiencies.

b. Evaluation of VDAC inspectors: The director of Baltimore District's Investigations Branch or a mutually acceptable designee will accompany each VDAC food inspector on one inspection per year to observe and evaluate his performance. The inspector, evaluator, and firm will be determined by the director of FDA Investigations Branch or his designee during the joint monthly scheduling session. An evaluation memo will be prepared and submitted to the VDAC Food Section supervisor, who will be responsible for correcting any deficiencies.

2. Rotational coverage of firms: As coverage of firms rotates between the two agencies, areas neglected by one agency will be brought to the attention of the other's inspection unit head, who will be responsible for correcting the deficiency in his agency's coverage.

3. Report review: As each agency reviews inspection reports submitted by its partner agency, inadequate reporting and/or handling of the inspection can be determined. Such inadequacies will be reported by the reviewer to the responsible inspection unit head to prevent recurrence. Data errors will be reported by DPU to both inspection units.

H. Term of understanding: This understanding will expire on September 30, 1976, unless renewed and signed by both agencies to continue it in effect until the following September 30.

Both agencies must meet in September of each year to review the understanding, to plan their cooperative programs for the following year, to set their respective inspection commitments for the year, and to officially renew this understanding.

The renewed understanding shall contain the inspection commitment agreed to at the September meeting and signed by the heads of the agencies' inspection units (Supervisor, Food Section, VDAC and Director, Investigations Branch, FDA Baltimore District), and any changes required in the basic understanding.

This understanding in its entirety, or in part, may be revised by mutual consent or terminated upon 30 days written notice by either agency.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

AMERICAN AIRLINES, INC., ET. AL.

U.S. Mainland-Puerto Rico/Virgin Islands Fares; Order

In the matter of increases in U.S. Mainland-Puerto Rico/Virgin Islands fares proposed by American Airlines, Inc., Eastern Air Lines, Inc., and Pan American World Airways, Inc.

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C. on the 28th day of November, 1975.

By Order 75-10-127, October 31, 1975, the Board suspended a proposal by American Airlines, Inc. (American), Eastern Air Lines, Inc. (Eastern), and Pan American World Airways, Inc. (Pan American) to increase fares by eight percent in the U.S. Mainland-Puerto Rico/Virgin Islands (PR/VI) market.[1] The Commonwealth of Puerto Rico (Commonwealth) filed a complaint against the proposal to increase fares, alleging, inter alia, that it is manifestly unfair to Puerto Rico to allow another fare increase before the fares case is decided; that current trends in carrier costs cast serious doubt on the need for a further increase; and that with a nine percent unadjusted return on investment in fiscal 1975, American surely would exceed a 12 percent return after ratemaking adjustments and that an eight percent increase will result in excess profits for American, the only carrier operating economically and efficiently in the market. The Civil Aeronautics Board's Office of the Consumer Advocate also filed a complaint alleging that continuous ad hoc fare adjustments during the pendency of an extended fare investigation, which is the case in Docket 24353, essentially render nugatory the regulatory process by interfering with the orderly conclusion of the case. The Board indicated that it was not possible to complete a definitive analysis of the carriers' revenue need on and after November 1, 1975, but that it would issue an order prior to December 1, 1975 dealing with the merits of the proposal.

The Board now concludes that, after appropriate ratemaking adjustments to carrier results, the requested eight percent general fare increase would produce an excessive return on investment, and should not be permitted. However, as discussed below, an overall increase of approximately two percent would not appear to be unreasonable.

Adjustments to the carriers' operating results fall into two general categories: those required by application of the ratemaking standards established in Order 74-10-78, (Mainland U.S.-Puerto Rico/Virgin Islands Fares case), and those adjustments which are carried over from determination of 48-state revenue need which we believe to be sound ratemaking concepts regardless of the ratemaking entity involved; namely, an adjustment to compensate for a decline in aircraft utilization, and an adjustment to reflect cost inflation (net of productivity) up to November 1, 1975.[2]

By far the most significant adjustment relates to load factor, which impacts most heavily on Eastern since its reported load factor for the year ended June 1975 in the New York-San Juan market was 58.6 percent (versus the 68 percent standard), and 57.6 percent in all other markets (versus the 60 percent standard). The adjustment to eliminate discount fares does not have a significant impact on either American or Eastern in the New York-San Juan market, but in the "all other" markets, it is substantial for Eastern since discount-fare traffic accounted for approximately 52 percent of its total traffic for the year ended June 1975.

Operating costs have been adjusted to bring them forward to November 1, 1975. The Board calculated the cost-escalation factor consistent with the methodology used in 48-state ROI determination; i.e., fuel separated from nonfuel expense.[3] Fuel costs were determined for each carrier for this operating entity based on the latest data available to the Board. The nonfuel expense calculation reflects productivity changes for fiscal

[1] At present, Pan American operates only between Miami and San Juan in this ratemaking entity.

[2] The details of the Board's analysis will be available for public inspection in the public reference room on Monday, December 1, 1975.

[3] See Orders 75-6-72 and 75-8-99 for discussions of the rationale behind separating fuel from nonfuel expenses.

1975 over fiscal 1974. Application of the foregoing calculations results in an inflation factor of 5.72 percent for American and −0.5 percent for Eastern. These compare with cost-inflation factors used by American and Eastern of 12.8 percent and 11.5 percent, respectively. The difference between the results arrived at by the Board and those of the carriers can be laid primarily to the separation of fuel and nonfuel expense, and a differing computational technique in bringing historical results forward to November 1.[4]

Again, consistent with the methodology used in assessing 48-state revenue need, aircraft utilization for the year ended June 30, 1975 was compared with that experienced in calendar year 1972. With respect to Eastern, this comparison reveals that L-1011 utilization increased slightly while utilization for other aircraft types dropped modestly. Since the dollar impact of the increase in L-1011 utilization more than offset the decrease in utilization of other aircraft, no adjustment was warranted in Eastern's case. On the other hand, virtually all aircraft types operated by American showed a decline in utilization from 1972; most importantly the B-747. B-747 utilization declined almost 25 percent and because it is the predominant aircraft used by American in this market, the utilization adjustment has a significant impact for ratemaking purposes. Nevertheless, the requested eight percent increase produces a combined rate of return for both carriers of approximately 15 percent, even without a utilization adjustment.

After making the foregoing adjustments, including the utilization adjustment, we have determined that at present fare levels, the ratemaking ROI for both carriers combined was 10.68 percent for the year ended June 1975, and with the requested eight percent increase would be 15.62 percent. Consequently, it must be concluded that the requested fare increase would produce an excessive rate of return. Contrary to the contention of the Commonwealth, and consistent with our interim decision in the fares case, our determination herein reflects industry results, and not just those of the carrier in the most favorable financial position in this operating entity. Adjusted results for the year ended June 1975 at present fares and with the requested eight percent increase are set forth in Appendix A, filed as part of the original document.

Our analysis indicates that an across-the-board fare increase of 2.2 percent in all Mainland-Puerto Rico/Virgin Islands markets would produce a ratemaking ROI of very close to 12 percent. However, such an across-the-board increase would result in a return below 12 percent in the New York-San Juan market while producing a return in excess of 12 percent in "all other" markets. By adopting a higher load-factor standard applicable to the New York-San Juan market, the Board gave recognition to the economic factors which make a higher-density, lower-fare service appropriate in this unique market. However, the existing fares exhibit a wider gap between per-mile normal fares in this market and all others than is justified by the difference in load factors and the application of our other ratemaking standards. In our judgment, the rate-of-return standard should be applied separately to the New York-San Juan and "all other" markets to ascertain whether the fare relationships are appropriate. Our calculations show that a 3.1 percent fare increase in the New York-San Juan market, and a 1.1 percent increase in all other markets, would produce a ratemaking ROI of approximately 12 percent in each subdivision of the overall ratemaking entity.

In view of the foregoing, the Board will affirm its suspension of the 8 percent fare increase.

Accordingly, pursuant to the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, and particularly sections 204, 403, 404, and 1002 thereof,

It is ordered That: 1. The investigation and suspension of the fares and provisions described in orderly paragraphs 1 and 2 of Order 75-10-127 is hereby affirmed; and

2. A copy of this order be served on American Airlines, Inc., Eastern Air Lines, Inc., Pan American World Airways, Inc., the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the Civil Aeronautics Board's Office of Consumer Advocate.

This order will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.[5]

Secretary.

[Docket 28558; Order 75-11-118]

EMERY AIR FREIGHT CORP.

Order of Suspension and Investigation

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C. on the 28th day of November, 1975.

In the matter of increased excess-valuation charge and nonacceptance of certain commodities proposed by Emery Air Freight Corporation.

By tariff revisions issued October 30 and marked to become effective December 1, 1975, Emery Air Freight Corporation (Emery), an air freight forwarder, proposes, inter alia, with respect to its domestic shipments, (1) to increase excess-valuation charges from 15 cents to 50 cents per $100 of excess valuation by which such value exceeds 50 cents per pound or $50, whichever is higher, for cameras, binoculars, calculators, wigs, watches and jewelry,[1] and (2) to refuse to carry (a) certain precious metals except as a part of electrical or electronic machinery, (b) stamps, bonds, and certain other negotiables, and original-source documents with a declared value exceeding $500 per shipment.[2]

The foregoing commodities that are nonacceptable if they exceed $500 in value per shipment are acceptable at lower values only to the extent of one shipment per day from one consignor to one consignee.

In support of its proposal to increase excess value charges, Emery asserts, inter alia, that the commodities involved result in claims of $5.33 per shipment as compared with overall average expense of $.51 per shipment; that it is necessary to offer a higher degree of security requiring, among other things, the hiring of additional personnel, and inaugurating a new training program, at a total cost of between $116,000 and $121,000 annually; and, that the revenue expected to be derived from the proposed increase in excess value charges is about $55,000 monthly.

In support of its proposal to refuse acceptance of certain commodities, Emery declares that "these changes are for the purpose of clarifying the existing rules and are the result of prior experience with these types of shipments." With respect to original-source documents, the forwarder asserts that acceptance misleads shippers because a significant portion of the claim expense falls into the special and consequential definition of the tariff for which Emery disclaims liability.

Upon consideration of all relevant factors, the Board finds that both proposals may be unjust, unreasonable, unjustly discriminatory, unduly preferential, unduly prejudicial, or otherwise unlawful,

[4] For example, American's cost-inflation computation incorporates fuel costs fiscal 1975 over 1974, and therefore reflects a significant upward trend. As a matter of fact, per-gallon fuel costs in this operating entity have been declining very slightly since June 30, 1975. To accept American's approach would be to grossly inflate the true fuel-cost picture. Overall, this difference in treatment of fuel costs is the primary reason for the difference between the inflation factors used by the carriers and those used by the Board.

[5] Timm, member, filed concurring statement as part of the original document.

[1] Revision to Rule 95, Tariff C.A.B. No. 45 issued by Emery Air Freight Corporation. Specifically:

a. Cameras, assembled.

b. Binoculars, Telescopes, Telescopic Sights, assembled.

c. Calculators, mini, pocket or portable.

d. Wigs, Falls, Toupees.

e. Watches, Clocks, Chronographs or time pieces with or without the watch or clock cases.

f. Jewelry, costume jewelry, cigarette lighters, pen and pencil sets and trophies.

[2] Revision to Rule 25, Tariff C.A.B. No. 45 issued by Emery Air Freight Corporation. Specifically:

a. Emery proposes to refuse to carry: Iridium, Osmium, Palladium, Rhodium, Ruthenium, and Rhenium in any pure form, (except as an integral part of electrical or electronic machinery) and these metals that have been coated, plated, bonded, laminated, impregnated, alloyed, mixed or fixed to any metal, substance, or material in any way with a declared value exceeding $500 per shipment.

b. Stamps, namely: postage, tax or trading.

c. Bonds, Bills of Exchange, Deeds, Evidence of Debt, Money, Promissory notes or stock certificates.

d. Original-source documents, namely: manuscripts and poll or survey data of which no other copy exists with a declared value exceeding $500 per shipment.

V40233 DEC 3 75 XUM

and should be investigated. The Board further concludes that the proposals should be suspended pending investigation.

Emery has not adequately justified the proposal to increase excess-value charges from 15 to 50 cents per $100 of value for certain commodities. Although the forwarder asserts that it is planning to implement an improved security program, it does not appear that this program will cover only the commodities involved in the proposal. Furthermore, the revenues from the proposal are indicated as $660,000 annually ($55,000 per month) while expenses are shown as a maximum of $121,000 annually.

In its justification, Emery shows that the average claim cost per shipment for the commodities involved in the proposal is much higher than the average for all shipments. The data cover both domestic and international shipments as a group for the third quarter of 1974. In addition to the fact that these data are not limited to experience with domestic shipments and the fact that they cover only one quarter, there are significant limitations to the figures that reduce their value as justification for the proposal. The most important of these limitations is that the figures shown (the claims cost per shipment), do not in any way support a charge of $.50 per $100 of excess valuation. No showing has been made that existing excess-value revenues do not cover the claim expense.

Most major forwarders currently have an excess-value charge of 15 cents per $100. The Board has suspended, pending investigation, a number of previous proposals to increase excess-valuation charges where no showing has been made that existing excess-value revenues do not cover the amount of claim expense stemming from the declarations of excess value. Furthermore, the Board, after hearing in Imperial Air Freight Service, Inc., Increased Excess Value Charges, Docket 23538, found a proposed increase in the excess valuation charge from 15 to 25 cents per $100 unlawful, essentially on the above grounds, and ordered it canceled (Order 72–4–141, April 26, 1972).

The proposed nonacceptance of certain commodities would result in a significant reduction in the forwarder's common-carrier responsibilities to provide service. The Board has traditionally suspended, on this ground, proposals by both direct and indirect carriers to refuse acceptance of certain commodities. It should be noted, furthermore, that Emery's justification is deficient. Although the forwarder refers to "prior experience" as warranting its proposed nonacceptable of certain commodities, it does not provide any factual data in support. Emery's statement that shippers are misled when they consign original-source documents because they cannot collect claims on the basis of special and consequential damages does not justify refusing to accept such shipments altogether.

Accordingly, pursuant to the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, and particularly Sections 204(a), 403, 404 and 1002 thereof,

It is ordered that: 1. An investigation be instituted to determine whether the provisions in Rule No. 25C. and Rule No. 25N. on 14th Revised Page 6 and Rule No. 95B. on 2nd Revised Page 10–A of C.A.B. U.S.-INDIA COTTON TEXTILE AGREEMENT

Notice of Consultations

DECEMBER 1, 1975.

The Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements expects that consultations with the Government of India will be held on December 15, 1975 to resolve three problems under the Bilateral Cotton Textile Agreement of August 6, 1974 between the Governments of the United States and India:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Crisis Exemption To Use Malathion and Fenthion To Control Mediterranean Fruit Fly in California

Pusuant to the provisions of section 18 of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), as amended (86 Stat. 973; 7 U.S.C. 136), the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) hereby gives notice that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has availed itself of a crisis exemption for the use of the pesticides Malathion and Fenthion (Baytex) to control a Mediterranean fruit fly (Ceratitis capitata Wiedemann) infestation in Los Angeles County, California. This exemption is in accordance with, and is subject to, the provisions of sections 166.2, 166.8, and 166.9 of 40 CFR Part 166. These regulations concerning exemption of Federal and State agencies for the use of pesticides under emergency conditions were published in the Federal Register on December 3, 1973 (38 FR 33303). As required, the USDA has submitted in writing the following certified information.

According to the USDA, the Mediterranean fruit fly, sometimes called the "Medfly", is considered to be the world's most important and widespread citrus pest in the fruit fly group. This pest occurs in many countries of Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, and in Hawaii, and attacks more than 200 fruit and vegetable crops. This fruit fly has previously been introduced into and subsequently eradicated from the States of Florida and Texas. This is the first time it has been introduced into California. Its presence poses an extremely serious economic loss potential to the California fruit and vegetable industry and, if it is not eradicated, to other areas in the Continental United States.

No pesticide registered for this particular use to eradicate or control the Mediterranean fruit fly was readily available; the time element was so critical that there was no time to request either a specific or quarantine exemption.

Fruit fly surveys in California have detected a Mediterranean fruit fly infestation in southern California, specifically in Venice, which is located in Los Angeles County. On October 1, the Plant Protection and Quarantine Programs, Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, USDA, began treatment and eradication efforts. A toxic food bait, consisting of 1 part technical Malathion (25 percent wettable) and 4 parts Staley's protein bait, was applied on host plants at the rate of 3 to 5 milliliters per spot treatment. Backpack sprayers or equivalent units were used. Up to 18,000 spots were to be treated per square mile. The pesticide treatment procedure also included a 50 percent Baytex (emulsifiable) concentrate, which was used as a soil drench under host trees at the rate of 6 pounds actual per acre. Applications of the pesticides were made by trained Plant Protection and Quarantine, State and county personnel, who are also surveying for the pest. No adverse effects to man or the environment are expected as a result of the pesticide treatments.

In accordance with section 166.8 of the controlling regulations, if treatment pursuant to the crisis exemption is expected to continue for more than a total of fifteen (15) days, an application for a specific exemption shall accompany the required certified information. The USDA has submitted such an application; however, this notice does not constitute a decision on the application. The official file concerning this exemption is available for inspection in the Registration Division (WH–567), Office of Pesti-

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Issuance of a Specific Exemption To Control the Mediterranean Fruit Fly in California

Pursuant to the provisions of section 18 of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), as amended (86 Stat. 973; 7 U.S.C. 136), notice is hereby given that the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has granted a specific exemption to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to use Malathion and Fenthion (Baytex) for the control of recently established infestations of the Mediterranean fruit fly (Ceratitis capivata Wiedemann) in Los Angeles County, California. This exemption was granted in accordance with, and is subject to, the provisions of 40 CFR Part 166, issued December 3, 1973 (38 FR 33303), which prescribes requirements for exemption of Federal and State agencies for use of pesticides under emergency conditions.

This notice contains a summary of certain information set forth in the application. For more detailed information, interested parties are referred to the application on file with the Registration Division (WH-567), Office of Pesticide Programs, EPA, 401 M St., S.W., Room E-315, Washington, D.C. 20460.

According to the USDA, the Mediterranean fruit fly, sometimes called the "Medfly", is considered to be the world's most important and widespread citrus pest in the fruit fly group. This pest occurs in many countries of Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, and in Hawaii, and attacks more than 200 fruit and vegetable crops. This fruit fly has previously been introduced into and subsequently eradicated from the States of Florida and Texas; this is the first time it has been introduced into California. Its presence poses an extremely serious economic loss potential to the California fruit and vegetable industry, and, if it is not eradicated, to other areas in the Continental United States.

On October 1, 1975, the USDA exercised its prerogative in availing itself of a crisis exemption regarding the Mediterranean fruit fly infestation, and so notified the Administrator. In addition, in accordance with section 166.8(c) of the controlling regulations, the USDA requested a specific exemption for the use of a toxicant bait consisting of technical Malathion and Staley's protein bait and a soil drench, using a 50 percent Baytex (Fenthion) emulsifiable concentrate, in an eradication program, since it was obvious that treatment pursuant to the crisis exemption would continue for more than a total of fifteen (15) days. There are no pesticides registered specifically to control the Mediterranean fruit fly because this pest is not endemic to the Continental United States.

Pesticide products containing Malathion as the active ingredient are currently registered to control fruit flies in Hawaii. Thus, this insecticide is proposed for use in a manner consistent with established use patterns, except that it is not specifically registered for control of the Mediterranean fruit fly in California. Malathion is registered for use on citrus and most of the other crops likely to be infested by the "Medfly" as a foliage application at a rate considerably higher than the rate of application proposed in the USDA eradication program. Staley's protein bait is not known to pose a threat to the environment. Pesticide products containing Fenthion (Baytex) as the active ingredient are currently registered for livestock insect control, mosquito control, residual control of household insects, and for the control of various insects attacking ornamentals. No residue tolerances have been established on crops. However, the USDA program calls for the destruction of any food or feed crops grown on soil drenched with Fenthion.

Fruit fly surveys in California detected a Mediterranean fruit fly infestation in southern California, specifically in Venice, which is located in Los Angeles County. A toxicant bait, consisting of 1 part technical Malathion (25 percent wettable) and 4 parts Staley's protein bait, will be applied on host plants at the rate of 3 to 5 milliliters per spot treatment. Backpack sprayers or equivalent units will be used. Up to 18,000 spots will be treated per square mile; approximately 90 square miles require treatment. The pesticide treatment procedure will include the use of approximately 1,200 pounds of 50 percent Baytex (Fenthion) emulsifiable concentrate as a soil drench under host trees at the rate of 6 pounds actual per acre; 1,000 pounds of Malathion are expected to be used. Thus, the amounts of pesticides to be used are relatively small.

The USDA states that, based on patterns of spread in other countries, the potential impact of this pest could grow from a few thousand dollars today to $228 million in 4 years without cooperative efforts to eradicate the "Medfly". The USDA estimated that the agricultural yield losses inflicted upon California alone could amount to $128 million a year; with approximately $100 million in control costs added, the direct economic impact would be $228 million annually.

Applications of the pesticides have been and will continue to be made by trained personnel of the USDA, and State and county personnel. The controls proposed appear to be adequate to prevent misuse of the pesticides and prevent any serious short-term or long-term adverse environmental effects.

After reviewing the application and other available information, EPA has determined that (a) a pest outbreak of the Mediterranean fruit fly has occurred; (b) there is no pesticide presently registered and available for use to control the Mediterranean fruit fly in California; (c) there are no alternative means of control, taking into account the efficacy and hazard; (d) significant economic problems may result if the Mediterranean fruit flies are not controlled; and (e) the time available for action to mitigate the problems posed is insufficient for a pesticide to be registered for this use. Accordingly, the USDA has been granted a specific exemption to use the pesticides noted above until November 7, 1976, to the extent and in the manner set forth in the application. The specific exemption is also subject to the following additional provisions:

1. The amounts of Malathion and Fenthion used in the eradication program shall not exceed 1,000 and 1,200 pounds respectively;

2. The pesticide treatments shall be limited to the delineated California infestation;

3. All food or feed crops grown on soil treated with the Fenthion drench will be destroyed;

4. Precautions will be taken to preclude the Fenthion drench from contaminating other crops; and

5. Precautions will be taken to preclude the Fenthion from coming into contact with fish and wildlife.

It should be noted that if the Administrator determines that the USDA is not complying with the requirements set forth or if such action is necessary to protect man or the environment, the exemption shall be immediately withdrawn.

Dated: November 26, 1975.

EDWIN L. JOHNSON,
Deputy Assistant Administrator for Pesticide Programs.

TEBUTHIURON

Notice of Establishment of a Temporary Tolerance

Elanco Products Co., Division of Eli Lilly & Co., PO Box 1750, Indianapolis IN 46206, submitted a pesticide petition (PP 5G1562) to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). This petition requested that a temporary tolerance be established for residues of the herbicide tebuthiuron (N - [1,1 - dimethylethyl) - 1,3,4 - thiadiazol - 2 - yl] - N,N-' - dimethylurea) in or on the following raw agricultural commodities: sugarcane at 0.1 part per million (ppm); eggs, milk, and the meat, fat, and meat byproducts of cattle, goats, hogs, horses, poultry, and sheep at 0.02 ppm.

These temporary tolerances will permit the marketing of the above raw agricultural commodities when treated in accordance with an experimental use permit which is being issued concurrently under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act.

An evaluation of the scientific data reported has shown that the tolerances are adequate to cover residues resulting from the proposed experimental use, and it has been determined that such tolerances will protect the public health. The temporary tolerances are established, therefore, for the herbicide with the following provisions:

1. The total amount of the active herbicide to be used must not exceed the quantity authorized by the experimental use permit.

2. Elanco Products Co. must immediately notify the EPA of any findings from the experimental use that have a bearing on safety. The firm must also keep records of production, distribution, and performance and on request make the records available to any authorized officer or employee of the EPA or the Food and Drug Administration.

These temporary tolerances expire November 26, 1976. Residues not in excess of these temporary tolerances remaining in or on the above raw agricultural commodities after expiration of these tolerances will not be considered actionable if the herbicide is legally applied during the term and in accordance with the provisions of the experimental use permit and temporary tolerances. These temporary tolerances may be revoked if the experimental use permit is revoked or if any scientific data or experience with this herbicide indicate that such revocation is necessary to protect the public health.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

PRIVACY ACT OF 1974

Notice of an Additional System of Records

On October 24, 1975 the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC"), in accordance with section 3(e) of the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552(e), 88 Stat. 1896, 1899–1900, published on page 49935 of the FEDERAL REGISTER notice of a proposed system of records, entitled "FDIC/15 Unofficial Personnel System," to supplement the FDIC's previously adopted systems, as published on October 6, 1975 on page 46288 of the FEDERAL REGISTER. Because of the need for the existence of the system for daily internal personnel functions the Board of Directors of the FDIC determined, pursuant to section 302.6 of the rules and regulations of the FDIC, that good cause existed for the waiver of the thirty day period for effectiveness, and; therefore, the notice was effective, except for the "Routine Uses" section, on the date of its publication. The Privacy Act does require advance publication of the "Routine Uses" section of a system notice. Interested parties were given the opportunity to submit, not later than November 22, 1975, data, views and recommendations regarding the adopted system and its proposed "Routine Uses."

No written objections have been received, and the system is hereby adopted with a few technical amendments and corrections, as set forth below, effective November 24, 1975.

FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION

[Docket No. 75–56]

CANADIAN-AMERICAN WORKING ARRANGEMENT, ET AL.

Order of Investigation and Hearing

On September 28, 1973, the Federal Maritime Commission (FMC) approved as modified the Canadian American Discussion Agreement (CADA), FMC Agreement No. 10057, which allowed the nine member conferences serving the trades between the U.S. and Canada on the one hand and the Continent, Scandinavia/Baltic and British Isles on the other hand to meet, discuss and propose solutions to mutual problems. Five conferences serving the foreign commerce of the United States and four conferences serving the foreign commerce of Canada operating between the Atlantic coast of North America and the Continent and British Isles, together with their member lines, constitute the membership.

The major problem giving rise to the establishment of such an agreement was the diversion of cargo of one country through the ports of the other. For example, apparently it was the practice of carriers serving the foreign commerce of both the United States and Canada to interpret both their agreement and tariffs as not applying to third country cargoes. Accordingly, conference carriers serving Canada did not apply the Canadian conference rates on cargoes destined to or orginating in the United States moving through Canadian ports. Conversely, conference carriers serving United States ports did not apply United States conference rates on cargoes to or from Canada, and moving under a through bill of lading.

As a proposed solution to this problem, the parties filed the Canadian-American Working Arrangement (CAWA) FMC Agreement No. 10090 on September 28, 1973. Briefly its function was to eliminate manipulation of ocean carrier rates as a means of inducing the diversion of one country's cargo through the ports of the other. The three modifications to CAWA, the one modification to CADA and the single modification to each of seven basic conference agreements are all derived from the CADA and CAWA agreements.[1]

Agreement No. 10090 provides that the conferences and their member lines agree that cargo originating in or destined to Canada but moving between United States ports and Europe will be charged port-to-port rates identical to the governing Canadian conference rates. This provision also provides that cargo originating in or destined to the United States but moving between Canadian ports and Europe will be charged port-to-port rates identical to the governing United States conference rates. However, with respect to the United States only, cargo originating at or destined to points east of the 76th longitude west of Greenwich are subject to the arrangement. (Article 1.3)

The agreement also provides that full information on rates west of 76° W would be exchanged on request and that the Conference serving a particular port would be responsible for self policing functions with respect to cross-boarder traffic. In addition, any member of a United States or Canadian conference not also a full-fledged member of the counterpart conference serving the other country could become a nonvoting associate member thereof. The Commission approved the agreement on October 31, 1974 for a period of one year, subject to certain modifications.

Agreement Nos. 10090–1, 7670–13 and 9982–5 add conferences serving the trades between the Scan/Baltic area and the United States and Canadian North American trade to CAWA and authorize the participation of these conferences in CAWA, including the granting of individual associate memberships. These agreements themselves do not present novel issues. They are included in this proceeding because of their logical relationship with the disputed modifications and the original agreement.

The primary modification, Agreement No. 10090–2, which has been the catalyst to protesting parties reads as follows:

> • • • the parties hereto shall strive to reach agreement on relevant rates on the general basis of parity of cost to the shipper, regardless of whether shipments move via Great Lakes ports or via East Coast ports, and equality of competitive opportunity as among the parties themselves in respect to such cargo.

No change was made in the exclusion of United States cargo originating at or destined to points West of the 76° meridian moving through Canadian ports from the application of the agreement.

Agreement No. 10090–2 apparently contemplates the equalization of total door-to-door costs to the shipper using Atlantic ports with his total transportation costs through Great Lakes ports. This appears to be an attempt to equalize total transportation costs via Atlantic ports with Great Lakes ports.

This modification was protested by 29 different persons or groups as enumerated in Appendix III. They see the proposal as violating Section 16 First of the Shipping Act by depriving the Great Lakes ports of their natural advantage, namely lower total cost, thereby giving an unreasonable preference or advantage to a particular locality and subjecting the United States Great Lakes ports to undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage. They basically allege that if carriers serving the Atlantic ports are allowed to equalize costs, the United States Great Lakes ports would lose their one advantage since they cannot compete on a straight service basis.

Furthermore, the protestants also allege the proposed arrangement violates Section 17 of the Act by discriminating against particular shippers or ports by charging rates that are discriminatory against United States Great Lakes shippers and ports.

The protestants also argue that in the absence of a Commission waiver such as that which now applies to the port-to-port rates on Canadian traffic, carriers participating in the foreign commerce of the United States would be required to publish the exact inland and ocean portions and indicate any absorptions and file all these with the FMC or be in violation of Section 18(b)(1) and General Order 13 Amendment 4, 46 C.F.R. § 536.16.

Apart from these alleged violations of specific sections of the Act, several protestants allege that the proposal violates one or more of the tests for approval set forth in Section 15 itself. The Chicago Regional Port District, for example, states that the Agreement is contrary to the public interest because it would eliminate general cargo shipments out of the United States Great Lakes ports and would destroy businesses and jobs including related jobs in trucking and railroads. Others submit that the arrangement would ultimately result in higher shipper costs since the lower Atlantic Coast rates cannot be expected to continue after the alternative United States Great Lakes service has been destroyed. As an example of this potential problem, the Hormel Packing Company of Austin, Minnesota, suggests that it will not be able to sell meats in Europe in competition with South American sources if the agreement eliminates low cost freight. The United States Department of Transportation (DOT) estimates that the St. Lawrence Seaway Corporation could lose as much as 15 percent of its cargo and 40 percent of its revenues if the equalization plan is effected.

Others also state that Agreement No. 10090–2 is vague and ambiguous, that it is not responsive to the Commission order of October 31, 1974 which attached certain conditions to the approval of Agreement No. 10090 and that no convincing public need has been demonstrated.

Through counsel parties to Agreement No. 10057–2 request that CADA be approved for an additional 18 months or such other period as the Commission deems appropriate.[2] Three protests have been filed asking that the continued existence of CADA be made the subject of a hearing.[3] They suggest that the Agreement has done its work, such as it is, in producing Agreement No. 10090 and its modifications and that no legitimate purpose remains.

Parties to CADA respond to this by stating that CADA is merely a discussion agreement and as such, innocuous, that it is required to furnish the Great Lake interests with copies of minutes and all substantive agreements, and that in view of the uncertain future of CAWA, CADA will be needed to explore alternatives. During the course of this proceeding concerning Agreement Nos. 10057–2 and 10090–2 and related agreements, the parties will be able to propose alternatives.

Finally, Agreement No. 10090–3 and related conference agreement modifications seek the interim extension of CAWA and the related authority of conferences to belong to it and have associate members. It seeks extension pending the resolution of the litigation foreseen in connection with 10090–2, or for six months, whichever may first occur. Five groups protested this group of extensions (anticipating that the parties will seek additional extensions if the six months is granted), primarily on the grounds that the parties have made no attempt to meet the conditions for renewal of the agreement as set forth in the Commission's original order and should not be allowed to enjoy the fruits of this agreement as if it had been approved when, in fact, its fate is being debated in a hearing which may ultimately find that it should be disapproved. DOT points out that the agreement is decidely anticompetitive and in its opinion confers no benefits commensurate with its anticompetitive effect. DOT is the one party that does not oppose interim extension, however.

The real issue remains not whether FMC Agreement No. 10090 should be amended in various ways, but whether it should continue to exist.

Upon consideration of the above matters, the Commission is of the opinion that the Agreements Nos. 10057 and 10090 and modifications thereto, and modifications to various conference agreements to permit participation in Agreement No. 10090, should be made the subject of a public investigation and hearing to determine whether they should be approved, disapproved, or modified. However, in order to protect those allegedly affected by these Agreements during this inquiry we would not at this time approve Agreements Nos. 10090–3 and Agreement No. 10057–2 pending the outcome of this hearing pursuant to section 15 of the Shipping Act, 1916.

Now therefore it is ordered, That the Commission enter upon an investigation and hearing pursuant to sections 15 and 22 of the Shipping Act, 1916, to determine whether Agreement No. 10090 as amended by Agreement Nos. 10090–1, 2 and 3 if approved would be in violation of Section 16 First, 17 and 18(b)(5) in that it would implement a procedure which could discriminate unreasonably against United States Great Lakes shippers and port interests, could give Atlantic coast interests an unreasonable advantage and could provide a framework for the assessment of unreasonably low freight rates.

It is further ordered, That a determination be made whether Agreement No. 10090–2, if approved, would be within the requirements of section 18(b)(1) of the Shipping Act and Commission General Order No. 13, Amendment 4, 46 C.F.R. § 536.16, i.e., how do the parties intend to implement any agreement or relevant rates "regardless of whether shipments move via Great Lakes ports or via East Coast ports. • • •"?

It is further ordered, That a determination be made as to whether Agreement Nos. 10090, 10090–1, 2 and 3 violate the criteria of approvability set forth in Section 15 in that they may be discriminatory and unfair as between ports and shippers, or between exporters from the United States and their foreign competitors, detrimental to the commerce of the United States and contrary to the public interest.

It is further ordered, That Agreement Nos. 7670–13, 5850–29, 7100–19, 7770–14, 8210–31, 9214–16 and 9982–5, because of their logical relationship with Agreement No. 10090, as amended, be included within this investigation to determine whether these modifications to the listed basic agreements are approvable pursuant to the standards of section 15 of the Act.

It is further ordered, That pursuant to sections 15 and 22 of the Act, that a determination be made whether Agreement No. 10057, as amended has operated consistent with the standards of section 15 since its original approval and whether Agreement Nos. 10057 and 10057–2 meet the standards of section 15 for approval.

It is further ordered, That in the event there is any modification of Agreements Nos. 10057 and 10090 other than requests for interim extension of expiration dates such modification shall be filed with the Commission, and shall be made subject to this investigation for approval, disapproval, or modification under the standards of section 15 of the Shipping Act, 1916. However, if there are requests of the Commission for interim extension of expiration dates of Agreements Nos. 10057 and 10090, as amended, such requests must be served simultaneously on all parties to this proceeding.

It is further ordered, That the parties listed in Appendix II be named as Respondents here:

It is further ordered, That the parties as listed in Appendix III hereto be named Petitioners;

It is further ordered, That a public hearing be held in this proceeding and that the matter be assigned for hearing and decision by an Administrative Law Judge of the Commission's Office of Administrative Law Judges at a date and place to be hereafter determined by the presiding Administrative Law Judge, but not later than May 27, 1976.

It is further ordered, That notice of this Order be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, and a copy thereof be served upon Respondents and Petitioners;

It is further ordered, That any person other than respondents, petitioners, and the Bureau of Hearing Counsel, having an interest and desiring to participate in this proceeding shall file a petition for leave to intervene in accordance with Rule 5(l) (46 CFR § 502.72) of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure;

Pursuant to the Rules, absent good cause shown, parties must commence discovery procedure on or before January 2, 1976, and any intervenor desiring to utilize the discovery procedures prescribed by Subpart L thereof, must commence doing so not later than 15 days after his petition for leave to intervene has been granted. If the petition for leave to intervene is filed later than 30 days after the date of publication of this Order in the FEDERAL REGISTER, petitioner will be deemed to have waived his right to utilize such procedures unless good cause is shown for the failure to file the petition within the 30 day period. (46 C.F.R. § 502.72(b))

It is further ordered, That all future notices, orders and/or decisions issued by or on behalf of the Commission in this proceeding including notice of the time and place of hearing or prehearing conference shall be mailed directly to all parties of record.

By the Commission.

[Docket No. E-9480]

CITY OF MISHAWAKA, INDIANA

Order Setting for Hearing

NOVEMBER 21, 1975.

On June 10, 1975, the City of Mishawaka, Indiana (Applicant) filed an "Application for an Order Directing the Establishment of Physical Connection of Facilities," pursuant to Section 202(b) of the Federal Power Act, 16 U.S.C. 824a (b), seeking an order directing Indiana & Michigan Electric Company (I&M) to physically connect its facilities with those of Applicant. The application states that Applicant purchases at wholesale from I&M its power requirements and it in turn distributes such power to customers within the City. Applicant has constructed a new substation known as the Bercado Substation, within the vicinity of an existing 35 kv line owned by I&M. This facility was completed in January, 1974, at a cost of $125,000.00 and which station Applicant maintains is needed to relieve the load on another of Applicant's substations and will be used for future expanded service within Applicant's service area. The application states that the station was built and the investment made by Applicant with the full knowledge of I&M and with the understanding that, once completed, I&M would attach its 35 kv line to the facility.

On August 14, 1975, the Commission issued a "Notice of Application for Order Directing Physical Interconnection" which was published in the Federal Register on August 25, 1975. 40 F.R. 37093. On September 9, 1975, I&M filed with the Commission a "Protest and Petition to Intervene" asking that the application in this Docket be dismissed, or in the alternative, that it be granted the right to intervene as a "party participant".

When a proceeding is initiated pursuant to Section 202(b) of the Federal Power Act, it is not necessary for the public utility which could be directed to interconnect with an Applicant's facility to file a peititon to intervene. If a hearing is held that utility would automaticaly be a party to the proceeding. In the instant case, it was unnecessary for I&M to file a petition to intervene. However, since it chose to do so, intervention should be granted.

Section 202(b) of the Federal Power Act gives the Commission authority to order a public utility to interconnect its transmission facilities with the facilities of one or more other persons engaged in the transmission or sale of electric energy and to sell or exchange energy with such persons. After appropriate notice and opportunity for hearing, the Commission can exercise its authority under this section if such action is consistent with the public interest. The Commission's authority to order interconnection is subject to certain limitations. The Commission cannot compel the enlargement of generating facilities for such purposes; nor can it compel such public utility to sell or exchange energy when to do so would impair its ability to render adequate service to its customers.

In order for the Commission to act on Applicant's application, the public interest requires the development of an evidentiary record in this Docket.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and in the public interest that an evidentiary hearing be held in this Docket. Otherwise the Commission would be unable to discharge its statutory responsibilities under Section 202(b) of the Federal Power Act.

The Commission orders: (1) That I&M be granted the right to participate as a party in this proceeding.

(2) An evidentiary hearing on the application of the City of Mishawaka, Indiana, commencing with a prehearing conference before an Administrative Law Judge on December 11, 1975 at 10:00 A.M. in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

CLINTON OIL CO.

Petition for Special Relief

NOVEMBER 24, 1975.

Take notice that on October 10, 1975, Clinton Oil Company (Petitioner), P.O. Box 1201, Wichita, Kansas 67201, filed a petition for special relief in Docket No. RI76-41, pursuant to Order No. 481 and Section 2.76 of the Commission's General Policy and Interpretations. Petitioner seeks a price of 45.0 cents per Mcf for the sale of gas to Southern Natural Gas Company under Petitioner's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 74 from the Federal Land Bank Gas Unit G, Well No. 1-A, Grange Field, Lawrence and Jefferson Davis Counties, Mississippi. The petition is based upon the cost of mechanical repairs and acid stimulation of the well.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said petition should on or before December 1, 1975, file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. [Docket No. CP76-154]

COLUMBIA GAS TRANSMISSION CORP.

Application

NOVEMBER 21, 1975.

Take notice that on November 6, 1975, Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation (Columbia), 1700 MacCorkle Avenue, SE., Charleston, West Virginia 25314, filed in Docket No. CP76-154 an abbreviated application pursuant to Section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the transportation of natural gas for Royal China Company (Royal), as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Specifically, Columbia requests authorization to transport up to 740 Mcf per day for Royal, which volumes will be received from a point of delivery to be agreed upon in Muskingum County, Ohio and redelivered to an existing point of delivery with Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., a wholesale customer and affiliate of Columbia. Royal will purchase the gas so transported from Petroc Company for a 3-year period. The transportation by Columbia will be subject to the limits of its pipeline capacity and to its service obligations to its CD, WS, SGES, G and SGS customers and will be further limited to only those amounts required to offset curtailments of the high priority requirements of Royal. Columbia's transportation charge for this service will be its average system-wide unit storage and transmission costs exclusive of company-use and unaccounted-for gas, as reflected in its FPC rate filings. Columbia will retain for company-use and unaccounted-for gas 3.6% of the volumes received for the account of Royal.

It appears reasonable and consistent with the public interest in this case to prescribe a period shorter than 15 days for the filing of protests and petitions to intervene. Therefore, any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before December 1, 1975, file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act, as amended, (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to the proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by Section 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

V40233 DEC 3 75 XUM

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Columbia to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Secretary.

EASTERN SHORE NATURAL GAS CO.

Filing of Corrected Revised Tariff Sheets

NOVEMBER 21, 1975.

Take notice that on November 10, 1975, Eastern Shore Natural Gas Company (Eastern Shore) tendered for filing corrected revised tariff sheets to replace sheets filed on October 29, 1975. Eastern Shore states that the reason for the filing is that in filing Fifteenth Revised Sheet No. 3A and Fifteenth Revised PGA-1 it neglected to increase its Rate Schedule E-1 by .038 Mcf to reflect curtailment credits to December 1, 1975. The revised tariff sheets reflect such change.

Eastern Shore states that the corrected tariff sheets are identical in all other respects to those filed on October 29 and asks that they be allowed to become effective on December 1, 1975 as previously requested.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). EL PASO NATURAL GAS CO.

Intention To Act

NOVEMBER 14, 1975.

On October 15, 1975, El Paso Natural Gas Company (El Paso) filed a motion requesting that the Commission by order grant summary judgment affirming the lawfulness of those portions of El Paso's jurisdictional rate increases pursuant to its Purchased Gas Adjustment Clause (PGAC) rate adjustment filings of February 14, 1974 (at Docket Nos. RP72-155 and RP73-104), August 16, 1974 (at Docket Nos. RP72-155 and RP74-57) and February 24, 1975 (at RP72-155, et al., PGA75-2), as reflect and are intended to recover purchased gas costs attributable to El Paso's purchase of gas from producers holding small-producer certificates issued pursuant to Section 157.40 of the Commission's Regulations Under The Natural Gas Act. In support, El Paso alleges that none of the rates paid to small producers pursuant to the purchases reflected by these three PGAC rate adjustment filings exceed the per se just and reasonable rate for small-producer sales established in Opinion No. 742.

Pursuant to Section 1.12(e) of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, the above motion would be deemed to have been denied if the Commission has taken no action by November 14, 1975.

FLORIDA POWER & LIGHT CO.

Filing of Amendments To Interchange Agreements

NOVEMBER 24, 1975.

Take notice that Florida Power & Light Company (FP&L), on November 4, 1975, tendered for filing two letter agreements, as follows:

1. Letter agreement dated March 29, 1974 between FP&L and Orlando Utilities Commission (Orlando) to amend FP&L Rate Schedule FPC No. 4, as supplemented. The proposed effective date is June 26, 1975.

FP&L states that these two letter agreements change the energy charge for energy produced from fossil steam generating plants for emergency and scheduled interchange service from the second preceding month to the month in which the energy is sold. FP&L states that no change is proposed in the charge for energy produced from combustion gas turbines as provided in the July 23, 1973 letters between FP&L and Orlando and Vero Beach which were made effective August 13, 1973, subject to refund, by letter-order dated September 12, 1975 in Docket No. E-8769. The two July 23, 1973 letters have been designated as Supplement No. 1 to Supplement No. 1 to Rate Schedule FPC Nos. 4 and 6, respectively, and are both involved in the consolidated proceedings (Docket Nos. E-8769, E-8770 and E-9119) initiated by the Commission's order issued July 23, 1975. FP&L states that service has been made on Orlando and Vero Beach in accordance with Section 35.2(d).

[Docket No. CP76-82]

GAS SERVICE CO. AND CITIES SERVICE GAS CO.

Order Setting Formal Hearing and Prescribing Procedures

NOVEMBER 21, 1975.

On September 8, 1975, The Gas Service Company (Gas Service) filed in Docket No. CP76-82 an application pursuant to Section 7(a) of the Natural Gas Act for an order of the Commission directing Cities Service Gas Company (Cities) to establish physical connection of its interstate natural gas pipeline facilities with facilities proposed to be constructed by Gas Service and to sell and deliver natural gas to Gas Service for resale and distribution to serve the residents of two mobile home parks and environs located in Jasper County, Missouri.

Gas Service has been granted a certificate of public convenience and necessity by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri (PSCM) to serve in the area which includes two mobile home parks (the Sherwood Forest Mobile Home Park and the Suburban Wheels Estates Mobile Home Park). Gas Service states that the present population of the aforementioned parks is approximately 200 people; and as of the third year of service it is anticipated that they will contain 131 residences, two fixed residences and one office.

Gas Service estimates that in the first year of service it will serve 57 customers with a peak day requirement of 50.6 Mcf, and an annual requirement of 8,872 Mcf (both at 14.73 psia); it is estimated that these requirements will increase in the third year of service to 77 customers, with an estimated peak day requirement of 70.0 Mcf, and an estimated annual requirement of 13,772 Mcf. Gas Service states that the estimates of the number of customers to be served "have been based upon the known and anticipated number of residents at the mobile home parks" (Application pp. 4-5), and that the estimated peak day requirements per customer have been based on the demand factors shown in American Standards Association—Z21.30, 1964, for mobile homes.

An Answer in support of Gas Service's application was filed by Cities.

While we realize that the proposed service, as reflected in Gas Service's application, is not a large volume of gas, the Commission believes that the instant proposal raises questions regarding the propriety and wisdom of allowing continued growth, albeit to high priority customers, during the nationwide natural gas shortage, and more specifically, in the face of Cities declining supplies of natural gas. We note in this regard that Cities anticipates that it will curtail, to some extent, during the 1975–76 winter heating season, deliveries to all customers whose gas uses fall within categories 3 through 8 of its presently effective curtailment plan; and that only users in categories 1 and 2 will escape curtailment.[1] As such, we deem it necessary and appropriate, to convene a formal hearing on the growth issues raised by Gas Service's filing, and shall order, infra, Gas Service to file testimony and evidence in support of its application.

The Commission finds: That a formal hearing is necessary and proper in the instant proceeding and that the procedures hereinafter established are required for the hearing.

The Commission orders: (A) A Presiding Administrative Law Judge, to be designated by the Chief Administrative Law Judge for this purpose—See Delegation of Authority 18 CFR 3.5(d)—shall preside at the hearings in this proceeding pursuant to the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure.

(B) Gas Service and Cities are hereby ordered and required to file their testimony and exhibits in support of their respective positions in the instant proceeding, on all parties including Commission Staff on or before December 19, 1975.

(C) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, a hearing will be held commencing on January 15, 1976, at 10:00 a.m. (e.s.t.) in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, on the issues raised by Gas Service's filing.

HOLYOKE WATER POWER CO.; HOLYOKE POWER AND ELECTRIC CO.

Petition for Delay in the Implementation of Commission's Regulations

NOVEMBER 24, 1975.

Take notice that Holyoke Water Power Company ("HWP") and Holyoke Power and Electric Company, HWP's wholly-owned subsidiary, (collectively "Holyoke") on November 10, 1975, petitioned the Commission for a delay in the implementation of Section 35.14 of the Commission's Regulations. Section 35.14 provides, among other things, that all public utilities should conform their fuel adjustment clauses with said Section by January 1, 1976. Section 35.14(8) provides that the Commission upon showing of good cause may waive the aforementioned requirements for an additional one-year period. Holyoke has requested the Commission to waive the requirements of Section 35.14 until a time when the type of fuel clause required thereunder can be incorporated as part of a rate filing which also reflects the capacity costs which will be contractually incurred by Holyoke when a new 830,000 kw nuclear generating unit known as Millstone 2 becomes commercially operational, but in no event later than December 31, 1976.

Copies of the filing were served upon Holyoke's jurisdictional customers and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said application should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 9, 1975. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this application are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

ILLINOIS POWER CO.

Filing of Revised Schedules A and B to Agreements for Purchase of Power

NOVEMBER 24, 1975.

Take notice that Illinois Power Company ("Illinois Power") on November 17, 1975 tendered for filing proposed revisions of Schedules A and B to the Agreements for Purchase of Power (the "Agreement") by certain electric cooperatives from Illinois Power. The revised Schedules A and B are intended to replace the previous Schedules A and B dated March 25, 1971 and included in Illinois Power Rate Schedule FPC Nos. 53, 58, 59 and 60.

Illinois Power states that pursuant to Section 1.01(5)(b) of the Agreements, Schedule A has been revised to include additional points of delivery at which electric energy is being supplied to four (4) electric cooperatives who purchase power from Illinois Power. Upon initiation of service at the new points of delivery, reference to such points have been removed from Schedule B and listed in Schedule A. Additionally, Revised Schedule A includes unanticipated delivery points as may be provided in accordance with Section 1.01(5)(c) of the Agreements. All service taken at said delivery points will be under the rates and terms of the Agreements on file with the Commission.

Illinois Power requests the Commission to waive the prior notice requirements and accept the filing with retroactive effective dates on the dates that service commenced at the various delivery points. Illinois Power states that copies of the filing have been served upon Corn Belt Electric Cooperative, Inc., Southwestern Electric Cooperative, Inc., Tri-County Electric Cooperative, Inc. and Western Illinois Power Cooperative, Inc.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said application should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Power Commission, 825 N. Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with §§ 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 9, 1975. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. NATURAL GAS PIPELINE CO. OF AMERICA

Revision to PGA Filing To Track Pipeline Supplier Rate Increase

NOVEMBER 21, 1975.

Take notice that on November 3, 1975, Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America (Natural) tendered for filing as part of its FPC Gas Tariff, Third Revised Volume No. 1, the below listed substitute tariff sheets:

	To Be Effective
Second Substitute Fourth Revised Substitute Twenty-fourth Revised Sheet No. 5.	Nov. 14, 1975.
Second Substitute Twenty-fifth Revised Sheet No. 5.	Dec. 1, 1975.
(Alternate) Second Substitute Twenty-fifth Revised Sheet No. 5.	Dec. 1, 1975.

Natural states that on October 15, 1975, Great Lakes Gas Transmission Company (Great Lakes) filed revised PGA recovery rates in lieu of such rates filed on September 17, 1975 to be effective November 14, 1975 in Docket No. RP75-94. Said PGA recovery rates incorporate a new formula for allocating purchased gas costs between sales and transportation services in lieu of the presently effective formula reflected in the filing of September 17, 1975. These revised PGA recovery rates of Great Lakes will result in an additional increase to Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America (Natural) in the amount of approximately $1,700,000.

Great Lakes had previously proposed the change in allocation formula by a filing dated June 13, 1975. By order issued July 18, 1975, the Commission granted Great Lakes' request to withdraw certain tariff sheeets incorporating the proposed allocation method, and ordered that a hearing should be held to adjudicate the propriety of changing the allocation method and that the issue be consolidated with Great Lakes' current rate case at Docket No. RP75-94.

Natural states that it cannot determine at this time whether the Commission will grant the special permissions and waivers of its regulations requested by Great Lakes in order to permit the tariff sheets tendered October 15, 1975 to become effective November 14, 1975.

Therefore, Natural tendered the following substitute tariff sheet to be effective November 14, 1975 in the event that the Commission should allow the aforesaid revised PGA recovery rates filed by Great Lakes to become effective as requested:

Second Substitute Fourth Revised Substitute Twenty-fourth Revised Sheet No. 5.

Natural requested that this tariff sheet be substituted for the corresponding tariff sheet filed by Natural on October 1, 1975.

Natural also tendered Second Substitute Twenty-fifth Revised Sheet No. 5 and an Alternate to be effective December 1, 1975 to be substituted for the corresponding tariff sheets filed with Natural's PGA filing and with its "Motion to Make Suspended Tariff Sheets Effective" in the proceedings at Docket No. RP75-108, which were submitted under separate cover letters dated October 16, 1975.

Natural respectfully requests waiver of the terms of its PGA clause and the Commission's Regulations to the extent necessary to permit the requested substitutions of the enclosed tariff sheets for the tariff sheets previously filed should the Commission grant the special permissions and waivers requested by Great Lakes.

Copies of this filing were mailed to Natural's jurisdictional customers, interested state commissions and interested parties in Docket No. RP75-108.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said application should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C. 20426 in accordance with Section 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commision's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 12, 1975. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this application are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

NEW ENGLAND POWER CO.

Order Granting Late Petition To Intervene

NOVEMBER 20, 1975.

On October 3, 1975 the Commission issued an order which, inter alia, accepted for filing and made effective, subject to refund, proposed contracts and tariffs tendered for filing by the New England Power Company (NEPCO) in the above captioned docket.

Notice of the filing was issued by the Commission on October 1, 1975 with protests and petitions to intervene due on or before October 10, 1975.

An untimely petition to intervene was filed by Boston Edison Company. Having reviewed the above petition to intervene, we believe that the petitioner has sufficient interest in the proceedings to warrant intervention.

The Commission finds: It is desirable and in the public interest to allow the above-named petitioner to intervene.

The Commission orders: (A) The above-named petitioner is hereby permitted to intervene in these proceedings subject to the rules and regulations of the Commission; Provided, however, that participation of such intervenor shall be limited to matters affecting asserted rights and interests as specifically set forth in the petition to intervene; and Provided, further, that the admission of such intervenor shall not be construed as recognition by the Commission that they might be aggrieved because of any order or orders of the Commission entered in this proceeding.

(B) The intervention granted herein shall not be the basis for delaying or deferring any procedural schedules heretofore established for the orderly and expeditious disposition of this proceeding.

(C) The Secretary shall cause prompt publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

NEW ENGLAND POWER CO.

Order Granting Intervention

NOVEMBER 20, 1975.

By order issued October 30, 1975, the Commission accepted for filing and suspended for one day until November 1, 1975 the amendment to its electric tariff tendered for filing by New England Power Company (NEPCO) on October 1, 1975. Public notice of the filing was issued on October 9, 1975 with protests, comments or petitions to intervene due on or before October 24, 1975.

A timely protest, petition to intervene and joinder in motion to suspend for one day was filed by The Massachusetts Municipal Wholesale Electric Company ("MMWEC") and members thereof [1] who are also wholesale customers of NEPCO. Having reviewed the above petition to intervene, we believe that the petitioners have sufficient interest in the proceedings to warrant interventions.

We note that the protest and joinder in NEPCO's motion to suspend the proposed amendment for one day have been rendered moot by the Commission's order of October 30, 1975 which directed that the proposed amendment be accepted for filing and suspended for one day.

The Commission finds: It is desirable and in the public interest to allow the above-named petitioners to intervene.

The Commission orders: (A) The above-named petitioners are hereby permitted to intervene in these proceedings subject to the rules and regulations of the Commission; Provided, however, that participation of such intervenors shall be limited to matters affecting asserted rights and interests as specifically set forth in the petitions to intervene; and Provided, further, that the admission of such intervenors shall not be construed as recognition by the Commission that they might be aggrieved because of any order or orders of the Commission entered in this proceeding.

(B) The interventions granted herein shall not be the basis for delaying or deferring any procedural schedules heretofore established for the orderly and expeditious disposition of this proceeding.

(C) The Secretary shall cause prompt publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

NORTHERN NATURAL GAS CO.

Order Granting Petition to Intervene

NOVEMBER 20, 1975.

On October 21, 1975, The People of the State of California and the Public Utilities Commission of the State of California (CPUC) filed an untimely Notice of Intervention and protest in the captioned proceeding. CPUC states that it seeks intervention to represent the interests of direct and indirect consumers of natural gas in California. It states further that it would not ordinarily seek intervention in a proceeding involving Northern since Northern does not provide service in California. However, CPUC asserts a relationship between the advance payment agreements between Northern and Exxon Company, U.S.A., and certain proceedings before the California Commission. By its protest, CPUC requests that we disallow rate base treatment of Northern's advance payments to Exxon.

Northern opposes both the requested intervention and the protest of CPUC. Northern asserts that CPUC has no interest in these proceedings since no California consumer will be required to pay increased rates as a result of Commission action in this proceeding.

By order issued herein on October 31, 1975, we required Northern to file revised tariff sheets eliminating the rate effect of the advance payment agreements with Exxon. Accordingly, we need not consider CPUC's protest or Northern's opposition thereto. Further, we believe that the relationship between the advances Northern sought to include in rate base herein and the proceedings before the California Commission warrant CPUC's untimely intervention.

The Commission finds: It is desirable and in the public interest to allow the above-named petitioner to intervene.

The Commission orders: (A) The above-named petitioner is hereby permitted to intervene in these proceedings subject to the rules and regulations of the Commission; Provided, however, That participation of such intervenor shall be limited to matters affecting asserted rights and interests as specifically set forth in the petition to intervene; and Provided, further, That the admission of such intervenor shall not be construed as recognition by the Commission that it might be aggrieved because of any order or orders of the Commission entered in this proceeding.

(B) The intervention granted herein shall not be the basis for delaying or deferring any procedural schedules heretofore established for the orderly and expeditious disposition of this proceeding.

(C) The Secretary shall cause prompt publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

[Docket No. CP76-4]

NORTHERN NATURAL GAS CO.

Order Granting Interventions and Scheduling Formal Hearings

NOVEMBER 21, 1975.

On July 3, 1975, Northern Natural Gas Company (Northern) filed an application pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of an additional delivery point for Iowa Public Service Compay (IPS), in Black Hawk County, Iowa, and the transportation by displacement of gas for IPS. Notice of the above proposal was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 24, 1975 (40 FR 31040).

Northern seeks authorization for the construction and operation of an additional town border station (TBS) facility as an additional point of delivery to IPS at Waterloo, Iowa. The estimated cost of the proposed new delivery point is $45,000. IPS will reimburse Northern for the total cost of the facilities necessary to provide the new delivery point, including the entire initial installation plus any additional costs which may be involved to change or revise the measurement and regulating facilities to meet the design levels for maximum and minimum flow rates.

The natural gas volumes to be provided through the proposed facility will come out of IPS's presently effective contract demand and will provide IPS with gas for liguefaction and storage near Waterloo. Gas liquefied and stored would be regasified during the winter months for service of IPS's customers who would otherwise receive gas through the existing Waterloo TBS. Pursuant to a Gas Transportation Contract dated June 10, 1975, between IPS and Northern, Northern proposes to reduce deliveries to IPS, at the Waterloo TBS by that portion of the output of the new LNG plant and redeliver equivalent volumes by displacement to IPS at Northern's Sioux City, Iowa TBS No. 1A, up to a maximum daily volume of 15,000 Mcf per day. The contract is to start November 27, 1976, and continue through March 26, 1977, and continue for each successive November 27th through March 26th.

IPS will pay Northern, for the transportation of the Sioux City maximum daily volumes, an annual demand charge of $5.01 per Mcf and a commodity charge of 2.12 cents per Mcf. The charges are based on data contained in Volume III of Northern's 1975 General Rate Increase Application in Docket No. RP75-89 filed April 11, 1975. They are derived by computation of the Mcf demand mile and Mcf commodity mile costs of transporting gas from Palmyra, Nebraska to Sioux City, Iowa (a distance of 126.75 miles).

On July 31, 1975, Michigan Power Company (Michigan Power) petitioned for leave to intervene. Michigan Power purchases natural gas for distribution from Northern. Michigan Power states that it approached Northern in the past with the view of negotiating similar arrangements, as that contracted with IPS, but Northern refused to do so. Also, Michigan Power questions whether the purpose of Northern's proposed project is to enable IPS to upgrade its end-use requirements or whether IPS intends to use its intended new peaking capability to increase the level of its annual takes from Northern.

IPS petitioned for intervention on August 4, 1975. It was therein requested that the Commission approve Northern's application. Also, Terra Chemicals International (Terra), petitioned on August 5, 1975, for intervention. Terra states that it is a customer of IPS at Sioux City currently served out of the presently effective contract demand.

We find that the three above petitioners have stated a sufficient interest in this proceeding and will accordingly grant intervention.

We believe that significant questions presented by this application, as well as those raised by petitioners require a formal public hearing at which time all issues bearing upon the public interest can be fully developed on the evidentiary record. Accordingly, we shall direct Northern to provide evidence as to their policy concerning exchange arrangements, the change in end-use composition of IPS's customers which would be effectuated by this arrangement, which of the IPS customers would have volumes reduced, and whether IPS will receive increased volumes from Northern as a result of this arrangement.

The Commission finds: (1) It is desirable and in the public interest to allow the aforementioned parties who have formally petitioned to intervene in this proceeding to so intervene in order that they may establish the facts and the law from which the nature and validity of their alleged rights and interests may be determined.

(2) It is necessary in the public interest that the proceeding involving the above-named Applicant be set for hearing.

The Commission orders: (A) The above-named petitioners, who have petitioned to intervene in this proceeding are permitted to intervene in such proceeding subject to the Rules and Regulations of the Commission: Provided, however, That the participation of such intervenors shall be limited to matters affecting asserted rights and interests as specifically set forth in said petitions for leave to intervene; and Provided, further, That the admission of such intervenors shall not be construed as recognition by the Commission that they or any of them might be aggrieved because of any order or orders of the Commission entered in this proceeding.

(B) The direct case of the Applicant and all intervenors in support thereof shall include, inter alia, data bearing on the above-specified issues, and shall be filed and served on all parties on or before December 16, 1975. The Presiding Administrative Law Judge shall fix dates for the filing of any answering testimony after completion of cross-examination of direct testimony as may be appropriate.

(C) A formal hearing shall be convened in this proceeding in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C., on January 7, 1976, at 10:00 a.m. (e.s.t.). Such hearing shall consider testimony on the issues listed above and any other issues which may be revelant to the proceerings. The Chief Administrative Law Judge will designate an appropriate officer of the Commission to preside at the formal hearing of these matters pursuant to the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure.

By the Commission.

NORTHERN NATURAL GAS CO.

Filing Revised Tariff Sheets

NOVEMBER 25, 1975.

Take notice that on November 10, 1975 Northern Natural Gas Company (Northern) tendered for filing as part of its F.P.C. Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 2, First Revised Sheet Nos. 493 and 498. Northern requests an effective day of December 15, 1975.

Northern states that by Agreement dated September 29, 1975, Rate Schedule X-34 which is a Gas Purchase and Sales Agreement between Northern and El Paso Natural Gas Company was amended to extend the term of the Agreement from January 31, 1976, up to and including October 26, 1978. Northern states that all other provisions of the Agreement remain unchanged. Northern states that Certificate Authority to perform this service under Rate Schedule X-34 was granted by the F.P.C. at Docket No. CP73-215.

Northern states that a copy of this filing has been mailed to El Paso Natural Gas Company and that a copy is also available for public inspection in a convenient form and place at Northern's office in Omaha, Nebraska.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 2, 1975. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

NORTHWEST PIPELINE CORP.

Proposed Changes in FPC Gas Tariff

NOVEMBER 24, 1975.

Take notice that on October 31, 1975, Northwest Pipeline Corporation (Northwest), P.O. Box 10-1526, Salt Lake City, Utah 84110, filed with the Commission proposed changes in its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1. The proposed changes would modify the language contained in Section 15, Unauthorized Overrun Provisions, of the General Terms and Conditions of said tariff.

Northwest states that because of the continued gas supply deficiency on its system, it must curtail its customers substantially below entitlements based upon contract demand. Northwest avers that the language in Section 15 on unauthorized overruns must be modified in order to permit Northwest to calculate overrun penalties on the basis of scheduled entitlements, rather than contract demand. Northwest concludes that the tariff changes will permit Northwest to more effectively monitor its curtailment provisions.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said filing should on or before December 15, 1975, file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Take notice that on November 7, 1975, Pacific Gas Transmission Company (PGT) tendered for filing a proposed tariff sheet to give notice that, effective November 1, 1975, PGT's Rate Schedule X-7 is cancelled. PGT states that this rate schedule expired by its own terms and in accordance with Commission order on October 31, 1975.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 5, 1975. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

PANHANDLE EASTERN PIPE LINE CO.

Proposed Changes

NOVEMBER 21, 1975.

Take notice that Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company (Panhandle) on October 31, 1975, tendered for filing Substitute Alternate Fourteenth Revised Sheet No. 3-A and Substitute Fourth Revised Sheet No. 43—4 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1 to replace and in substitution for Alternate Fourteenth Revised Sheet No. 3-A and Fourth Revised Sheet No. 43-4 as originally included in Panhandle's rate filing of May 15, 1975 in Docket No. RP75-102. Panhandle requests the lower rates be placed in effect without suspension but subject to the provisions of the Commission's order of June 30, 1975 suspending the rates filed on May 15, 1975 until December 1, 1975.

Panhandle seeks to substitute the rates contained on Substitute Alternate Fourteenth Revised Sheet No. 3-A for those originally filed thereby resulting in a lower level rates to become effective December 1, 1975. Panhandle has redesigned the rates so as to reflect 75% of the demand costs in the commodity component of the rates. In addition, Panhandle states that since the proposed rates as originally filed were suspended, the prior rates were changed August 1, 1975 to reflect additional advance payments and in order to carry out the objective of such tracking authority, the advance payments under existing agreements must also be incorporated in the rates to become effective December 1, 1975.

Panhandle requests such waivers as downward revision in gas purchase costs which would otherwise be left at the filed level should the tariff sheets filed herein not be substituted for those initially filed. Also, the tariff sheets as filed reflect the current DCA Surcharge Adjustment which became effective August 1, 1975.

Panhandle reqeusts such waivers as appropriate including a waiver of Section 154.66(b) and Section 154.63 of the Commission's Regulations under the Natural Gas Act to permit the filing and acceptance of the above-mentioned tariff sheets.

Copies of this filing were served on Panhandle's customers, interested state commissions and all parties to this proceeding.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said application should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, NW., Washington, D.C. in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 5, 1975. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. [Docket No. ER76-149]

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. OF INDIANA, INC.

Order Denying Rehearing

NOVEMBER 20, 1975.

On September 23, 1975, Public Service Company of Indiana, Inc. (PSCI) tendered for filing proposed tariff and rate schedule changes for PSCI's sales of electrical energy to forty municipals, who purchase all of their electrical requirements from PSCI; fifteen rural electrical membership corporations, who purchase all of their electrical requirements from PSCI; five municipals, who have their own generation facilities but purchase firm power from PSCI; and the Hoosier Energy Division of the Indiana Statewide Rural Electrical Cooperative, who purchases partial requirements from PSCI for resale to its members. The proposed rate increases amount to $9,713,394 based upon the 12 month period ending October 31, 1976. PSCI requested that the rate changes be made effective October 24, 1975, thirty days after filing.

Upon review of PSCI's filing of September 23, 1975, we concluded that it was deficient with respect to certain requirements of the Commission's regulations. Accordingly, the Commission Secretary, by letter dated October 7, 1975, informed PSCI that its filing did not comply with Section 35.13(b)(4)(iii) of the Regulations in that Period I (twelve months ending December 31, 1974) did not incorporate the most recent twelve consecutive months for which actual data is available. The letter order required PSCI to submit data revising Period I and II such that Period I end no earlier than four months prior to the date of filing. PSCI was notified that a filing date would not be assigned to its submittal pending receipt of the requested data.

On November 6, 1975, PSCI filed a petition for rehearing of the letter order dated October 7, 1975, in which PSCI requests that the subject letter order be vacated and that PSCI be restored to the position it would have been in the absence of the letter order. Prior to that time, on October 30, 1975, PSCI tendered for filing supplemental data in response to the Secretary's deficiency letter which included, inter alia, a revised Period I (the twelve months ended June 30, 1975). We will pass on the proposed rate increases filing as supplemented, including what filing date should be assigned, by separate order.

PSCI argues in support of its petition for rehearing of the letter order that summary deferral of PSCI's use of the increased rates on the grounds asserted in the October 7, 1975, letter order would be unlawful and unconstitutional in that (1) the Commission's action rested on the two conclusions of fact, which PSCI was not given the opportunity to present evidence on, that PSCI's use of calendar year 1974 as Period I did not comply with Section 35.13(b)(4)(iii) of the Commission's Regulations and that the 1974 data was so stale that the propriety of the proposed increases could not be properly evaluated; (2) the Commission could not take summary action on PSCI's rate change where there are disputed questions of fact without allowing PSCI the opportunity to submit evidence; and (3) that the authorities cited in the October 7, 1975, letter order did not show that Section 35.13(b)(4)(iii) requires Period I to be older than any specific number of months. PSCI further asserts that it may not lawfully be deprived of the increased revenues under its proposed rates after March 24, 1976, at the latest, which is five months beyond the proposed effective date of October 24, 1975, in that (1) the history of Section 35.13(b)(4)(iii) confirms the Commission's intention, consistently adhered to, to avoid the meaning sought to be ascribed to it by the letter order and (2) it was too late for the Commission to change the standards to be met by its decision holding that they had not been met.

During the year 1975, we have accepted electric rate filings utilizing Period I data for the twelve months ended December 31, 1974, as meeting the filing requirement of Section 35.13(b)(4)(iii) of the Regulations that such date be "* * * for the most recent twelve consecutive months for which actual data are available * * *" However, we realized in so doing that at some point in time data for the twelve months ended December 31, 1974, would eventually become stale and thus outside any reasonable interpretation of Section 35.13(b)(4)(iii) of the Regulations which requires submission of the most recently available data. In the Interstate[1] order, we were dealing with data that was 7½ months old and made the determination that such data was too stale to be "the most recently available" and therefore rejected Interstate's filing for failure to comply with Section 35.13(b)(4)(iii) of the Regulations. Since that action, we have consistently refused to accept rate filings containing Period I data which was more then seven months old.

In the instant proceeding, the Commission by letter dated October 7, 1975, assessed as deficient PSCI's filing which was tendered on September 23, 1975, because the Period I data was 9 months old. We therefore determined that this data was too stale to be the "most recently available", as required by Section 35.13(b)(4)(iii) of the Regulations and told PSCI that a filing date would not be assigned to its submittal until PSCI submitted data revising Period I and Period II such that Period I ended no earlier than four months prior to the date of filing. We find the action taken with respect to PSCI's tender for filing to be consistent with the action taken with respect to Interstate as well as other similar filings. However, consistent with our findings in the preceding paragraph that data for a Period I which ends more than 7 months prior to the date of a filing will not be construed as the most recently available, as required by Section 35.13(b)(4)(iii) of the Regulations, we believe that it would be necessary to modify our October 7, 1975, letter order to provide that the revised data for Period I and Period II be such that Period I end no earlier than 7 months prior to the date of any new tender of filing. Accordingly, the October 7, 1975, letter assessing PSCI's filing as deficient shall be modified to so provide. With regard to PSCI's contentions that factual issues are involved which require a hearing, we believe that the issue before us is a threshold one involving the proper interpretation and application of the Commission's filing requirements governing rate increases and that a hearing for factual development of the issue is not required. In light of the above, we shall deny PSCI's petition for rehearing of our October 7, 1975, letter order.

On November 7, 1975, PSCI filed a petition requesting that the Commission pass on PSCI's petition for rehearing and vacating of the October 7, 1975, letter order or in the alternative grant a stay pendente lite of the letter order and prescribe a period of ten days for the filing of any answer to the petition no later than November 21, 1975. In light of our passing on the petition for rehearing and vacating of the said letter order, prior to the requested November 21, 1975, date, we have taken the action requested by PSCI in its November 7, 1975, petition.

The Commission finds:

Good cause exists to deny PSCI's petition for rehearing, as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) PSCI's petition for rehearing is denied.

(B) The October 7, 1975, letter assessing PSCI's filing as deficient is hereby modified to provide that the revised data for Period I and Period II be such that Period I end no earlier than 7 months prior to the date of any new tender of filing.

(C) The Secretary shall cause prompt publication of this order to be made in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

[Docket No. E-9454]

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. OF NEW MEXICO

Order Denying Motion for Stay

NOVEMBER 21, 1975.

On October 24, 1975, the City of Gallup, New Mexico (Gallup) filed a motion asking the Commission to stay pendente lite its orders of July 31, 1975, and September 26, 1975, in the above captioned docket. In its July 31, 1975, order, the Commission found that the current Public Service Company of New Mexico (PNM)—Gallup contract did not allow for the filing of Section 205 unilateral rate increase filings but that the contractual language indicated that the parties did provide for the rate to be changed pursuant to a Section 206(a) proceeding without the Mobile-Sierra[1] burden of proof. In its order of September 26, 1975, the Commission denied an application for rehearing filed by PNM, which asserted, inter alia, that the contract permitted PNM to file for Section 205 unilateral rate increases; and the Commission denied a petition for rehearing filed by Gallup which asserted, inter alia, that the Commission erred in failing to impose the Mobile-Sierra burden of proof on PNM in the Section 206(a) proceeding. Gallup states that its request for stay meets each and every criteria set out in Virginia Petroleum Jobbers Association v. Federal Power Commission (Virginia Jobbers), 259 F. 2d 921, 925 (U.S.C.A. D.C. Cir. 1958). Gallup states that it is seeking review of those orders by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit in City of Gallup, New Mexico v. Federal Power Commission, Docket No. 75-1957. On November 7, 1975, PNM filed an answer urging that the Commission deny Gallup's motion for stay for Gallup's failure to satisfy the criteria set out in Virginia Jobbers. For the reasons stated below, we shall deny Gallup's motion for stay.

The Commission agrees with Gallup and PNM that in ascertaining whether to stay its orders, the Commission should consider the test of Virginia Jobbers (259 F. 2d 921, 925) which is as follows: (1) whether petitioner has shown that it is likely to succeed on the merits on appeal; (2) whether petitioner has shown irreparable harm if the order is not stayed; (3) whether issuance of the stay would substantially harm other parties; and (4) whether issuance of the stay is in the public interest.

First, as to likelihood of success on appeal, Gallup contends that, based upon an analysis of the decisions of the Supreme Court in the Mobile-Sierra cases and the decisions of the D.C. Circuit in Richmond Power & Light v. F.P.C., 481 F. 2d 490 (D.C. Cir. 1973) and Gulf States Utilities Company v. F.P.C., 518 F. 2d 450 (D.C. Cir. 1975), it has shown there is a strong likelihood that it will win on its appeal as to the appropriate burden of proof applicable to this proceeding. PNM disputes Gallup's interpretation of these cases and PNM also points to the precedent that the Commission cited on pgs. 7 and 9 of its September 26, 1975, order, and concludes that Gallup has failed to make a strong showing that it is likely to prevail on appeal. Gallup is raising arguments such as were considered in the two Commission orders in question and which were there rejected by the Commission. We believe Gallup has not made a strong showing that it will prevail on appeal.

Secondly, Gallup urges the stay because it believes it will suffer irreparable harm if the stay is not granted in that Gallup will suffer irreparable monetary injury if forced at this juncture to prepare its case on a Section 205 standard in light of its belief that a Section 206 Mobile-Sierra type of evidence and standard will be found applicable by the Court. PNM opposes Gallup's contentions of irreparable harm in the absence of a stay because, inter alia, Gallup claims monetary harm in contravention of Virginia Jobbers; Gallup can only be injured by an increase in rates, which in either type of Section 206 case can only be effected prospectively from Commission order; and Gallup's argument is moot since it filed its case on November 5, 1975. In Virginia Jobbers, (259 F. 2d 921, 925) the D.C. Circuit dismissed monetary injuries which Gallup claims as follows:

"The Key word in this consideration is irreparable. Mere injuries, however substantial, in terms of money, time and energy necessarily expended in the absence of a stay are not enough."

We believe that Gallup has not shown that without the relief of a stay it will be irreparably injured.

Thirdly, Gallup argues that PNM will suffer no harm as a result of Gallup's requested relief. PNM answers and states, inter alia, that in a Section 206 proceeding, rate relief can only be secured by PNM prospectively. We agree with PNM that inasmuch as relief pursuant to Section 206 can have prospective effect only that Gallup will not suffer harm within the meaning of Virginia Jobbers.

Finally, Gallup argues that the public interest lies in protecting the consumer from being exploited by excessive charges, while PNM argues that the public interest lies in the statutory insistence on just and reasonable rates. Gallup's arguments go to the issue of whether the proposed increase in just and reasonable which is the very matter and is to be litigated in the Section 206(a) hearing.

Our review of Gallup's motion, PNM's answer, as well as the entire record in this proceeding, indicates that Gallup's motion should be denied. For the same reasons stated above, we will also deny Gallup's motion for a temporary stay. Gallup in both cases has failed to meet the criteria set out in Virginia Jobbers.

The Commission finds:

Good cause does not exist to grant Gallup's October 24, 1975, motion for stay.

The Commission orders:

(A) Gallup's Ostober 24, 1975, motion for stay is denied.

(B) The Secretary shall cause prompt publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Commission.

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. OF OKLAHOMA

Rate Schedule Supplements

NOVEMBER 24, 1975.

Take notice that Public Service Company of Oklahoma (PSCO) tendered for filing on November 17, 1975, two agreements, both supplements to FPC Rate Schedule No. 118, and both dated September 23, 1975, in which PSCO proposes to sell system participation capacity without reserves from four generating units to Southwestern Electric Power Company (Southwestern) for the period from 1-1-76 to 12-31-76 (Docket No. ER76-258) and PSCO proposes to purchase system participation capacity without reserves from four generating units of Southwestern for the period 6-1-78 to 5-31-79 (Docket No. ER76-259). PSCO states that its agreement to the 1976 transaction is dependent upon acceptance for filing of the 1978 transaction and requests waiver of the 90-day notice requirement. PSCO requests an effective date of January 1, 1976, for the 1976 transaction agreement and June 1, 1978, for the 1978 transaction agreement.

(1) A Current Adjustment, pursuant to Section 17.3 of the Terms and Conditions of Southern's FPC Gas Tariff, for an increase in cost of purchased gas to jurisdictional customers of $24,999,436, or 4.178¢ per Mcf.

(2) A Surcharge Adjustment, pursuant to Section 17.4 of the General Terms and Conditions of Southern's FPC Gas Tariff, for Unrecovered Purchased Gas Costs of 2.372¢ per Mcf which is a net increase of 1.398¢ above the present Surcharge Adjustment. The balance in Account No. 191, Unrecovered Purchased Gas Costs, as of September 30, 1975, is $7,261,770 and will be collected over the estimated sales for the six-month period commencing January 1, 1976.

UNION CARBIDE CORP.

Petition of Declaratory Order

NOVEMBER 25, 1975.

Take notice that on November 5, 1975, Union Carbide Corporation (Union), 270 Park Avenue, New York, New York, filed in Docket No. CP76-153 pursuant to Section 1.7(c) of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, a petition for a declaratory order disclaiming jurisdiction over the exportation of cylinder of compressed methane gas of various chemical purities. In this regard Union asks for an order as to the correctness of their statement that:

> We do not believe that the methane products listed above are covered by the definition of natural gas in Section 717(a) of the Natural Gas Act and we do not believe that we need apply to the Federal Power Commission for authorization to make these exports.

Union is not a natural gas company subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. Union produces, inter alia, chemical products for sale. In this case Union states that its Speciality Gas Department produces methane gas products for various calibration and chemical non-fuel uses. Specifically, Union proposes to export to a customer in Brazil 55 cylinders of compressed methane gas (about 19580 cubic feet). A portion of this gas is to be 99.97 percent pure for use to form carbon black for use in electronic components, part is to be 99 percent pure for use in producing methane gas mixtures, and part is to be 97 percent pure to test gas appliances.

Union states that the Commerce Department, Office of Export Administration, has jurisdiction of exports of chemically pure hydrocarbons including the above described methane products. Union, however, does not state whether the gas is manufactured from non-natural gas feedstocks, or whether natural gas is processed for in purification. While this distinction does not appear to affect the jurisdiction of the Department of Commerce, such may control the jurisdiction of the Commission.[1]

Any person desiring to be heard or to make protest with reference to said petition for declaratory order should within 30 days file with the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street N.W., Washington D.C., 20426, a petition to intervene or to protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure [18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10] and the Regulations under the National Gas Act [18 CFR 157.10]. All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

UNITED GAS PIPE LINE CO., ET AL.

Establishment of Phase I

NOVEMBER 24, 1975.

In the matter of United Gas Pipe Line Company, Complainant, v. Billy J. McCombs, R. James Stillings, d/b/a Gastill Company, David A. Onsguard, Basin Petroleum Corporation, Louis H. Haring, Jr., National Exploration Company, E. I. du Pont D'Nemours & Company, and Bill Forney, Respondents.

Take notice that in Opinion No. 740-A, issued on November 7, 1975, the Commission established Phase I of these proceedings to facilitate consideration of issues relevant to the expanded inquiry ordered by that Opinion.

The instant proceedings arose from a complaint filed by United Gas Pipe Line Company (United) on October 9, 1973. That complaint alleged violations by respondents herein of Section 7 of the Natural Gas Act and a refusal to comply with the terms of a certificate of public convenience and necessity, issued in Docket No. G-12694. United founded its claim on a gas purchase contract dated April 29, 1953 which provided for the sale to United of volumes of gas produced from a tract referred to as the Butler B leasehold and from surrounding tracts to which the Butler B tract might later be unitized. Service under this contract was certified by the Commission and the Butler B tract was in fact incorporated as part of several units in 1971 and 1972. One of these units also included a tract referred to as the Butler A tract. United contended that the formation of the unit containing the Butler A tract gave United an entitlement to a portion of the gas produced from the tract. The issues of the existence and extent of this entitlement were addressed by the Commission in Opinion Nos. 740 and 740-A.

In Opinion No. 740-A, the Commission broadened the scope of the initial inquiry to consider a second basis for possibly finding a dedication to United of the gas produced from the Butler A tract. The Commission cited an amendment to the 1953 gas purchase contract which would appear to embrace the Butler A tract and dedicate all of its gas to United. A separate expedited Phase I was ordered to explore the possible existence of such a dedication. Since many of the issues presented earlier relating to unitization could be rendered moot by a Phase I finding that all of the A tract gas was dedicated by the 1953 contract, further consideration of all of the remaining issues was deferred to Phase II of the divided proceedings.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to the issues to be considered in Phase I of the instant proceedings should on or before December 1, 1975, file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules. All parties to the original proceeding are deemed parties to the Phase I proceeding and therefore need not file an additional petition to intervene.

WESTERN MASSACHUSETTS ELECTRIC CO.

Petition for Delay in the Implementation of Commission's Regulations

NOVEMBER 24, 1975.

Take notice that Western Massachusetts Electric Company, ("WMECO") on November 10, 1975, petitioned the Commission for a delay in the implementation of Section 35.14 of the Commission's Regulations. Section 35.14 provides, among other things, that all public utilities should conform their fuel adjustment clauses with said Section by January 1, 1976. Section 35.14(8) provides that the Commission upon showing of good cause may waive the aforementioned requirements for an additional one-year period. WMECO has requested the Commission to waive the requirements of Section 35.14 until a time when the type of fuel clause required thereunder can be incorporated as part of a rate filing which also reflects the capacity costs incurred by WMECO as a result of its ownership interest in a new 830,000 kw nuclear generating unit known as Millstone 2, but in no event later than December 31, 1976.

Copies of the filing were served upon WMECO's jurisdictional customers and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said application should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 C.F.R. 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 9, 1975. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this application are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

The filing indicates that said letters will serve as agreement between the parties until the preparation and execution of a purchased power agreement is completed. Delivery of energy under said letter agreements was scheduled to begin on November 1, 1975.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Power Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

FIRST UNITED BANCORPORATION, INC.

Order Approving Acquisition of Bank

First United Bancorporation, Inc., Fort Worth, Texas, a bank holding company within the meaning of the Bank Holding Company Act, has applied for the Board's approval under section 3(a)(3) of the Act (12 U.S.C. 1842(a)(3)) to acquire 51 percent or more of the successor by merger to Gateway National Bank of Fort Worth, Fort Worth, Texas ("Bank"). Applicant presently holds 24.9 percent of the voting shares of Bank. The bank into which Bank is to be merged has no significance except as a means to facilitate the acquisition of additional voting shares of Bank. Accordingly, the proposed acquisition of shares of the successor organization is treated herein as the proposed acquisition of the shares of Bank.

Notice of the application, affording opportunity for interested persons to submit comments and views, has been given in accordance with section 3(b) of the Act. The time for filing comments and views has expired, and the Board has considered the application and all comments received in light of the factors set forth in section 3(c) of the Act (12 U.S.C. 1842(c)).

Applicant, the ninth largest banking organization in Texas, controls eight banks with aggregate deposits of approximately $843 million, representing approximately 2.0 percent of the total deposits in commercial banks in the State of Texas.[1] Acquisition of Bank would not significantly increase Applicant's share of statewide deposits nor change Applicant's ranking among Texas banking organizations.

Bank ($18.6 million deposits) is the 18th largest of 46 banks in the Fort Worth banking market, which is approximated by the Fort Worth RMA, and controls 0.7 percent of the commercial bank deposits in that market. Applicant is the second largest banking organization in the Fort Worth market with five subsidiaries controlling 29.3 percent of the deposits therein.

Although Applicant and Bank operate in the same market, the facts of record indicate that there is little meaningful competition between Bank and any of Applicant's subsidiaries. In addition to directly owning 24.9 percent of the voting shares of Bank for several years, Applicant has had a long-standing and close working relationship with Bank. Moreover, it appears unlikely that this relationship between Applicant and Bank would be terminated even if the subject proposal were denied. Thus, the prospect of competition developing between the two is remote. Accordingly, based on the foregoing and other facts of record, the Board concludes that, on balance, competitive considerations are consistent with approval of the application.

The financial and managerial resources and future prospects of Applicant, its subsidiaries, and Bank are regarded as generally satisfactory and consistent with approval of the application. Acquisition of Bank by Applicant should enable Bank to expand and improve the banking services offered by it. Accordingly, the Board regards considerations relating to the convenience and needs of the community to be served as being consistent with approval of the application.

In the course of its consideration of the subject application, the Board noted that First National Bank of Fort Worth, Applicant's lead bank, was involved in the organization and subsequent operations of Bank. Specifically, First National Bank of Fort Worth made loans to three individuals for the purpose of their subscribing to approximately 60 percent of the shares of Bank; such individuals were not personally liable on the loans extended by First National Bank of Fort Worth; payments on these loans have been nominal and have been limited to the dividends declared on Bank's stock held by the three individuals; and First National Bank entered into an understanding with such individuals whereby it had the right to acquire the shares in Bank held by them at what was in effect the original subscription price. In the Board's view, the facts surrounding First National Bank's involvement with Bank are sufficient to justify at least a finding that, subsequent to the passage of the 1970 Amendments to the Act, First National Bank of Forth Worth violated the Bank Holding Company Act. However, in accord with the Board's recently announced position with respect to violations of the Act, the Board has scrutinized the underlying facts surrounding First National Bank's involvement with Bank and, upon an examination of all the facts of record, including the fact that the Federal Reserve System was apparently informed of First National Bank of Fort Worth's involvement with Bank on several occasions in the past and, in each of those instances, neither the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas nor the Board was able to conclude on the basis of the facts before them that a violation of the Act had occurred and no action was taken, the Board does not believe that the facts surrounding the violation in this case are such as to call for denial of this application. Accordingly, having reviewed all the facts of record in this case, the Board has considered the subject application on its merits and, on that basis, concludes that approval of the proposal would be consistent with the public interest.

Nevertheless, the Board believes it appropriate at this time to set forth for the record its view that transactions of the type described herein, if entered into without the prior approval of the Board, would justify a finding by the Board that a company (or a bank) has violated the provisions of the Bank Holding Company Act. Thus, the Board believes it appropriate to caution companies (and banks) to be circumspect in their activities and to avoid scrupulously entering into or continuing any arrangements that may reasonably indicate that the company has gained direct or indirect control or ownership of bank shares without the Board's prior approval, as required by the Act.

On the basis of the record, the application is approved for the reasons summarized above. The transaction shall not be made (a) before the thirtieth calendar day following the effective date of this Order, or (b) later than three months after the effective date of this Order, unless such period is extended for good cause by the Board, or by the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas pursuant to delegated authority.

By order of the Board of Governors,[2] effective November 26, 1975.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION

ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON REACTOR SAFEGUARDS, SUBCOMMITTEE ON EMERGENCY CORE COOLING SYSTEMS

Notice of Meeting

In accordance with the purposes of Sections 29 and 182b. of the Atomic Energy Act (42 U.S.C. 2039, 2232b.), the ACRS Subcommittee on Emergency Core Cooling Systems (ECCS) will hold a meeting on December 20, 1975 in Room 1046, 1717 H Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20555. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the effects of upper head injection (UHI) on the Westinghouse Electric Corporation's analytical models formulated to meet current ECCS criteria.

The agenda for the subject meeting shall be as follows:

Saturday, December 20, 1975, 8:30 a.m. until conclusion of business. The Subcommittee with any of its consultants who may be present will meet in open session to hear presentations by representatives of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation and the NRC Staff, and will discuss with these groups analytical models formulated to meet current ECCS criteria.

At the conclusion of the open session, the Subcommittee will caucus in a brief, closed session to determine whether the matters discussed have been adequately covered and whether the Subcommittee should recommend to the full Committee further ACRS consideration. During the session Subcommittee members and consultants will discuss their opinions and recommendations. Upon conclusion of this caucus, the Subcommittee may meet again in brief open session to announce its determination.

In addition to these closed deliberative sessions, it may be necessary for the Subcommittee to hold one or more closed sessions for the purpose of exploring with the NRC Staff and Applicant matters involving proprietary information, particularly with regard to specific features of UHI System design and analytical models.

I have determined, in accordance with Subsection 10(d) of Public Law 92-463, that it is necessary to conduct the above closed sessions to protect the free interchange of internal views in the final stages of the Subcommittee's deliberative process (5 U.S.C. 552(b)(5)) and to protect confidential proprietary information (5 U.S.C. 552(b)(4)). Separation of factual material from individuals' advice, opinions, and recommendations while closed Executive Sessions are in progress is considered impractical.

Practical considerations may dictate alterations in the above agenda or schedule. The Chairman of the Subcommittee is empowered to conduct the meeting in a manner that, in his judgment, will facilitate the orderly conduct of business, including provisions to carry over an incompleted open session from one day to the next.

With respect to public participation in the open portion of the meeting, the following requirements shall apply:

(a) Persons wishing to submit written statements regarding the agenda items may do so by providing a readily reproducible copy to the Subcommittee at the beginning of the meeting. Comments should be limited to safety related areas within the Committee's purview.

Persons desiring to mail written comments may do so by sending a readily reproducible copy thereof in time for consideration at this meeting. Comments postmarked no later than December 13, 1975 to Mr. T. G. McCreless, ACRS, NRC, Washington, D.C. 20555 will normally be received in time to be considered at this meeting.

Background information concerning items to be considered at this meeting can be found in documents on file and available for public inspection at the NRC Public Document Room, 1717 H St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20555.

(b) Those persons wishing to make an oral statement at the meeting should make a written request to do so, identifying the topics and desired presentation time so that appropriate arrangements can be made. The Committee will receive oral statements on topics relevant to the Committee's purview at an appropriate time chosen by the Chairman of the Subcommittee.

(c) Further information regarding topics to be discussed, whether the meeting has been cancelled or rescheduled, the Chairman's ruling on requests for the opportunity to present oral statements and the time allotted therefor can be obtained by a prepaid telephone call on December 18, 1975 to the Office of the Executive Director of the Committee (telephone 202/634-1374, Attn: Mr. T. G. McCreless) between 8:15 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., EST.

(d) Questions may be propounded only by members of the Subcommittee and its consultants.

(e) The use of still, motion picture, and television cameras, the physical installation and presence of which will not interfere with the conduct of the meeting, will be permitted both before and after the meeting and during any recess. The use of such equipment will not, however, be allowed while the meeting is in session.

(f) Persons with agreements or orders permitting access to proprietary information, other than plant security information, may attend portions of ACRS meetings where this material is being discussed upon confirmation that such agreements are effective and relate to the material being discussed.

The Executive Director of the ACRS should be informed of such an agreement at least three working days prior to the meeting so that the agreement can be confirmed and a determination can be made regarding the applicability of the agreement to the material that will be discussed during the meeting. Minimum information provided should include information regarding the date of the agreement, the scope of material included in the agreement, the project or projects involved, and the names and titles of the persons signing the agreement. Additional information may be requested to identify the specific agreement involved. A copy of the executed agreement should be provided to Mr. T. G. McCreless of the ACRS Office, prior to the beginning of the meeting.

(g) A copy of the transcript of the open portion of the meeting will be available for inspection on or after December 29, 1975 at the NRC Public Document Room, 1717 H St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20555. Copies of the minutes of the meeting will be made available for inspection at the NRC Public Document Room, 1717 H St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20555 after March 22, 1976. Copies may be obtained upon payment of appropriate charges.

Notice of Meeting

In accordance with the purposes of Sections 29 and 182b. of the Atomic Energy Act (42 U.S.C. 2039, 2232 b.), the ACRS Subcommittee on Emergency Core Cooling Systems (ECCS) will hold a meeting on December 19, 1975 in Room 1046, 1717 H Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20555. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the report of Carl J. Hocevar entitled: "A Critique of the Computer Safety Prediction Methods."

The agenda for subject meeting shall be as follows:

Friday, December 19, 1975, 8:30 a.m. until conclusion of business. The Subcommittee with any of its consultants who may be present will meet in open session to hear presentations by Mr. Carl J. Hocevar, the NRC Staff and several reactor vendors and will discuss with these groups computer safety prediction methods.

During the session Subcommittee members and consultants will discuss their opinions and recommendations. INTERNATIONAL ATOMIC ENERGY AGENCY DRAFT SAFETY GUIDE

Availability of Drafts for Public Comments

The International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) is developing a limited number of internationally acceptable codes of practice and safety guides for nuclear power plants. These codes and guides will include five areas: Government Organization, Siting, Design, Operations, and Quality Assurance. The purpose of these codes and guides is to provide IAEA guidance to countries beginning nuclear power programs.

The IAEA Codes of Practice and Safety Guides are developed in the following way. The IAEA has received and collated relevant existing information used by member countries. Using this collation as a starting point, an IAEA Working Group of a few experts then develops a preliminary draft. Following this, an IAEA Technical Review Committee reviews the preliminary draft and modifies it to the extent necessary to develop a draft acceptable to the IAEA Technical Review Committee. This draft Code of Practice or Safety Guide is then sent to the IAEA Senior Advisory Group, which reviews and modifies the draft as necessary to reach agreement on the draft and then forwards it to the IAEA Secretariat to obtain comments from the Member States.

An IAEA draft Safety Guide on Qualifications and Training of the Regulatory Staff has just been developed and the NRC staff is soliciting U.S. public comment on it.

An IAEA Working Group, consisting of Mr. P. Trueba of Spain, Mr. D. Blickle of the Federal Republic of Germany, and Mr. B. H. Faulkenberry (Nuclear Regulatory Commission) of the United States, developed this draft from an IAEA collation during a meeting in October 1975. An opportunity for public comment exists prior to review of this draft at the next meeting of the IAEA Technical Review Committee on Governmental Organization on December 15–19, 1975. Opportunities for public comment on later drafts will also be present as this draft is later sent to the IAEA Senior Advisory Group, then to the Member States.

In order to have them in time for the December 1975 meeting of the Technical Review Committee, comments on this draft Safety Guide are requested by December 8, 1975. Single copies of this draft may be obtained by a written request to the Director, Office of Standards Development, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20555.

REGULATORY GUIDE

Notice of Issuance and Availability

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has issued a guide in its Regulatory Guide Series. This series has been developed to describe and make available to the public methods acceptable to the NRC staff of implementing specific parts of the Commission's regulations and, in some cases, to delineate techniques used by the staff in evaluating specific problems or postulated accidents and to provide guidance to applicants concerning certain of the information needed by the staff in its review of applications for permits and licenses.

Regulatory Guide 4.7, Revision 1, "General Site Suitability Criteria for Nuclear Power Stations," discusses the major site characteristics related to safety, public health, and environmental issues that the NRC staff considers in determining the suitability of sites for light-water-cooled and high temperature gas-cooled nuclear power stations. It is intended to assist applicants in the initial stage of selecting potential sites for a nuclear power station. This revision reflects comments received from the public and other factors.

Comments and suggestions in connection with (1) items for inclusion in guides currently being developed (listed below) or (2) improvements in all published guides are encouraged at any time. Comments should be sent to the Secretary of the Commission, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20555, Attention: Docketing and Service Section.

Regulatory guides are available for inspection at the Commission's Public Document Room, 1717 H Street NW., Washington, D.C. Requests for single copies of issued guides (which may be reproduced) or for placement on an automatic distribution list for single copies of future guides should be made in writing to the Director, Office of Standards Development, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20555. Telephone requests cannot be accommodated. Regulatory guides are not copyrighted and Commission approval is not required to reproduce them.

REGULATORY GUIDE

Issuance and Availability

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has issued a new guide in its Regulatory Guide Series. This series has been developed to describe and make available to the pubic methods acceptable to the NRC staff of implementing specific parts of the Commission's regulations and, in some cases, to delineate techniques used by the staff in evaluating specific problems or postulated accidents and to provide guidance to applicants concerning certain of the information needed by the staff in its review of applications for permits and licenses.

Regulatory Guide 1.107, "Qualifications for Cement Grouting for Prestressing Tendons in Containment Structures," describes quality standards acceptable to the NRC staff for the use of portland cement grout as the corrosion inhibitor for prestressing tendons in prestressed concrete containment structures. In specific areas this guide endorses portions of existing national standards.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

AETNA VARIABLE ANNUITY LIFE INSURANCE CO.

Application

NOVEMBER 25, 1975.

In the matter of Aetna Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company, Variable Annuity Account C of Aetna Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company, and Variable Annuity Account D of Aetna Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company, 151 Farmington Avenue, Hartford, Connecticut, 06156.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Aetna Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company ("AVAR"), an Arkansas stock life insurance company, Variable Annuity Account C of AVAR ("Account C"), a separate account of AVAR registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") as a unit investment trust, and Variable Annuity Account D of AVAR ("Account D"), a separate account of AVAR not registered under the Act because its assets are derived solely from contracts issued in connection with pension and profit-sharing plans described in Section 3(c)(11) of the Act (collectively referred to as "Applicants") filed an application on October 31, 1975, pursuant to Section 17(b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") for an order of the Commission exempting the Applicants from the provisions of Section 17(a) of the Act to the extent necessary to permit certain Account D assets to be transferred to Account C and Account D liabilities to be assumed by Account C. All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations contained therein, which are summarized below.

The assets of Accounts C and D are invested in shares of either AEtna Variable Fund, Inc. ("Fund") or AEtna Encore Fund, Inc. ("Encore Fund") depending on the election made by owners of or participants under the variable annuity contracts issued by Accounts C and D. The application states that since May 1, 1975, variable annuity contracts sold in connection with plans covering employees within the meaning of Section 401(c)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code ("Section 401(c)(1) contracts") have been funded in Account D, but that such contracts sold prior to May 1, 1975, are funded in Account C as the result of a realignment program implemented as of May 1, 1975, under which Account C became registered as a unit investment trust and under with AVAR itself ceased to be an investment company.

The application further represents that AVAR is engaged in certain revisions of its variable annuity contracts which, in the very near future, will cause it to fund Section 401(c)(1) contracts in Account C. Applicants indicate that this would result in having a small portion of Section 401(c)(1) contracts funded in Account D, while all the rest would be funded in Account C. Accordingly, to simplify its administrative procedures, AVAR proposed to transfer the assets in Account D funding Section 401(c)(1) contracts, shares of Fund and Encore Fund, to Account C and, correspondingly, to have Account C assume certain liabilities connected with these contracts.

As of the time of transfer, each Account D Section 401(c)(1) contract will have a dollar value determined by multiplying the number of Accumulation Units credited to that contract by the then prevailing value of an Accumulation Unit. The contract value, so determined, would be transferred from Account D to Account C without any charge. On the same day, the number of Account Accumulation Units which will be credited to the contract as of the time of transfer will be determined by dividing the total value of the contract by the then value of an Account C Accumulation Unit. The corresponding contract liabilities would then be assumed by Account C. Thereupon, all of AVAR's contracts issued in connection with such plans would be funded in Account C. Applicants represent that the required approval of such transfer under Arkansas insurance law has been requested.

Section 17(a) of the Act, in pertinent part, provides that it shall be unlawful for any affiliated person of a registered investment company, or any affiliated person of such a person, knowingly to sell to or to purchase any security or other property from such registered company. Accounts C and D are affiliated persons by reason of their being separate accounts of the same insurance company (AVAR) and therefore under common control. Section 17(a) is applicable here because the proposal made by Applicant involves the sale of securities, shares of Fund and Encore Fund, by Account D to a registered investment company, Account C, in exchange for the assumption by Account C of the liabilities attributable to the Account D Section 401(c)(1) contracts. Section 17(b) of the Act provides that the Commission, upon application, may exempt a proposed transaction from the provisions of Section 17(a) if evidence establishes that the terms of the proposed transaction, including the consideration to be paid and received, are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned and the proposed transaction is consistent with the policy of each registered investment company concerned and with the general purposes of the Act.

Applicants assert that the terms of the proposed transaction are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned. The basic contractual right of the variable annuity contract owners involved would remain unaffected by the transfer, the proposed transfer would not affect the operation or objectives of Account C [the registered investment company concerned] and the general purposes of the Act would be furthered in that contract owners whose contracts are presently funded through Account D, which is not an investment company, following such transfer will be afforded the protections of the Act through Account C, which is a registered investment company.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that any interested person may, not later than December 22, 1975, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such a request, and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail (air mail if the person being served is located more than 500 miles from the point of mailing) upon Applicants at the address stated above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or in case of an attorney at law by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. As provided by Rule 0-5 of the Rules and Regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application will be issued as of course following such date unless the Commission orders a hearing upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request a hearing, or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered, will receive any notices and the date of the hearing (if ordered) and orders issued in this matter, including any postponements thereof.

For the Commission, by the Division of Investment Management Regulation pursuant to delegated authority.

Secretary.

(b) be subject to a fee of $100, payable on January 1 of each calendar year during which it is required to be so registered unless specifically exempted by the Exchange, and

(c) be subject to a fee of one per cent of the difference between the gross commission charged by any person registered with the Exchange pursuant to Rule 305 and the commissions payable by such person to members or member organizations with respect to transactions effected on the Exchange.

(2) Every person registered with the Exchange pursuant to Rule 305 shall file a certified report, on the 18th day following the month covered by the report, or the next business day if such day be a day on which the Exchange is closed, showing the total of all commissions received or receivable less the commissions paid to any member or member organization by such person, with respect to transactions effected by such member or member organizations on the Exchange for such person together with a computation of the fee required by paragraph (1)(c) of this rule and a check in that amount drawn to the order of and sent to the New York Stock Exchange, Inc., 11 Wall Street, New York, New York 10005, Attention: Treasurer's Department.

STATEMENT OF BASIS AND PURPOSE

The basis and purpose of the foregoing proposed rule changes are as follows:

2. Purpose of Proposed Rules.

Recent developments in the securities industry—implementation of competitive commission rates, start-up of the composite tape, availability of NYSE quotes to non-members—have tended to blur certain distinctions between member organizations and non-member broker/dealers. While non-members do a significant amount of trading on the NYSE, they are not now subject to Exchange rules designed to prevent manipulation and other abuses in the marketplace.

To make enforcement of NYSE market surveillance rules uniformly applicable to all broker/dealers who trade on the Exchange, and to prevent the possible erosion of the NYSE's surveillance standards, the staff believes that all non-member broker/dealers doing substantial business in securities on the Exchange through the facilities of member organizations should agree to (a) register with the Exchange; (b) be subject to the Exchange's market surveillance regulations and to sanction for breach thereof, including being barred with cause from transacting business on the Exchange; and (c) pay appropriate fees to the Exchange in connection with these surveillance activities.

Implementation of this proposal would involve the adoption of three new Exchange rules:

Rule 305 would require registration with the Exchange of non-member broker/dealers transacting business on the Exchange through a member or member organization in an amount in excess of $1,000,000 market value of securities, either during the immediately preceding twelve-month period or during any current calendar year. It would also extend Exchange regulation and surveillance jurisdiction over the Exchange-directed activities of such broker/dealers with regard to the anti-fraud and anti-manipulative provisions in the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and in the Exchange's rules.

Rule 306 would require that Exchange members and member organizations obtain Exchange approval prior to effecting transactions on the Exchange for non-member broker/dealers subject to regulation under Rule 305.

Rule 307 would require that any non-member broker/dealer subject to Rule 305 pay fees to cover the cost of regulating and overseeing its Exchange-directed activities.

3. Basis Under The Act For The Adoption Of The Rules.

Section 6(b)(7) of the Securities Exchange Act provides that the Exchange adopt fair procedures for prohibiting or limiting the right of any person to access services offered by the Exchange or a member thereof. Sections 6(d)(1) and 6(d)(3)(c) of the Act provide that any determination to prohibit or limit access shall be supported by a statement setting forth the specific grounds for such action; and that the Exchange may, in a summary proceeding, limit or prohibit access to services offered by the Exchange for any person who (a) is presently suspended or expelled from association with a self-regulatory body; (b) is in a financial or operational condition that precludes continued use of Exchange facilities; or (c) does not meet the qualification requirements or other prerequisites for such access, and therefore could not have access without jeopardizing the safety of investors, creditors, or members of the Exchange. Section 6(b)(4) of the Act specifies that Exchange rules must provide for an equitable allocation of dues, fees and other charges among its members, issuers and other persons using its facilities.

These provisions give the Exchange authority to require that non-member broker/dealers effecting transactions on the Exchange, through a member, must comply with appropriate rules, regulations and standards. In fact, the Exchange may have an obligation to its members to require that non-members pay an equitable share of the costs incurred by the Exchange in connection with executing their transactions and regulating their activities.

(i) The proposed rule relates to the Exchange's capacity to carry out the purposes of the Act and to comply, and to enforce compliance by its members and persons associated with its members with the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder, by affording the Exchange access to the books and records of non-member broker/dealers who effect transactions on the Exchange. Access to such information will enhance the ability of the Exchange to regulate its members and their associated persons.

(ii) Inapplicable.

(iii) Inapplicable.

(iv) The proposed Rule relates to the equitable allocation of reasonable dues, fees and other charges among its members, issuers and other persons using its facilities (or any system it operates or controls) in that it would require that non-member broker/dealers who effect transactions on the Exchange on a regular basis contribute to the costs involved in the maintenance of the market.

Non-member broker/dealers who currently utilize the facilities of the Exchange do not contribute to the expenses involved in the maintenance and regulation of the market. This situation is addressed in the Act by authorizing the Exchange to assess equitable charges against both member and non-member accessees.

Absent such charges, the Exchange's revenue base could be weakened at a time when additional regulatory responsibilities are being imposed on the Exchange. Accordingly, the proposed rules provide that non-member broker/dealers who regularly use NYSE facilities pay a reasonable fee to the Exchange.

Rule 307 provides that non-member broker/dealers pay a $200 registration fee covering the cost of processing their applications; a minimum $100 annual fee to cover the basic costs of overseeing their Exchange-directed market activity and a charge of one percent of the difference between the gross commission charged by such non-member broker/dealers and the commissions they pay to members or member organizations on account of transactions effected on the Exchange. These charges would be subject to revision from time to time, based on actual expense data. The aforementioned 1% charge parallels the Exchange's present 1% charge on members commissions.

(v) The proposed rules relate to the ability of the Exchange to (1) prevent fraud and manipulative acts and practices; (2) promote just and equitable principles of trade; (3) foster cooperation and coordination with persons engaged in regulating, clearing, settling, processing information with respect to, and facilitating transactions in securities; (4) remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and (5) protect investors and the public interest, in the following manner:

Regulation of non-member broker/dealers who regularly use the facilities of the Exchange would enhance the Exchange's ability to investigate and police manipulation in the marketplace. With its current limited jurisdiction, the Exchange often cannot compel non-member broker/dealers to provide information vital to an investigation of possible acts of fraud and manipulation of listed securities. A jurisdictional basis for requiring such non-members to comply with anti-manipulative regulations would both strengthen the integrity of the marketplace and better protect the interest of public investors.

Exchange Rules 305, 306 and 307 would establish a viable basis for regulation and surveillance of Exchange-directed activities of non-member broker/dealers and for charging equitable fees to offset the costs involved.

Rule 305 would specifically require non-member broker/dealer accessees to register with the Exchange and to agree to regulation by the Exchange. Such broker/dealers would be required to file an application, with an agreement to comply with Exchange rules in the area of market surveillance. The Exchange, in turn, would agree to permit them to transact business on the Exchange through a member organization. Rule 306 would prohibit Exchange members and member organizations from executing transactions on the Exchange for non-member broker/dealers subject to, but not in compliance with Rule 305, without the prior approval of the Exchange.

The Exchange could require non-member broker/dealer accessees to comply with three broad categories of Exchange rules (1) anti-fraud and anti-manipulative rules which bear on activity in securities traded on the Exchange; (2) anti-fraud and good business practice rules dealing with sales activities, and (3) financial and operational responsibility rules. However, the proposed rules only require broker/dealers who are subject to Rule 305 to be subject to Exchange regulation with respect to fraud and manipulation relating to transactions on the Exchange.

The Exchange's market surveillance staff is responsible for overseeing all activity on the Floor of the NYSE regardless of where a transaction order originates. Because of current jurisdictional limitations, this surveillance is basically limited to members and member organizations. Surveillance of the market place could be more effective if jurisdiction were extended to non-members utilizing Exchange facilities.

(vi) Although the proposed rules do not relate to the appropriate disciplining of persons associated with a member for violations of the provisions of the Act, to effectively regulate non-member broker/dealers, the Exchange must have the power to limit or prohibit access by broker/dealers found to have engaged in manipulative or fraudulent conduct. Rule 305 would establish the Exchange's authority in this area. Section 6(d) and 19(d), (e), and (f) of the Act recognizes this problem by establishing procedures to be used in determining whether a person may be denied access to Exchange facilities or may be sanctioned for improper conduct while having such access. The rules also cover acceptability proceedings for broker/dealer accessees, who, on the basis of past misconduct, poor financial or operational condition, or lack of competence, may be judged ineligible to transact business through the use of the facilities of the Exchange, or a member thereof.

(vii) The proposed rules comply with Section 6(d) of the Act by requiring that the same procedures used in acceptability proceedings involving members, member organizations, registered representatives and other employees be used in connection with Rule 305 accessees.

(viii) Inapplicable.

4. Comments Received From Members, Participants or Others on Proposed Rule.

No comments were solicited or received with respect to the subject rules.

5. Burden of Competition.

Adoption of Rules 305, 306 and 307 will not represent a burden on competition since they are designed to subject all broker/dealers who regularly effect transactions on the Exchange to similar regulation and surveillance with respect to transactions on the Exchange.

Rule 13. Any member or member organization who shall fail to pay any debt for dues, fine, net commission charge, or other sum owing the Exchange or its subsidiaries within 60 days after the same shall become payable shall, after due notice, be suspended until payment is made. If payment be not made within one year six months after such suspension, the membership of the delinquent member or member organization may be disposed of by the President on at least 10 days' written notice mailed to him or it at his or its address last registered with the Exchange.

No. 94-29, 16 (June 4, 1975), notice is hereby given that on November 24, 1975, the above-mentioned self-regulatory organization filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission a proposed rule change as follows:

STATEMENT OF THE TERMS OF THE SUBSTANCE OF THE PROPOSED RULE CHANGE

ARTICLE I. SELLING OF MEMBERSHIP

Rule 11. The President shall sell the membership of a member or member organization under any of the following circumstances:

1. The legal representative of a deceased or insane member has failed to consummate a sale of the membership within [one year] six months of the member's death or insanity or within such extended time as may have been granted such legal representative by the Exchange.

2. The member organization owning a membership has been in process of liquidation for more than [one year] six months without having sold the membership owned by it.

3. The member or member organization has been found to be insolvent and has not been reinstated to membership within [one year] six months of its insolvency or such further period as may have been extended it in writing by the Exchange.

5. The member or member organization has been expelled from the Exchange.

MIDWEST EXCHANGE'S STATEMENT OF BASIS AND PURPOSE

The proposed rule change promotes just and equitable principles of trade and protects the public interest. In expediting transfers of membership, persons with the proper experience and fiscal credibility who desire membership will be assured easier access. Also, public creditors of insolvent and irresponsible members will be more protected by the limited period in which the member has to further accumulate dues and debt.

THE TRAVELERS INSURANCE CO.

Application

NOVEMBER 25, 1975.

In the matter of the Travelers Insurance Company, the Travelers Fund A for Variable Annuities, and the Travelers Fund A–1 for Variable Annuities, One Tower Square, Hartford, Connecticut 06115.

Notice is hereby given that the Travelers Insurance Company ("Travelers"), a Connecticut stock life insurance company, The Travelers Fund A for Variable Annuities ("Account A"), a separate account of Travelers which is registered as an open-end management investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act"), and The Travelers Fund A–1 for Variable Annuities ("Account A–1"), a separate account of Travelers which is registered as an open-end management investment company under the Act, (hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Applicants") filed an application on May 13, 1975, and amendments thereto on June 17, July 7, August 20, September 15, and November 19, 1975, pursuant to Section 11 of the Act for an order on behalf of Applicants approving an offer of exchange, and for an order pursuant to Section 17(f) and for an order granting exemption pursuant to Section 6(c) of the Act from provisions of Rule 17f–2 and Sections 27(a)(3) and 27(c)(2) and Rule 22c–1 on behalf of Travelers and Account A–1, and pursuant to Section 6(c) of the Act for an order granting exemption from provisions of Section 27(a)(3) and Rule 22c–1 on behalf of Account A. All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations contained therein which are summarized below.

Account A, originally named The Travelers Fund for Variable Annuities, and Account A–1 are separate accounts of Travelers and, in accordance with Connecticut law, are facilities through which Travelers set aside and invests assets attributable to certain variable annuity contracts (the "variable annuity contracts").

The Travelers Corporation is a Connecticut stock insurance company which is the publicly held parent of The Travelers Group of companies.

Travelers Equities Fund, Inc. ("TEFI"), a Maryland corporation, is registered as a diversified open-end management investment company under the Act. The Travelers Investment Company and Travelers Equities Sales, Inc. act as investment adviser and principal underwriter respectively for Accounts A and A–1 and TEFI.

The Massachusetts Company, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of The Travelers Corporation, is a corporate trustee and it or its subsidiaries act as investment adviser or distributor of Massachusetts Fund, Freedom Fund, Inc., Independence Fund, Inc. and Massachusetts Fund for Income (hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Massachusetts Funds") which are open-end management investment companies registered under the Act.

SECTION 11(a)

Section 11(a) of the Act makes it unlawful for any registered open-end company or any principal underwriter therefor to make an offer to the holder of a security of such company or of any other open-end investment company to exchange his security for a security in the same or another such company on any basis other than the relative net asset values of the respective securities to be exchanged unless the terms of the offer have first been submitted to and approved by the Commission.

A. Travelers and Account A–1 seek an exemption from the requirements of Section 11(a) to allow a shareholder of TEFI or any one of the Massachusetts Funds to transfer his accumulated investment in this investment company to a variable annuity contract issued by Account A–1 at net asset value plus the imposition of a transfer charge of $5.00 or 1.25% of the accumulated investment, whichever is lesser.

Travelers and Account A–1 assert that it would be inappropriate to charge a shareholder of TEFI or any one of the Massachusetts Funds the sales charge for the exchange as no sales effort would be involved in the transaction, but as there are expenses involved in effecting the transfer, it would be unfair to existing contract owners to allow these persons to transfer their accounts and avoid these expenses. Applicants assert that this charge will pay for the administrative costs involved in the transfer, will not be used to compensate any sales personnel, and will apply only to those shareholders who elect the transfer and, therefore, will not discriminate against those shareholders who do not make the election.

B. The variable annuity contracts of Account A and Account A–1 allow for the transfer of all or any part of the cash value (the number of accumulation units credited to the contract in that separate account multiplied by the then accumulation unit value for that separate account) from Account A–1 to Account A and vice versa. Applicants represent that Account A–1 and Account A have different investment objectives and the transfer privilege will allow the contractowner to change his investment media when he deems that the circumstances warrant it.

The Applicants request an exemption from the requirements of Section 11(a) to impose a $5.00 transfer charge to cover the cost of effecting the transfer except that there will be no charge imposed on the first transfer and there will be no charge on any request for transfer received between 60 and 30 days before the due date of the first annuity payment under the variable annuity contract. A contract owner will be notified between 90 and 60 days before the due date of the first annuity payment of his right to transfer cash value at no cost. Applicants will absorb the cost of a final transfer before the annuity payout commences in order that the contractowner, may, at no cost, elect the investment media for the to 60 days before the annuity payout beannuity payout period. At any time piror gins, Applicants will not consider a transfer of cash value to be the owner's final election. No transfer will be allowed less than 30 days prior to the commencement of the annuity payments due to the time necessary for administrative handling and no transfer will be allowed after the annuity payout period begins.

Applicants represent that the $5.00 transfer charge will be uniformly applied only to those individuals who exercise the transfer privilege to pay for the administrative cost involved and, therefore, will not be discriminatory to those contractowners who do not exercise the transfer privilege.

SECTION 17(f)(3) AND RULE 17f–2

Section 17(f)(3) of the Act provides that a registered management investment company may maintain its securities and similar investments in its own custody, but only in accordance with such rules and regulations or orders as the Commission may from time to time prescribe for the protection of investors. Rule 17f–2(b) provides, with certain exceptions, that all securities and similar investments must be deposited in the safekeeping of a bank or other company whose functions and physical facilities are supervised by federal or state authority. Rule 17f–2(d) provides that no more than five persons shall have access to such investments.

Travelers and Account A–1 request an order pursuant to Section 17(f)(3) and, pursuant to Section 6(c), an order of exemption from Rule 17f–2, to permit duly authorized representatives of the Connecticut Commissioner of Insurance to have access to the assets of Account A–1 on the grounds that adequate protection will be afforded to variable annuity contract owners.

The assets of Account A–1 will be deposited with the Hartford National Bank and Trust Company, Hartford, Connecticut, pursuant to the terms of a safekeeping agreement. Applicants represent that access by authorized representatives of the Connecticut Commissioner of Insurance will facilitate the regulatory functions of the Commissioner and will provide an additional protection for contract owners.

RULE 22c–1

Rule 22c–1 promulgated under Section 22(c) of the Act provides, in pertinent part, that no registered investment company issuing any redeemable security, no person designated in such issuer's prospectus as authorized to consummate actions in any such security, and no principal underwriter of, or dealer in, any such security shall sell, redeem, or repurchase any such security except at a price based on the current net asset value of such security which is next computed after receipt of a tender of such security for redemption or of an order to purchase or sell such security.

Applicants state that the literal requirements of Rule 22c–1 may not be met by the method proposed to be used by Accounts A and A–1 to apply the first purchase payment under the variable annuity contract. Under the proposed procedure, the first net purchase payment will be applied by Travelers to provide accumulation units to the credit of the contract as of the valuation next following receipt of the purchase payment at the Travelers home office, or on the date indicated by the purchaser in the application for the contract, if later. An election by the purchaser of a later date could result in the sale of a security at a price which is not based on the current net asset value of such security which is next computed after receipt of an order to purchase such security. Applicants represent that it is industry practice to allow an investor to specify a date for applying the first payment under a variable annuity contract and that such a request by an investor is usually made for valid tax reasons.

Applicants request an exemption from Rule 22c–1 to allow the purchaser, if he elects, to designate a specific date for commencement of the variable annuity contract and to allow Travelers to apply the first purchase payment under the variable annuity contract in accordance with this designation.

Applicants assert that Rule 22c–1 was intended to eliminate dilution resulting from the sale, redemption or repurchase of securities at a price other than their net asset value and speculative trading practices which are unfair to the other shareholders of an investment company issuing redeemable securities. Applicants assert that this proposed valuation method would not lead to the abuses which Rule 22c–1 was designed to eliminate.

Section 27(a)(3) of the Act makes it unlawful for any registered investment company issuing periodic payment plan certificates, or for any depositor of or underwriter for such company, to sell any such certificate if the amount of sales load deducted from any one of the first 12 monthly payments exceeds proportionately the amount deducted from any other such payment or if the amount of sales load deducted from any subsequent payment exceeds proportionately the amount deducted from any other subsequent payment.

Rule 27a–2 provides, in pertinent part, that a registered separate account shall be exempt from Section 27(a)(3) provided that the amount of sales load deducted from any payment during a contract year does not exceed the proportionate amount deducted from any prior payment during the contract period.

The amount of sales load deduction from a Single Premium Variable Annuity Contract is 5.25% of the first $15,000 of the premium payment (purchase payment). The sales load on the portion of a single premium in excess of $15,000 is 3.25% of the next $35,000, 1.25% of the next $50,000 and 0.25% of any portion in excess of $100,000. No further premium payment may be made under a single premium contract without the consent of Travelers.

Applicants state, however, that an additional premium payment may be made, with the consent of Travelers. Accordingly, under the schedule of sales deductions it is possible that the percentage of sales load deducted from premium payments made in any contract year after the first year could exceed proportionately the percentage deducted from premium payments made in any previous contract year. For example, if in the first contract year the single premium was $45,000, the applicable sales load would be 5.25% of the first $15,000 and 3.25% of the next $30,000. However, if in the fourth contract year Travelers consented to an additional single premium of $10,000, the sales load would be 5.25%. Applicants state that since an increase in the level of sales load would occur during the term of the contract, Rule 27a–2 would not be applicable and the uniformity of deduction provisions of Section 27(a)(3) would be violated.

Applicants request an exemption from Section 27(a)(3) of the Act to permit the deduction of sales charges from additional premium payments received on Single Premium Variable Annuity Contracts issued by Account A–1 and Account A to be at the highest applicable rate, provided that the percentage of sales load deducted may not exceed 9%.

Applicants assert that this sales load deduction is necessary as there will be sales effort required in acquiring additional premium payments. They also state that such additional premium payments may be advantageous for an investor since the purchase of a new contract would require the payment of certain administrative charges which are assessed against each contract.

Applicants assert that Section 27(a)(3) of the Act was designed to lessen losses which might be incurred on early termination of periodic payment plan certificates involving a front-end load arrangement. Applicants represent that their proposed sales deduction schedule does not involve a frontend load arrangement and that such schedule cannot lead to the abuses intended to be curbed by Section 27(a)(3).

Section 27(c)(2) of the Act prohibits a registered investment company, or a depositor or underwriter for such company, from selling periodic payment plan certificates unless the proceeds of all payments, other than the sales load, are depositor or underwriter for such comtodian and held under an indenture agreement containing, in substance, the provisions required by Sections 26(a)(2) and 26(a)(3) of the Act for a unit investment trust. Section 26(a)(2) requires the trustee or custodian to segregate and hold in trust all securities and cash of the trust, places certain restrictions on charges which may be made against the trust income and corpus, and excludes from expenses which the trustee or custodian may charge against the trust any payments to the depositor or principal underwriter other than a fee, not exceeding such reasonable amount as the Commission may prescribe, for performing bookkeeping and other administrative service delegated to them by the trustee or custodian. Section 26(a)(3) governs the circumstances under which the trustee or custodian may resign. Travelers and Account A–1 request an exemption from Section 27(c)(2) to permit the proceeds of all payments under the variable annuity contracts for which Account A–1 is the funding medium to be held by Travelers on the ground that the obligations undertaken by Travelers, a regulated insurance company, to the holders of such contracts provide substantially the protection contemplated by the requirements of Section 27(c)(2).

Travelers and Account A–1 have consented that the order granting exemption from Section 27(c)(2) may be subject to the conditions that: (1) the charges for administrative services under the variable annuity contracts for which Account A–1 is the funding medium shall not exceed such reasonable amounts as the Commission shall prescribe, jurisdiction being reserved for such purpose, and (2) the payment of sums and charges out of the assets of Account A–1 shall not be deemed to be exempted from regulation by the Commission by reason of the order, provided that the consent of Travelers and Account A–1 to the conditions shall not be deemed to be a concession to the Commission of authority to regulate the payments of sums and charges out of such assets other than charges for administrative services, and Travelers and Account A–1 reserve the right to assert in any proceeding before the Commission, in any suit or action in any court or otherwise, that the Commission has no authority to regulate the payment of such other sums or charges.

Section 6(c) of the Act provides, in pertinent part, that the Commission may conditionally or unconditionally exempt any person, security, or transaction, or any class or classes of persons, securities, or transactions from any provisions of the Act or from any rule or regulation under the Act, if and to the extent such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the Act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than December 22, 1975, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request, and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Office of the Secretary

[TA–W–165]

BARRINGER KNITTING MILLS, INC.

Certification Regarding Eligibility to Apply For Worker Adjustment Assistance

In accordance with Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974 the Department of Labor herein presents the results of TA–W–165; investigation regarding certification of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance as prescribed in Section 222 of the Act.

The investigation was initiated on September 19, 1975 in response to a worker petition received on that date which was filed by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union (AFL–CIO) on behalf of workers and former workers producing ladies' sweaters and knit tops at Barringer Knitting Mills, Inc., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The notice of investigation was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 44638) on September 29, 1975. No public hearing was requested and none was held.

The information upon which the determination was made was obtained principally from officials of Barringer Knitting Mills, its customers, industry analysts, the U.S. Department of Commerce, and the U.S. International Trade Commission and Department files.

In order to make an affirmative determination and issue a certification of eligibility to apply for adjustment assistance, each of the group eligibility requirements of Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974 must be met:

(1) That a significant number or proportion of the workers in such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision of the firm have become totally or partially separated, or are threatened to become totally or partially separated,

(2) That sales or production, or both, of such firm or subdivision have decreased absolutely, and

(3) That increases of imports of articles like or directly competitive with articles produced by such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision thereof contributed importantly to such total or partial separation, or threat thereof, and to such decline in sales or production.

For purposes of paragraph (3), the term "contributed importantly" means a cause which is important but not necessarily more important than any other cause.

Significant Total or Partial Separations. Average employment of production workers at Barringer reached peak levels in the first week of November 1974 and declined 14 percent thereafter through the end of the year.

Employment and average weekly hours for production workers at Barringer declined six percent and twelve percent respectively in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the first eight months of 1974.

Sales or Production, or Both, Have Decreased Absolutely. Sales of sweaters and knit tops by Barringer declined nine percent in 1974 from 1973 and declined 26 percent in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974. Production at the firm followed a pattern similar to that of sales during the period.

Increased Imports Contributed Importantly. Domestic production of knit sweaters has been adversely affected by both the economic recession and increased import competition. Imports of women's, misses', girls', and infants' sweaters increased absolutely in each year from 1970 to 1974 and increased 15 percent in the first seven months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974. The ratio of imports of sweaters to domestic production increased from 93.7 percent in 1973 to 97.3 percent in 1974.

Major U.S. retailers have increased their purchases of imported sweaters relative to purchases of domestic sweaters in the first six months of 1975. Customers of Barringer indicate that their purchases from Barringer have declined in recent months while in many cases their purchases of imported sweaters have increased.

Conclusion. After careful review of the facts obtained in the investigation, I conclude that increases of imports like or directly competitive with knit sweaters produced by Barringer Knitting Mills, Inc., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania contributed importantly to the total or partial separation of the workers of that firm. In accordance with the provisions of the Act, I make the following certification:

All hourly, piecework, and salaried employees of Barringer Knitting Mills, Inc., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after November 2, 1974 are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Title II, Chapter 2 of the Trade Act of 1974.

Signed at Washington, D.C. this 22nd day of November 1975.

HERBERT N. BLACKMAN,
Associate Deputy Under Secretary for Trade and Adjustment Policy.

BARRY KNITTING MILLS

Certification Regarding Eligibility To Apply for Worker Adjustment Assistance

In accordance with Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974 the Department of Labor herein presents the results of TA–W–167; investigation regarding certification of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance as prescribed in Section 222 of the Act.

The investigation was initiated on September 19, 1975 in response to a worker petition received on that date which was filed by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union (AFL–CIO) on behalf of workers and former workers producing men's and ladies' sweaters at Barry Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The notice of investigation was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 44638) on September 29, 1975. No public hearing was requested and none was held.

The information upon which the determination was made was obtained principally from officials of Barry Knitting Mills, its customers, the U.S. International Trade Commission, U.S. Department of Commerce, and Department files.

In order to make an affirmative determination and issue a certification of eligibility to apply for adjustment assistance, each of the group eligibility requirements of Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974 must be met:

(1) That a significant number or proportion of the workers in such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision of the firm have become totally or partially separated, or are threatened to become totally or partially separated,

(2) That sales or production, or both, of such firm or subdivision have decreased absolutely, and

(3) That increases of imports of articles like or directly competitive with articles produced by such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision thereof contributed importantly to such total or partial separations, or threat thereof, and to such decline in sales or production.

For purposes of paragraph (3), the term "contributed importantly" means a cause which is important but not necessarily more important than any other cause.

Significant Total or Partial Separations. Employment of production workers at Barry declined nine percent in 1974 from 1973 and declined 15 percent in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974. Average weekly hours declined three percent in 1974 and seven percent in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974.

Sales or Production, or Both, Have Decreased Absolutely. Ninety percent of all production at Barry during 1973 and 1974 was of men's sweaters. Total sales declined 29 percent in quantity and 14 percent in value in 1974 and 1973; and declined 27 percent in quantity and 24 percent in value in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the first eight months of 1974. Production declined in a similar manner.

Increased Imports Contributed Importantly. Domestic production of knit sweaters has been adversely affected by both the economic recession and increased import competition. With the exception of one year during the 1970–1974 period, imports of men's and boys' sweaters increased in both absolute and relative terms. Imports in the first six months of 1975 were 60 percent greater than during the same period in 1974. Imports relative to domestic production were 24 percent in 1970, 33 percent in 1972, and 39 percent in 1974.

Major U.S. retailers have significantly increased their purchases of imported sweaters relative to purchases of domestic sweaters in the first six months of 1975. Firms such as Barry which produce on a contractual basis have been particularly affected by increased imports in that their customers, most of whom also manufacture, are in many cases able to absorb their own sales declines by reducing purchases from their contractors.

Conclusion. After careful review of the facts obtained in the investigation, I conclude that increases of imports like or directly competitive with knit sweaters produced by Barry Knitting Mills, Inc., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania contributed importantly to the total or partial separation of the workers of that firm. Section 223(b)(2) of the Trade Act of 1974 provides that a certification of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance may not apply to any worker last separated from the firm or subdivision more than six months before April 3, 1975, the effective date of the new program. In accordance with the provisions of the Act, I make the following certification:

All hourly, piecework, and salaried employees of Barry Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after October 9, 1974 are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Title II, Chapter 2, of the Trade Act of 1974.

Signed at Washington, D.C. this 22nd day of November 1975.

HERBERT N. BLACKMAN,
Associate Deputy Under Secretary for Trade Adjustment Policy.

NA-LOR MANUFACTURING CO.

Notice of Negative Determination Regarding Eligibility To Apply for Worker Adjustment Assistance

In accordance with Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974 the Department of Labor herein presents the results of TA–W–161; investigation regarding certification of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance as prescribed in Section 222 of the Act.

The investigation was initiated on September 19, 1975 in response to a worker petition received on that date which was filed by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union (AFL–CIO) on behalf of workers and former workers producing men's sweaters at Na-lor Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The notice of investigation was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 44640) on September 29, 1975. No public hearing was requested and none was held.

The information upon which the determination was made was obtained principally from officials of Na-Lor Knitting Mills, Inc., its customers, the U.S. Department of Commerce, the U.S. International Trade Commission, industry analysts, and Department files.

In order to make an affirmative determination and issue a certification of eligibility to apply for adjustment assistance, each of the group eligibility requirements of Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974 must be met:

(1) That a significant number or proportion of the workers in such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision of the firm have become totally or partially separated, or are threatened to become totally or partially separated,

(2) That sales or production, or both, of such firm or subdivision have decreased absolutely, and

(3) That increases of imports of articles like or directly competitive with articles produced by such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision thereof contributed importantly to such total or partial separation, or threat thereof, and to such decline in sales or production.

For purposes of paragraph (3), the term "contributed importantly" means a cause which is important but not necessarily more important than any other cause.

Significant Total or Partial Separations. Employment of production workers at Na-Lor increased 10 percent 1974 from 1973 and declined less than two percent in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the first eight months of 1974. Average weekly hours increased two percent in 1974 as compared to 1973 and declined one percent in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974.

Sales or Production, or Both, Have Decreased Absolutely. In addition to producing sweaters, Na-Lor also orders sweaters from other firms which produce on a contractual basis. Contract production comprised 30 percent of Na-Lor's total sweater sales during 1973–1974. Total sales of sweaters by Na-Lor increased 18 percent in 1974 from 1973, and declined 21 percent in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the first eight months of 1974. Production by Na-Lor increased 18 percent in value in 1974 from 1973 and increased four percent in value in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974.

Increased Imports Contributed Importantly. Domestic production of knit sweaters has been adversely affected by both the economic recession and increased import competition. With the exception of one year during the 1970–1974 period, imports of men's and boys' sweaters increased in both absolute and relative terms.

The evidence developed in the Department's investigation reveals that, while total sales of sweaters by Na-Lor declined in the first eight months of 1975, the firm was able to maintain a stable level of production at its own plant by reducing its orders from its contractors. In addition, increased sales of cut and sewn shirts and men's sportswear by Na-Lor, all of which are produced for the firm under contract, resulted in increased employment of workers involved in the stocking and shipping operations at the firm and helped to stabilize total employment levels.

Conclusion. After careful review of the facts obtained in the investigation, I conclude that increases of imports like or directly competitive with knit sweaters produced by Na-Lor Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania did not contribute importantly to the total or partial separation of the workers of that firm.

Signed at Washington, D.C. November 22, 1975.

Associate Deputy Under Secretary for Trade and Adjustment Policy.

RICHLINE KNITTING MILLS

Certification Regarding Eligibility To Apply for Worker Adjustment Assistance

In accordance with Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974 the Department of Labor herein presents the results of TA–W–157; investigation regarding certification of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance as prescribed in Section 222 of the Act.

The investigation was initiated on September 19, 1975 in response to a worker petition received on that date which was filed by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union (AFL–CIO) on behalf of workers and former workers producing men's and ladies' sweaters at Richline Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The notice of investigation was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 44645) on September 29, 1975. No public hearing was requested and none was held.

The information upon which the determination was made was obtained principally from officials of Richline Knitting Mills, its customers, the U.S. International Trade Commission, U.S. Department of Commerce, and Department files.

In order to make an affirmative determination and issue a certification of eligibility to apply for adjustment assistance, each of the group eligibility requirements of Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974 must be met:

(1) That a significant number, or proportion of the workers in such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision of the firm have become totally or partially separated, or are threatened to become totally or partially separated.

(2) That sales or production, or both, of such firm or subdivision have decreased absolutely, and

(3) That increases of imports of articles like or directly competitive with articles produced by such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision thereof contributed importantly to such total or partial separation, or threat thereof, and to such decline in sales or production.

For purposes of paragraph (3), the term "contributed importantly" means a cause which is important but not necessarily more important than any other cause.

Significant Total or Partial Separations. Employment of production workers at Richline declined three percent in 1974 from 1973 levels, and declined 26 percent in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974. Average weekly hours for production workers declined eight percent in 1974 from 1973 and 21 percent in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the first eight months in 1974.

Sales or Production, or Both, Have Decreased Absolutely. The value of sales at Richline increased one percent in 1974 from 1973 and then declined 16 percent in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974.

Increased Imports Contributed Importantly. Domestic production of knit sweaters has been adversely affected by both the economic recession and increased import competition. With the exception of one year during the 1970–1974 period, imports of men's and boys' sweaters increased absolutely and relatively to domestic production and consumption. Imports of women's, misses', girls' and infants' sweaters increased absolutely in each year during 1970–1974 and increased 15 percent in the first seven months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974. The ratio of imports of sweaters to domestic production increased from 93.7 percent in 1973 to 97.3 percent in 1974.

Major U.S. retailers have significantly increased their purchases of imported sweaters relative to purchases of domestic sweaters in the first six months of 1975. Major customers of Richline indicate that their purchases from Richline have declined because their own sales have declined at the retail level due to increased import competition and because, in some cases, those customers have themselves increased purchases of imported sweaters at the expense of sweaters formerly purchased from Richline.

Conclusion. After careful review of the facts obtained in the investigation, I conclude that increases of imports like or directly competitive with knit sweaters produced by Richline Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania contributed importantly to the total or partial separation of the workers of that firm. Section 223(b) (2) of the Trade Act of 1974 provides that a certification of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance may not apply to any worker last separated from the firm or subdivision more than six months before April 3, 1975, the effective date of the new program. In accordance with the provisions of the Act, I make the following certification:

All hourly, piecework, and salaried employees of Richline Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after October 3, 1974 are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Title II, Chapter 2, of the Trade Act of 1974.

Signed at Washington, D.C. this 22nd day of November 1975.

Associate Deputy Under Secretary for Trade and Adjustment Policy.

SOMERSET KNITTING MILLS; EASTERN KNITTING MILLS

Certification Regarding Eligibility to Apply for Worker Adjustment Assistance

In accordance with Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974 the Department of Labor herein presents the results of TA-W-162; investigation regarding certification of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance as prescribed in Section 222 of the Act.

The investigation was initiated on September 19, 1975 in response to a worker petition received on that date which was filed by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union (AFL–CIO) on behalf of workers and former workers producing men's sweaters and sweater shirts at Somerset Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The investigation was expanded to include Eastern Knitting Mills, Blenheim, New Jersey. The firms are subsidiaries of the Phillips-Van Heusen Corporation.

The notice of investigation was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 44641–44642) on September 29, 1975. No public hearing was requested and none was held.

The information upon which the determination was made was obtained principally from officials of Somerset Knitting Mills, its customers, the U.S. International Trade Commission, U.S. Department of Commerce, and Department files.

In order to make an affirmative determination and issue a certification of eligibility to apply for adjustment assistance, each of the group eligibility requirements of Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974 must be met:

(1) That a significant number or proportion of the workers in such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision of the firm have become totally or partially separated, or are threatened to become totally or partially separated,

(2) That sales or production, or both, of such firm or subdivision have decreased absolutely, and

(3) That increases of imports of articles like or directly competitive with articles produced by such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision thereof contributed importantly to such total or partial separations, or threat thereof, and to such decline in sales or production

For purposes of paragraph (3), the term "contributed importantly" means a cause which is important but not necessarily more important than any other cause.

Separate data were not available on employment, production, and sales for the Philadelphia and Blenheim plants; thus all data reflects combined operations at both plants.

Significant Total or Partial Separations. Employment of production workers at Somerset and Eastern Knitting Mills increased four percent between 1973 and 1974. Employment declined 18 percent in the first nine months of 1975 compared to the first nine months of 1974.

Sales or Production, or Both, Have Decreased Absolutely. Company sales increased by three percent between 1973 and 1974. Sales in the first eight months of 1975 declined by 37 percent from the same period in 1974.

Increased Imports Contributed Importantly. Domestic production of knit sweaters and sweater shirts has been adversely affected by both the economic recession and increased import competition. With the exception of one year during the 1970–1974 period, imports of men's and boys' sweaters increased in both absolute and relative terms. Imports in the first seven months of 1975 were 60 percent greater than during the same period in 1974.

Major U.S. retailers have significantly increased their purchases of imported sweaters relative to purchases of domestic sweaters in the first six months of 1975. Production at Somerset and Eastern is interchangeable. Major customers of Somerset indicate that their purchases from Somerset have declined because many of their own customers at the retail level have switched increasingly to imported sweaters.

Conclusion. After careful review of the facts obtained in the investigation, I conclude that increases of imports like or directly competitive with knit sweaters and sweater shirts produced by Somerset Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and Eastern Knitting Mills, Blenheim, New Jersey contributed importantly to the total or partial separation of the workers of those firms. Section 223(b) (2) of the Trade Act of 1974 provides that a certification of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance may not apply to any worker last separated from the firm or subdivision more than six months before April 3, 1975, the effective date of the new program. In accordance with the provisions of the Act, I make the following certification:

All hourly, piecework, and salaried employees of Somerset Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and Eastern Knitting Mills, Blenheim, New Jersey who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after October 3, 1974 are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Title II, Chapter 2, of the Trade Act of 1974.

Signed at Washington, D.C. this 20th day of November, 1975.

Director, Office of Foreign Economic Policy.

WILSHIRE KNITTING MILLS

Certification Regarding Eligibility To Apply for Worker Adjustment Assistance

In accordance with Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974 the Department of Labor herein presents the results of TA-W-163; investigation regarding certification of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance as prescribed in Section 222 of the Act.

The investigation was initiated on September 19, 1975 in response to a worker petition received on that date which was filed by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union (AFL–CIO) on behalf of workers and former workers producing ladies' sweaters at Wilshire Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The notice of investigation was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 44643) on September 29, 1975. No public hearing was requested and none was held.

The information upon which the determination was made was obtained principally from officials of Wilshire Knitting Mills, its customers, the U.S. International Trade Commission, U.S. Department of Commerce, and Department files.

In order to make an affirmative determination and issue a certification of eligibility to apply for adjustment assistance, each of the group eligibility requirements of Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974 must be met:

(1) That a significant number or proportion of the workers in such workers' firm or an appporpriate subdivision of the firm have become totally or partially separated, or are threatened to become totally or partially separated,

(2) That sales or production, or both, of such firm or subdivision have decreased absolutely, and

(3) That increases of imports of articles like or directly competitive with articles produced by such workers' firm or an appropriate subdivision thereof contributed importantly to such total or partial separations, or threat thereof, and to such decline in sales or production

For purposes of paragraph (3), the term "contributed importantly" means a cause which is important but not necessarily more important than any other cause.

Significant Total or Partial Separations. Employment of production workers at Wilshire declined eight percent in 1974 from 1973 levels, and declined 12 percent in the first six months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974. Average weekly hours for production workers declined three percent in 1974 and 27 percent in the first six months of 1975 compared to the first six months in 1974.

Sales or Production, or Both, Have Decreased Absolutely. Sales of sweaters by Wilshire declined four percent in 1974 from 1973 and declined 46 percent in the first eight months of 1975 compared to the first eight months of 1974.

Increased Imports Contributed Importantly. Domestic production of knit sweaters has been adversely affected by both the economic recession and increased import competition. Imports of women's, misses', girls' and infants' sweaters increased absolutely in each year from 1970 to 1974 and increased 15 percent in the first seven months of 1975 compared to the same period in 1974. Imports in relation to domestic production increased from 93.7 percent in 1973 to 97.3 percent in 1974.

Major U.S. retailers have significantly increased their purchases of imported sweaters relative to purchases of domestic sweaters in the first six months of 1975. Major customers of Wilshire indicate that their purchases from Wilshire have declined because many of their own customers at the retail level have switched increasingly to imports. Firms such as Wilshire which produce on a contractual basis have been particularly affected by increased imports in that their customers, many of whom also manufacture, are often able to absorb their own sales declines by reducing purchases from their contractors.

Conclusion. After careful review of the facts obtained in the investigation, I conclude that increases of imports like or directly competitive with knit sweaters produced by Wilshire Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania contributed importantly to the total or partial separation of the workers of that firm. Section 223(b) (2) of the Trade Act of 1974 provides that a certification of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance may not apply to any worker last separated from the firm or subdivision more than six months before April 3, 1975, the effective date of the new program. In accordance with the provisions of the Act, I make the following certification:

All hourly, piecework, and salaried employees of Wilshire Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after October 3, 1974 are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Title II, Chapter 2, of the Trade Act of 1974.

Signed at Washington, D.C. this 22nd day of November 1975.

Associate Deputy Under Secretary for Trade and Adjustment Policy.

The authority has been granted to each institution of highest education upon the representations of the institution which, among other things, were that employment of full-time students at subminimum wages is necessary to prevent curtailment of opportunities for employment, the hiring of full-time students at subminimum wages will not create a substantial probability of reducing the full-time employment opportunities of persons other than those employed under the authority, and such authority will not result in a reduction of the wage rate paid to a current employee. The authority may be annulled or withdrawn in the manner provided in Part 528 of Title 29 of the Code of Federal Regulations. Any person aggrieved by the granting of the authority to any of the institutions listed may seek a review or reconsideration thereof on or before January 19, 1976.

Signed at Washington, D.C. this 28th day of November, 1975.

DONALD T. CRUMBACK,
Authorized Representative of the Administrator.

MOTOR CARRIER APPLICATIONS AND CERTAIN OTHER PROCEEDINGS

NOVEMBER 28, 1975.

The following publications include motor carrier, water carrier, broker, freight forwarder and rail proceedings indexed as follows: (1) grants of authority requiring republication prior to certification; (2) notices of filing of petitions for modification of existing authorities; (3) new operating right's applications directly related to and processed on a consolidated record with finance applications filed under Sections 5(2) and 212(b); (4) notices of filing of Sections 5(2) and 210a(b) finance applications; and (5) notices of filing of Section 212(b) transfer applications.

Each applicant (except as otherwise specifically noted) states that there will be no significant effect on the quality of the human environment resulting from approval of its application in compliance with the requirements of 49 C.F.R. § 1100.250.

Protests to the granting of the requested authority must be filed with the Commission on or before January 2, 1976, (unless otherwise specified). Failure seasonably to file a protest will be construed as a waiver of opposition and participation in the proceeding. A protest should comply with section 247(d) or section 240(c) as appropriate of the Commission's General Rules of Practice which requires that it set forth specifically the grounds upon which it is made, contain a detailed statement of protestant's interest in the proceeding (including a copy of the specific portions of its authority which protestant believes to be in conflict with that sought in the application, and a detailed description of the method—whether by joinder, interline, or other means—by which protestant would use such authority to provide all or part of the service proposed), and shall specify with particularity the facts, matters, and things relied upon, but shall not include issues or allegations phrased generally. Protests not in reasonable compliance with the requirements of the rules may be rejected. The original and one (1) copy of the protest (except for petitions and Finance Dockets under Rule 40 requiring the original and six (6) copies of the protest) shall be filed with the Commission, and a copy shall be served concurrently upon applicant's or petitioner's representative, or applicant or petitioner if no representative is named. If the protest includes a request for oral hearing, such requests shall meet the requirements of section 247(d)(4) or section 240(c)(4) of the special rules, and shall include the certification required therein.

NO. MC 117324 (Sub-No. 4), (Republication), filed March 24, 1975, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER issue of April 24, 1975, and republished this issue. Hodge, 1980 Financial Center, Des Moines, Iowa 50309. An Order of the Commission, Operating Rights Board, dated October 14, 1975, and served November 20, 1975, finds that the present and future public convenience and necessity require operation by applicant in interstate or foreign commerce, as a common carrier by motor vehicle, over irregular routes, of passengers and their baggage, in round-trip charter and special operations, beginning and ending at points in Carrol, Greene, Boone, Sac, Calhoun, Webster, Hamilton, Hardin, Buena Vista, Pocahontas, Humboldt, Wright, Franklin, Palo Alto, Hancock, Kossuth, Emmet, and Dickinson Counties, Iowa, and Nobles County, Minn., and extending to points in the United States, including Alaska, but excluding Hawaii; that applicant is fit, willing, and able properly to perform such service and to conform to the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Act and the Commission's rules and regulations thereunder, that this decision is not a major Federal action significantly affecting the quality of human environment within the meaning of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. The purpose of this republication is to indicate the base territory in terms of named counties. Because it is possible that other parties who have relied upon the notice of the application as published, may have an interest in and would be prejudiced by the lack of proper notice of the authority described above, issuance of a Certificate in this proceeding will be withheld for a period of 30 days from the date of this publication of the authority actually granted, during which period any proper party in interest may file an appropriate petition for intervention or other relief in this proceeding setting forth in detail the precise manner in which it has been so prejudiced. Pleadings may be tendered with respect to the modification(s) of applicant's grant of authority indicated by the purpose for this republication.

No. MC 136464 (Sub-No. 9), (Republication), filed May 8, 1975, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER issue of June 12, 1975, and republished this issue. An Order of the Commission, Operating Rights Board, dated October 24, 1975, and served November 20, 1975, finds that the present and future public convenience and necessity require operation by applicant, in interstate or foreign commerce, as a common carrier, by motor vehicle, over irregular routes, of such commodities, as are used in the construction, maintenance and operation of amusement parks and facilities (1) between Burbank, North Hollywood, Sun Valley and Mountain View, Calif., on the one hand, and, on the other, the Omni International Amusement Park at or near Atlanta, Ga., Busch Gardens at or near St. Louis, Mo., and Williamsburg, Va., Six Flags at or near Dallas, Tex., and the warehouse or storage facilities of Krofft Development Corporation located at or near Atlanta, Ga., St. Louis, Mo., Dallas, Tex., and Williamsburg, Va., and (2) between the amusement, warehouse and storage facilities of Krofft Development Corporation located at or near Atlanta, Ga., St. Louis, Mo., Dallas, Tex., and Williamsburg, Va.; that applicant is fit, willing, and able properly to perform such service and to conform to the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Act and the Commission's rules and regulations thereunder. The purpose of this republication is to indicate the change of carriage from contract to common in this grant of authority. Because it is possible that other parties who have relied upon the notice of the application as published, may have an interest in and would be prejudiced by the lack of proper notice of the authority described above, issuance of a certificate in this proceeding will be withheld for a period of 30 days from the date of this publication of the authority actually granted, during which period any proper party in interest may file an appropriate petition for intervention or other relief in this proceeding setting forth in detail the precise manner in which it has been so prejudiced. Pleadings may be tendered with respect to the modification(s) of applicant's grant of authority indicated by the purpose for this republication.

ADVISORY OPINION 1975–23

ESTABLISHMENT OF POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE AND EMPLOYEE POLITICAL GIVING PROGRAM BY CORPORATION

In this advisory opinion, rendered pursuant to 2 U.S.C. 437f, the Commission responds to a request for an advisory opinion submitted by the Sun Oil Company and published as AOR 1975–23 in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 29, 1975 (40 FR 31879). Interested persons were invited to submit written comments with respect to this request. A number of such comments were received and considered by the Commission before this opinion was issued.

A. Introduction

Sun Oil proposed to sponsor a bifurcated responsible citizenship program for political activities. One part of this program will involve the expenditure of general corporate treasury funds to establish, administer, and solicit voluntary contributions to a political action committee. This committee (hereinafter SUN PAC) will be maintained as a separate segregated fund and used by Sun Oil for political purposes under the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 610. The other part of this program will involve the expenditure of treasury funds to establish and administer a "trustee" plan. Under the plan (hereinafter SUN EPA) Sun Oil will open separate bank accounts for participating employees in order to channel their contributions to candidates for political office. The activities of SUN EPA will be separate and apart from those of SUN PAC.

The Commission has been asked to evaluate SUN PAC and SUN EPA with respect to the requirements of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended (hereinafter the "FECA" or the "Act") and the proscriptions of 18 U.S.C. § 610. In the following opinion, the Commission will discuss various legal aspects of corporate segregated funds and trustee plans.

B. Applicable Law

Section 610 of Title 18 of the United States Code provides, in pertinent part, as follows:

CONTRIBUTIONS OR EXPENDITURES BY NATIONAL BANKS, CORPORATIONS OR LABOR ORGANIZATIONS

It is unlawful for any national bank, or any corporation organized by authority of any law of Congress, to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with any election to any political office, or in connection with any primary election or political convention or caucus held to select candidates for any political office, or for any corporation whatever, or any labor organization to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with any election at which presidential and vice presidential electors or [officials] to Congress are to be voted for, or in connection with any primary election or political convention or caucus held to select candidates for any of the foregoing offices, or for any • • • political committee • • • to accept or accept or receive any contribution prohibited by this section.

As used in this section, the phrase "contribution or expenditure" shall include any direct or indirect payment, distribution, loan, advance, deposit, or gift of money, or any services, or anything of value • • • to any candidate, campaign committee, or political party or organization in connection with any election to any of the offices referred to in this section; but shall not include • • • the establishment, administration, and solicitation of contributions to a separate segregated fund to be utilized for political purposes by a corporation or local organization • • •: Provided, That it shall be unlawful for such a fund to make a contribution or expenditure by utilizing money or anything of value secured by physical force, job discrimination, financial reprisals, or the threat of force, job discrimination, or financial reprisal; or by dues, fees, or other monies required as a condition of membership in a labor organization or as a condition of employment, or by monies obtained in any commercial transaction.

The history of section 610, prior to its amendment by section 205 of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, was set forth in United States v. UAW, 352 U.S. 567 at 570–90 (1957). Moreover, the history of the 1971 amendment, which permits corporations to establish, administer and solicit contributions to separate segregated funds, was discussed in some detail in Pipefitters Local 562 v. United States, 407 U.S. 385 at 409–13, 421–27, 429–32 (1972). See also, United States v. CIO, 335 U.S. 106 (1948). There is no need, therefore, to trace that history here in any detail. However, some general conclusions can be made in light of legislative history about the application of section 610 to the corporate political activities proposed by Sun Oil.

C. Conclusions

(1) First, it is lawful for Sun Oil to expend general treasury funds to defray expenses incurred in establishing, administering, and soliciting contributions to SUN PAC so long as it is maintained as a separate segregated fund. The language of section 610 and the supporting legislative history of the 1971 Amendment to the statute plainly permits such expenditures. See, Pipefitters, supra, at 429–33. SUN PAC must register and file reports just as any other political committee is required to do under the FECA.

(2) Secondly, it is lawful for Sun Oil to make any political contributions and expenditures it sees fit in connection with any Federal election so long as the monies used for such purposes are expended from SUN PAC and the fund consists of voluntary contributions.

In situations where SUN PAC makes contributions or expenditures in connection with Federal and non-Federal elections, it may establish and maintain a separate account for use in Federal elections. Thereafter, monies to be expended in non-Federal elections should not be commingled with monies to be expended in Federal elections. SUN PAC should designate the bank in which it maintains any such account for Federal elections as the campaign depository of the fund. 2 U.S.C. 437b. All contributions received or expenditures made in connection with Federal elections should be deposited in or drawn from this account. If SUN PAC so decides to maintain a separate account for use in Federal elections, it may file reports pertaining only to the separate Federal account. However, if SUN PAC fails to segregate the accounts and monies to be used in connection with both Federal and non-Federal elections, then SUN PAC will be required to report all contributions and expenditures regardless of whether they are made for non-Federal purposes.

Any political contributions or expenditures made by SUN PAC are subject to the applicable reporting requirements of the FECA and the limitations of 18 U.S.C. 608. Moreover, since individual contributions made to SUN PAC are also contributions within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 591(e), such contributions are also subject to the limitations of 18 U.S.C. § 608.

(3) Thirdly, it is lawful for Sun Oil to control and direct the disbursement of contributions and expenditures from SUN PAC. When the issue of the control of segregated funds was presented to the Supreme Court in the Pipefitters case, (which involved a section 610 criminal prosecution against a labor union) the Court held that "such a fund must be separate from the sponsoring union only in the sense that there must be a strict segregation of its monies from union dues and assesssments." Id. at 414. After an exhaustive review of legislative history, the Court concluded that (Id. at 415–417):

> Nowhere, however, has Congress required that the political organization [i.e., the fund] be formally or functionally independent of union control or that union officials be • • • precluded from determining how the monies raised will be spent. • • • Senator Taft adamantly maintained that labor organizations were not prohibited from expending those monies [from the fund] in connection with Federal elections. • • • Neither the absence of even a formally separate organization, • • •, nor the method for choosing the candidate to be supported was mentioned as being material. Similarly, the only requirements for permissible political organizations were that they be funded through separate contributions [which were voluntary]. (Emphasis added.)

The Court also concluded from the legislative history that (Id. at 426):

> [T]he term 'separate' • • • is synonymous with 'segregated.' Nothing in the legislative history indicates that the word is to be understood in any other way. • • • It is difficult to conceive how a valid political fund can be meaningfully 'separate' from the sponsoring union in any way other than 'segregated.'

Since corporations and labor unions are subject to the same restrictions under section 610, it is clear that under the language of the Pipefitters case, Sun Oil can exercise control over the operations and activities of SUN PAC.

There is much concern in the business community about the proper class of persons who may be solicited by a corporation with its treasury money for contributions to a political fund. Sun Oil advised in its request for an opinion that "[t]o achieve its purpose, SUN PAC will solicit and accept contributions from individuals and from other political committees." Sun Oil now advises, through counsel, that its solicitation efforts will not be as broad as the language of its request suggested. The Commission is now advised that Sun Oil "will not solicit contributions from members of the general public who are neither Sun employees nor shareholders" but that "Sun does intend to use corporate funds to solicit contributions to SUN PAC from its employees."

(4) It is the opinion of the Commission that Sun Oil may spend general treasury funds for the solicitation of contributions to SUN PAC from stockholders and employees of the corporation. The Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 amended section 610 by defining contribution and expenditure and setting forth exemptions to that definition. The first two exceptions permit the use of corporate treasury funds for activities aimed only at stockholders and their families. The third exception places no limitation on the categories of persons who may be solicited for voluntary contributions to a separate segregated fund. However, the legislative history of the 1971 Act clearly states that general treasury money may not be used to solicit the general public. 117 Cong. Rec. 43380–81. The absence of a limitation in the third exception similar to that contained in the first two exceptions, indicates that it was Congress' intent not to limit the use of corporate funds for solicitation of contributions to separate segregated funds only to stockholders. Furthermore, corporations have traditionally solicited their employees for both political and non-political purposes. Absent any express language in the statute or the legislative history prohibiting such solicitations, it would be illogical to conclude that corporations could solicit only their stockholders and not their employees. Finally, section 610 provides that contributions to a separate segregated fund may not be secured by "job discrimination" or "financial reprisals", actions which an employer may take against an employee.

The Commission recognizes, however, that there is in the best-intentioned plans a potential for coercion which is inherent in the employment relationship and which may be triggered by solicitation of employees by or on behalf of an employer. Section 610 forbids coercion or reprisal of any kind in the solicitation of contributions to separate segregated funds. To minimize the appearance or perception of coercion, the Commission recommends the following guidelines on solicitation of political contributions by employees to such funds. First, no superior should solicit a subordinate. Second, the solicitor should inform the solicited employee of the political purpose of the fund for which the contribution is solicited. Third, the solicitor should inform the employee of the employee's right to refuse to contribute without reprisal of any kind.

(5) An issue related to that of soliciting contributions is that of SUN PAC accepting contributions from any donor willing to make them. It is the opinion of the Commission that SUN PAC generally can accept any contribution from any donor, whether or not it is lawful for Sun Oil to solicit a contribution from that donor. However, section 610 would prohibit SUN PAC from accepting any political contribution which would be an unlawful contribution by the donor under that statute.

Although Sun Oil cannot spend treasury funds to solicit contributions from political committees, SUN PAC could solicit such contributions with expenditures from its fund of voluntary contributions. Accordingly, SUN PAC may accept contributions from political committees which it solicited and contributions which were not so solicited but freely donated by political committees.

(6) Finally, Sun Oil has proposed a detailed organizational plan for SUN PAC. Essentially, SUN PAC will be a voluntary, non-profit, unincorporated, political membership association open to certain employees of Sun Oil and its subsidiaries. Several employees will be appointed by Sun Oil to create SUN PAC. In addition, Sun Oil will appoint the administrative officers of SUN PAC. A contribution committee will manage the overall financial operations of SUN PAC and will designate the donees of contributions. The committee may delegate all of its powers to the Chairman of SUN PAC who is a Sun Oil appointee.

Section 610 does not mandate any formal organizational structure for corporate political committees. However, under 2 U.S.C. 432, SUN PAC, just as any other political committee, would be required to have a chairman and treasurer in order to accept or make any political contributions. Beyond these requirements, there are no other formal organizational requirements applicable to SUN PAC under Federal law.

Sun Oil also proposed to spend general treasury funds to establish a political giving program for its employees called SUN EPA. SUN EPA is what is commonly called a "trustee" plan. This plan was described in some detail in Sun Oil's request for an advisory opinion and briefly in the introductory paragraphs to this opinion. One commentator has described the concept of SUN EPA as follows:

> • • • SUN EPA conceptually serves a purpose not unlike a Christmas Club—i.e., systematic 'saving' toward a set goal (in this case, in order to provide a source for individual contributions at campaign time, rather than fund for Christmas gifts).

Sun Oil conceded that SUN EPA would not be a segregated fund under the only applicable exception of section 610, and that it would not be a political committee subject to the registration and reporting requirements of the Act. Sun Oil stressed the fact that it will not exercise any control over the affairs of SUN EPA and that employees who participate in the plan will exercise complete control and discretion over the disbursement of their political contributions.

(7) It is the opinion of the Commission that the expenditure of general treasury funds by Sun Oil for the ordinary and necessary administrative costs of implementing SUN EPA is not prohibited by section 610. The assumption of these costs would not represent any direct or indirect payment by Sun Oil to any candidate, campaign committee, or political party or organization, within the meaning of section 610, so long as Sun Oil will exercise no control over the program nor will attempt to influence employee contributions.

The legislative history of the 1974 Amendments to the Federal Election Campaign Act clearly states that if a person exercises any direction and control over the making of a contribution then that contribution shall count as a contribution with respect to that person. Thus, in order to avoid making a contribution under section 610, Sun Oil and its management may not make any effort, either orally or in writing, to direct contributions by participants in SUN EPA to any candidate, group of candidates, political party or other person. Participants in SUN EPA must exercise independent judgment when making contributions.

The Commission notes that the Justice Department, which has criminal prosecution powers with respect to section 610, would not regard the use of corporate funds to administer such plans as being within the prohibitions of section 610:

> [P]rovided that the corporation in no manner suggests to the contributing employee the identity of certain candidates or committees which should be the beneficiaries of such personal contributions, provided that absolutely no pressure of any kind is applied to induce participation in the program, and provided corporate funds are not indirectly contributed to the ultimate receipients through such means as artificially inflating employees' salaries • • •. (Letter to John G. Murphy, General Counsel, Federal Election Commission, November 3, 1975.)

V40233 DEC 3 75 XUM

Sun Oil states that:

[T]he bank, on a quarterly basis, will inform SUN of the total amounts of contributions under SUN EPA for the quarter to specific candidates, committees, or political parties receiving them, so it may be published for those participating in the plan.

The receipt and publication of any report on the source or recipient of any contribution(s) or donation(s) into or out of any SUN EPA account(s) may constitute the exercise of direction and control over future contributions. The Commission would not object to Sun Oil's receiving reports setting forth the total number of employees in the plan, the total amount of funds in all the accounts and the total amount of contributions made to all candidates and committees.

The Commission further notes that the possibility of exercising direction and control may be inherently present when an employee trustee plan and a political action committee are administered simultaneously by the same corporation. This, of course, will be a factual determination. However, under section 610, a violation need not be willful.

This advisory opinion is issued on an interim basis only, pending the promulgation by the Commission of rules and regulations or policy statements of general applicability.

NOTE: The foregoing opinion was adopted by the Commission by a 4 to 2 vote with Commissioners Harris and Tiernan voting against adoption. The dissenting opinion of Commissioners Harris and Tiernan is published as follows.

Dated: November 24, 1975.

THOMAS B. CURTIS,
Chairman for the Federal Election Commission.

COMMISSIONER HARRIS AND COMMISSIONER TIERNAN, DISSENTING

A. SUN-PAC: Solicitation of Contributions.

We do not think that the statute permits Sun Oil to use its general funds to solicit donations to its political fund from persons other than Sun Oil's stockholders. This conclusion is based on the language and overall objective of § 610, the legislative history of the Hansen Amendment, and the Supreme Court's opinion in Pipefitters Local 562 v. United States, 407 U.S. 385 (1972). [Also, the effect of the Commission's decision appears to be to give corporations greater leeway than unions as respects solicitation for their political funds—a result surely astounding to both supporters and opponents of the Hansen Amendment.[1]

1. The language added to Section 610 in 1972 by the Hansen Amendment creates three exceptions to the section's general ban on the expenditure of corporate or union funds in connection with any election to federal office. They are (a) "communications by a corporation to its stockholders and their families or by a labor organization to its members and their families on any subject;" (b) "nonpartisan registration and get-out-the-vote campaigns by a corporation aimed at its stockholders and their families, or by a labor oragnization aimed at its members and their families;" and (c) "solicitation of contributions to a separate segregated fund to be utilized for political purposes by a corporation or labor organization." The first of these exceptions, i.e., as to communications, is paralleled in the definition of "expenditure" [2 U.S.C. 431 (f) (4) (c) and 18 U.S.C. 591(f) (4) (c)], which excludes from "expenditure" "any communication or corporation to its members or stockholders * * *" (Emphasis added).

The first two Hansen Amendment exceptions are restricted in terms to stockholders in the case of a corporation and members in the case of a union, while the third exception has no restriction. Thus, read literally, the third exception would permit a corporation or union to solicit not only stockholders or members, but the general public, that is, anybody and everybody. Such a construction of the third exception would however go far to destroy the general ban of Section 610 on the expenditure of corporate or union funds in connection with a federal election; and it would likewise undercut the provision in the first exception that corporations may communicate with stockholders and union with members and the parallel provision in the statutory definition of "expenditure". This is so because the "solicitation" of contributions to a political fund necessarily includes representations as to what sort of causes and candidates the fund will support, and as to why those solicited should contribute to it. If corporations and unions are free to use their general funds to solicit the public at large, they may legally carry on extensive political campaigns in support of particular candidates or types of candidates as a part of their solicitation efforts.

A more rational construction of the statute is that the first and third Hansen Amendment exceptions are to be read together. Individuals cannot be solicited to make a voluntary contribution except by communicating with them. As § 610 states and as its legislative history makes emphatic, Congress intended to assure that corporate communications on political subjects financed by treasury money would be directed only at stockholders and their families and that such union communications would be to members and their families. It creates an inexplicable exception to that intent to read the permission to solicit contributions as separate from the permission to communicate with stockholders and members rather than reading these two clauses of the same sentence together. And, since there is in fact no dividing line between communication and solicitation, if such an exception were to be made there would soon be little if anything left of the rule. A corporation could then legally take out a full-page advertisement in the New York Times soliciting for contributions by stating who those contributions would be used to support and why. Except for the top and bottom line, such an advertisement would be no different than one communicating the corporation's views on those candidates to the general public through the expenditure of treasury money. That, of course, is precisely what § 610 prohibits.

Since a construction which permitted corporations and unions to solicit the general public would go far to undercut § 610, no one has urged it. Sun Oil has, subsequent to its initial presentation, disclaimed any purpose to solicit the general public. However, as far as a simple reading of the statute goes, there is no basis for drawing any distinction between the use of corporate funds to solicit the general public and their use to solicit employees of the corporation.

2. Since the statute is thus ambiguous and not to be read literally, it is of course appropriate to examine the legislative history of the Hansen Amendment. Pipefitters Local 562 v. United States, supra. That history confirms that the first and third exceptions are to be read together, and that the Hansen Amendment was intended to sanction the use of corporate or union funds only to communicate with and/or solicit stockholders or members.

In explaining his Amendment to the House, Representative Hansen stated:

Next, the amendment, in further defining the phrase "contribution or expenditure", draws a distinction between activities directed at the general public, which are prohibited, and communications by a corporation to its stockholders and their families and by a labor organization to its members and their families, on any subject, which the courts have held is permitted.

The amendment sets forth the limited circumstances where such communications are permitted in connection with an election. These include:

(1) non-partisan registration and get-out-the-vote campaigns by a corporation aimed at its stockholders and their families, or by a labor organization aimed at its members and their families.

(2) the establishment, administration and solicitation of contributions to a separate segregated fund to be utilized for political purposes by a corporation or labor organization. (Emphasis added). (117 Cong. Rec. 43379)

Representative Hansen reiterated this distinction, between corporate political activity directed at stockholders (and union political activity directed at members) and political activity financed by treasury money directed at the general public, in three separate passages in his explanatory floor statement:

Section 610 strikes a balance between organizational rights and the rights of those who wish to retain their shareholding interest or membership status but who disagree with the majority's political views. The balance presently obtaining provides, in my judgment, an optimum solution to the complex problem of accommodating these conflicting interests. This solution is sound in theory as I shall show, has proved workable in practice, and has generated a broad bi-partisan consensus in favor of continuation of the present rules. For this reason my amendment, with one exception, follows the present law.

Thus, Section 610 as it stands, and under my proposal, represents a complete victory for those who believe that corporations and unions have no moral right to utilize their organizations' general funds for active public partisan politicking. It totally subordinates organizational interest to individual interests. (Emphasis added) (117 Cong. Rec. 43380)

. . . . . .

Recognizing that group interests must be given some play and that the interest of the minority is weakest when corporations and unions confine their activities to their own stockholders and members, the beneficial owners of these organizations, the second subdivision of the amendment sets out three precisely defined and limited permissions for corporate and union activity related to the political process.

The courts, as well as other independent students of section 610 and its legislative history, have concluded that the 1947 Congress did not intend to prohibit corporations or unions from communicating freely with their members and stockholders—see U.S. v. CIO, 335 U.S. 106—from conducting nonpartisan registration and get-out-the-vote campaigns, or from securing voluntary contributions made directly to the support of a labor or management political organization—93 Congressional Record 6440, remarks of Senator Taft." (Emphasis added). (117 Cong. Rec. 43380).

At the present time there is broad agreement as to the essence of the proper balance in regulating corporate and union political activity required by sound policy and the Constitution. It consists of a strong prohibition on the use of corporate and union treasury funds to reach the general public in support of, or opposition to, Federal candidates and a limited permission to corporations and unions, allowing them to communicate freely with members and stockholders on any subject, to attempt to convince members and stockholders to register and vote, and to make political contributions, and expenditures financed by voluntary donations which have been kept in a separate segregated fund. This amendment writes that balance into clear and unequivocal statutory language. (Emphasis added). (117 Cong. Rec. 43381).

Representative Hansen further emphasized this distinction by quoting Senator Taft's explanation of section 610 as it was enacted in 1947:

The dividing line established by 610 is between political activity directed at the general public in connection with Federal elections which must be financed out of political donations and activities directed at members or stockholders which may be financed by general funds * * *

Finally, there can be no doubt that union members or stockholders should have the right to set up special political action funds supported by voluntary donations from which political "contributions and expenditures" can lawfully be made. As Senator Taft stated in his floor explanation of section 610:

If [union members or stockholders] are asked to contribute directly * * * to the support of a labor [or management] political organization, they know what their money is to be used for and presumably approve it. From such contribution the organization can spend all the money it wants to with respect to such matters. But the prohibition is against labor unions using their members' dues for political purposes, which is exactly the same as the prohibition against a corporation using its stockholders' money for political purposes, and perhaps in violation of the wishes of many of its stockholders. 93 Cong. Rec. 6440 (Emphasis added). (117 Cong. Rec. 43381).

Earlier in the debate the following colloquy occurred among Rep. Hansen and Reps. Dellenback and Hays:

May I ask as a general question, Mr. Hansen, is it your intent by the way you have drafted the amendment to propose that corporations and unions be treated absolutely equally?

Mr. Hansen of Idaho. That is correct.

Mr. Dellenback. And, further, if a situation is proper for a corporation, it is also proper for a union and if it is proper for a union, then it is also proper for a corporation.

I think it is extremely important that what you have here proposed is an amendment that seeks to bring about equity. I think it is important that a union be able to communicate with its members and do what the law already permits it to do, and likewise I feel it is important that a corporation be able to do that same thing with its stockholders.

Mr. Hays. I join in support of this particular amendment. It seems to me that it does work equity in what has been a very troublesome situation in the past. (Emphasis added). (117 Cong. Rec. 43380).

This statement of Congressional intent, involving as it does the author of the amendment (Rep. Hansen) and the Chairman of the House Committee (Rep. Hays) is entitled to special weight.

3. In line with this legislative history, the Supreme Court stated in the Pipefitters case that the first and third exceptions of the Hansen Amendment are integrally related and similarly limited to stockholders and members:

With the exemption for communications to stockholders or union members and their families apparently in mind, Hansen stated, for example, 117 Cong. Rec. H11478:

"[E]very organization should be allowed to take the steps necessary for its growth and survival. There is, of course, no need to belabor the point that Government policies profoundly affect both business and labor * * * If an organization, whether it be the NAM, the AMA or the AFL–CIO, believes that certain candidates pose a threat to its well-being or the well-being of its members or stockholders, it should be able to get its views to those members or stockholders. As fiduciaries for their members and stockholders the officers of these institutions have a duty to share their informed insights on all issues affecting their institution with their constituents. Both union members and stockholders have the right to expect this expert guidance.

This reasoning, of course, applies as well to solicitations for contributions to voluntary political funds." (Emphasis added). (Pipefitters, supra at 431 no. 42).

4. The interpretation given § 610 by the majority of the Commission seems to me to be slanted in favor of corporate political fund solicitations, as compared with union. Congress meant to hold the balance even.

In introducing his Amendment, Rep. Hansen stated:

The net effect of the amendment, therefore, is to tighten and clarify the provisions of section 610 of title 18 United States Code, and to codify the case law. It spells out more clearly the rules governing election activities that apply equally to labor unions and corporations. While prohibiting abuses that involve activities directed at the general public, the amendment recognizes that the constitutional guarantee of free speech protects the right of labor organizations and corporations to communicate with their own members or stockholders. (Emphasis added). (117 Cong. Rec. 43379).

The Commission's ruling destroys that balance. Unions are presumably limited to communicating with and soliciting their members, while corporations may solicit not only their stockholders, but all employees, whether union members or not. This is a curious result to flow from the union-supported and corporation opposed Hansen Amendment.

The imbalance resulting from the majority's ruling can readily be discerned by reference to statistical data. The Sun Oil Co.,[1] which had gross earnings in excess of 3.7 billion dollars at the end of 1974, has almost five times as many stockholders as it does employees. As of December 31, 1974, the company had 126,555 stockholders holding 57,301,668 shares of preferred and common stock in the company. At the end of the same period, the company had only 27,707 employees. Under the majority's ruling, Sun Oil is now permitted to solicit partisan political contributions from well over 127,000 individuals including employees who are not also stockholders. On the other hand, the labor union affiliated with Sun Oil is restricted in its solicitation to the small percentage of the 27,000 employee workforce which holds membership in the union. The union presumably cannot even solicit employees who must go through its hiring halls for employment with Sun Oil if those employees are not also union members. On a national scale, the majority ruling grants corporations as a group an unfair advantage over labor unions in the solicitation of political contributions. It is estimated that over 30,900,000 individuals own shares of stock in American corporations. 1975 World Almanac 94. But, out of the nation's total workforce of 84,000,000 workers, only 18,000,000 of them (or about 21%) are members of labor unions including AFL–CIO, independent, CNTU, and CLC unions. 1975 World Almanac 108. Had corporations been restricted to soliciting only their stockholders, they could have solicited almost twice as many individuals as labor unions. Under the majority's ruling, however, corporations now have the potential of soliciting almost the entire workforce of the nation. Congress certainly did not intend to create such a gross disparity in the solicitation power of corporations and unions, by enacting the segregated fund exception to § 610, as the majority of the Commission now permits in its interpretation of the statute.

5. Finally, the majority ruling is inconsistent with scholarly writings dealing specifically with the solicitation question. These writings demonstrate in clear terms that a reasonable interpretation of § 610 would restrict corporations to soliciting only their stockholders.

For instance, corporations have been advised in the Business Lawyer, a regular journal of the American Bar Association's Section of Corporation, Banking and Business Law, to direct solicitations of partisan political money to their stockholders. R. Garrett, "Corporate Contributions for Political Purposes," 14 Bus. Law. 365 (1959). Mr. Garrett closely examined § 610 and cases construing the statute including United States v. CIO, 335 U.S. 106 (1948) and United States v. UAW, 352 U.S. 567 (1957). On the basis of these and other Federal court decisions and labor union practices, particularly in operating COPE, Mr. Garrett reached the following conclusions:

Since Section 610 in terms applies equally to labor organizations and to corporations, certain conclusions relative to corporations under that section may be derived from the labor cases and the known practices of the unions:

. . . . . .

(3) Corporations may use corporate facilities for soliciting voluntary contributions from stockholders to a fund to be donated or used for political purposes. (Emphasis added). Garrett, supra, at 375–76.

Mr. Garrett explained further that:

Corporate management eager to do something, but unwilling to put its neck in the noose for the purpose of making some law at the risk of heroic sacrifice, might well be advised to use the corporate facilities to arouse stockholders to voluntary contributions and political awareness. The New York Stock Exchange has estimated that there are over 8½ million holders of stock in American corporations. They constitute a group who might be aroused to contribute and work for polittical purposes with possibly great effect.[2] Where corporate soliciting of contributions from stockholders is bipartisan, as, for example, where stockholders are invited to contribute a very small percentage of a dividend to the party which they designate individually, there would seem to be little real danger of prosecution. (Emphasis added). Id. at 377.

Another writer, the General counsel of the United States Chamber of Commerce, reached similar conclusions. Speaking in the American Bar Association Journal, the General Counsel said, after a thorough and careful analysis of Section 610 and Federal court decisions, that:

[1] The statistics on the Sun Oil Co. may be found in Moody's Industrial Manual, 2351–57 (Vol. 2, 1975).

[2] This was the 1959 estimate. As previously noted, the current estimate of stockholders in American corporations exceeds 30 million.

V40I233 DEC 3 75 XUM

As for the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, the corporation can play safe in its partisan political activity only if it limits its appeals, whether written or oral, so as to avoid the general public and communicate rather to its stockholders. On principle it seems a corporation should be allowed to appeal also to its employees, along with its stockholders, although there is no decision which settles this point. (Emphasis added). W. Barton, "Corporation in Politics: How Far Can They Go Under the Law," 50 ABA Journal 228, 231 (1964).

There have been no court decisions which have held that under § 610 corporations are authorized to solicit contributions from employees.

We see no warrant for the construction of § 610 adopted by the majority.

B. The Establishment of SUN–EPA.

We also dissent from the majority's ruling monies to establish a "trustee" plan contribution program for its employees.

1. As previously noted, the intent of the Hansen Amendment was to set forth in "clear and unequivical statutory language" the "limited circumstances" under which corporations could spend treasury money in connection with federal elections. Those "limited circumstances" included the establishment of segregated funds. They did not include any other types of political contributions or expenditures from general corporate funds. The majority ruling, permitting corporations to subsidize "trustee" plans with treasury funds, simply does violence to the plan language of § 610 which authorizes only three types of activities which are supportable with corporate or union treasury money.

2. The meanings of the terms "expenditure" and "in connection with a federal election," as used in § 610, are broad enough to embrace the "trustee" plan proposed by Sun Oil. Certainly, the expenditure of treasury funds for SUN–EPA is intended to be "in connection with a federal election" inasmuch as Sun Oil has admitted that as a result of these expenditures, its employees will have a facility through which they can make contributions to candidates for federal office. The Justice Department made a similar observation in its comments when it said that "the general objective of the program is certainly 'political' in that it encourages employees to participate voluntarily in politics through personal contributions."

This conclusion is consistent with judicial interpretations of the terms "expenditure" and "in connection with." As noted by the D.C. Circuit United States Court of Appeals in Buckley v. Valeo, 519 F. 3d 821, 852–53 (D.C. Cir. Aug. 29, 1975):

An expenditure may obviously inure to the benefit of a candidate even though the expenditure was not directed by the candidate and the candidate was not in control of the expenditures or of the goods or services purchased.

Similarly, Mr. Justice Rutledge, concurring in United States v. CIO, supra, characterized the broad reach of the terms "expenditure" and "in connection with" as used in section 610. (Id. at 133):

The crucial words are "expenditure" and "in connection with." Literally they cover any expenditure whatever relating at any rate to a pending election, and possibly to prospective elections or elections already held. The broad dictionary meaning of "expenditure" takes added color from its context with "contribution." The legislative history is clear that it was added by the 1947 amendment expressly to cover situations not previously included within the legislative interpretation of "contribution." The coloration added is therefore not restrictive, it is expansive. * * * (Emphasis added).

Mr. Justice Frankfurter applied these same principles, regarding the breadth of the term "expenditures," in upholding an indictment prosecuted under section 610. See, United States v. UAW, supra, at 585.

It matters not that Sun Oil will exercise no control over the operations of SUN–EPA or the activities of employees participating in the program. The law prohibits expenditures in connection with Federal elections—it does not go behind those expenditures to determine whether they will be made with a benevolent or patriotic intent. By facilitating employee contributions, through its subsidization of SUN–EPA, Sun Oil is necessarily using treasury funds in connection with Federal elections.

3. The majority concluded that expenditures for SUN–EPA were not prohibited by § 610 because they would not represent "any direct or indirect payment by Sun Oil to any candidate, campaign committee, or political party or organization." (Emphasis added). This conclusion apparently relies on the definition of the terms "contribution" and "expenditure" added to § 610 by the 1971 Amendment. But, that definition says that these terms "shall include" certain transactions. Since this is not language of limitation, it is clear that the majority's interpretation of these terms is too narrow. Mr. Justice Rutledge's broad interpretation of these terms in the CIO case has still survived the 1971 Amendment and is controlling. Accordingly, the majority should have restricted its focus to the broader concept of an expenditure "in connection with a federal election" which would have made expenditures for SUN–EPA unlawful. The Justice Department recently prosecuted a § 610 case against a labor union official where it expressed its views on the meaning of "contribution" and "expenditure" prior to the 1971 Amendment. In United States v. Boyle, 482 F. 2d 755 (D.C. Cir.), cert. denied —— U.S. ——, 94 S. Ct. 593 (1973), the Justice Department advised the trial court that:

It is important to note that Section 610 itself does not speak in terms of contributions to candidates for office but rather in terms of "in connection with any election." (Emphasis added).

Trial Brief for Department of Justice at 11, United States v. Boyle, No. 1741–71 (D. D.C.)

The trial court sustained this view of the law in rejecting the defendant's motion to dismiss the indictment on the grounds that Section 610 was unconstitutional or vague. United States v. Boyle, 338 F. Supp. 1026, 1031–32 (D. D.C., 1972). This case shows that what makes an expenditure of treasury funds unlawful is simply the fact that it is "in connection with" an election.

4. The majority's narrow interpretation of § 610, to permit expenditures for SUN–EPA, has the effect of overruling by implication practically all of the advisory opinions which have dealt with indirect contributions or expenditures. Three opinions which immediately come to mind are (1) AO 1975–4, 40 Fed. Reg. 29793 (July 15, 1975), in which the Commission held that the guarantee of a loan made to the Democratic National Committee, to the extent that the loan was not repaid, was a contribution even though the loan itself was not; (2) AO 1975–14, 40 Fed. Reg. 34084 (Aug. 13, 1975), in which the Commission held that the donation by a corporation of a computer, to analyze the results of a non-partisan public issue opinion poll issued by a Congressman, was a violation of Section 610; and (3) AO 1975–27, 40 Fed. Reg. 51351 (Nov. 4, 1975), in which the Commission held that expenses incurred by a candidate for legal and accounting fees for the purpose of complying with the election laws were expenditures.

For these reasons, we see no merit in the majority view that expenditures for SUN–EPA are lawful under § 610.

Sun Oil has not asked and the Commission has not ruled whether the two plans are permissible under § 611, assuming that Sun Oil is a government contractor. It should be noted, however, that the language of § 611 is even broader than that of § 610. It provides severe criminal penalties for any government contractor who "directly or indirectly makes any contribution of money or other thing of value * * * to any person for any political purpose or use." And while § 611 contains a special proviso, added by the 1974 Act, validating a "separate segregated funds" which meets the requirements of § 610, it contains no exception in favor of a trustee plan, such as SUN–EPA.

ADVISORY OPINION

Contribution and Spending Limits to Presidential Candidates Travel for Party Purposes

The Federal Election Commission announces the publication today of Advisory Opinion 1975–72. The Commission's opinion is in response to questions raised by individuals holding Federal office, candidates for Federal office and political committees, with respect to whether any specific transaction or activity by such individual, candidate, or political committee would constitute a violation of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended, of Chapter 95 or 96 of Title 26 United States Code, or of sections 608, 610, 611, 613, 614, 615, 616, or 617 of Title 18 United States Code.

The Commission points out that this advisory opinion should be regarded as an interim ruling which is subject to modification by future Commission regulations of general applicability. In the event that a holding in opinion is altered by the Commission's regulations, the person to whom the opinion was issued will be notified.

ADVISORY OPINION 1975–72

APPLICATION OF CONTRIBUTION AND SPENDING LIMITS IN 18 U.S.C. § 608 TO PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE'S TRAVEL FOR PARTY PURPOSES

This advisory opinion is rendered under 2 U.S.C. § 437f in response to a request by a Republican National Committee (hereinafter RNC). The request was published as AOR 1975–72 in the FEDERAL REGISTER for September 24, 1975 (40 FR 44041). Interested parties were given an opportunity to submit written comments relating to the request. Numerous comments were received by the Commission.

The RNC request stated that:

National political parties * * * are charged with the ongoing responsibility of promoting voter registration and creating voter recognition of party identity and ideology, without reference to an individual candidate or election. A large measure of this function is performed by the President, Vice President and their aides on behalf of their National and State parties * * *.

When the President, Vice President, and their aides are engaged in political activity on behalf of their National, State or Local political parties, the R.N.C. assumes the cost of their travel and transportation, advance men expense, telephone and telegraph cost and the cost of receptions incidental to those activities.

The RNC indicated that in 1975 it had allocated the sum of $500,000 to meet the costs noted supra, and that as of September 1, 1975, it had received or paid $309,000 in bills against this allotment.

The request asked specifically whether "* * * the * * * Federal Election Campaign Law of 1974 * * * (has) * * * application to * * * (a) * * * national party's payment of expenses incurred by the President of the United States, the Vice President of the United States, and their aides while engaged in national, State, or local party promotional activities?"

It is the opinion of the Commission that a political party may designate any person to represent them at a legitimate party promotional event. If such person is a candidate under the Federal Election Campaign Act, as amended, the Commission will presume after January 1 of a presidential election year, for reasons noted infra, that the candidate's appearances benefit his candidacy directly and must be treated as subject to the provisions of the FECA, as amended. The Commission is also of the opinion that candidate appearances at a legitimate party promotional event, prior to January 1 of a presidential election year are party building in nature and are not inherently intended to influence the candidate's nomination for election to Federal office. Therefore, these appearances are not subject to the limitations of the FECA, as amended, as long as they are in compliance with the guidelines set forth herein.

Since President Ford is a candidate within the meaning of 2 U.S.C. 431(b)(2) and 18 U.S.C. 591(b)(2), the question to be answered here is whether a political committee's payment to a candidate for his expenditures in connection with an appearance at a legitimate party promotional activity is "made for the purpose of influencing the nomination * * * of (the candidate) to Federal office * * *." (See 2 U.S.C. 431(f), 18 U.S.C. 591(f).)

The FECA implicitly recognizes the role of political parties in our electoral process and encourages stronger and more competitive, major, minor and new parties through the payment of Federal moneys

The report of the Senate Rules and Administration Committee issued to accompany S. 3044 (Report No. 93–689) expresses this point:

(the) Committee agrees that a vigorous party system is vital to American politics and has given this matter careful study * * *. Parties will retain their essential nonfinancial responsibilities in electoral politics * * *. [P]arties will play an increased role in building stronger coalitions of voters and in keeping candidates responsible to the electorate through the party organization * * *. [P]arties will continue to perform crucial functions in the election apart from fundraising, such as registration in voter turnout campaigns, providing speakers, organizing volunteer workers and publicizing issues. Indeed, the combination of substantial public financing with limits on private gifts to candidates will release large sums presently committed to individual campaigns and make them available for donation to the parties, themselves. As a result, our financially hard-pressed parties will have increased resources not only to conduct party wide election efforts, but also to sustain important party operations in between elections.

See also, comments of Rep. Bill Frenzel in Congressional Record, H. 10333, daily ed., October 10, 1974.

While there is no question, given the nature and functions of the RNC, that such appearances can and do promote party-building, there is also little doubt that when these appearances occur in proximity to an election in which the President is a candidate, the appearances may be reasonably construed to confer a benefit to the President's own candidacy. Cognizant of these realities, the Commission will divide President Ford's party appearances into two categories: those occurring before January 1 of the election year, and those occurring after January 1 of the election year. The post January 1 appearances will be presumed to be candidate-related and will be governed by the relevant portions of the FECA, as amended. Those before January 1 will be presumed not to be candidate-related. The Commission's conclusions may be rebutted upon a showing, inter alia, that the solicitations for the party event, or the setting of the event, or the remarks made by candidates who were invited to attend were "for the purpose of influencing the nomination for election, or election, of [that candidate(s)] to Federal office." (See 2 U.S.C. §§ 431 (c) and (f); 18 U.S.C. § 591 (e) and (f).) Moreover, the Commission presumes that in the period prior to January 1, 1976, the NRC will accord equitable treatment to all of its presidential candidates.

In situations where it can be shown that President Ford, after the date he became a candidate,[1] attended an event which did not, under the preceding criteria, fulfill legitimate party building purposes, the Commission assumes that the RNC will treat its expenditures on behalf of the President as contributions in kind, subject to the $5,000 limitation in 18 U.S.C. 608(b)(2). In the event this limit is exceeded, the President Ford Committee should repay the RNC for costs incurred on behalf of the President and then list such repayments as expenditures, subject to the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 608(c).

The Commission notes that the matching payment period for the payment of public funds to properly qualified Federal candidates begins on January 1 of the presidential election year (see 26 U.S.C. 9037(b)). At the very least, the Congressional determination that the public payments shall become available on January 1 supplies a persuasive suggestion that Congress believed that date to mark the commencement of increasingly serious presidential campaigning which will consume an increasing portion of the candidate's time. This justifies the view that almost all public activities engaged in thereafter are candidate-related.

The opinion expressed herein is distinguishable from AO 1975–13 (appearing in 40 FR 36747) in which the Commission indicated that "once an individual has become a candidate for the presidency, all speeches made before substantial numbers of people are presumed for the purpose of enhancing his candidacy." When the statement is examined in context—namely as a response to a question as to whether 18 U.S.C. 610 prohibited a presidential candidate from receiving corporation-paid travel expenses for a speaking engagement before a local chamber of commerce, it becomes clear that it is applicable only to an appearance which in contrast to the present situation, serves directly to benefit the candidate. This is not the case with regard to party appearances prior to January 1 of the election year, where such appearances are not accompanied by any express communication evidently directed to advancing a candidate's chances for election.

[1] Since President Ford, on June 19, 1975, authorized a political committee to receive contributions and make expenditures on his behalf, at that time he became a candidate within the meaning of 2 U.S.C. 431(b)(2) and 18 U.S.C. 591(b)(2).

Although the views expressed in this opinion are specifically applicable to the RNC, as the requesting party herein (see 2 U.S.C. 437f), they would also be applied by the Commission to presidential candidates other than President Ford.

This advisory opinion is issued on an interim basis only pending promulgation by the Commission of rules and regulations or policy statements of general applicability.

Commissioner Harris dissents.

Vice Chairman for the Federal Election Commission.

NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM

Flood Prone Areas

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

Flood-Prone Areas of Communities Subject to Section 202 Prohibition of Federal and Federally Related Assistance

The purpose of this notice is to provide a list of communities that contain areas of special flood hazard potentially subject to the provisions of Section 202 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (PL 93-234) on July 1, 1975, or an appropriate later date, and to provide a convenient reference for interested persons, communities, Federal agencies and instrumentalities, and others involved in assuring compliance with that section. This list supersedes and up-dates the list published in the FEDERAL REGISTER at 40 FR 52919-52927.

Section 202 provides that effective July 1, 1975, Federal agencies and federally supervised, approved, insured, or regulated lending institutions are prohibited from providing financial assistance or making loans for acquisition or construction purposes in areas which (a) have been designated by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development as Special Flood Hazard Areas for at least one year; and (b) are in communities which are not participating in the National Flood Insurance Program (42 USC 4001-4128).

The prohibition does not apply to any loan made by a federally-supervised, approved, insured, or regulated lending institution made prior to January 1, 1976, to finance the acquisition of a previously occupied residential dwelling.

Each of the communities listed below received notice of its designation as flood-prone prior to January 1, 1975, and legal notice was furnished of such designation by publication under Part 1915 of Title 24 of the Code of Federal Regulations in the FEDERAL REGISTER. These communities have failed to provide the Federal Insurance Administrator with sufficient technical or scientific data to rebut their designation as flood prone nor have they as yet qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program. Thus, the sanctions of Section 202 apply as of July 1, 1975, or one year after a community's identification, whichever is later, until the community participates in the program.

In order to continue Federal or federally related assistance or lending in its Special Flood Hazard Area, a community must apply for and be made eligible for participation in the program in accordance with 24 CFR (Parts 1909 to 1920). Communities may receive assistance in applying for participation by contacting the Federal Insurance Administration, 451 Seventh St., S.W., Washington, D.C. 20410, (202) 755-5581, or its toll-free numbers 800-424-8872 or 800-424-8873.

Communities on this list may be made eligible to participate in the program after the date of publication of this list. Such eligibility will be published periodically in the FEDERAL REGISTER under 24 CFR 1914.4 List of eligible communities. At that time the sanctions of section 202 will no longer apply to the communities listed below.

PART 736—INVESTIGATIONS

Pledges of Confidence

A notice of proposed rulemaking was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 25, 1975 (40 FR 37051), for issuance of a new part 5 CFR Part 736 entitled, "Investigations" to establish procedures for determining when a promise of confidentiality is to be made under subsection (k)(5), section 3 of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a, Pub. L. 93–579) and otherwise to implement this subsection for all purposes except those pertaining to military service. Interested persons were given until September 24, 1975, to submit written comments, suggestions, or objections. Full and careful consideration was given to all comments received.

The requirement that notifications of possible Privacy Act disclosures to the individual being investigated and of each source's right to ask that his or her identity not be disclosed be made at the beginning of the interview or review of records has been changed. The revision requires that each source of information in personal investigations be notified some time during the interview that all information provided, including the source's identity, may be disclosed to the individual being investigated upon that individual's request.

The investigating agent has the discretion of notifying the source that he may have confidentiality where he feels such notification is necessary to secure information pertinent to the investigation.

Each agency must prepare implementing instructions for its investigators or agents consistent with these regulations.

Agencies are given an option when using written inquiries, except for law enforcement or educational custodians of records, of providing a space for the respondent to ask for a pledge of confidentiality, or making an offer to use special arrangements to get information which the respondent does not want to provide without a pledge of confidentiality.

In consideration of the comments received, 5 CFR Part 736 is issued as follows:

Sec.
736.101 Definitions.
736.102 Purpose of investigation.
736.103 Personal investigation.
736.104 Written inquiry.

AUTHORITY: Pub. L. 93–579; (5 U.S.C. 552a).

§ 736.101 Definitions.

In this part: (a) "Federal employment" means all civilian service for the Federal government including (1) appointments to Federal Advisory Committees or to membership agencies, whether or not salaried; (2) cooperative work assignments in which the individual has access to Federal materials such as examination booklets or performs service for or under supervision of a Federal agency but may be paid by another organization, such as a State or local government; (3) volunteer arrangements in which the individual performs service for or under the supervision of a Federal agency; and (4) volunteer or other arrangements in which the individual represents the United States Government or any agency thereof.

(b) "Agency" means any authority of the Government of the United States, whether or not it is within or subject to review by another agency and includes any executive department, military department, Government corporation, Government controlled corporation or other establishment in the executive branch of the Government (including the Executive Office of the President), or any independent regulatory agency.

§ 736.102 Purpose of investigation.

In conducting an investigation, either by personal investigation or by written inquiry, to determine suitability, eligibility or qualifications of individuals for Federal employment, Federal contracts or access to classified information or restricted areas, the investigating agency will notify the source from which information is requested of the purposes for which the information is sought and how it will be used. Procedures used in conducting investigations must take proper account of the rights of the individual being investigated as well as the rights of the individual furnishing testimony or information.

§ 736.103 Personal investigation.

In conducting a personal investigation, including a telephone inquiry, to determine suitability, eligibility or qualifications of individuals for Federal employment, Federal contracts or access to classified information or restricted areas in which selection standards demand loyalty, good character and trustworthiness, the interviewing agent will notify each person interviewed and each custodian of record contacted that all information provided, including the source's identity, may be disclosed to the individual being investigated upon that individual's request. This notification must be made at some time during the interview. The agent may promise confidentiality if requested by the source, and in his discretion notify the source that he may have confidentiality where the agent feels that such notification is necessary to secure information pertinent to his investigation or inquiry. If such a request is made, the confidentiality will apply only to the source's identity, and any information furnished by the source that would reveal the identity of the source. A promise of confidentiality will require the investigative agency and all other agencies that receive information obtained under the promise to take all reasonable precautions to protect the confidentiality of the source's identity. Pledges of confidentiality may not be assumed, and the interviewing agent may not ask a source to request confidentiality. Each agency shall prepare implementing instructions for its investigators or agents consistent with these regulations.

§ 736.104 Written inquiry

In requesting information by a written inquiry concerning the character, loyalty and qualifications of an individual to determine suitability, eligibility or qualifications for Federal employment, Federal contracts or access to classified information or restricted areas, the form, instructions or correspondence used by an agency will include:

(a) A notification that information provided, including the respondent's identity, will be disclosed to the individual on his or her request; and

(b) Except for law enforcement or educational custodians of records,

(1) Space for the respondent to request a pledge that his or her identity will not be disclosed to the subject of the inquiry, or

(2) An offer to make special arrangements to obtain significant information which the respondent feels he or she cannot provide without a pledge of confidentiality as to identify.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION,

Executive Assistant to the Commissioners.

Title 14—Aeronautics and Space

CHAPTER I—FEDERAL AVIATION ADMINISTRATION, DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

[Docket No. 75-SO-153, Amdt. 39-2448]

Piper Model PA-34-200T Series Airplanes

There have been cracks of the engine oil pressure hose assembly on PA-34-200T airplanes that could result in loss of engine oil. Since this condition is likely to exist or develop in other airplanes of the same type design, an airworthiness directive is being issued to require replacement of the existing hose assembly with a tube assembly and new hose assembly for each engine on PA-34-200T airplanes.

Since a situation exists that requires immediate adoption of this regulation, it is found that notice and public procedure hereon are impracticable and good cause exists for making this amendment effective in less than 30 days.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (31 FR 13697), § 39.13 of Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

PIPER AIRCRAFT CORPORATION. Applies to PA-34-200T airplanes, serial numbers 34-7570001 through 34-7670077 certificated in all categories.

Compliance required within the next 25 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD, unless already accomplished.

To prevent loss of engine oil, accomplish the following: Replace the existing engine oil pressure hose assemblies with a tube assembly and a new hose assembly in accordance with Piper Service Bulletin Number 483 or in an equivalent manner approved by the Chief, Engineering and Manufacturing Branch, Federal Aviation Administration, P.O. Box 20636, Atlanta, Georgia 30320.

This amendment becomes effective December 10, 1975.

Issued in East Point, Ga., on November 24, 1975.

Director, Southern Region.

Designation of Jet Route

On September 18, 1975, a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 43036) stating that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) was considering an amendment to Part 75 of the Federal Aviation Regulations that would designate a jet route between Eugene, Oreg., and Spokane, Wash., via The Dalles, Oreg.

Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to participate in the proposed rule making through the submission of comments. No comments were received.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 75 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective 0901 G.m.t., January 29, 1976, as hereinafter set forth.

Section 75.100 (40 FR 705) is amended by adding the following:

Jet Route No. 143 from Eugene, Oreg., via The Dalles, Oreg.; to Spokane, Wash.

(Sec. 307(a), Federal Aviation Act of 1958, (49 U.S.C. 1348(a)), sec. 6(c), Department of Transportation Act, (49 U.S.C. 1655(c)))

Designation of Jet Route

On September 22, 1975, a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 43513) stating that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) was considering an amendment to Part 75 of the Federal Aviation Regulations that would designate a jet route between Portland, Oreg., and Redmond, Oreg.

Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to participate in the proposed rulemaking through the submission of comments. The only comment received in response to the NPRM was from the Air Transport Association (ATA) in which they offered no objection to the proposal.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 75 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective 0901 G.m.t., January 29, 1976, as hereinafter set forth.

Section 75.100 (40 FR 705) is amended by adding the following:

CHAPTER II—CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[Reg. ER-940; Amdt. No. 46]

PART 288—EXEMPTION OF AIR CARRIERS FOR MILITARY TRANSPORTATION

Minimum Rates for Certain Air Transportation

Part 288 of the Board's Economic Regulations (14 CFR Part 288) sets forth minimum rates for certain air transportation services performed by air carriers for the Department of Defense (DOD), and procured through the Military Airlift Command (MAC). At the present time, the minimum rates are subject to a surcharge based upon currently reported fuel prices. Under established procedure, the carriers report changes in fuel prices on a monthly basis, and, in the absence of precipitous changes in fuel prices, the Board automatically adjusts the surcharge rates on a quarterly basis. See ER-920, July 1, 1975.[1] The last fuel surcharge adjustment was adopted by ER-932, dated September 30, 1975, to be effective October 1, 1975.

Trans International Airlines, Inc. (TIA) by petition for rule making (Docket 28441) filed October 29, 1975, requests an increase in the surcharge rates established in ER-932 effective on or before the date of its petition, to provide the carrier relief from sharply higher fuel prices experienced since October 1. TIA contends that all of the MAC carriers are experiencing precipitous fuel price increases as a result of OPEC's recently announced increase in crude oil prices, so that the quarterly review procedure is no longer appropriate.

Pan American World Airways, Inc., The Flying Tiger Line Inc. and World Airways, Inc. filed answers in support of the petition. The DOD answered in opposition to TIA's proposal both for a return to automatic monthly surcharge adjustments, and for a retroactive increase in the surcharge rate.

Upon consideration, we have determined to adopt an interim surcharge adjustment to be effective prospectively from December 1, 1975. However, we are not persuaded either to return to an automatic monthly fuel surcharge adjustment, or to abandon the established procedures which provide only for prospective surcharge adjustments. Accordingly, except to the extent granted herein, TIA's petition to amend Part 288 Contrary to the implications of the petition and answers, the Board has not abandoned its monthly review of the rate impact of reported fuel price changes. By ER-920, we merely dropped the automatic monthly surcharge rate adjustment in favor of a quarterly adjustment procedure. In doing so, however, the Board expressly indicated its intent to reported as of October 1, 1975, including change warrant amendment of the surcharge rates. Our review of the surcharge-rate impact for the fuel prices reported as at October 1, 1975, including the revised data for TIA, did not produce results for the international MAC carriers as a class to warrant an amendment to the existing fuel surcharge rates. The analysis of reported fuel prices as of November 1, 1975, however, indicates that adjustment to these rates should now be made.[2]

In addition, we are not persuaded that the recently announced increase in crude oil prices requires a return to a monthly surcharge adjustment procedure. In this respect, we agree with DOD that the recent experience does not establish that the fuel price situation is again so unstable that an automatic adjustment of the surcharge rate on a monthly basis is required. We will, however, continue to monitor fuel price changes on a monthly basis, and are prepared to adopt additional interim adjustments as required.[3] In order to expedite the procedures, however, the carriers are requested to provide the Government Rates Division quarterly consumption figures 30 days following the close of each quarter, as opposed to the present 40 days.

Appendices A and B [4] set forth the results of our computations of reported fuel price changes for commercial and military fuels as at November 1, 1975, based upon application of the "active stations". methodology to the fuel consumption reported for the quarter ended September 30, 1975; [4] and the rate impact for the changes in current average fuel prices from that reflected in the base rates. Accordingly, we will revise the fuel surcharge rates effective December 1, 1975, as follows: (a) increase the long-range Category B and A rate from 2.30 to 3.45 percent; (b) maintain the Pacific interisland short-range Category B rate at 5.81 percent; and, (c) decrease the "all other" short-range Category B rate from 4.86 to 2.42 percent.

In view of the continuing need for a fuel surcharge to the minimum rates set forth in Part 288, we find good cause exists to make the within amendments effective on less than thirty (30) days' notice.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Board hereby amends Part 288 of its Economic Regulations (14 CFR Part 288) effective December 1, 1975, as follows:

§ 288.7 [Amended]

1. Amend § 288.7(a)(1) by amending the third proviso following the table to read as follows:

. . . . . .

(a) . . .

(1) . . .: Provided, however, That effective December 1, 1975, the total minimum compensation pursuant to the rates set forth in paragraph (a)(1) of this section for (i) services performed with regular jet, wide-bodied jet, and DC-8F-61/63 aircraft, (ii) Pacific interisland services performed with B-727 aircraft, and (iii) all other services performed with B-727 aircraft shall be increased by surcharges of 3.45 percent, 5.81 percent, and 2.42 percent, respectively.[1]

2. Amend § 288.7(d) by amending the proviso to subparagraphs (2) to read as follows:

. . . . . .

(d) For Category A transportation . . .

(2) . . .

Provided, That effective December 1, 1975, the total minimum compensation pursuant to the rates specified in paragraphs (d)(1) and (2) of this section shall be increased by a surcharge of 3.45 percent.

(Secs. 204, 403 and 416 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended; 72 Stat. 743, 758, 771, as amended; (49 U.S.C. 1324, 1373, 1386))

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

[SEAL] EDWIN Z. HOLLAND,
Secretary.

[FR Doc.75-32731 Filed 12-3-75;8:45 am]

[1] Prior to the adoption of ER-920, the established practice was to adjust the surcharge rates on a monthly basis.

[2] We are not persuaded that an increase in the surcharge rate effective as of the date of TIA's petition would be appropriate. The effect of the carriers' request would be to retroactively increase the surcharge rate as of a date prior to Board action on the petition. Such a change would be inconsistent with the established principle that the minimum rates in Part 288 are final and not subject to retroactive adjustment to a date prior to Board action specifically "reopening" the rate. See ER-845, May 1, 1974.

[3] The next fuel surcharge adjustments will be based upon reported fuel price changes as of December 1, 1975, and be effective as of January 1, 1976.

[4] Appendices A and B filed as part of the original document.

[4] We note that in several telegrams addressed to Chief of the Government Rates Division of the Bureau of Economics, TIA has suggested certain modifications to the procedures for determining the surcharge rate. Because these suggestions are not properly before us, we have not considered them herein.

[1] The surcharge provisions for services performed with B-727 aircraft will be applied to all other common-rated aircraft types.

§ 950.7 Environmental Science Information Center (ESIC).

The Environmental Science Information Center develops policies for and provides editorial and publishing services to NOAA components; manages a central library system; provides functional guidance to other NOAA libraries; and develops and implements automated scientific information systems for NOAA and external use. It complements the Environmental Data Service family of data centers, enhancing the service structure necessary for a comprehensive, single source for environmental data and information within NOAA;

(a) ESIC issues a "NOAA Publications Announcement" several times a month. This booklet describes NOAA publications by title, author, source, date, abstract, keywords, and availability.

(b) The NOAA libraries, run by ESIC, are open to the public for reference use. The Atmospheric Sciences Library, 8060 13th Street, Silver Spring, Maryland, specializes in climatic publications; the Marine and Earth Sciences Library, 6001 Executive Boulevard, Rockville, Maryland, in cartographic, oceanographic, and fisheries publications; the NOAA Miami Library, 15 Rickenbacker Causeway, Miami, Florida, in oceanographic, cartographic, and climatic publications; the EDS Great Lakes Library, 630 Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse, Detroit, Michigan, in lake levels and hydrology of the Great Lakes; and the NOAA Environmental Research Laboratories Library, University of Colorado, Boulder, Colorado, in solar-terrestrial physics.

(c) ESIC also responds to requests for copies of NOAA technical publications by sending out those in stock or referring the request to the proper NOAA or non-NOAA source.

(d) Queries should be addressed to:

Environmental Science Information Center, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Washington, D.C. 20235, Tel: (202) 634–7334.

§ 950.8 Center for Climatic and Environmental Assessment (CCEA).

(a) CCEA provides tailored consultant services and products to Federal agencies concerned with the impact of the environment on national socioeconomic programs and policies. The center's mission is to statistically model and assess climate, climatic change, and other natural environmental phenomena and their variations, and to quantitatively evaluate their probable impact upon national and international socioeconomic issues.

(b) CCEA is participating in the joint USDA–NOAA–NASA program called the Large Area Crop Inventory Experiment (LACIE). The aim of the LACIE experiment is to improve the timeliness and accuracy of major crop forecasts by combining current and historical, surface and satellite, crop and weather source data. CCEA will develop and refine the mathematical models which relate crop yields to weather conditions and provide processed climatological and meteorological data.

(c) Special studies and consultant services are provided to government agencies along with the following products: early warning and timely crop/climate alerts, crop yield estimates on a monthly basis, global weather briefings which relate climate impact on socioeconomic systems, and risk assessments of climatological phenomena on national resources. Queries should be addressed to:

Center for Climatic and Environmental Assessment, 600 East Cherry Street, Columbia, MO 65201, Tel: (314) 442–2271, Ext 3261.

§ 950.9 Satellite Data Services Branch (SDSB).

The Satellite Data Services Branch of the EDS National Climatic Center provides environmental and earth resources satellite data to other users once the original collection purposes (i.e., weather forecasting) have been satisfied. The branch also provides photographs collected during NASA's SKYLAB missions.

(a) Satellite data available from SDSB include: (1) Data from the TIROS (Television InfraRed Observational Satellite) series of experimental spacecraft; much of the imagery gathered by spacecraft of the NASA experimental NIMBUS series; full-earth disc photographs from NASA's Applications Technology Satellites (ATS) I and III geostationary research spacecraft; tens of thousands of images from the original ESSA and Current NOAA series of Improved TIROS Operational Satellites; and both full-disc and sectorized images from the Synchronous Meteorological Satellites (SMS) 1 and 2, the current operational geostationary spacecraft. In addition to visible light imagery infrared data are available from the NIMBUS, NOAA, and SMS satellites. Each day, SDSB receives about 239 negatives from the polar-oribiting NOAA spacecraft, more than 235 SMS–1 and 2 negatives, and several special negatives and movie film loops.

(2) Multispectral imagery derived from data collected by NASA's Earth Resources Technology Satellites (ERTS), currently LANDSAT–1 and 2.

(3) Photographs (both color and black-and-white) taken during the three SKYLAB missions (May–June, 1973, July–September, 1973, and November 1973–February 1974). Queries should be addressed to:

Satellite Data Services Branch, World Weather Building, Room 606, Washington, D.C. 20233, Tel: (301) 763–8111.

§ 950.10 Deepwater Ports Project Office (DWPPO).

(a) The Deepwater Ports Project Office was established to meet requirements placed upon NOAA by the Deepwater Port (DWP) Act of 1974. The Act establishes procedures for the location, construction, and operation of deepwater ports off the coasts of the United States. It invests licensing authority in the Secretary of Transportation, while the Administrator of NOAA is called upon to provide essential support. To meet NOAA's obligation, EDS' Project Office reviews, evaluates, and prepares recommendations for the Administrator on DWP license applications, related environmental impact statements, and adjacent coastal State status.

§ 950.11 Comprehensive referral service.

(a) Since 1969, EDS has been building the Environmental Data Index (ENDEX). When fully operational (target date, 1978), ENDEX will provide convenient, rapid referral to existing NOAA, national, and global environmental science data files and sources, as well as documentation concerning their quality, quantity, and character. A complementary, literature-based system, Oceanic and Atmospheric Scientific Information System (OASIS), will provide a parallel subject-author-abstract referral service. A telephone call to any EDS data or information center or NOAA library will allow a user to "plug into" this interdisciplinary NOAA data dialog machine.

In the Matter of Baza'r, Inc., a corporation.

Consent order requiring a Portland, Oreg., supermarket chain, among other things to cease not having advertised items readily available for sale at or below the advertised price. Further, respondent is required to use shelf signs to indicate the location of items advertised below regular shelf price; to mark customarily price-marked items with the advertised prices; to post at store entrances and check-out counters notices (1) containing a copy of the ad, (2) listing any advertised items unavailable, and (3) announcing that rainchecks will be issued for them; and to maintain a program of continuing surveillance to ensure that their stores comply with the order.

The order to cease and desist, including further order requiring report of compliance therewith, is as follows: [1]

ORDER

I. It is ordered, That respondent Baza'r, Inc., a corporation, its successors or assigns, its officers, agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporation, subsidiary, division or other device, in connection with the advertising, offering for sale, sale or distribution of food or grocery products or other merchandise, hereafter sometimes referred to as items, offered or sold in its retail stores, in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from, directly or indirectly:

A. Disseminating, or causing the dissemination of any advertisement by any means which offers any items for sale at a stated price, unless throughout the effective period of the advertised offer at each retail store covered by the advertisement:

1. Each advertised item is readily available for sale to customers in the public area of the store, or if not readily available there, a clear and conspicuous notice is posted where the item is regularly displayed which states that the item is in stock and may be obtained upon request, and said item is furnished on request;

2. There is a sign or other conspicuous marking at the place where an item advertised below regular shelf price is displayed for sale clearly disclosing that the item is "as advertised" or "on sale" or words of similiar import as appropriate, and disclosing on such sign or marking, the advertised price;

3. Each advertised item, which is usually and customarily individually marked with a price, is individually, clearly, and conspicuously marked with the advertised price;

4. Each advertised item is sold to customers at or below the advertised price;

Provided, That it shall not be deemed a violation of the above subparagraphs A.1., A.2., A.3., or A.4., if respondent is complying with a specific exemption, limitation or restriction with respect to store, item or price which is clearly and conspicuously disclosed in all advertisements.

Provided, further, It shall constitute a defense to a charge of unavailability under subparagraph I.A.1. if respondent maintains and furnishes or makes available for inspection and copying upon the request of the Federal Trade Commission, such records and affidavits as will show that (a) the advertised items were delivered to its stores in quantities sufficient to meet reasonably anticipated demand, or (b) the advertised items were ordered but not delivered due to circumstances beyond respondent's control, and that respondent, upon notice or knowledge of such nondelivery acted immediately to contact the media to correct the advertisement or proposed advertisement to reflect the limited availability or unavailability of each advertised item, and (c) respondent immediately offered to customers on inquiry a "rain check" for each unavailable item which entitled the holder to purchase the item in the near future at or below the advertised price.

[1] Copies of the Complaint, Decision and Order, filed with the original document.

V 40 234 DEC 4 75 XUM

In determining compliance with section I of this order, the Commission will consider the circumstances surrounding failure to make advertised items conspicuously and readily available for sale at or below the advertised prices due to circumstances beyond respondent's control.

II. It is further ordered, That respondent Baza'r, Inc., a corporation, its successors or assigns, its officers, agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporation, subsidiary, division or other device, in connection with the advertising, offering for sale, sale or distribution of food or drugs, as those terms are defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from:

A. Disseminating or causing to be disseminated, by United States mails or by any means in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, for the purpose of inducing, or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly the purchase of any such product, any advertisement which contains any of the offers prohibited by section I of this order;

B. Disseminating or causing to be disseminated by any means, for the purpose of inducing, or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly, the purchase of any such product in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, any advertisement which contains any of the offers prohibited by section I of this order.

III. It is further ordered, That throughout each advertised sale period in each of its retail stores covered by an advertisement, respondent shall post conspicuously (1) at or near each doorway affording entrance to the public, and (2) at or near the place where customers pay for merchandise, notices which contain the following:

A. A copy of the advertisement.

B. A statement that:

All items advertised are readily available for sale at or below advertised price except the following items:

Rain checks will be gladly issued for these items, that will enable you to purchase these items at or below the advertised price in the near future. If you have any questions, the store director will be glad to assist you.

IV. It is further ordered, That respondent shall cause the following statement to be clearly and conspicuously set forth in each advertisement which represents that items are available for sale at a stated price at any of its stores:

Each of these advertised items is required to be readily available for sale at or below the advertised price in each _____ (store name) store, except as specifically noted in this ad.

V. It is further ordered, That:

A. Respondent shall forthwith deliver a copy of this order to each of its operating divisions and to each of its present and future officers and other personnel in its organization down to the level of and including assistant store directors who, directly or indirectly, have any supervisory responsibilities as to individual retail stores of respondent, or who are engaged in any aspect of preparation, creation, or placing of advertising, and that respondent shall secure a signed statement acknowledging receipt of said order from each such person;

B. Respondent shall institute and maintain a program of continuing surveillance adequate to reveal whether the business practices of each of its retail stores conform to this order, and shall confer with any duly authorized representative of the Commission pertaining to such program when requested to do so by a duly authorized representative of the Commission;

C. Respondent shall, for a period of three (3) years subsequent to the date of this order:

1. Maintain business records which show the efforts taken to ensure continuing compliance with the terms and provisions of this order;

2. Grant any duly authorized representative of the Federal Trade Commission access to all such business records;

3. Furnish to the Federal Trade Commission copies of such records which are requested by any of its duly authorized representatives;

D. Respondent shall, all other provisions of this order notwithstanding, on or before each of the first three (3) anniversary dates of this order, file with the Commission a report, in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which it has complied with this order in the preceding year.

It is further ordered, That respondent shall notify the Commission at least thirty days prior to any proposed change in the corporate respondent, such as dissolution, assignment or sale resulting in the emergence of a successor corporation, the creation or dissolution of subsidiaries or any other change in the respondent which may affect compliance obligations arising out of this order.

It is further ordered, That respondent shall, within sixty days after service upon it of this order, file with the Commission a written report setting forth in detail the manner and form of its compliance with this order.

The Decision and Order was issued by the Commission October 28, 1975.

Secretary.

9. Requiring, soliciting or encouraging any dealer, person or firm either directly or indirectly to report the identity of any dealer, person or firm who does not adhere to any resale price for any of respondent's products, or acting on reports so obtained by refusing or threatening to refuse sales to any dealer, person or firm so reported.

10. Terminating, threatening, intimidating, coercing, delaying shipments, or taking any other action to prevent the sale of respondent's products by a dealer because said dealer has advertised or sold, is advertising or selling, or is suspected of advertising or selling such products at other than prices that respondent may deem to be appropriate or has approved.

11. Establishing, continuing or enforcing, by refusal to sell, termination or threat thereof, delay in shipment or threat thereof or in any other manner, any contract, agreement, understanding, or arrangement or method of doing business which has the purpose or effect of restricting or limiting in any manner the customers or classes of customers to whom dealers may sell respondent's products.

12. Convening or participating in any meeting for the purpose of undertaking or engaging in any of the acts or practices prohibited by this Order.

In connection with the foregoing provisions under Part I of this order: It is further provided, That after the expiration of five (5) years from the date this Order becomes final, nothing contained in this Order shall prohibit respondent from lawfully exercising such rights, if any, as it may have to establish and distribute resale prices for its products under fair trade laws then in effect.

II. It is further ordered, That respondent shall:

1. Forthwith upon this order becoming final, mail or deliver, and obtain signed receipts therefor, copies of this Order to every present dealer, to every dealer terminated by respondent since January 1, 1972 and to every new dealer for period of three (3) years.

2. Forthwith distribute a copy of this order to each of its operating divisions and subsidiaries and to all officers, sales personnel, sales agents, sales representatives and advertising agencies and secure from each such entity or person a signed statement acknowledging receipt of said order.

3. Within thirty (30) days from the date on which this order becomes final, mail or deliver, and obtain a signed receipt therefor, written notice to all of respondent's sales personnel, sales agents, sales representatives and advertising agencies informing such persons that their violation of any provision of this order may result in the termination of said employment or business relationship. Respondent shall obtain prior approval from the New York Regional Office of the Federal Trade Commission of said written notification.

4. Forthwith terminate the employment or business relationship with any person or firm willfully violating any provision of this order and take appropriate disciplinary and corrective action, which may include termination, for nonwillful violations.

5. Within sixty (60) days from the date on which this order becomes final, mail or deliver, and obtain a signed receipt therefor, a written offer of reinstatement, upon the same terms and conditions available to respondent's other dealers, to any distributor or dealer located in an area where resale prices were not or could not be lawfully controlled who was terminated by respondent from January 1, 1972 to the effective date of this order, unless respondent can establish that the applicant does not or did not at the time of termination have good credit or that the dealer does not have reasonably adequate facilities for selling respondent's products at retail, and forthwith reinstate any such distibutor or dealer who within thirty (30) days thereafter requests, in writing, reinstatement.

III. It is further ordered, That respondent:

1. Notify the Commission at least thirty (30) days prior to any proposed change in the respondent such as dissolution, assignment or sale resulting in the emergence of a successor corporation, the creation of or dissolution of subsidiaries or any other such change in the corporation which may affect compliance obligations arising out of the order.

2. For a period of three (3) years from the date this order becomes final, establish and maintain a file of all records referring or relating to respondent's refusal during such period to sell its products to any dealer, which file shall contain a record of a communication to each such dealer explaining respondent's refusal to sell, and which file will be made available for Commission inspection on reasonable notice; and, annually, for a period of three (3) years from the date hereof, submit a report to the Commission's New York Regional Office listing the names and addresses of all dealers with whom respondent has refused to deal during the preceding year, a description of the reason for the refusal and the date of the refusal.

IV. It is further ordered, That in the event the Commission issues any order which is less restrictive than the provisions of Paragraphs I, II, or III of this order, in any proceeding involving alleged resale price maintenance of a manufacturer or supplier of audio components subject to investigation by the Commission pursuant to File No. 741 0042, then the Commission shall, upon the application of Sansui Electronics Corporation reconsider this order and may reopen this proceeding in order to make whatever revisions, if any, are necessary to bring the foregoing paragraphs into conformity with the less stringent restrictions imposed upon respondent's competitors.

The Decision and Order was issued by the Commission October 24, 1975.

PART 405—FEDERAL HEALTH INSURANCE FOR THE AGED AND DISABLED

Conditions of Participation; Home Health Agencies—Arrangements for Home Health Services Under Medicare

On June 9, 1975, there was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 24530) a notice of proposed rulemaking which set forth proposed amendments to Subpart L of Regulations No. 5 of the Social Security Administration, as amended, (20 CFR Part 405).

[1] Copies of the Complaint, Decision and Order, filed with the original document.

V40234 DEC 4 75 XUM

At present, the regulations require public or nonprofit home health agencies to make arrangements for services not provided directly through agency employees, only with other public or nonprofit agencies and organizations. The amendments permit such arrangements to be made with proprietary agencies and organizations as well.

In order to participate in the health insurance for the aged and disabled program, a home health agency must meet the statutory requirements of section 1861(o) of the Social Security Act and, as further specified by section 1861(o)(6), certain conditions provided by regulation in the interest of health and safety. Since the beginning of the program, a public or nonprofit home health agency has been able to qualify for participation by providing skilled nursing and one other covered therapeutic service (i.e., physical therapy, speech therapy, occupational therapy, medical social services, or home health aide services). The public or nonprofit agency has been required to provide at least one of the above qualifying services directly through agency employees but could arrange with another public or nonprofit agency or organization to provide the second qualifying service and any additional services.

Before Medicare, visiting nurse organizations frequently did not furnish services other than skilled nursing services. In many communities, visiting nurse organizations and official health agencies were (and are now) the only agencies which provided any measure of health services to homebound patients. Therefore, in order to enable these particular visiting nurse organizations and official health agencies to qualify for participation in the Medicare program, the Congress authorized them to provide home health services through arrangements with like health care organizations.

In 1965, when Medicare was enacted, existing home health agencies included visiting nurse associations established in our larger cities, official health agencies of county or municipal governments, and a few large community hospitals which furnished home health services. Agencies operating on a profit basis were not in existence. In anticipation of the establishment of home health agencies for profit, the Congress authorized their participation, subject to limitation specified in the statute, with the understanding expressed in the committee reports that they be self-contained in providing a range of services directly, rather than under the arrangements which were intended to be available through the visiting nurse organizations with like health care organizations.

A major concern in the administration of the home health benefit has been the cost of home health services and this is reflected in the requirements established for home health agencies. The Medicare program reimburses providers of services, including home health agencies, for the lesser of reasonable cost or customary charges (see section 1814(b) of the Act, 42 U.S.C. 1395f(b)). Because there was no history or experience concerning the cost of home health services, it was determined that the more conservative approach would be to assure that arranged for services should be obtained only from agencies which themselves operate on a nonprofit basis. Thus, the present regulation was consciously drafted to make an explicit distinction between proprietary and nonprofit home health agencies in the conditions of participation.

The Congress has now acted to reduce the basis for concern regarding excessive cost. Under section 251(c) of Pub. L. 92-603, the Social Security Amendments of 1972 (see 1861(v)(5)(A) of the Act—42 U.S.C. 1395x(v)(5)(A)) reimbursement for the reasonable cost of physical therapy and other therapy services, or services of other health-related personnel (other than physicians) furnished by a provider of services (i.e., a hospital, skilled nursing facility, or home health agency), rehabilitation agency, clinic, or public health agency under arrangements with others will be limited to amounts equivalent to the salary and other costs incurred if the services were performed by an employee, plus other costs such as maintaining an office, travel expenses, and similar costs which a therapist not employed might have. With the cost of therapy services under arrangements controlled by statute, we believe public or nonprofit agencies should now be allowed to make arrangements for such services with proprietary agencies or organizations organized for profit. It was made clear that the regulations implementing section 251(c) apply to the services of all health-related personnel other than physicians, including skilled nursing and home health aide services. Costs to the provider of such services could be evaluated and determined for reimbursement purposes under this provision.

In addition, there were other reasons for proposing a modification of the regulations relating to arrangements for services by a home health agency.

The Social Security Administration's Bureau of Health Insurance had been advised that a significant number of home health agencies are unable to employ or appropriately contract with individual therapists or with public or nonprofit agencies or organizations for the purpose of qualifying with skilled nursing and one other useful therapeutic service or to expand existing home health programs. Many therapists are organized as partnerships and corporations, and in most, if not all, instances as organizations for profit. Communities and home health agencies may thus be hard pressed to positively respond to the Social Security Administration's encouragement to respectively develop and expand home health services.

The Social Security Administration also believes that the intent of Congress in including the home health benefit in the health insurance program is to make this benefit most viable and available to as many beneficiaries as is possible, and that in the consideration of program requirements, viability and availability of services is to be given priority where feasible. In consideration of the recent statutory limitation on the cost of therapy services provided under arrangements, the statement in the Congressional committee report regarding establishment of agencies providing a wide range of organized home health services, the Social Security Administration's continued encouragement of the development, expansion, and utilization of services, and its belief that present regulations assure sufficient control of services provided under arrangements, the Social Security Administration proposed revising its regulations to permit a public or nonprofit home health agency to make arrangements for services with public, nonprofit, or proprietary agencies or organizations. However, under such circumstances the home health agency would not be considered merely a billing agency but would be required to assume control and supervision of the services under arrangements as it does with respect to services it provides directly through employees.

Interested parties were given 30 days within which to submit any data, views, or arguments with regard to the proposed amendments.

All except one of the comments reflected agreement with the proposed change. The one adverse comment expressed concern about possible increase in costs. However, we believe costs will be sufficiently controlled by existing regulations.

Accordingly, the amendments as announced under the notice of proposed rulemaking are hereby adopted and set forth below.

(Secs. 1102, 1861(o), and 1871 of the Social Security Act, 49 Stat. 647, as amended, 79 Stat. 320, as amended, and 79 Stat. 331 (42 U.S.C. 1302, 1395x (o), and 1395hh))

Dated: September 16, 1975.

J. B. CARDWELL,
Commissioner of Social Security.

Approved: November 26, 1975.

DAVID MATHEWS,
Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Regulation No. 5 of the Social Security Administration, as amended (20 CFR 405), is further amended as follows:

1. Paragraphs (a) and (h) of § 405.1221 are revised to read:

§ 405.1221 Condition of participation: Organization, services, administration.

• • • • •

(a) Standard: Services provided. Part-time or intermittent skilled nursing services and at least one other therapeutic service (physical, speech, or occupational therapy; medical social services; or home health aide services) must be made available on a visiting basis, in a place of residence used as a patient's home. A public or nonprofit home health agency must provide at least one of the qualifying services directly through agency employees, but may provide the second qualifying service and additional services under arrangements with another agency or organization. A proprietary home health agency, however, must provide all services directly, through agency employees.

• • • • •

(h) Standard: Services under arrangements. Services (see paragraph (a) of this section) provided under arrangements must be subject to a written contract conforming with the requirements specified in paragraph (f) of this section and with the requirements of section 1861(w) of the Act (42 U.S.C. 1395x(w)).

Title 22—Foreign Relations

CHAPTER VI—UNITED STATES ARMS CONTROL AND DISARMAMENT AGENCY

PART 602—FREEDOM OF INFORMATION POLICY AND PROCEDURES

Part 602 of Chapter VI, Title 22 of the Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended by deleting the current Part 602 in its entirety and substituting therefor a new part as shown below.

The purpose of amending Part 602 is to implement the Freedom of Information Act Amendments of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-502, 88 Stat. 1561, 5 U.S.C. 552) by providing new guidance to the general public in requesting information from the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (hereinafter referred to as the "Agency" or "ACDA").

Pursuant to the 1974 Amendments to the Freedom of Information Act, the Agency hereby determines that publication of an index providing identifying information on matters described in 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(2) is unnecessary and impractical in view of the extremely small amount of material available at this time. As materials are created and become available they will be incorporated into a current index which will be available to the public free of charge.

Subpart C—Fees, was published as a notice of proposed rulemaking in 40 FR 36381, August 20, 1975. No comments from the public having been received, these sections are now reprinted in final form below with only minor editorial changes:

Subpart A—Basic Policy

§ 602.1 Scope of part.

This Part 602 establishes the policies, responsibilities and procedures for release to members of the public of Agency records which are under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

§ 602.2 Definitions.

As used throughout this part, the following terms have the meaning set forth below:

(a) The term "Agency" and the acronym "ACDA" stand for the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

(b) The term "records" includes all books, papers, maps, photographs, or other documentary materials, regardless of physical form or characteristics, made or received by the Agency in pursuance of Federal law or in connection with the transaction of public business and preserved or appropriate for preservation by the Agency or its legitimate successor as evidence of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of the Government or because of the informational value of data contained therein. Library or museum material made or acquired solely for reference or exhibition purposes, are not included within the definition of the term "records."

§ 602.3 General policy.

(a) In accordance with section 2 of the Arms Control and Disarmament Act, as amended (22 U.S.C. 2551), it is the policy of ACDA to carry out as one of its primary functions the dissemination and coordination of public information concerning arms control and disarmament.

(b) In compliance with the Freedom of Information Act, as amended (5 U.S.C. 552), ACDA will make available upon request by members of the public to the fullest practicable extent all Agency records under its jurisdiction, as described in the Act, except to the extent that they may be exempt from disclosure under § 602.31.

Subpart B—Procedure for Requesting Records

§ 602.10 Requests for records.

(a) A written request for records should be addressed to: Freedom of Information Officer, U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Department of State Building, Washington, D.C. 20451. To facilitate processing, the letter of request and envelope should be conspicuously marked "FOIA request."

(b) The request should identify the desired record or reasonably describe it. The identification should be as specific as possible so that a record can be found readily. Blanket requests or requests for "the entire file of" or "all matters relating to" a specified subject will not be accepted. The Agency will make any reasonable effort to assist the requester in sharpening his request to eliminate extraneous and unwanted materials and to keep search and copying fees to a minimum. The ten day response time referred to in § 602.16 in this instance will begin when the records requested are identifiable or reasonably described.

(c) If a fee is chargeable under Subpart C of this part for search or duplication costs incurred in connection with a request for an Agency record, the request should include the anticipated fee or should ask for a determination of such fee. Any chargeable fee must be paid in full prior to issuance of requested materials. The method of payment is described in § 602.24. Cash should not be sent by mail.

§ 602.11 Requests in person.

A member of the public may request an Agency record by applying in person between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays (holidays excluded) at the ACDA Library located in Room 804, 1700 North Lynn Street, Rosslyn, Virginia. Form ACDA-21, Public Information Service Request, is available at the ACDA Library for the convenience of members of the public in requesting Agency records.

§ 602.12 Availability of records at the ACDA Library.

(a) A current index identifying all available records is kept on file at the

V40234 DEC 4 75 XUM

ACDA Library. Copies of this index may be obtained free upon request.

(b) In addition, the ACDA Library will maintain or have available, unless authorized to be withheld, certain types of unclassified records, including but not necessarily limited to the following:

(1) A copy of the ACDA Manual and other Agency regulations, including a copy of Title 22 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) and any other title of the CFR in which Agency regulations have been published;

(2) Copies of arms control and disarmament treaties or agreements in force;

(3) Personnel information;

(4) Procurement information;

(5) Research contracts between the Agency and universities or other non-Government organizations;

(6) Reimbursable agreements with other Government agencies.

(c) Copies of records available to the public may be inspected by a requester in the ACDA Library during the business hours stated in § 602.10. Copies of records made available for inspection may not be removed by any requester from the Library.

§ 602.13 Copies of records.

(a) The Agency will provide copies of requested records of the same type and quality which it would provide to personnel of another U.S. Government agency in the course of official business. It will not accept requests for special types of copying processes or for special standards of quality of reproduction.

(b) Copies of records requested will be reproduced as promptly as possible and mailed to the requester. Chargeable fees will be determined according to the schedule set forth in Subpart C of this part. The Freedom of Information (FOI) Officer is authorized to limit the number of copies of each requested record to 10 or less when he finds that there exists an extraordinary demand for the number of available copies or where requirements place excessive demands on the Agency's copying facilities.

§ 602.14 Records of other agencies, governments and international organizations.

(a) Requests for records that have been originated by or are primarily the concern of another U.S. Government department or agency shall be forwarded to the particular department or agency involved, and the requester notified in writing. Proper referral of the request and notification to the requester will constitute completed action on the part of ACDA.

(b) Requests for records that have been furnished to the Agency by foreign governments or by international organizations will not be released unless the organization or government concerned has indicated that the particular information should or may be made public. Where international organizations or foreign governments concerned have not made such a determination the requester will be so advised, and if possible, furnished the address to which the request may be sent.

§ 602.15 Overseas requests.

Pursuant to the general policy outlined in § 602.3, ACDA has made arrangements to provide the U.S. Information Agency (USIA) with material for dissemination abroad. Requests for information or materials originating in an area served by a USIA office, and which is received at Agency headquarters, will be referred to USIA when appropriate for direct response to the requester. The USIA also from time to time disseminates abroad information on official U.S. positions and arms control and disarmament policy for the Agency.

§ 602.16 Responses and time limits on requests.

(a) An initial determination on a request for an Agency record will be made within 10 working days after receipt of the request, and the requester notified immediately.

(b) If it is determined that the requested record (or portions thereof) will be made available, the requested material will be included in the notification or, if that is not feasible, forwarded promptly after the initial determination, provided the fee has been paid in full.

(c) If prior to making an initial determination it is anticipated that the search costs chargeable for a request will amount to more than $10 or the amount of the payment accompanying the request, whichever is larger, the requester shall be promptly notified of the total amount of the anticipated fee or such portion thereof as can readily be estimated. In these instances an advance deposit in the estimated amount of the search costs may be required. The request for an advance deposit shall extend an offer to the requester to consult with Agency personnel in order to reformulate the request in a manner which will reduce the fee, yet still meet the needs of the requester.

(d) In instances where the Agency has requested an advance deposit, the date of receipt of the deposit will be considered as the request date which begins the period of response by the Agency.

(e) Receipt of a request for Agency records will be determined by the time and date the request is received in the ACDA Library, or, when classified records are requested, in the Office of the Chief, Communications and Information Center (CIC). Time and date of receipt will be recorded on the incoming request by use of an electrical time stamping device.

(f) Where an obvious delay in receipt of a request has occurred, such as in cases where the requester has failed to address the request properly, or where a delay has been caused in the mails, the Agency will dispatch to the requester an acknowledgment of the receipt of his request.

§ 602.17 Time extensions.

(a) In unusual circumstances the time limit for an initial or final determination may be extended, but not to exceed a total of 10 working days in the aggregate in the processing of any specific request for an Agency record. Distribution of the 10 days between processing an initial and processing a final determination will be made by the FOI Officer.

(b) Unusual circumstances means, but only to the extent reasonably necessary to the proper processing of the particular case:

(1) The need to search for and collect the requested records from other establishments that are physically separate from ACDA headquarters;

(2) The need to search for, collect, and appropriately examine a voluminous amount of separate and distinct records which are demanded in a single request; or

(3) The need for consultation, which shall be conducted with all practicable speed, with another agency having a substantial interest in the determination of the request.

(c) In exceptional circumstances, if it would be impossible to complete a search for or review of Agency records within the 10 working day period for an initial determination, the FOI Officer may seek an extension of time from the requester. If such an extension of time can be agreed upon, that fact will be clearly documented and the initial determination made within the extended time period; if not, an initial determination that the record cannot be identified or located, or reviewed, within the 10 working day time limit shall be made under § 602.16.

§ 602.18 Inability to comply with requests.

When a request cannot be fulfilled, the requester will be so informed with reasons, and any fees returned after deduction of applicable search costs. Such reasons may include, but are not limited to the following:

(a) Insufficient or vague identifying information which makes identification or location of the record impossible;

(b) No such record in existence;

(c) Record available for purchase from the Government Printing Office or elsewhere;

(d) Records destroyed pursuant to the Records Disposal Act.

Subpart C—Fees

§ 602.20 Schedule of fees.

(a) The following fees shall be applicable throughout the Agency with respect to service rendered to members of the public under this part:

(1) Records Search. By clerical personnel: First one-quarter hour free, each subsequent quarter hour or fraction thereof $1.50. By professional or supervisory personnel: fee to be established in each case.

(2) Copying Service. $0.10 per page.

(3) Certification. Certification of each record as a true copy. $1.00.

(4) Printed Research Reports. Printed research reports which are not published by the Government Printing Office are available in limited supply. The following schedule of fees for such reports will remain in effect until the supply of copies in stock is exhausted; thereafter reports will be copied at the expense of the requester in accordance with the fee schedule established for copying service.

(i) $1.00 per copy of each report of 50 pages or less.

(ii) $2.00 per copy of each report of 50 through 100 pages.

(iii) $4.00 per copy of each report of 101 through 300 pages.

(iv) $6.00 per copy of each report over 300 pages.

(b) When no specific fee has been established for a service or the request for a service does not fall under one of the above categories due to the amount or type thereof, the Chief, Communications and Information Center (CIC), is authorized to establish an appropriate fee based on "direct costs" as provided in the Freedom of Information Act and in accordance with Office of Management and Budget Circular No. A-25, "User Charges." An example of a service covered by this provision is a search involving computer time. Requesters will be provided with cost estimates in these instances.

§ 602.21 Waiver of fees.

The Chief, CIC, may waive or authorize the ACDA Librarian to waive all or part of any fee provided for in this subpart when he determines that waiver or reduction of the fee is either in the Agency's interest or in the public interest because furnishing the information can be considered as primarily benefiting the general public.

§ 602.22 Fees for unsuccessful searches.

Unless waived, search costs are due and payable even if the record which was requested cannot be located after all reasonable efforts have been made, or if the Agency determines that a record which has been requested, but which is exempt from disclosure under Agency regulations, is to be withheld.

§ 602.23 GPO and free publications.

(a) The index of records available in the Agency's Library will list the sales offices of records published by the Government Printing Office (GPO). The Agency will refer each requester to the appropriate sales office and refund any fee payments accompanying the request. Published records out of print at the GPO may be copied by the Agency for the requester at his expense in accordance with the fee schedule established for copying service. In some instances the Agency may have extra copies of out of print GPO records. These extra copies will be provided to requesters at the printed GPO price.

(b) The Agency makes some publications or records available to the public without charge. These regulations neither change that practice nor require payment of a fee by a requester unless the original stock has been exhausted and copying services are necessary to satisfy a request.

§ 602.24 Method of payment.

(a) Payment may be in the form of cash, a personal check or bank draft drawn on a bank in the United States, or a postal money order. Remittances shall be made payable to the Treasury of the United States and mailed or delivered to the Freedom of Information Officer, U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Department of State Building, Washington, D.C. 20451.

(b) A receipt for fees paid will be given upon request.

Subpart D—Denial of Records

§ 602.30 Denials.

(a) Requests for inspection or copies of records may be denied where the information or record may be exempt from disclosure for reasons stated in § 602.31.

(b) Denials shall be in writing, shall set forth the reasons therefor, shall be signed by the name and title of the FOI Officer or person acting in his behalf and shall include an explanation of the requester's right to ask for an appeal, including the address to which an appeal may be directed.

§ 602.31 Exemptions.

The requirements of this part to make Agency records available do not apply to matters that are:

(a) Specifically authorized under criteria established by an Executive Order to be kept secret in the interest of national defense or foreign policy and are in fact properly classified pursuant to such Executive Order;

(b) Related solely to the internal personnel rules and practices of the Agency;

(c) Specifically exempted from disclosure by statute;

(d) Trade secrets and commercial or financial information obtained from a person and privileged or confidential;

(e) Interagency or intra-agency memorandums or letters which would not be available by law to a private party in litigation with the Agency;

(f) Personnel and medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy;

(g) Investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes, but only to the extent that the production of such records would (1) interfere with enforcement proceedings; (2) deprive a person of a right to a fair trial or an impartial adjudication; (3) constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; (4) disclose the identity of a confidential source and, in the case of a record compiled by a criminal law enforcement authority in the course of a criminal investigation or by an agency conducting a lawful national security intelligence investigation, confidential information furnished only by the confidential source; (5) disclose investigative techniques and procedures; or (6) endanger the life or physical safety of law enforcement personnel;

(h) Contained in or related to examination, operating or condition reports prepared by, on behalf of, or for the use of an agency responsible for the regulation or supervision of financial institutions; or

(i) Geological and geophysical information and data, including maps, concerning wells.

Subpart E—Review of Denials of Records

§ 602.40 Procedure for appealing initial determinations to withhold records.

(a) A member of the public who has requested an Agency record in accordance with Subpart B of this part and who has received an initial determination which does not comply fully with the request, may appeal such a determination.

(b) The appeal shall:

(1) Be in writing;

(2) Be initiated within 30 working days of the initial determination denying the request;

(3) Be sent by certified mail;

(4) Include a copy of the inital written request, a copy of the letter of denial, and the requester's reasons for appealing the denial; and

(5) Be addressed to the Executive Officer, U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Department of State Building, Washington, D.C. 20451.

(c) The 30 day period for appealing a denial begins on the date of receipt of the denial by the requester in cases of denial of the entire request and from date of receipt of any records being made available in case of partial denial. The 30 day limitation may be waived, in the discretion of the Executive Officer, for good cause shown. The Agency will consider any request closed if, within 30 working days after a complete or partial denial, the requester fails to respond in writing, outlining his appeal.

§ 602.41 Decision on appeal.

(a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, review and final determination on an appeal shall be made by the Executive Officer of ACDA.

(b) When an initial determination to withhold access to a record is predicated on exemption in paragraph (a) listed in § 602.31 (i.e., continued classification of the record under an executive order), review of an appeal shall be made by the ACDA Classification Review Committee (hereinafter referred to as the "Committee"). The Committee shall make a written record of the reasons for its decision and the views of each member. The final determination on the appeal shall be in writing from the Chairman of the Committee to the requester, shall briefly state the reasons for the determination, and shall be promptly communicated to the requester. Copies of the Committee's records shall be made available to all Committee members and to the FOI Officer.

(c) Review of an appeal shall be made on the submitted record. No personal appearance, oral argument, or hearing shall be permitted.

(d) The final determination on an appeal from a denial shall be made, by either the Executive Officer or the Committee as appropriate, within 20 working days of receipt of the appeal by the Agency. In unusual circumstances, and upon notification to the requester, a ten day extension of the time period may be authorized but only to the extent that such extension does not extend beyond 10 working days any time extension used under the initial review of the request.

V 40 234 DEC 4 75 XUM

(e) If the final determination is affirmative, the requester will be notified immediately and the requested material will be forwarded promptly in accordance with the procedure described in § 602.16 for notifications of initial determinations.

(f) If the final determination is to withhold a record in whole or in part, the requester will be notified immediately of the determination, the reasons therefore, and his right to judicial review.

(g) All decisions shall be indexed and available for inspection and copying in the same manner as other Agency final orders and opinions, if any, under 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(2).

Subpart F—Annual Report to the Congress

§ 602.50 Requirements for annual report.

(a) On or before March 1 of each calendar year, ACDA shall submit a report covering the preceding calendar year to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and President of the Senate for referral to the appropriate committees of the Congress. The report shall include the following information:

(1) The number of determinations made by ACDA not to comply with requests for records made to the Agency under this part and the reasons for each such determination;

(2) The number of appeals made by persons under Subpart E of this part, the result of such appeals, and the reason for the action upon each appeal that results in a denial of information;

(3) The names and titles or positions of each person responsible for the denial of records requested under this part, and the number of instances of participation for each;

(4) The results of each proceeding conducted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(4)(F), including a report of the disciplinary action taken against the officer or employee who was primarily responsible for improperly withholding records or an explanation of why disciplinary action was not taken;

(5) A copy of this Part 602 and any other rule or regulation made by ACDA regarding 5 U.S.C. 552;

(6) A copy of the fee schedule and the total amount of fees collected by ACDA for making records available under this part; and

(7) Such other information as indicates efforts to administer fully this part.

(b) The FOI Officer shall be responsible for preparing the report for review and submission to the Congress by the Executive Officer of ACDA.

Title 42—Public Health

CHAPTER I—PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

PART 57—GRANTS FOR CONSTRUCTION OF HEALTH RESEARCH FACILITIES (INCLUDING MENTAL RETARDATION RESEARCH FACILITIES), TEACHING FACILITIES, STUDENT LOANS, EDUCATIONAL IMPROVEMENT AND SCHOLARSHIPS

Subpart X—Financial Distress Grants to Schools of Nursing

In the FEDERAL REGISTER of April 3, 1975 (40 FR 14932), the Assistant Secretary for Health, with the approval of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, proposed to amend Part 57 by adding a new Subpart X to implement former section 805(b) of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 296d(b)) authorizing the Secretary to award grants to assist public or nonprofit private schools of nursing which are in serious financial straits to meet operational costs required to maintain quality educational programs or which have special need for financial assistance to meet accreditation requirements.

Subsequent to publication of the notice of proposed rulemaking, Congress enacted the Nurse Training Act of 1975 (Pub. L. 94-63, title IX) which, effective July 1, 1975, repeals section 805 of the Public Health Service Act and adds a new section 815 continuing the authority of former section 805(b). In substance the new section 815 extends the same program of financial distress grants to schools of nursing which was formerly authorized by section 805(b). New section 815(b)(1) provides that the Secretary may not approve or disapprove an application for a grant except after consultation with the National Advisory Council on Nurse Training. Such consultation was formerly required under section 807 of the Public Health Service Act, and is provided for in § 57.2306(a) of the proposed regulations.

Since the financial distress program authorized by the new section 815 is substantively the same as that which was previously authorized under section 805(b), the Department will adopt the proposed regulations with several minor changes to conform with the Nurse Training Act of 1975, as set forth below. Throughout the regulations, references to the statutory authority for financial distress grants have been changed from the former section 805(b) of the Public Health Service Act to the new section 815. In addition, references to other sections of title VIII of the Public Health Service Act have been revised to conform with the redesignation of such sections under the Nurse Training Act of 1975. (For example, sections 841 and 843 of the Public Health Service Act, which are referred to in § 57.2302 of the proposed regulations, are redesignated as sections 851 and 853, respectively.)

The notice of proposed rulemaking which was published on April 3, 1975, offered interested persons the opportunity to participate in the rulemaking through submission of comments on or before May 5, 1975.

The only comment received concerned the eligibility of church-affiliated schools of nursing for financial distress grants and the related question of discrimination on the basis of religion in the admission of students to such schools. The writer expressed the view that grants to such schools would be in violation of the establishment of religion clause of the First Amendment to the Constitution. The Department recognizes the complexity of the issue of aid to church-affiliated educational institutions. This issue is currently before the Supreme Court in the form of a challenge to a State's program of general institutional support to all schools of higher education: "Roemer v. Board of Public Works of the State of Maryland" (Supreme Court No. 74-730). In light of the pendency of this issue and the lack of any statutory indication that church-affiliated institutions should be excluded from the financial distress grants program, which provides funds solely for the purposes of meeting operating costs of the nursing education programs of nursing schools or to assist such schools in meeting their accreditation requirements, it would be premature for the Department to prohibit such eligibility as a matter of law at this time.

The Department, however, has decided to make explicit in the regulations the existing constitutional prohibition against Federal assistance for sectarian instruction or other religious activities. In accordance with the Supreme Court's decision in "Tilton v. Richardson", 403 U.S. 672 (1970), concerning restrictions on the use of funds for sectarian activities, § 57.2308 of the proposed regulations has been revised to prohibit recipients of financial distress grant funds from using such funds for religious purposes.

With respect to the issue of discrimination on the basis of religion in the admission of students to church-affiliated schools, the Department considers such discriminatory practices to be contrary to the nurse training objectives of the financial distress grant program. The purpose of the program is to aid nursing schools which are in serious financial difficulty in order that they may continue to train nurses and thereby increase the supply and improve the distribution of nurses in the United States. Any nursing school which denies admission to qualified applicants for reasons unrelated to their qualification for the training involved, such as religion or creed, is less effective in meeting the nurse training needs of the Nation in that it arbitrarily excludes an element of the population which otherwise would be available to provide needed nursing services. Moreover, the capacity of such a school will not be utilized to the extent it would be were its students freely selected from among those persons best qualified to pursue its training program. For these reasons, a provision has been added to § 57.2309 of the proposed regulations, "Nondiscrimination," prohibiting grantees from discriminating on the basis of religion in the admission of individuals to their training programs.

Section 57.2309 of the proposed regulations, "Nondiscrimination," has also been revised to include a provision calling attention to the requirements of section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, relating to nondiscrimination of the handicapped. Finally, several minor editorial or technical changes have been made in the regulations as proposed.

Accordingly, a new Subpart X is added to 42 CFR Part 57 and is adopted as set forth below.

Effective date. These regulations are effective December 4, 1975.

Dated: October 23, 1975.

Acting Assistant Secretary for Health.

Approved: November 21, 1975.

(a) "Act" means the Public Health Service Act, as amended.

(b)(1) "Construction" means the construction and equipping of new buildings and the acquisition and expansion of existing buildings (including related costs, such as architects' fees, acquisition of land, offsite improvements, and the initial equipping of such buildings), and (2) the remodeling, alteration and repair of existing buildings.

(a)(1) Be a school as defined in § 57.2302(f)(1) with operating income insufficient to meet operational costs required to maintain quality educational programs or (2) with special need for financial assistance to meet accreditation requirements of a nonrecurring nature. For purposes of this paragraph, a school will be considered to have such "special need" for financial assistance where the requirements necessary in order to have the program of education in professional nursing of such school accredited by a recognized body or bodies, or by a State agency, approved for such purpose by the Commissioner of Education cannot be met within the school's operating income.

(b) Be located in a State as defined in § 57.2302(g).

§ 57.2304 Application.

(a) Each eligible school desiring a grant under this subpart shall submit an application in such form and at such time as the Secretary may require.[1]

(b) Such application shall be executed by an individual authorized to act for the applicant and to assume on behalf of the applicant the obligations imposed by the terms and conditions of any award, including the regulations of this subpart.

(c) The application shall contain a full and adequate description of the purpose for which the application is made, the manner in which the applicant intends to utilize funds awarded in accordance with this subpart, the proposed plan to eliminate the need for support under this subpart, and such other pertinent information as the Secretary may require.

§ 57.2305 Assurances required.

(a) Pursuant to section 815(b)(2) of the Act, the applicant shall submit an assurance satisfactory to the Secretary that the applicant will expend in carrying out its functions as a school of nursing during the fiscal year for which the grant is sought, an amount of non-Federal funds (excluding costs of construction as defined in § 57.2302(b) at least as great as the average amount of non-Federal funds (excluding expenditures of a nonrecurring nature, including costs of construction as defined in § 57.2302(b) expended for this purpose during the 3 fiscal years immediately preceding such fiscal year. The determination of the average amount of non-Federal funds expended by a new school during such 3-year period shall be the average for such of the preceding years as expenditures were actually made in carrying out the functions of the school: Provided, That the Secretary may, after consultation with the Council, waive the above requirements with respect to any school if he determines that the application of such requirement to such school would be inconsistent with the purposes of section 815 of the Act.

(b) The Secretary may in individual cases require additional assurances where he finds that such additional assurances are necessary to carry out the purposes of section 815 of the Act.

§ 57.2306 Grant awards.

(a) Within the limits of funds available for such purpose, the Secretary, after consultation with the Council, may award grants to those applicants whose support will best promote the purposes of section 815 of the Act, taking into consideration among other pertinent factors:

(1) The extent of the applicant's financial need to meet its costs of operation to maintain quality educational programs or to meet accreditation requirements;

(2) The actions which the applicant has taken or proposes to take to ameliorate the problem;

(3) The alternatives available to the applicant to meet its need for financial assistance; and

(4) The merit of the applicant's proposed plan to eliminate the long-range need for support under this program.

CHAPTER V—NATIONAL HIGHWAY TRAFFIC SAFETY ADMINISTRATION, DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

PART 571—FEDERAL MOTOR VEHICLE SAFETY STANDARDS

Occupant Crash Protection; Correction

In FR Doc. 75–21282, appearing at page 33977 in the issue of Wednesday, August 13, 1975, a conforming amendment of the date "August 15, 1975" as it appears in S6.2 and S6.3 of the standard was inadvertently omitted, although this change to these underlying sections is necessary to fully extend the effectiveness of S4.1.2.3 of the standard as intended.

Accordingly, the date "August 15, 1975", appearing in sections S6.2 and S6.3 of Standard No. 208, Occupant Crash Protection, is changed to "August 31, 1976".

(Sec. 103, 119 Pub. L. 89–563, 80 Stat. 718 (15 U.S.C. 1392, 1407); delegation of authority at 49 CFR 1.51)

Flammability of Interior Materials

This notice establishes a new section, S3A. Definitions, in Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 302, 49 CFR 571.302.

On September 16, 1975, the NHTSA published in the FEDERAL REGISTER its response to a petition for reconsideration of Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 302, Flammability of interior materials (40 FR 42746). The rule established a definition of the term "occupant compartment air space" that was supposed to be added to "S3A. Definitions." The wording of the amendment was faulty, however, since the Definitions section had not yet been established in Standard No. 302. This notice corrects the error by adding that section to the standard.

Petitions have been received from General Motors Corporation, Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, American Motors Corporation, and Ford Motor Company requesting that the definition of "occupant compartment air space" in Notice 9 be revoked. These petitions will be addressed in a separate notice. The purpose of this notice is only to promulgate the section heading which was omitted in error from Notice 9.

In light of the above, in place of the amendment numbered 1. in Docket 3–3, Notice 9 (40 FR 42746, September 16, 1975), Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 302 is amended by adding a new S3A. Definitions, reading as follows:

V40234 DEC 4 75 XUM

S3A. Definitions.

"Occupant compartment air space" means the space within the occupant compartment that normally contains refreshable air.

Effective date: December 4, 1975. Because this amendment is of an interpretative nature and makes no substantive change in the rule, it is found for good cause shown that an immediate effective date is in the public interest.

CHAPTER X—INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

PART 1010—COMPETITIVE BIDS

Bids of Carriers Subject to the Clayton Antitrust Act

DECEMBER 1, 1975.

At a general session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, held at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 20th day of November, 1975.

It appearing, That by order of the Commission, dated October 6, 1919, as amended October 4, 1920, this proceeding was instituted for the purpose of establishing the rules and regulations pertaining to competitive bidding for the securities, supplies, other articles of commerce, and certain contracts, as directed by section 10 of the Clayton Antitrust Act (38 Stat. 734, 15 U.S.C. 20), which regulations are presently found in 49 CFR 1010.1 to 1010.7;

It further appearing, That, by petition filed August 29, 1975, Southern Railway Company, of Washington, D.C., and Union Pacific Railroad Company, of Salt Lake City, Utah, both class I railroads subject to Part I of the Interstate Commerce Act, request that the regulations found at 49 CFR 1010.1(b) and 1010.2(a) be amended; that at present the regulations read, as pertinent herein, as follows:

Section 1010.1(b)

• • • Such published notices shall describe in general but intelligible terms the proposed contract, giving its serial number, and the special matter or things for which bids are requested, and the date on or before which the bids must be submitted • • •

Section 1010.2(a)

Every bid to receive consideration shall be submitted at the place specified in the notice on or before noon of the day on which the bids shall be opened after noon and before 6 o'clock, on the day and at the place and by the person or persons designated in the notice • • •; that the petition seeks to amend the regulations to read as follows:

Section 1010.1(b)

• • • Such published notices shall describe in general but intelligible terms the proposed contract, giving its serial number, and the special matter or things for which bids are requested, and the date and time at or before which the bids must be submitted, and the person by whom • • •; (modification underscored)

Section 1010.2(a)

Every bid to receive consideration shall be submitted at the place and at or before the hour specified in the notice for the receipt of bids. The time specified may be any hour from 10:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. of any business day, and the bids shall be opened after the specified hour and before six o'clock on the day and at the place and by the person or persons designated in the notice • • •; (modifications in italic); and, that the reason for the proposed modifications is that at the present time the winning bidder is unable to confirm its own sales of the securities, etc., resulting in unnecessary risks which will be alleviated by the proposed modification;

It further appearing, That statements in support of the modifications of the regulations were submitted by spokesmen for Salomon Brothers; Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Incorporated; Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc.; Burlington Northern Inc.; The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company and Western Maryland Railway Company jointly; Norfolk and Western Railway Company; Seaboard Coast Line Railroad Company; and The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company; and that all the supporting statements maintain that the procedural modifications requested in the petition are reasonable and will improve the procedure for competitive bidding;

It further appearing, That, as presently set forth in the above regulations, the procedure and notice requirements may be, under certain circumstances, cumbersome and result in unnecessary risks to the winning bidders; that the modifications of the regulations would eliminate such difficulties; and that under these circumstances and for other good cause, the regulations should be modified as shown below; and

It further appearing, That such modifications constitute procedural rule changes within the exception to section 553 of the Administrative Procedure Act; and that notice and hearing of the proposed modifications are therefore not required.

It is ordered, That for the aforesaid reasons, the regulations found at 49 CFR 1010.1(b) and 1010.2(a), as modified and set forth below, be, and they are hereby, adopted;

It is further ordered, That this order shall become effective on the date of service;

It is further ordered, That except as herein modified, the report and order of October 6, 1919, in this proceeding, as amended by order of October 4, 1920, and as modified and supplemented, shall remain in full force and effect; and

It is further ordered, That notice of this order shall be given to the general public by depositing a copy thereof in the Office of the Secretary of the Commission at Washington, D.C., and by filing a copy with the Director, Office of the Federal Register.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] ROBERT L. OSWALD,
Secretary.

NOTE: This decision is not a major Federal action having a significant impact on the quality of the human environment within the meaning of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

§ 1010.1 Specifications, form of proposal and contract; publication of request of bids; variation from the generally applicable procedure.

(b) The carrier shall publish in each case a request for bids in at least two daily newspapers of general circulation, at least two publications in each week for 2 weeks, the first publication to be at least 2 weeks immediately preceding the day when the bids are to be submitted; one such newspaper shall be published or shall be of general circulation in the city or town where the principal operating office of the carrier is located and the other newspaper shall be published in one other of the following cities nearest to the operating or financial office of the carrier or the place where the contract is to be performed, namely: New York, N.Y., Boston, Mass., Chicago, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., Atlanta, Ga., San Francisco, Calif., and Portland, Oreg.; and a printed copy of the published notice in each case shall be posted in plain view, for 2 weeks immediately preceding the day on which bids are to be received, on a bulletin board, designated for that purpose, in a public and conspicuous place in the building where the principal operating office of the carrier is located.

(1) Such published notices shall describe in general but intelligible terms the proposed contract, giving its serial number, and the special matter or things for which bids are requested, and the date and time at or before which the bids must be submitted, and the person by whom and the office at which the bids submitted will be received and opened as provided in this part. The carrier may in said notice reserve the right to reject, any and all bids and may, at its option, require each bidder to tender a bond in a reasonable sum to be therein named, with sufficient surety or sureties conditioned upon the faithful and prompt performance of the terms of the contract.

§ 1010.2 Opening of bids; bonds; forms and contents of bids.

(a) Every bid to receive consideration shall be submitted at the place and at or before the hour specified in the notice for the receipt of bids. The time specified may be any hour from 10:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. of any business day, and the bids shall be opened after the specified hour and before six o'clock on the day and at the place and by the person or persons designated in the notice. Each bidder may attend in person or by duly authorized representative at the opening of the bids, and shall be afforded an opportunity to do so and to examine each bid. The bids shall forthwith be tabulated in conformity with the form of proposal prepared and a copy of such tabulation shall be promptly furnished to any bidder or his authorized representative upon application therefor.

Consideration by the Interstate Commerce Commission of a petition to modify the notice requirements embodied in 49 CFR 1010.1(b) and 1010.2(a) pertaining to the request for and consideration of bids for the securities, supplies, other articles of commerce, and certain contracts of carriers subject to the Clayton Antitrust Act.

On August 29, 1975, a petition was filed by Southern Railway Company and the Union Pacific Railway Company requesting that the regulations found at 49 CFR 1010.1(b) and 1010.2(a) be amended.

Two proposed changes were requested. The first involved changing the contents of the published notice of the competitive bidding to include the time at or before which the bids must be submitted. The second concerned a change in the time the bids shall be submitted, from "on or before noon" to "at or before the hour" specified in the notice, provided the time is from 10:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m.

No hearing will be held as the matter is procedural in nature and as such falls within the exception to section 553 of the Administrative Procedure Act.

It is ordered, That 49 CFR 1010.1(b) and 1010.2(a) are revised to read as follows:

§ 1010.1 Specifications, form of proposal and contract; publication of request for bids; variation from the generally applicable procedure.

(1) Such published notices shall describe in general but intelligible terms the proposed contract, giving its serial number, and the special matter or things for which bids are requested, and the date and time at or before which the bids must be submitted, and the person by whom and the office at which the bids submitted will be received and opened as provided in this part. The carrier may in said notice reserve the right to reject, any and all bids and may, at its option, require each bidder to tender a bond in a reasonable sum to be therein named, with sufficient surety or sureties conditioned upon the faithful and prompt performance of the terms of the contract.

§ 1010.2 Opening of bids; bonds; form contents of bids.

(a) Every bid to receive consideration shall be submitted at the place and at or before the hour specified in the notice for the receipt of bids. The time specified may be any hour from 10:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. of any business day, and the bids shall be opened after the specified hour and before six o'clock on the day and at place and by the person or persons designated in the notice. This regulation fixes the quantity of California-Arizona Navel oranges that may be shipped to fresh market during the weekly regulation period December 5–11, 1975. It is issued pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and Marketing Order No. 907. The quantity of Navel oranges so fixed was arrived at after consideration of the total available supply of Navel oranges, the quantity currently available for market, the fresh market demand for Navel oranges, Navel orange prices, and the relationship of season average returns to the parity price for Navel oranges.

§ 907.656 Navel Orange Regulation 356.

(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 907, as amended (7 CFR Part 907), regulating the handling of Navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and upon the basis of the recommendations and information submitted by the Navel Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such Navel oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) The need for this section to limit the respective quantities of Navel oranges that may be marketed from District 1, District 2, and District 3 during the ensuing week stems from the production and marketing situation confronting the Navel orange industry.

(i) The committee has submitted its recommendation with respect to the quantities of Navel oranges that should be marketed during the next succeeding week. Such recommendation, designed to provide equity of marketing opportunity to handlers in all districts, resulted from consideration of the factors enumerated in the order. The committee further reports that the fresh market demand for Navel oranges is fairly strong. Prices f.o.b. averaged $4.65 a carton on a reported sales volume of 693 carlots last week, compared with an average f.o.b. price of $5.01 per carton and sales of 424 carlots a week earlier. Track and rolling supplies at 312 cars were up 266 cars from last week.

(ii) Having considered the recommendation and information submitted by the committee, and other available information, the Secretary finds that the respective quantities of Navel oranges which may be handled should be fixed as hereinafter set forth.

(3) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rulemaking procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. The committee held an open meeting during the current week, after giving due notice thereof, to consider supply and market conditions for Navel oranges and the need for regulation; interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such Navel oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period herein specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject hereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective date hereof. Such committee meeting was held on December 2, 1975.

(b) Order. (1) The respective quantities of Navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California which may be handled during the period December 5, 1975, through December 11, 1975, are hereby fixed as follows:

(i) District 1: 1,330,000 cartons;

(ii) District 2: Unlimited movement;

(iii) District 3: 70,000 cartons."

(2) As used in this section, "handled," "District 1," "District 2," "District 3," and "carton" have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order.

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

Dated: December 3, 1975.

CHARLES R. BRADER,
Acting Director, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service.

Title 24—Housing and Urban Development

CHAPTER X—FEDERAL INSURANCE ADMINISTRATION, DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

[Docket No. FI-804]

PART 1914—AREAS ELIGIBLE FOR THE SALE OF INSURANCE

Status of Participating Communities

● Purpose. The purpose of this notice is to list those communities wherein the sale of flood insurance is authorized under the National Flood Insurance Program (42 U.S.C. 4001–4128). ●

Insurance policies can be obtained from any licensed property insurance agent or broker serving the eligible community, or from the National Flood Insurers Association servicing company for the state (addresses are published at 39 FR 26186–93). A list of servicing companies is also available from the Federal Insurance Administration (FIA), HUD, 451 Seventh Street, SW., Washington, D.C. 20410.

The Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 requires the purchase of flood insurance as a condition of receiving any form of Federal or Federally related financial assistance for acquisition or construction purposes in a flood plain area having special hazards within any community identified by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

The requirement applies to all identified special flood hazard areas within the United States, and no such financial assistance can legally be provided for acquisition or construction in these areas unless the community has entered the program. Accordingly, for communities listed under this Part no such restriction exists, although insurance, if required, must be purchased.

The Federal Insurance Administrator finds that delayed effective dates would be contrary to the public interest. The Administrator also finds that notice and public procedure under 5 U.S.C. 553(b) are impracticable and unnecessary.

Section 1914.4 of Part 1914 of Subchapter B of Chapter X of Title 24 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended by adding in alphabetical sequence new entries to the table. In each entry, a complete chronology of effective dates appears for each listed community. The date that appears in the fourth column of the table is provided in order to designate the effective date of the authorization of the sale of flood insurance in the area under the emergency or the regular flood insurance program. These dates serve notice only for the purposes of granting relief, and not for the application of sanctions, within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. 551. The entry reads as follows:

[Docket No. FI-806]

PART 1915—IDENTIFICATION OF SPECIAL HAZARD AREAS

Administrative Withdrawal of Special Flood Hazard Maps

● Purpose. The purpose of this notice is to amend Part 1915 of Title 24 of the Code of Federal Regulations to indicate periods in which the insurance purchase requirement under the National Flood Insurance Program, authorized by the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90–448), as amended; and the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 92–234, December 31, 1973), 42 U.S.C. 4001–4128, was suspended. ●

The Flood Disaster Protection Act requires the purchase of flood insurance on and after March 2, 1974, as a condition of receiving any form of Federal or Federally-related financial assistance for acquisition or construction purposes in an identified flood plain area having special flood hazards that is located within any community currently participating in the program.

Prior to July 1, 1975, the statutory requirement for the purchase of flood insurance did not apply until and unless the community entered the program and the special flood hazard areas were identified by the issuance of a flood insurance map. However, after July 1, 1975, or one year after identification, whichever is later, the requirement applies to all communities in the United States that are identified as having special flood hazard areas within their community boundaries, so that, no such financial assistance can legally be provided for buildings in these areas unless the community has entered the program. The denial of such financial assistance has no application outside of the identified special flood hazard areas of such flood-prone communities.

The insurance purchase requirement with respect to a particular community may be altered by the issuance or withdrawal of the Federal Insurance Administration's (FIA's) official flood maps, the Flood Insurance Rate Map (FIRM) or the Flood Hazard Boundary Map (FHBM). A FHBM is designated by the letter "H" preceding the map number and a FIRM by the letter "I" preceding the map number. If the FIA withdraws a FHBM for any reason the insurance purchase requirement is suspended during the period of withdrawal. However, if the community is in the Regular Program and only the FIRM is withdrawn but a FHBM remains in effect, then flood insurance is still required for properties located in identified special flood hazard areas, but the maximum amount of insurance available for new applications or renewal is first layer coverage under the Emergency Program, since the community's Regular Program status is suspended while the map is withdrawn. (For definitions see 24 CFR Part 1909 et. seq.).

As the purpose of this revision is the convenience of the public, notice and public procedure are unnecessary, and cause exists to make this amendment effective upon publication. Accordingly, Subchapter B of Chapter X of Title 24 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended as follows:

1. Section 1915.1 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1915.1 Purpose of this part.

42 U.S.C. 4101 authorizes the Administrator to identify and publish information with respect to all flood plain areas within the United States having special flood hazards, mudslide (i.e., mudflow) areas having special mudslide hazards, and flood-related erosion areas having special erosion hazards. The purpose of this part is to list those communities that have been identified by the Administrator as having such special flood, mudslide (i.e., mudflow) or flood-related erosion hazards. Additional communities will be added to this list from time to time as the necessary information becomes available. This part also provides a list of communities for which detailed engineering data in the form of water surface elevation data for the flood with one percent chance of annual occurrence has been made available, and the flood insurance rate zones for the special hazard areas within those communities. Additionally, this Part contains information concerning the revision of Flood Hazard Boundary Maps (FHBM's) or Flood Insurance Rate Maps (FIRM's), and notice of administrative withdrawal of special flood hazard maps (i.e., FHBM's or FIRM's).

2. Present § 1915.6 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1915.6 Administrative withdrawal of maps.

(a) Flood Hazard Boundary Maps (FHBM's). The following is a cumulative list of withdrawals pursuant to this part:

40 F.R. 5149
40 F.R. 17015
40 F.R. 20798
40 F.R. 46102
40 F.R. 53579
40 F.R. 56672

(b) Flood Insurance Rate Maps (FIRM's). The following is a cumulative list of withdrawals pursuant to this part:

REASONS FOR WITHDRAWAL:

[1] The community appealed its flood-prone designation and FIA determined the community would not be inundated by a flood having a 1-percent chance of occurrence in any given year.
[2] The Flood Hazard Boundary Map (FHBM) contained printing errors or was improperly distributed. A new FHBM will be prepared and distributed.
[3] The community lacked enabling authority over the special flood hazard areas.
[4] The FHBM does not accurately reflect the community's special flood hazard areas (i.e. sheet flow flooding, extremely inaccurate map, etc.). A new FHBM will be prepared and distributed.
[5] A revision of the FHBM within a reasonable period of time was not possible. A new FHBM will be prepared and distributed.

MILK IN MINNESOTA-NORTH DAKOTA MARKETING AREA

Proposed Suspension of Certain Provisions of the Order

Notice is hereby gievn that, pursuant to the provisfons of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), the suspension of certain provisions of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Minnesota-North Dakota marketing area is being considered for the months of December 1975, January and February 1976.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments in connection with the proposed suspension should file the same with the Hearing Clerk, Room 112-A, Administration Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, on or before December 9, 1975. The time provided for such filing is reasonable under the circumstances. If it should be found that an emergency marketing situation exists that would warrant suspension action and an effective date beginning December 1, 1975, as proposed, only a limited time would be available to effectuate such emergency action. Any such action would not require of persons affected substantial or extensive preparation prior to the effective date. Persons known to be interested in the proposed suspension have been notified prior to FEDERAL REGISTER publication of this notice. All documents filed should be in quadruplicate.

All written submissions made pursuant to this notice will be made available for public inspection at the office of the Hearing Clerk during regular business hours (7 CFR 1.27(b)).

The provisions proposed to be suspended are as follows:

1. In § 1060.13, Producer milk:

a. The parts of paragraph (c)(1) that read, "During March through June" and "During the months of July through February such handler may divert an aggregate quantity not exceeding 50 percent of the milk of all such producers whose milk has been received at a pool plant(s) for at least 3 days during the month."

b. The parts of paragraph (c)(2) that read, "During March through June" and "During the months of July through February such handler may divert an aggregate quantity not exceeding 50 percent of the milk of all such producers whose milk has been received at his pool plant(s) for at least 3 days during the month."

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATION

The proposed suspension would permit unlimited diversion of producer milk under the Minnesota-North Dakota order during the months of December 1975 and January and February 1976.

The order provides that during any month of July through February a cooperative association may divert for its account a total quantity of milk not in excess of 50 percent of the milk of all member producers whose milk has been received at a pool plant(s) for at least 3 days during the month. Similarly, a handler in his capacity as the operator of a pool plant, may divert for his account the milk of producers (other than a member of a cooperative association that is a diverting handler during the same month) in a total quantity not exceeding 50 percent of the milk of all such producers whose milk has been received at his pool plant(s) for at least 3 days during the month. Provision is made for unlimited diversion during the months of March through June.

The suspension action is requested by Land O'Lakes, Inc., to accommodate the handling of reserve milk on the market. The producer association, which represents producers supplying a substantial portion of the market's total fluid needs, claims that such suspension action is necessary in order to allow more economic handling of the market's reserve milk during the months of December 1975, and January and February, 1976.

The association expressed the belief that in the months of December 1975, January and February 1976, reserve milk supplies associated with regulated plants under the Minnesota-North Dakota order will exceed the specified diversion limits. Thus, they contend, if the diversion limitations are not suspended for the three months, a portion of the reserve milk of the market, if it is to be priced under the order, must be moved from farms to pool plants and then reshipped to manufacturing plants rather than being moved directly from the farms to such plants. The association estimates that under such circumstances, additional handling costs would be incurred amounting to about $5,000 dollars during each of the three months.

The petitioner pointed out that diversion limitations under the order have been a reoccuring problem the same provisions having been suspended for the months of January, February, July, and August 1975. Petitioner further pointed out that "the problem, was dealt with at the November 1974 hearing to consider merging the Minnesota-North Dakota order with other orders. A final decision is now pending in that proceeding. In the interim, suspension of diversion limitations would create potential cost savings and promote orderly marketing."

Signed at Washington, D.C., on November 28, 1975.

Acting Administrator.

MILK IN QUAD CITIES—DUBUQUE MARKETING AREA

Proposed Suspension of Certain Provisions of the Order

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), the suspension of certain provisions of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Quad Cities—Dubuque marketing area is being considered for the months of December 1975 and January 1976.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments in connection with the proposed suspension should file the same with the Hearing Clerk, Room 112-A, Administration Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250 on or before December 9, 1975. All documents filed should be in quadruplicate.

All written submissions made pursuant to this notice will be made available for public inspection at the office of the Hearing Clerk during regular business hours (7 CFR 1.27(b)).

The provisions proposed to be suspended are as follows:

Section 1063.13(b)(2), that limits diversion of a producer's milk from a pool plant to a nonpool in September through January to the number of days that his milk was delivered from his farm to a pool plant during the month.

The proposed suspension would remove the limitation on diversion of producer milk in December 1975 and January 1976.

Land O'Lakes, Inc., requests this suspension to accommodate the handling of reserve supplies of milk for this market. The cooperative states that in order to maintain pool status for the milk of certain of its producers, it is directing the milk from farms in the Clinton, Iowa area to its pool plant in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and then reloading the milk for transfer to a nonpool plant in Clinton. This proopsed suspension would permit continued producer milk status for milk moved directly from producers' farms to a nonpool plant.

Signed at Washington, D.C., on November 28, 1975.

Food and Drug Administration

[21 CFR Parts 310, 330]

[Docket No. 75N-0345]

MARKETING STATUS OF INGREDIENTS RECOMMENDED FOR OVER-THE-COUNTER USE

Proposed Rulemaking and Enforcement Policy

The Commissioner of Food and Drugs is proposing to amend Part 330 (21 CFR Part 330) to set forth the policy of the Food and Drug Administration regarding the marketing of over-the-counter (OTC) drug products containing either (a) an ingredient at a dosage level higher than that currently available in an OTC product or (b) an ingredient that is currently limited to prescription use, but is regarded by an OTC drug advisory review panel as generally recognized as safe and effective and not misbranded for OTC use. Interested persons have until February 6, 1975 to submit comments. The proposed effective date of the regulation is 30 days after the date of publication of the final regulation in the FEDERAL REGISTER, but the Commissioner intends to make the enforcement policy set forth effective immediately.

THE OVER-THE-COUNTER DRUG REVIEW

Under procedures promulgated in the FEDERAL REGISTER of May 11, 1972 (37 FR 9464), a review of the safety and effectiveness of OTC drug ingredients was undertaken by the Food and Drug Administration. Advisory review panels were appointed to evaluate the safety and effectiveness of OTC ingredients, to review labeling for OTC drugs, and to advise the Commissioner on the promulgation of monographs establishing conditions under which OTC drug ingredients are generally recognized as safe and effective and not misbranded (category I). Each advisory review panel was instructed to include in its report to the Commissioner a statement of all active ingredients, labeling claims or other statements, or other conditions reviewed and excluded from the monograph on the basis of the panel's determination that their use would result in OTC products not being generally recognized as safe and effective or would result in misbranding (category II). Each panel was also instructed to include in its report a statement of all ingredients, labeling claims or other statements, or other conditions reviewed and not included in the monograph on the basis of the panel's determination that the available data are insufficient to classify a drug in category I or category II and for which further testing is required (category III).

The advisory review panels were also directed to review and make recommendations concerning any prescription drug ingredients that could be used safety and effectively by laymen. Several panels have considered or are considering ingredients that are currently marketed only in prescription drug products. A number of the panels have also recommended that the dosage level of some ingredients currently available in OTC products be increased to a level that the panel believes is generally recognized as or likely to be safe and effective.

The OTC panels' consideration of prescription ingredients and of increased dosage levels of OTC ingredients is appropriate, but it has raised questions about the current marketing status of such ingredients and dosage levels. A number of years prior to establishing the OTC review procedures in Part 330, the agency adopted by regulation under § 310.200 (21 CFR 310.200) a procedure for transferring to OTC status new drugs which had previously been marketed only as prescription products. This regulation was not amended at the time the OTC procedures were adopted, and there has been some confusion over whether both regulations apply to a new drug ingredient which is a prescription drug under review by an OTC review panel. It is therefore necessary to clarify the relationship between § 310.200 and Part 330.

Confusion has also resulted from the fact that some OTC review panels have tentatively determined that certain ingredients that have been used only in prescription drug products can be considered as safe and effective in OTC drug products (category I), or as potentially safe and effective for OTC use pending the outcome of additional studies (category III). In addition, some panels have concluded that the currently available OTC dosage levels of some ingredients are too low to be effective, and have therefore recommended that higher dosage levels should be used.

Some manufacturers have, in light of these recommendations, initiated OTC marketing of these prescription ingredients pending completion of the OTC drug review, relying on previous informal expressions of general Food and Drug Administration policy. The Commissioner is also concerned that some manufacturers may be contemplating increasing the dosage level of some OTC ingredients on the basis of these anticipated recommendations to the agency.

Accordingly, the Commissioner is now stating the enforcement policy of the Food and Drug Administration so that all interested persons will know the regulatory status of such ingredients prior to final promulgation of an applicable OTC drug monograph.

PROCEDURES FOR CHANGING FROM PRESCRIPTION TO OTC STATUS

There are two procedures, described in § 310.200 and in Part 330, by which a prescription drug ingredient may lawfully be marketed for OTC use: Virtually all of the prescription drug ingredients that the OTC panels are considering were introduced into the market as prescription drug products through the new drug procedures under Part 314 (21 CFR Part 314). Prior to the OTC drug review, the procedures for obtaining approval to market a prescription ingredient as an OTC ingredient were by petition to the Food and Drug Administration following procedures set forth under § 310.200 (implementing section 503(b)(3) (21 U.S.C. 353(b)(3)) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act by providing a procedure for transferring a prescription new drug to OTC status). This procedure may be initiated by the Commissioner or by a petition from any interested person, which may be in the form of a supplement to an approved new drug application. Paragraph (c) of § 310.200 provides that a drug so transferred continues to be regarded as a new drug, and this procedure thus differs from the procedure afforded by the OTC drug review process.

The OTC drug review process under Part 330 provides another procedure by which a prescription ingredient can be transferred to OTC status. This process includes review by an OTC review panel (with a resulting recommendation for OTC use), publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of a proposed monograph (ordinarily accompanied by the adopted report of the panel) for comment, publication of a tentative final monograph, and finally promulgation of a final OTC drug monograph. Only after promulgation of a final monograph will drug products containing ingredients classified by an OTC review panel as category I for a particular indication, route of administration, and in a specified dosage level, whether or not introduced to the market through the new drug procedures, no longer be regarded as new drugs subject to section 505 of the act. At the time of publication of a final monograph prescription requirements will also be waived; a new drug application will not be required for marketing of any OTC drug product complying with the monograph; and any outstanding approved new drug applications for products that can be marketed under the conditions set out in the monograph will be revoked.

Any ingredient that is not being or has not been reviewed by an OTC review panel and that is limited to prescription use under section 503(b)(1)(C) of the act may be the subject of a proposal initiated by the Commissioner or by a petition from an interested party under the procedures set forth in § 310.200. Because there may be some confusion as to whether such a petition pursuant to § 310.200 is required for a prescription drug ingredient that is the subject of an approved new drug application and that has been classified as generally recognized as safe and effective in a final monograph, the Commissioner proposes to amend that section to make clear that the OTC drug review process is another procedure for transferring an ingredient from prescription to OTC status.

OTC REVIEW PROCESS AND MARKETING POLICY

Section 330.10 describes a three-stage procedure for promulgating OTC drug monographs. This administrative process is completed only upon promulgation of a final monograph for a class of drug ingredients.

The Commissioner is aware, however, that before the publication of a final monograph, some manufacturers have begun marketing OTC drug products containing ingredients currently limited to prescription use or dosage levels of ingredients that are higher than currently available in OTC drug products. In some cases marketing of such products has occurred even before the publication of a proposed monograph. Those manufacturers appear to have assumed that the panel's preliminary judgments, as revealed through summary panel minutes, would ultimately be adopted by the Food and Drug Administration when the administrative process was completed.

The Commissioner emphasizes that the OTC drug review panels are established solely to provide recommendations to the Food and Drug Administration. Determination of actions to be taken and policy to be followed with respect to matters upon which an advisory panel makes recommendations must be made solely by the Commissioner. He may reach conclusions and make decisions contrary to a panel's recommendations.

It has been the policy of the Food and Drug Administration to encourage drug manufacturers to reformulate and/or relabel currently marketed OTC drug products to bring them into conformity with current medical knowledge and experience. This policy has permitted manufacturers and distributors to improve the safety and effectiveness of their OTC drug products based on an advisory panel's judgment even before the effective date of the final monograph. Thus many products have been reformulated so that they no longer contain category II ingredients; in other cases category III ingredients have been replaced by category I ingredients. The Commissioner believes this policy to be in the public interest. However, he advises that this policy extends only to drug products containing ingredients or dosage levels of ingredients already marketed for OTC use.

The Commissioner emphasizes that this policy does not permit the marketing, prior to publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of a proposed monograph, of products containing ingredients that are currently limited to prescription use or dosage levels of ingredients above those currently available OTC, even though a panel may tentatively and/or finally regard such ingredients or dosage levels as appropriate for classification in category I. He reminds all persons so affected that, after review and evaluation of a panel's report, he may reach conclusions contrary to a panel's report and recommendations. For example, the Commissioner may conclude that an ingredient currently limited to prescription use which a panel regards as generally recognized as safe and effective for OTC use, nonetheless lacks such general recognition for OTC use because of problems such as manufacturing or formulation difficulties, or unresolved questions concerning potential for abuse or misuse. Any drug product containing an ingredient that lacks general recognition of safety and effectiveness is classified in category II under the OTC review procedures.

The Commissioner is of the opinion that, to assure orderly implementation of a panel's recommendations and to prevent precipitous marketing of OTC drug products that may not be safe and effective, the agency's policy concerning the OTC marketing of such drug products should be clarified in a regulation. Accordingly, he is proposing to amend Part 330 of Title 21 of the Code of Federal Regulations by adding a new section setting forth that policy.

The Commissioner also wishes to advise all persons that any opinions informally expressed by officials of this agency in conference or in writing prior to and inconsistent with the policy as announced and proposed for codification herein are hereby revoked. This includes any previous statements regarding reclassification of prescription drugs for OTC marketing both prior to and during the OTC drug review. The policy announced in this proposed regulation shall constitute the enforcement policy of the Food and Drug Administration pending promulgation of the final regulation. The announcement of this enforcement policy will be the occasion for agency review of prescription drugs already introduced into the OTC market in anticipation of a final monograph to determine whether regulatory action is appropriate. Consideration will be given to the safety, effectiveness, and current labeling of these products.

As indicated earlier, the Commissioner is aware that, prior to clarification of this policy, some ingredients marketed only as prescription ingredients such as oxymetazoline, diphenhydramine, and chlorpheniramine (at a dosage level currently permitted only for prescription use) have been introduced into the market for OTC use prior to the Commissioner's receipt or acceptance of a panel's report. The Commissioner concludes that such OTC products are subject to the policy stated herein, and they are under review to determine their regulatory status.

The Commissioner does not wish to impede the relabeling and reformulation that can occur for products in the marketplace as long as such revisions are consistent with presently marketed OTC drugs and/or are consistent with the enforcement policy set forth in this proposal.

The Commissioner is proposing to amend Part 330 to set forth the following policy:

1. Any OTC drug product containing an ingredient previously limited to prescription use for the indication and route of administration under consideration by an OTC advisory review panel or containing any active ingredient at a dosage level higher than that currently available in an OTC drug product, which ingredient and/or dosage level is classified by the panel in category I, will be regarded as a new drug within the meaning of section 201(p) of the act if marketed prior to the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of a proposed monograph. Marketing of such a product prior to such date will be subject to regulatory action against the product, the marketer, or both.

2. Any such OTC drug product marketed after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of a proposed monograph, but prior to the effective date of a final monograph, would be subject to the risk that the Commissioner may not accept the panel's recommendation and instead adopt a different position that could require relabeling, recall, or other regulatory action. Marketing of such a product with a formulation or labeling not in accord with the proposed monograph or the tentative final monograph may also result in regulatory action against the product, the marketer, or both.

The Commissioner advises that, in the preamble to the proposed monograph (and published adopted report of a panel), he may indicate his disagreement with the panel's recommendation(s) regarding specific ingredients proposed for classification in category I, e.g., ingredients having manufacturing or formulation problems or unresolved questions concerning a potential for abuse or misuse, and may make a tentative determination that an approved new drug application is required for marketing an OTC drug product containing such ingredients. If the Commissioner makes such a determination, the marketing of such a product without an approved new drug application will be subject to regulatory action unless and until the final monograph for that class of drug products classifies the ingredient in category I.

3. Any OTC drug product containing an ingredient previously limited to prescription use for the indication and route of administration under consideration by an OTC advisory review panel or containing any active ingredient at a higher dosage level than that available in any OTC drug product on December 4, 1975, which ingredient and/or dosage level is classified by the panel in category II, will be regarded as a new drug within the meaning of section 201(p) of the act, requiring an approved new drug application prior to marketing. When such a drug product is the subject of a previously approved new drug application for prescription use, the procedures set out in § 310.200 must be followed before OTC marketing and the requirements for conducting clinical investigations with unapproved new drugs will apply.

4. Any OTC drug product containing an ingredient previously limited to prescription use for the indication and route of administration under consideration by an OTC advisory review panel or containing any active ingredient at a higher dosage level than that available in any OTC drug product on December 4, 1975, which ingredient and/or amount is classified by the panel in category III, may be marketed for OTC use only after one of the following has occurred: (a) The ingredient is determined by the Commissioner to be generally recognized as safe and effective and not misbranded or (b) a new drug application for the product for OTC use has been approved.

The Commissioner points out that the policy stated in paragraph 4 above applies only to ingredients previously limited exclusively to prescription use or to dosage levels of any active ingredient higher than those previously marketed for OTC use. The conditions under which a product already marketed for OTC use and placed by a panel or final monograph in category III may continue to be marketed, pending development of data to support approval of the ingredient or its labeling as safe and effective and not misbranded, were published as a proposed regulation in the FEDERAL REGISTER of October 21, 1975 (40 FR 49097).

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (secs. 502, 505, 701(a), 52 Stat. 1050–1053, as amended, 1055 (21 U.S.C. 352, 355, 371(a))) and under authority delegated to him (21 CFR 2.120), the Commissioner proposes that Part 310 and Part 330 be amended as follows:

1. In Part 310, by amending § 310.200 by revising paragraphs (a) and (c) and adding a new paragraph (e) to read as follows:

§ 310.200 Prescription-exemption procedure.

(a) Duration of prescription requirement. Any drug limited to prescription use under section 503(b)(1)(C) of the act remains so limited until it is exempted as provided in paragraph (b) or (e) of this section.

* * * * *

(c) New drug status of drugs exempted from the prescription requirement. A drug exempted from the prescription requirement under the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section is a "new drug" within the meaning of section 201(p) of the act until it has been used to a material extent and for a material time under such conditions except as provided in paragraph (e) of this section.

* * * * *

(e) Prescription-exemption procedure of OTC drug review. A drug limited to prescription use under section 503(b)(1)(C) of the act may also be exempted from prescription-dispensing requirements by the procedure set forth in § 330.13 of this chapter.

2. In Part 330 by adding a new § 330.13 to read as follows:

§ 330.13 Conditions for marketing ingredients recommended for over-the-counter (OTC) use under the OTC drug review.

(a) Before the publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of an applicable proposed monograph, an OTC drug product that contains: (1) An active ingredient previously limited to prescription use for the indication and route of administration under consideration by an OTC advisory review panel, or

(2) An active ingredient at a dosage level higher than that available in an OTC drug product on December 4, 1975, shall be regarded as a new drug within the meaning of section 201(p) of the act for which an approved new drug application is required.

(b) (1) An OTC drug product that contains: (i) An active ingredient previously limited to prescription use for the indication and route of administration under consideration by an OTC advisory review panel, or

(ii) An active ingredient at a dosage level higher than that currently available in an OTC drug product, which ingredient and/or dosage level is classified by the panel in category I, shall be regarded as a new drug within the meaning of section 201(p) of the act for which an approved new drug application is required if marketed for OTC use prior to the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of a proposed monograph.

(2) An OTC drug product covered by paragraph (b)(1) of this section which is marketed after the date specified in that paragraph but prior to the effective date of a final monograph shall be subject to the risk that the Commissioner may not accept the panel's recommendation and may instead adopt a different position that may require relabeling, recall, or other regulatory action. Marketing of such a product with a formulation or labeling not in accord with a proposed monograph or tentative final monograph also may result in regulatory action against the product, the marketer, or both.

(c) An OTC drug product that contains: (1) An active ingredient previously limited to prescription use for the indication and route of administration under consideration by an OTC advisory review panel, or

(2) An active ingredient at a dosage level higher than that available in any OTC drug product on December 4, 1975, which ingredient and/or dosage level is classified by the panel in category II, shall be regarded as a new drug within the meaning of section 201(p) of the act for which an approved new drug application is required for marketing.

(d) An OTC drug product that contains: (1) An active ingredient previously limited to prescription use for the indication and route of administration under consideration by an OTC advisory review panel, or

(2) An active ingredient at a dosage level higher than that available in any OTC drug product on December 4, 1975 which ingredient and/or dosage level is classified by the panel in category III, may be lawfully marketed only after either the ingredient is determined by the Commissioner to be generally recognized as safe and effective, or a new drug application for the product has been approved.

Interested persons may, on or before February 2, 1976, submit to the Hearing Clerk, Food and Drug Administration, Rm. 4–65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20852, written comments (preferably in quintuplicate and identified with the Hearing Clerk docket number found in brackets in the heading of this document) regarding this proposal. Received comments may be seen in the above office during working hours, Monday through Friday.

NOTE: It is hereby certified that the economic and inflationary effects of this proposal have been carefully evaluated in accordance with Executive Order No. 11821.

Dated: December 1, 1975.

NATIONAL READING IMPROVEMENT PROGRAMS

Proposed Rules and Criteria Governing Contract Awards

Pursuant to the authority contained in title VII of Pub. L. 93-380 (20 U.S.C. 1901, 1921, 1941-44, 1961-63, 1981-82), notice is hereby given that the Commissioner of Education, with the approval of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, proposes to amend Title 45 of the Code of Federal Regulations by adding a new Part 162 to read as set forth below.

The proposed regulation would set forth rules and criteria governing grant and contract awards by the Commissioner of Education to State and local educational agencies and other nonprofit organizations, where eligible under the following subparts, to:

(a) Strengthen reading instructional programs in elementary grades;

(b) Develop the capacity of preelementary school children for reading;

(c) Establish and improve preelementary school programs in language and reading;

(d) Develop and enhance skills of instructional and other educational staff for reading programs;

(e) Support State-administered reading programs;

(f) Test the effectiveness of intensive instruction by reading specialists and reading teachers; and

(g) Promote literacy among youths and adults.

(a) Summary of proposed regulations—1. Organization. Proposed Part 162 is divided into a number of subparts. Subpart A sets forth general introductory provisions, including common definitions, for the part as a whole; Subpart B governs direct project grants under part A of title VII, Pub. L. 93-380; Subpart C governs the State-administered programs under part B of title VII of Pub. L. 93-380; Subpart D governs Special Emphasis Projects under section 721 of Pub. L. 93-380; and Subpart E governs adult academy grants under section 723 of Pub. L. 93-380. Appendix A sets forth the statutory provisions of part B of title VII, Pub. L. 93-380 and Appendix B contains guidelines for the adult academy program under section 723 of Pub. L. 93-380.

2. Subpart A—General. Section 162.1 sets forth the scope and purposes for reading programs under this part. Section 162.2 includes definitions which are applicable throughout this part.

3. Subpart B—Reading Improvement Projects. (i) Section 162.10 describes the nature of the federally supported projects to be carried out by eligible recipients:

(A) Projects to strengthen reading instructional programs in elementary schools having large numbers or a high percentage of children with reading deficiencies; and

(B) Projects to establish and improve programs in language arts and reading in preelementary schools, in areas where there are large numbers or a high percentage of elementary school children with reading deficiencies;

(ii) Section 162.11 provides further explanation of the nature of projects to be carried out with awards under this subpart and indicates that projects receiving assistance must be designed to establish, expand, or improve the reading programs in one or more specific elementary or preelementary schools. The section indicates that two types of grants will be made:

(A) Grants for elementary school projects may be made to State or local educational agencies;

(B) Grants for preelementary school projects may be made to State or local educational agencies or nonprofit educational or child care institutions.

Section 162.11(b)(4) makes it clear that reading program activities and services assisted under this subpart must be directly administered by or under the supervision of the grantee. Subgrants may not be made to other entities; however, contracts may be made to secure services necessary to assist the grantee in carrying out a portion of the program activities, subject to certain conditions. State educational agencies may receive grants only if they will directly administer or supervise assisted reading programs where an SEA:

(A) Directly operates an elementary or preelementary school;

(B) Applies jointly with a local educational agency or other eligible applicant; or

(C) Assumes responsibility for reading activities in schools administered by the LEA or other eligible applicant, under proper arrangements;

(iii) Section 162.12 sets forth application requirements including, in § 162.12 (a), project objectives which include measurable objectives for overcoming reading deficiencies with timetables and an appropriate evaluation component. With respect to elementary school projects, the objectives must include plans for having children in project schools reading at the appropriate grade level at the end of grade three.

Section 162.12(b) requires that project school(s) be identified with supporting information on selection, numbers, and percentages of children with reading deficiencies attending the identified schools, the nature of the deficiencies, demographic information on children to be served, and information on existing reading programs and activities in the project schools with an explanation of how the proposed project will improve or expand the existing programs.

Section 162.12(c) requires that the application set forth a reading program including specified elements; this requirement is divided into three parts:

(A) Elements to be included in all applications;

(B) Those to be included in applications for elementary school projects; and

(C) Those to be included in preelementary school projects. Requirements which all applications must contain include documentation of on-going participation of specified parties in planning and developing the program, and evidence of planning for comprehensive programs which includes appropriate testing of students, staff training, use of bilingual education methods, and dissemination of information on results of the program.

Each relevant application requirement in § 162.12 would have to be met by an application for assistance under Subpart B in order for the application to be considered for funding;

(iv) Section 162.13 sets out the requirements for review of applications by State educational agencies and State advisory councils. The State educational agency must approve every application and establish an advisory council on reading, broadly representative of the educational resources and the general public of the State, which will designate priorities among applications for grants under this subpart in its State. Section 162.13 (c) indicates that the Commissioner may establish a cut-off date for approval of applications by a State educational agency, with failure to approve by that date regarded as State disapproval of the application;

(v) Section 162.14 sets forth evaluation criteria and is divided into general criteria and specific programmatic criteria. Specific programmatic criteria include the extent the proposed project is designed to achieve high quality with respect to certain specific program elements required by § 162.12(c).

With respect to many of the specific program criteria, the proposed provisions set out the criterion and follow the criterion with a number of examples of considerations which may enter into the Commissioner's judgment of how many points to assign a particular criterion for each application. These examples are introduced by the lanuguage "as measured by factors such as whether." They are not requirements or hard and fast criteria and are not intended as an exhaustive list of considerations which will influence application of the stated criterion. However, they do give guidance to applicants as to some of the kinds of factors which might be addressed in the application to receive the maximum number of points under each respective criterion;

(vi) Section 162.15 indicates the criteria the Commissioner will use to seek to assure an equitable distribution of funds throughout the United States and among urban and rural areas in approving applications under this part. Not more than 12½ percent of funds available under this subpart in any fiscal year may be expended in any State;

(vii) Section 162.17 sets forth provisions on project duration, indicating that grants will be made for a period of up to one year, with the possibility that continuation grants may be made to support some two-year projects. Any continuation awards will be competitive with other applications for continuation awards, but not with applications for new grants; and

(viii) Section 162.18 provides information on the expected size of awards.

4. Subpart C—State Reading Improvement Programs. The Commissioner has determined that only limited proposed regulations are needed to implement part B of title VII of Pub. L. 93-380. The proposed regulations cover information which may be required by the Commissioner for purposes of reallotments (§ 162.26); the standard of excellence to be developed by the State educational agency with the advice of the State advisory council on reading (§ 162.27); and judicial review of the Commissioner's final action on State agreements (§ 162.29).

In the event that appropriations are made at a level which would trigger part B of title VII, the program would be administered under the terms of the statute (which is set forth in Appendix A) with limited regulatory provisions which may be adopted pursuant to this rulemaking process.

5. Subpart D—Special Emphasis Projects. Subpart D sets forth proposed regulations governing projects under section 721 of Pub. L. 93-380. These projects involve awards to local educational agencies to determine the relative effectivness of intensive reading instruction by reading specialists and reading teachers.

Because the purpose of the statute is to evaluate an approach to reading instruction, a number of requirements in the proposed regulation relate to necessary conditions for the evaluation, including the designation of a project and a control school, the relationship between the project and control schools, and cooperation by the award recipient in an evaluation to be conducted by the Commissioner or by a contractor.

Awards to recipients under this subpart would be by means of assistance, rather than procurement, contracts, with awards to be made on the basis of applications submitted pursuant to a notice of closing date in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Many of the application requirements in proposed § 162.40 derive from section 721(b)(1) of Pub. L. 93-380, which requires each application for a special emphasis project to provide assurances that the provisions of section 705(b) of Pub. L. 93-380 are met.

6. Subpart E—Reading Academy Program. Subpart E sets forth proposed regulations for the Reading Academy Program authorized by section 723 of Pub. L. 93-380. This program was first funded in FY 1975 under the authority of the Cooperative Research Act, and the proposed regulations follow closely regulations which were in effect for the Academy Program in FY 1975 (45 CFR Part 151, Subpart E).

The Reading Academy Program will provide exemplary reading assistance and instruction for functionally illiterate out-of-school youths and adults not reached through other reading programs. Grants for reading academy programs may be made to State and local educational agencies, institutions of higher education, and community and other nonprofit organizations.

According to a 1970 Harris survey, approximately 18 million adult Americans are functionally illiterate, lacking even minimal reading skills. Of this number, it is estimated that 1.5 million are totally illiterate. An analysis of the limited literature available on functionally illiterate youths and adults reveals that this group is the most difficult to recruit into educational programs and, once recruited, the most difficult to retain. Many come into an educational program with a feeling of failure and are easily discouraged. It is hypothesized, however, that given highly personalized instruction and educational counseling, a significant number of these youths and adults can be helped to attain a functional level of literacy.

The proposed rules set forth in Subpart E set out the funding requirements and application criteria which will be used in awarding grants under this program. Information on allowable costs and project duration is also provided. Following the proposed rules, in Appendix B, are proposed guidelines for the Reading Academy Program which provide guidance, suggestions, and recommendations for meeting the funding requirements and application criteria set out in the proposed rules.

(b) Citations of legal authority. As required by section 431(a) of the General Education Provisions Act, a citation of statutory or other legal authority for each section of the regulations has been placed in parentheses on the line following the text of the section.

On occasion, a citation appears at the end of a subdivision of the section. In that case, the citation applies to all that appears in that section between the citation and the immediately preceding citation. When the citation appears only at the end of the section, it applies to the entire section.

(c) Other applicable regulations. The proposed regulation does not contain provisions relating to general fiscal and administrative matters. Requirements of this nature are covered by the Office of Education General Provisions Regulations (45 CFR Part 100a) and the Appendices thereto, which include rules on direct and indirect costs.

(d) Notice to prospective applicants. This first publication is not the final regulation. It is followed by a thirty day period which allows interested members of the public to submit comments and recommendations. Each comment will be given careful consideration and will be answered in substance in the preamble to the final regulation. Following this review, the regulation will be published in final form, with any appropriate changes, in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The publication of a proposed regulation is only a beginning step in a series of formal procedures and actions required before funds can be awarded to recipients. Further administrative steps would have to take place before the award of grants or contracts, including the preparation for distribution of appropriate application forms, the publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of notices of closing dates informing applicants of the period within which applications must be filed and where application forms may be obtained, and allowing the applicants sufficient time for the preparation of applications, and the receipt, processing, evaluation, and selection of applications for funding. Finally, the terms of the actual award documents must be negotiated with those applicants whose applications have been selected for funding. No applications are being accepted at the present time.

(e) Submission of comments. All interested parties are invited to submit written comments and recommendations concerning the proposed regulation to the Director, Right to Read Effort, Room 2131, U.S. Office of Education, 400 Maryland Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20202. These comments and recommendations will be available for public inspection on Mondays through Fridays between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the above office.

All relevant material must be received not later than January 5, 1976, unless January 5, 1976 is a Saturday, Sunday, or Federal holiday in which case the material must be received by the next following business day.

(d) Other information. Applications may include other appropriate information to respond to criteria in § 162.14.

(20 U.S.C. 1921(b))

§ 162.13 Review of applications by State educational agencies and State advisory councils.

(a) The Commissioner will not approve an application submitted under this subpart unless the State educational agency has:

(1)(i) Established and appointed an advisory council on reading broadly representative of the educational resources and of the general population of the State, including but not limited to persons representative of:

(A) Public and private non-profit elementary and secondary schools;

(B) Institutions of higher education;

(C) Parents of elementary and secondary school children; and

(D) Areas of professional competence relating to instruction in reading; and

(ii) Authorized and provided the opportunity to the advisory council to receive and designate priorities among applications for grants under this subpart in that State; and

(2) Approved the application;

(20 U.S.C. 1921(d), (e)(1), S. Rep. No. 1026, 93d Cong. 2d Sess. 198 (1974))

(b) Applicants other than the State educational agency must provide a copy of their application to the State educational agency of the State in which they are located 15 days prior to their submission of the application to the Commissioner;

(c) The Commissioner may establish a cut-off date for approval of applications by the State educational agency. If the Commissioner establishes such a date, failure by the State educational agency to indicate its approval to the Commissioner within the period specified shall be deemed a disapproval of the application by the State educational agency, and the application will not be considered for funding by the Commissioner;

(d)(1) The State educational agency must inform the Commissioner, in writing, in accordance with any cut-off date established by the Commissioner under paragraph (c) of this section, of those applications within its State which it approves for funding under this subpart;

(2) The State educational agency must include in its written submission to the Commissioner:

(i) Documentation that it has established and appointed an advisory council in accordance with paragraph (a)(1) of this section, including information on the membership of the council, and that the council has been provided with an opportunity to receive and designate priorities among applications for grants under this subpart in that State (including applications by the State educational agency);

(ii) Information on any priorities designated by the advisory council among applications for grants under this subpart in that State; and

(iii) With respect to applications from local educational agencies, assurances that the State educational agency will supervise (if the application is funded under this subpart) compliance by the local educational agencies in that State with the requirements set forth in § 162.12(c), including specific plans and arrangements for doing so; and

(e) While there is no specific limitation on the number of applications which may be approved by the State educational agency, State educational agencies are urged to approve only a reasonable number of applications and to forward to the Commissioner the rankings and copies of any written reviews of the applications.

§ 162.14 Evaluation criteria.

Applications for grants under this part which meet all of the application requirements in § 162.12 and which are approved by the appropriate State educational agency will be evaluated by the Commissioner on the basis of the following criteria, weighted according to the indicated points (in addition to the priorities designated by the State advisory councils pursuant to § 162.13, and the provisions of § 162.15 concerning equitable distribution of funds and State maximums):

(a) General criteria. (1) The need for the proposed activity in the area to be served by the applicant, particularly as it relates to the percentage or numbers of children with reading deficiencies in school(s) to be served by the project (10 points);

(2) Whether the program to be assisted responds to the reading needs it identifies and holds substantial promise of overcoming the reading deficiencies of children in the project schools (10 points);

(3) The adequacy of qualifications and experience of personnel designated to carry out the proposed project (10 points);

(4) The adequacy of facilities and other resources to carry out the project and, in particular, the use staff will make of those facilities in the project (5 points);

(5) Reasonableness of estimated cost in relation to anticipated results (5 points);

(6) Whether the proposed methods, systems, materials, or approaches of the program are sufficiently exemplary to be utilized in other projects or programs for similar educational purposes (5 points);

(7) Sufficiency of size, scope, and duration of the project so as to secure productive results (5 points);

(8) Soundness of the proposed plan of operation, including consideration of the extent to which (15 points):

(i) The objectives of the proposed project are sharply defined, clearly stated, capable of being attained by the proposed procedures, and capable of being measured;

(ii) Provision is made for high quality evaluation of the effectiveness of the project and for determining the extent the objectives are accomplished; and

(iii) Provision is made for disseminating the results of the project and for making the resulting materials, techniques, and other inputs available to the general public and specifically to those concerned with the area of education with which the project is itself concerned;

(9) The likelihood that program activities to be carried out under the project will be sustained and expanded by the applicant following the expiration of Federal assistance, as measured by:

(i) Evidence of financial and other commitment of the applicant, including its policymaking board, to the program; and

(ii) The extent the project is designed to build the capacity of the applicant to plan, expand, and improve effective reading programs on the elementary or preelementary school level (5 points); and

(10) Extra points will be awarded to projects which provide for reaching a large number of schools through:

(i) Their direct involvement in the project as project schools;

(a) With respect to reading assistance and instruction activities proposed to be carried out in the project, an application submitted under this subpart must set forth:

(1) Specific and measurable project objectives which will contribute to the elimination of functional illiterarcy of adults and youths within the service area;

(2) A proposed time frame for accomplishing each of the objectives;

(3) An explanation of proposed procedures and strategies for accomplishing each objective; and

(4) An evaluation component providing for the collection, verification, and analysis of data to measure the extent each objective is accomplished by the project, and including pre- and post-use of appropriate standardized reading achievement tests which indicate reading grade level and, insofar as possible, relate to the cultural and linguistic variables of the target population;

(b) An applicant for assistance pursuant to this subpart must provide evidence of demonstrated experience and/or capability in providing reading instruction to youths and adults; and

(c) The Commissioner will approve an application submitted under this subpart only upon his determination that the requirements in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section are satisfied and that the application:

(1) Describes project components involving the use of methodologies, systems, materials, or programs which show promise of overcoming the reading deficiencies of adults and youths in need of reading instruction and of making the project worthy of replication in other communities;

(2) Defines the geographic area to be served ("service area"), such as a city, county, regional area, or a smaller area within these units, and provides demographic and educational data supporting the need for a functional literacy program in the service area;

(3) Describes a system which the applicant either has in place or will develop for the identification and recruitment, as participants in the project, of youths and adults in need of reading instruction;

V40234 DEC 4 75 XUM

(4) Describes and provides for the implementation of a staffing plan that would:

(i) Provide one-to-one or individualized instruction to participants; and

(ii) Establish reading academies that would offer instruction at locations and times convenient to the participants; for example, through decentralized facilities or satellite academies;

(5) Provides for utilization of materials suitable for youths and adults related to their expressed needs and interests; e.g., employment tasks, consumer information, health and welfare services, and current events;

(6) Describes a strategy to involve community and service organizations in the elimination of illiteracy in the service area;

(7) Describes job position qualifications for the project director and other staff which include experience in administration and knowledge of adult education in non-school settings, literacy education, teacher or tutor training, recruitment of volunteers, and community resources;

(8) Describes administrative arrangements whereby the project director assumes responsibility for all project activities; and

(9) Provides for the establishment of a unit task force which will play an active role in planning and implementing the project and which will include representatives from the applicant agency, out-of-school youths and adults from the potential target population to be served, and, wherever possible and appropriate, representatives from community groups, other Federal or State programs, and business and industry.

§ 162.53 Evaluation criteria.

In evaluating project proposals under this subpart, the Commissioner will seek to identify a small number of exemplary projects and will evaluate proposals in accordance with the following criteria and point system totaling 200 points:

(a) The criteria set forth in § 100.a26 (b) of this chapter (the Office of Education General Provisions Regulations) (10 points);

(b) The extent the project is designed to achieve high quality (beyond meeting minimum requirements) with respect to each of the requirements set forth in § 162.52 (total of 110 points), weighted as follows:

(1) The quality of the project objectives described pursuant to § 162.52(a)(1). (25 points);

(2) The time frame for accomplishing each objective, as provided in § 162.52(a)(2) (5 points);

(3) Procedures and strategies for accomplishing these objectives as provided in § 162.52(a)(3) (5 points);

(4) The evaluation component described pursuant to § 162.52(a)(4) (10 points);

(5) The experience and capability of the applicant in providing reading instruction to youths and adults, as provided in § 162.52(b) (5 points); and

(6) Each of the subparagraphs under paragraph (c) of § 162.52 will be weighted 5 points, except that paragraph (c)(2) of § 162.52 will be assigned 15 points and § 162.52(c)(4) will be assigned 10 points;

(c) The relationship of projected costs to both the numbers of functionally illiterate youths and adults to receive reading assistance and instruction and to the quality and intensity of the instruction to be offered (for example, one low-cost approach that might be considered could be the utilization of volunteers as tutors) (10 points); and

(d) The extent to which:

(1) Appropriate procedures will be used for measuring the achievement of the participants (10 points);

(2) The applicant plans to develop materials and provide assistance designed to meet the individual needs of participants (5 points);

(3) The applicant will provide periodic inservice training for tutors, supervisory staff, and organiztaions interested in establishing similar literacy programs (10 points);

(4) The applicant will carry out the project in cooperation with other local programs concerned with adult education and, where appropriate, will utilize volunteers from such programs as VISTA, the Retired Senior Citizens Program, college work-study programs, and community service organizations (10 points);

(5) The applicant will establish working relationships with such programs as manpower programs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1974 and the Neighborhood Youth Corps as part of its recruitment strategy (5 points);

(6) The applicant plans to provide appropriate supportive services to tutors or other instructional personnel in any decentralized, satellite, or branch academies (20 points); and

(7) Where applicable, the applicant proopses to utilize materials and approaches that take into account the language and heritage of those participants of limited or no English-speaking ability (10 points).

§ 162.54 Allowable costs.

Allowable costs under grants awarded under this subpart shall be determined in accordance with the cost principles provided for under Subpart G of 45 CFR Part 100a, subject to the following restrictions:

(a) A maximum of 5 percent of funds may be spent on equipment; and

(b) It is anticipated that grants under this subpart will generally range from $50,000 to $80,000 per year depending on the size of the service area, the number of adults and youths proposed to be served, the scope and nature of the proposed project, and relative local costs. The thrust of the Reading Academy Program is to provide good quality, individualized instruction to large numbers of functionally illiterate youths and adults at the lowest possible cost. This will necessitate strong reliance on the multiplier effect, the utilization of volunteer assistance, and the coordination of support services and facilities. It is expected that a substantial number of projects will be funded rather than concentrating on relatively few projects with big budgets. Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the size of any particular grant award.

§ 162.55 Project duration.

(a) Projects may be for up to three years duration; and

(b) Grants will be made for twelve-month periods, and decisions on refunding will be made yearly on the basis of the extent the grantee has satisfactorily performed during the previous grant period, and on the availability of funds. A budget for the first twelve-month period must be developed. Tentative projected budgets and a planned scope of work for each subsequent year must also be developed if a project of more than one year's duration is planned.

APPENDIX A—PART B OF TITLE VII OF PUB. L. 93-380

STATE READING IMPROVEMENT PROGRAMS

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

SEC. 711. It is the purpose of this part to provide financial assistance to the States to enable them—

(1) To provide financial assistance for projects designed to facilitate reaching the objectives of this title;

(2) To develop comprehensive programs to improve reading proficiency and instruction in reading in the elementary schools of the State;

(3) To provide State leadership in the planning, improving, execution, and evaluation of reading programs in elementary schools; and

(4) To arrange for and assist in the training of special reading personnel and specialists needed in program assisted under this title.

APPLICABILITY AND EFFECTIVE DATE

SEC. 712. (a) The provisions of this part shall become effective only in any fiscal year in which appropriations made pursuant to section 732(a) exceed $30,000,000 and then only with respect to the amount of such excess.

(b) The provisions of this part shall be effective on and after the beginning of fiscal year 1976.

ALLOTMENTS TO STATES

SEC. 713. (a)(1) From the sums appropriated pursuant to section 732(a) for each fiscal year which are available for carrying out this part, the Commissioner shall reserve such amount, but not in excess of 1 per centum of such sums, as he may determine, and shall apportion such amount to Guam, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands according to their respective needs for assistance under this title. Of the remainder of such sums, he shall allot an amount to each State which bears the same ratio to the amount available for allotment as the number of school age children (aged 5 to 12, inclusive) in each such State bears to the total number of such children in all the States, as determined by the Commissioner on the basis of the most recent satisfactory data available to him. The allotment of a State which would be less than $50,000 under the preceding sentence shall be increased to $50,000, and the total of the increases thereby required shall be derived by proportionately reducing the allotments to the remaining States under the preceding sentence, but with such adjustments as may be necessary to prevent the allotments to any such remaining States from being reduced to less than $50,000.

(2) For the purpose of this section, the term "State" includes the District of Columbia and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(b) The amount allotted to any State under subsection (a) for any fiscal year which the Commissioner determines will not be required for that year shall be available for reallotment from time to time, on such dates during that year as the Commissioner may fix, to other states in proportion to the amounts originally allotted among those states under subsection (a) for that year, but with the proportionate amount for any of the other States being reduced to the extent it exceeds the sum the Commissioner estimates the local educational agencies of such State need and will be able to use for that year; and the total of these reductions shall be similarly reallotted among the States whose proportionate amounts were not so reduced. Any amount reallotted to a State under this subsection from funds appropriated pursuant to section 732 for any fiscal year shall be deemed part of the amount allotted to it under subsection (a) for that year.

AGREEMENTS WITH STATE EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES

SEC. 714. (a) Any State which desires to receive grants under this part shall, through its State educational agency, enter into an agreement with the Commissioner, in such detail as the Commissioner deeems necessary, which—

(1) Designates the State educational agency as the sole agency for administration of the agreement;

(2) Provides for the establishment of a State advisory council on reading, appointed by the State educational agency, which shall be broadly representative of the educational resources of the State and of the general public, including persons representative of—

(A) Public and private nonprofit elementary school children, and

(B) Institutions of higher education,

(C) Parents of elementary school children, and

(D) Areas of professional competence relating to instruction in reading, to advise the State educational agency on the formulation of a standard of excellence for reading programs in the elementary schools and on the preparation of, and policy matters arising in the administration of, the agreement (including the criteria for approval of applications for assistance under such agreement) and in the evaluation of results of the program carried out pursuant to the agreement;

(3) Describes the reading programs in elementary schools for which assistance is sought under this part and procedures for giving priority to reading programs which are already receiving Federal financial assistance and show reasonable promise of achieving success;

(4) Sets forth procedures for the submission of applications by local educational agencies within that State, including procedures for an adequate description of the reading programs for which assistance is sought under this part;

(5) Sets forth criteria for achieving an equitable distribution of the assistance under this part which is made available to local educational agencies pursuant to the second sentence of subsection (b) of this section, which criteria shall—

(A) Take into account the size of the population to be served, beginning with preschool, the relative needs of pupils in different population groups within the State for the program authorized by this title, and the financial ability of the local educational agency serving such pupils,

(B) Assure that such distribution shall include grants to local educational agencies having high concentrations of children with low reading proficiency, and

(C) Assure an equitable distribution of funds among urban and rural areas;

(6) Sets forth criteria for the selection or designation and training of personnel (such as reading specialists and administrators of reading programs) engaged in programs assisted under this part, including training for private elementary school personnel, which shall include qualifications acceptable for such personnel;

(7) Provides for the coordination and evaluation of programs assisted under this part;

(8) Provides for technical assistance and support services for local educational agencies participating in the program;

(9) Makes provision for the dissemination to the educational community and the general public of information about the objectives of the program and results achieved in the course of its implementation;

(10) Provides for making an annual report and such other reports, in such form and containing such information, as the Commissioner may reasonably require to evaluate the effectiveness of the program and to carry out his other functions under this title;

(11) Provides that not more than 5 per centum of the amount allotted to the State under section 713 for any fiscal year may be retained by the State educational agency for purposes of administering the agreement; and

(12) Provides that programs assisted under this part shall be of sufficient size, scope, and quality so as to give reasonable promise of substantial progress toward achieving the purposes of this title.

(b) Grants for projects to carry out the purposes of this part may be made to local educational agencies (subject to the provision of subsection (e) relating to the participation of private elementary and secondary school pupils), institutions of higher education, and other public and nonprofit private agencies and institutions. Not less than 60 per centum of the amount allotted to a State under section 713 for any fiscal year shall be made available by the State for grants to local educational agencies within that State.

(c) The Commissioner shall enter into an agreement which complies with the provisions of subsection (a) with any State which desires to enter into such an agreement.

(d) The Commissioner's final action with respect to entering into an agreement under subsection (a) shall be subject to the provisions of section 207 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, relating to judicial review.

(e) The provisions of section 141A of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 relating to the participation of children enrolled in private elementary and secondary schools shall apply to programs assisted under this part.

CHAPTER I—INTRODUCTION

Part 1—Guidelines

Sec. 1.1 Scope of guidelines. (a) These guidelines are recommendations and suggestions for meeting the funding requirements and evaluation criteria for reading academy programs under section 723 of Pub. L. 93-380 (20 U.S.C. 1963), and Subpart E of 45 CFR Part 162. The legal requirements include the Act and the regulations (Subpart E of 45 CFR Part 162). The guidelines are not to be construed as requirements; however, where the guidelines set forth a permissible means of meeting a legal requirement, the guidelines may be relied upon.

Projects which do not come within these guidelines will not be prejudiced. Projects are not subject to termination proceedings or audit exceptions for conduct which is recommended or suggested in the guidelines; and

(b) Where a guideline is issued in connection with or affecting a provision in the regulations, the pertinent regulation will be cited after the citation of legal authority for the guideline, in the parentheses following the guideline. For example, if the legal authority for the guideline is the Act (20 U.S.C. 1963) and the guideline affects § 162.52 of the regulation (45 CFR 162.52), the following citation will be placed on the line immediately following the guideline: (20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52). If no particular section of the regulation is affected, no citation to the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) will be made.

(20 U.S.C. 1232(a))

CHAPTER II—GENERAL INFORMATION FOR THE APPLICANT

Part 1—General Information

SEC. 1.1 General. The Reading Academy Program provides grants to State and local educational agencies, institutions of higher education, and community and other nonprofit organizations to provide exemplary reading assistance and instruction to functionally illiterate out-of-school youths and adults not reached through other reading programs. The instruction is to be provided in facilities to be known as reading academies. While there are a variety of ways that an applicant may plan for, and then implement, a reading academy, the following suggestions and guidelines are intended to provide assistance which may help in developing a project to meet the requirements, or in implementing a funded project.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.50)

Part 2—Planning

SEC. 2.1 General planning information. The regulations set out several requirements concerning a description of an applicant's proposed project which can be met only if adequate planning has been done for developing the project. In planning, it is generally helpful to go through the following steps:

(a) Identification of the problem (needs assessment);

(b) Analysis of community resources;

(c) Community involvement;

(d) Establishing objectives and strategies to solve the problems; and

(e) Staff development.

SEC. 2.2 Identification of the problem. To determine the number and characteristics of youths and adults with reading problems in a given area, and therefore the type of reading academy program which will best solve the problems, the following types of information are relevant:

(a) The number of adults and youths (out-of-school) who have not finished elementary and secondary school;

(b) The number of youths and adults who may be defined as functionally illiterate;

(c) The age range and sex of target groups (between 16–20, 21–35, over 35);

(d) The ethnic backgrounds of the target groups;

(e) The non-English-speaking populations;

(f) The estimated income levels of target groups (below $3,600, $3,600 to $7,200, and so forth);

(g) Their employment profiles (number of full-time, part-time, and unemployed; whether skilled, semi-skilled, unskilled); and

(h) Identification of the neighborhoods where the target population lives.

SEC. 2.3 Identification of community resources. Knowledge of what educational services are available to adults in their communities is helpful in determining how a reading academy should be structured to supplement existing services or to build bridges between agencies and services. Information may be obtained by making an inventory of community agencies, service organizations, local business and industry, State agencies, local and federally funded programs; and by identifying which agencies might be helpful in identifying and recruiting participants and/or serving as sources of volunteers, providing materials and facilities, providing publicity, offering special expertise in training volunteers, or having the capability of sponsoring or housing reading academy branches in neighborhood facilities convenient to participants.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.53(d)(5) and (6))

SEC. 2.4 Community involvement. Involving diverse segments of the community in planning, developing, and operating a project increases the possibilities for greater project success. Applicants are encouraged to consider developing an effective structure of involvement entailing extensive planning on the part of each applicant (and follow-up planning by each grantee). Recognition of the competence and interest of a variety of groups both within and outside formal educational institutions in planning and operating project activities may result in programs which can best meet the needs of the target population and sustain the interest and support of the community. As one means of ensuring community involvement, the regulations require establishing a unit task force. Further guidance on the unit task force is provided in Part 7 of these guidelines.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(c)(6) and (c)(9))

SEC. 2.5 Establishing objectives. (a) Section 162.52(a) of the regulations requires the applicant, having identified the needs of functionally illiterate youths and adults in a given area, to develop objectives that relate to the overall project activities. A number of provisions in the regulations also concern the meeting of participants' individual needs (§§ 162.52(c)(4)(1), 162.53(c)(1) and (2)). To do this, it is suggested that participants in a project be involved with their tutors in the formulation of their own learning objectives. Objectives allow participants and staff to see what behaviors must be demonstrated for successful completion of the program, in addition to allowing them to evaluate their own progress toward the successful accomplishment of the objectives. For the project director and the teachers, the objectives serve to identify problems encountered by the learners at various stages, providing the opportunity for revising the learning approaches utilized. Furthermore, clearly stated objectives for individual participants make it possible to evaluate learner progress as well as the instructional design's effectiveness; and

(b) With respect to overall project objectives called for in § 162.52(a) of the regulations, objectives in three areas might be identified: operational objectives, instructional objectives, and product objectives.

(1). Operational objectives refer to the goals for the processes that are necessary to carry out the project, such as recruiting and teaching participants and recruiting and training volunteer and other teaching and administrative staff;

(2) Instructional objectives refer to the goals for changes in students' (and staff members') cognitive and affective behavior (see Part 4—Instructional Program); and

(3) Product objectives refer to goals in developing such material items as criterion-referenced tests, curriculum guides, or reading materials. It is useful to set out time schedules for the production of materials.

The effectiveness of the instructional program is likely to be directly related to the clarity of the operational objectives and the instructional objectives. The operational objectives, in addition to reflecting the total program planning design and the process necessary to carry out the program, are based upon the applicant or grantee agency's philosophy about adult education. The instructional objectives specify the observable results by which the project's activities can be measured. The instructional objectives set the stage for the specific behavioral objectives which will be achieved by the participants. Clarity of the objectives will also facilitate the selection of instructional materials.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(a) and (c)(1) and (2); 162.53.(d)(2))

SEC. 2.6 Staff development. The regulations set out several requirements designed to ensure that staff have adequate experience and expertise with adult education in non-school settings, literacy education, teacher or tutor training, recruitment of volunteers, administration, and knowledge of community resources. While any one person may not have all of the above experience or expertise, the staff as a whole should have these experiences, which should be enhanced by further training. The regulations do require that the project director assume responsibility for all aspects of the program.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(b), (c)(7) and (8) and 162.53(d)(4) and (5))

Part 3—Participant Recruitment and Retention

SEC. 3.1 Recruitment. The regulations require developing and implementing a system to identify and recruit participants. Identifying and recruiting youths and adults who are functionally illiterate are sensitive and complicated tasks. Due to the social stigma attached to illiteracy, individuals are often too shy to admit that they cannot read. Many have developed a whole series of protective mechanisms to hide their disability from family and friends. In the past, the school failed to serve them adequately; consequently, they are suspicious of educational programs. It may be that the best way to identify and approach potential participants is to reach them indirectly through communcommunity, youth, and social organizations will help to establish awareness of the program. Other agencies such as social service agencies, State employment agencies, and the Department of Motor Vehicles might be encouraged to refer to the academy those persons they have identified as in need of basic reading instruction. In some communities, staff may have to organize door-to-door recruitment campaigns. Volunteers from local organizations have proven in the past to be very effective in these recruitment campaigns. Obviously, it is important to plan well in advance the types of recruitment strategies that are appropriate for a particular service area, to implement these plans as soon as possible after the receipt of the grant award. Applicants and grantees are encouraged to consider whether special emphasis might be given to plans for the participation of out-of-school youths, as experience has shown that this group is the most difficult to recruit into literacy programs and the most difficult to retain once enrolled.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(c) (3) and (6) and 162.53(d)(6))

SEC. 3.2 Retention. Attracting functionally illiterate youths and adults to the reading academy project is only part of the effort needed to have a successful project. Keeping their interest with a relevant and interesting curriculum, and providing supportive services are additional elements of a successful program. Out-of-school youths and adults come to reading programs with a variety of problems. For them, learning is never easy; they are quickly discouraged and need continual encouragement. Many are unemployed and looking for work. Some are employed in physically exhausting labor. Others must rely on public transportation or the generosity of friends in order to reach the academy. An applicant may have a more successful program if the staff is able to anticipate these and other problems which might cause the participant to drop out. Experience with successful adult literacy programs indicates that a project may need to include a referral service to appropriate social service and health agencies, provide help in cutting through red tape to gain a much needed service and, at times, provide minimal funds to offset the cost of transportation. In very isolated areas where public transportation does not exist, some projects have found that it is necessary to provide transportation to the instructional site. Applicants are encouraged to consider and provide for these elements as appropriate.

Part 4—Instructional program

SEC. 4.1 Program. The regulations require that an exemplary program of reading assistance be developed for teaching the functionally illiterate youth and adult target population. It is hoped that programs will be planned to provide participants with opportunities for immediate reading success, practice of reading and related skills, and positive reinforcement. A more successful program may result where supervisory and teaching staff have an understanding of the process of reading development for adults, of how to assess a participant's reading ability, a working knowledge of available instructional print and other media materials suitable for adults, and the ability to exercise creativity in developing instructional programs. A program more relevant to the needs and interests of the target population may be developed if representatives of the target population and the community are involved in planning and implementing the project.

The Right to Read Office of the U.S. Office of Education does not advocate any one method or set instructional materials; rather, it advocates that instruction be tailored to meet the needs of the individual learner. As a means of facilitating individualization, applicants are urged to adopt a diagnostic/prescriptive approach to instruction. This approach requires that each individual be diagnosed to determine the strengths and the needs he or she has regarding reading. Following the diagnosis, it is then necessary to prescribe a program of experiences utilizing appropriate materials and activities which will meet the needs which have been identified. Participant needs will dictate what kinds of materials should be used in the instructional process; since participants' needs will likely be varied, a variety of materials at different levels of difficulty may be required to provide necessary individualized instruction.

If English as a second language is a component of the instructional program, the participants should be given ample opportunity for practice of oral English.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(c) (1) and (5) and 162.53(d) (2), (7) and (8))

SEC. 4.2 Materials. Choosing appropriate learning materials is an important part of the program. More learning is likely to take place if the materials are relevant to the backgrounds and immediate reading needs and interests of participants, and if the staff understands how the materials are to be used (and any prerequisites necessary to their use). Both commercially produced materials (adopted or adapted) and relevant teacher-made materials may be used together. The materials, whether commercially produced or teacher-made, should be realistic, practical, functional, usable, and reflective of the needs and interests of the participants.

Whenever appropriate, the native language and culture of the participants should be used as an integral part of the instructional program. Instruction is more meaningful if focused around real-life coping skills such as consumer education—and consumer rights, the world of work, job application skills, job or vocation-related skills, and so forth. Teachers may also use a variety of materials such as newspapers, cooking recipes, various types of application forms, signs, or any other printed materials that are interesting and relevant to the adult and youth participants.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(c) (1) and (5) and 162.53(d) (2) and (7))

Part 5—Evaluation

SEC. 5.1 General. The regulations require an evaluation component for each project providing for the collection, verification, and analysis of data to measure the extent to which the project objectives are accomplished and procedures for measuring the achievement of participants. Both process (formative) and impact (summative) evaluation should be conducted. Process evaluation can be defined as a timely examination of project activities that actually occur with a view to:

(1) How they correspond with what was promised;

(2) To what extent the activities appear to be effective; and

(3) How they can be improved by modification. Within this system, as each modification is implemented, the cycle would start again. In its simplest form, process evaluation can be defined as a management information system. Impact evaluation examines the final results and asks whether the objectives were achieved.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(a) and 162.53(d)(1))

Part 6—Project Director and Staff

SEC. 6.1 Staff. The regulations require that:

(a) The project director and the staff have specified experiences and expertise in the areas of adult education and in non-school settings, literacy education, administration, teacher or tutor training, recruitment of volunteers, and knowledge of community resources; and

(b) The applicant develop a system whereby the project director assumes responsibility for directing the project and all of its activities, including communication, programming, and evaluation. The following discussion presents some practical considerations which may be helpful in meeting these requirements.

An enormous part of the responsibility for the program rests with the project director, and it is important that he or she spend a major part of his or her time on the project. A suitable candidate for the position of project director should be identified during the planning stage prior to submission of the application so that he or she may be hired as soon as approval is granted and, if possible, be involved in the planning of the program. Other staff, paid and volunteer, should be chosen to complement the experience and expertise of the project director as well as to carry out training and/or teaching functions. In areas with high concentrations of participants of limited or no English-speaking ability, the applicant is encouraged to actively recruit project staff who speak the same language as the participants and who are of the same ethnic background as the participants. The director is responsible for all project activities, evaluations, and communication concerning the project. It is important to establish efficient internal and external communication systems so that feedback to and by project staff, participants, and the community is timely and continuous. A determination should also be made as to which reports should be prepared about the program for the Office of Education according to the General Provisions Regulations (45 CFR Part 100a, Subparts P–R), and what communications might be desirable for informing the public about the existence of the program, its services, and accomplishments.

NOTE: Grantees will be provided with instructions and format for submission of required Office of Education reports.

SEC. 6.2 Volunteers. (a) General. A review of the literature of volunteers in adult literacy programs and Right to Read program experience suggests that functionally illiterate youths and adults need instruction that is frequent, intensive, and personal. The limited financial resources available to the academy program necessitates that a project use imaginative schemes to insure that an academy offers this type of instruction. One effective way to stretch program funds is to enlist the aid of volunteers. Volunteer tutors, when given appropriate training and support, have been particularly effective in working with adults in reading programs.

Projects which put strong emphasis on the use of volunteers will need to develop detailed plans that include volunteer recruitment, preservice and inservice training, placement of volunteers and supportive services. The guidelines below present recommendations for projects which choose to make use of volunteer staff;

(b) Recruitment. If a project determines that it will rely on volunteer tutors, it should estimate the total number and types of volunteers it will need in order to form a resource pool of tutors and then set recruitment goals. Any plan to recruit volunteers should include identification of sources of volunteers (such as service organizations and college work study programs), establish working relationships with these groups, and launch a public awareness program through the media. The recruitment strategy should be designed to continue through the duration of the project and should take into account the traditionally high turnover rate of volunteers in the early part of any project;

(c) Responsibilities. It is helpful if job descriptions for volunteers are written and used as a basis for any recruitment campaign. These descriptions might include some indication of the type of commitment that will be expected from a volunteer. For example, "A tutor will teach reading to an individual adult, a minimum of three hours a week for thirty weeks," or "The tutor will participate in x number of preservice training sessions and periodic inservice training sessions"; and

(d) Training. Objectives for the training of volunteers should be clearly stated. Generally, they would include both affective and cognitive behaviors. The training should develop an awareness of, and a sensitivity to, the needs of the target population, orientation to the community and its resources, some basic reading instructional approaches and skills, and a familiarity with the instructional materials. The training program goal is to lead to the establishment of a helping relationship between the tutor and the professional staff. This preservice training sequence could be anywhere from 15 to 45 hours in length and might be followed by inservice training and supportive service offered once the volunteer tutor is in the field. Regularly scheduled contact between the tutor and the professional staff of the academy is important. Inservice training needs will be as varied as the number and types of volunteers and participants involved in the program. General training sessions should be directed toward the resolution of problems common to all literacy programs; the informal followup services should concentrate on the resolution of specific problems.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(c)(4) and (6) and 162.53(c) and (d)(7))

Part 7—The Unit Task Force

SEC. 7.1 Composition. The regulations require that a unit task force be established consisting of representatives from the applicant agency, out-of-school youths and adults from the potential target population, representatives from community groups, other Federal or State programs, and business and industry. Some points that might be considered in selecting members of the unit task force are:

(a) Special care might be taken to select youths who have demonstrated leadership among their peer groups;

(b) Community groups which might be involved include social agencies, adult education programs, local action groups, the public library, youth organizations, labor unions and municipal agencies; and

(c) Federal and State programs might include Adult Basic Education, the Model Cities Program, manpower training programs, Neighborhood Youth Corps, State employment agencies and volunteer organizations, particularly those sponsored by Federal programs (such as the retired senior citizens programs and VISTA).

It is important to keep in mind that while the unit task force should be large enough to represent diverse groups and interests, it should not be so large that its size limits efficient operation. For some projects, a unit task force and several sub-unit task forces might be established. For instance, if several neighborhood facilities are used to provide reading instruction, different sub-unit task forces for each neighborhood facility might be established so that more grassroots involvement and identification are obtained.

SEC. 7.2 Responsibilities. The following are examples of functions which might be performed by the unit task force to satisfy the regulation requirement that it play an active role in planning and implementing the project:

(a) Assistance in program planning including the identification of the target population, the assessment of needs, and the selection of project activities and priorities;

(b) Recruitment of volunteers and assistance in the mobilization of community resources;

(c) Assistance in staff development programs for project staff and volunteers;

(d) Assistance in identifying agencies which might serve as sponsors of locations for neighborhood reading academies;

(e) Assistance in the dissemination of information about the project throughout the community; and

(f) Coordination of the project with other community groups, with professional organizations, and with public and private agencies.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(c)(9))

CHAPTER III—A MODEL: ACADEMY CENTERS AND SATELLITES

Part 1—The Model

SEC. 1.1 General. Several of the funding requirements and evaluation criteria suggest and support the development of a model for a reading academy project. In short summary they are: that low-cost individualized instruction be provided at locations and times convenient to participants; that the community be involved, perhaps by providing community or neighborhood facilities; that because of the difficulty in reaching the target populations, the staff be knowledgeable about providing instruction in non-school settings and in recruiting volunteers to work with participants. A model is therefore suggested which would include an academy center where planning, programming, staff recruitment, training and evaluation would be conducted, and satellite academies which would be located in facilities in neighborhoods convenient to potential participants where instruction would actually be provided. Volunteer tutors would provide the one-to-one instruction and would individualize attention and assistance to participants.

This model is not given as the exclusive approach to meeting the requirements and criteria contained in the regulations, but as one possible approach recommended for consideration by applicants.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(c) (3), (4), (6), and (7) and 162.53(d) (2) and (7)))

SEC. 1.2 Academy Centers. Under the model, the reading academy grantee would be responsible not only for carrying out an instructional program for youths and adults in a centralized reading academy, but also for developing a network of neighborhood-based or satellite academies staffed by trained volunteers who would provide instruction in the neighborhoods of the target population. The academy center would be responsible for developing a comprehensive volunteer system which would include recruitment and training of volunteers and placement of volunteer tutors in satellite academies. The academy center would also provide a wide variety of supportive services to the volunteer once he or she starts tutoring an adult, whether the instruction occurs at the center or in a neighborhood satellite academy. Such service might include help for the tutors in material selection, in diagnostic testing and instructional prescription. The center would provide specific services to participants such as education counseling, referral service to appropriate social service or health agencies, and job placement. The academy center, as part of its effort to launch neighborhood-based academies or satellites, would work with various community groups, neighborhood councils and with branch libraries to identify appropriate places to house the instructional programs which are convenient to the target population. It would also mobilize a variety of community resources to support the academy.

(20 U.S.C. 1963) (45 CFR 162.52(c) (3), (4), (6), and (7) and 162.53(d) (2) and (7))

SEC. 1.3 Satellites. The satellite academies would take instruction to the places that are most suitable, convenient and easily accessible to the adult participants. They could be housed in libraries, community centers, homes, places of employment, schools, YMCA's or in a variety of other appropriate facilities. The center might adopt any one of a number of strategies to implement the satellite concept. It could establish a satellite academy or a network of academies as a direct outgrowth of its own operation and carry the full responsibility for its management. Under this arrangement the center would identify and obtain community facilities but without further commitment from an organization. In communities with already established literacy programs, the center might establish a cooperative arrangement whereby it would provide certain specified professional services. In other communities the center could work through local organizations which would be willing to sponsor an academy, provide facilities and serve as a source of volunteers. Whichever arrangements are made for the establishment of a satellite academy, it would have a coordinator who would be responsible for recruiting participants who lived in the neighborhood, scheduling sessions with tutors and participants, maintaining a communication link between the tutor and participants, keeping records (attendance, progress charts, test scores), storage of instructional materials, and making sure that facilities are available as scheduled.

PROTECTION OF IDENTITY—RESEARCH SUBJECTS AND PATIENTS

Proposed Procedures

Notice is hereby given that the Assistant Secretary for Health, with the approval of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, proposes to amend Subchapter A, Chapter I of Title 42, Code of Federal Regulations, by adding a new Part 2a, entitled "Protection of Identity—Research Subjects."

This proposed amendment sets forth procedures under which persons engaged in research on mental health, including research on the use and effect of alcohol and other psychoactive drugs, may apply for an authorization under section 303(a) of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 242a(a)) as amended by Pub. L. 93-282, to protect the privacy of the research subjects by withholding from all persons not connected with the conduct of the research the names and other identifying characteristics of such research subjects.

As set forth in § 2a.1, the proposed regulations are not applicable to authorizations of confidentiality for research on drugs which are classified, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, as investigational new drugs or as approved new drugs subject to special requirements (methadone). The Secretary's authority to grant authorizations of confidentiality to persons engaged in research on these drugs has been delegated to the Commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration.

Section 2a.1 also refers to the separate authority of the Attorney General to issue authorizations of confidentiality and notifies researchers that implementation of the various authorities for grant of confidentiality will be coordinated in order to avoid delay. Further coordination is provided in § 2a.5(b), which affords a researcher the opportunity to include a request to the Drug Enforcement Administration for exemption from prosecution for possession, distribution, and dispensing of controlled drugs in the application to the Secretary.

The proposed regulations provide that persons receiving an authorization of confidentiality may not be compelled in any Federal, State, or local civil, criminal, administrative, legislative, or other proceeding to identify the research subjects encompassed by the authorization (§ 2a.7(a)), but that such persons are not authorized to refuse to reveal identifying information where (1) the subject (or, if legally incompetent, his guardian) consents, in writing, to the disclosure of identifying information, (2) the medical welfare of the subject would be threatened by a failure to reveal such information, or (3) release of such information is required by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act or the regulations promulgated thereunder (§ 2a.7(b)). The purpose of these exceptions is to prevent the protection against compulsory disclosure of identifying information from being invoked to the detriment of the research subject.

The regulations also set forth procedures on termination of Confidentiality Certificates. The protection afforded by a confidentiality certificate is, however, permanent with respect to subjects who participated in research during any time the authorization was in effect.

Interested persons are invited to submit written comments, suggestions, or objections regarding this proposed amendment to the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Room 13C-06, Rockville, Maryland 20852 on or before January 19, 1976. Comments received will be available for public inspection at that address during regular office hours.

Dated: October 28, 1975.

THEODORE COOPER,
Assistant Secretary for Health.

Approved: November 21, 1975.

MARJORIE LYNCH,
Acting Secretary.

It is proposed to amend Subchapter A of Chapter I, Title 42 CFR, by adding a new Part 2a to read as follows:

PART 2a—PROTECTION OF IDENTITY—RESEARCH SUBJECTS

Sec.
2a.1 Applicability; coordination.
2a.2 Definitions.
2a.3 Application.
2a.4 Contents of application; in general.
2a.5 Contents of application; research projects in which drugs will be administered.
2a.6 Issuance of Confidentiality Certificates; single project limitation.
2a.7 Effect of Confidentiality Certificate; exceptions.
2a.8 Termination.

AUTHORITY: Sec. 3(a), Pub. L. 91-513 as amended by sec. 122(b), Pub. L. 93-282; 84 Stat. 1241 (42 U.S.C. 242a(a)), as amended by 88 Stat. 132.

§ 2a.1 Applicability; coordination.

(a) Under section 303(a) of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 242a(a)) the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare may authorize persons engaged in research on mental health, including research on the use and effect of alcohol and other psychoactive drugs, to protect the privacy of individuals who are the subject of such research by withholding from all persons not connected with the conduct of such research the names and other identifying characteristics of such individuals. The regulations in this part establish procedures pursuant to which any person engaged in such research may, subject to the exceptions set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, apply to the National Institute on Drug Abuse, the National Institute of Mental Health, or the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism for such an authorization of confidentiality. Persons unsure of which Institute has the authority and jurisdiction to grant the Confidentiality Certificate may submit an application to any of the three Institutes.

(b) These regulations do not apply to: (1) Authorizations of confidentiality for research requiring an Investigational New Drug exemption under section 505 (i) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 355(i)) or to approved new drugs, such as methadone, requiring continuation of long-term studies, records, and reports. Attention is called to 21 CFR 310.505(g) relating to authorizations of confidentiality for patient records maintained by methadone treatment programs.

(2) Authorizations of confidentiality for research which are related to law enforcement activities or otherwise within the purview of the Attorney General's authority to issue authorizations of confidentiality pursuant to section 502 (c) of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 872(c)) and 21 CFR 1316.21.

(c) Persons who are uncertain with regard to the application of these regulations to a particular type of research may apply for an authorization of confidentiality under this part. Requests which are within the scope of the authorities described in paragraph (b) of this section will be forwarded to the appropriate agency for consideration and the applicant will be advised accordingly.

§ 2a.2 Definitions.

(g) "Identifying characteristics" refers to any data collected on an individual by a researcher that contains his name, or the identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual which could reasonably distinguish that individual from all others in the study, including but not limited to fingerprints, voiceprints, or photographs.

(h) "Psychoactive drug" means, in addition to alcohol, a drug which has its principal action an effect on thought, mood, or behavior.

§ 2a.3 Application.

(iii) A statement: (A) From applicants who receive DHEW grant or contract support for the research project with respect to which a Confidentiality Certificate is requested assuring that they will comply with all the requirements of 45 CFR Part 46, "Protection of Human Subjects," or

(B) From all other applicants assuring that they will, if it is determined by the Secretary, on the basis of information submitted by the applicant, that (1) the subjects will be placed at risk and (2) a decision to allow the subjects to accept the risks is warranted, comply with the informed consent requirements of 45 CFR 46.3(c) and document legally effective informed consent in a manner consistent with the principles stated in 45 CFR 46.10. If a modification of paragraphs (a) or (b) of 45 CFR 46.10 is to be used, as permitted under paragraph (c) of this section, the applicant will describe the proposed modification and submit it for approval by the Secretary.

(5) The estimated date for completion of the project;

(6) A specific request for authority to withhold the names and other identifying characteristics of the research subjects and the reasons supporting such request;

(8) An assurance that the research subjects will be immediately advised of any termination of the authorization of confidentiality.

(See § 2a.8(c)).

§ 2a.5 Contents of application; research projects in which drugs will be administered.

(a) In addition to the information required by § 2a.4 and any other pertinent information which the Secretary may require, each application for an authorization of confidentiality for a research project which involves the administering of a drug shall contain:

(1) In the case of a controlled drug, a copy of the Drug Enforcement Administration Certificate of Registration (END Form 223) under which the research project will be conducted;

(2) Identification of the drugs to be administered in the research project and a description of the methods for such administration, which shall include a statement of the dosages to be administered to the research subjects; and

(3) Evidence that individuals who administer drugs are authorized to do so under applicable Federal and State law.

(b) An application for an authorization of confidentiality with respect to a research project which involves the administering of a controlled drug may include a request for exemption of persons engaged in the research from State or Federal prosecution for possession, distribution, and dispensing of controlled drugs as authorized under section 502 (d) of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 872(d)) and 21 CFR 1316.22. If the request is in such form, and is supported by such information, as is required by 21 CFR 1316.22, the Secretary will forward it, together with his recommendation that such request be approved or disapproved, for the consideration of the Administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

§ 2a.6 Issuance of Confidentiality Certificates; single project limitation.

(a) In reviewing the information provided in the application for a confidentiality certificate, the Secretary will take into account:

(1) The soundness of the purposes and methods of the research project;

(2) The scientific or other appropriate training and experience of all personnel having major responsibilities in the research project;

(3) The suitability for use in the research project of the proposed subject population and the protections to be afforded to subjects; and

(4) Such other factors as he may consider necessary and appropriate. All applications for confidentiality certificates shall be evaluated by the Secretary through such officers and employees of the Department and such experts or consultants engaged for this purpose as he determines to be appropriate.

(b) After consideration and evaluation of an application for an authorization of confidentiality, the Secretary will either issue a Confidentiality Certificate or a letter denying a Confidentiality Certificate, which will set forth the reasons for such denial, or will request additional information from the applicant. The Confidentiality Certificate will include:

(1) The applicant's name and address;

(2) The name and address of the individual primarily responsible for conducting the research, if such individual is not the applicant;

(3) The location of the research project;

(4) A brief description of the research project;

(5) The Drug Enforcement Administration registration number for the project, if any; and

(6) The date of expiration of the Confidentiality Certificate.

(c) A Confidentiality Certificate is not transferable and is effective only with respect to the names and other identifying characteristics of those individuals who are the subjects of the single research project specified in the Confidentiality Certificate. The recipient of a Confidentiality Certificate shall, within 15 days of any completion or discontinuance of the research project which occurs prior to the expiration date set forth in the Certificate, provide written notification to the Secretary. If the recipient determines that the research project will not be completed by the expiration date set forth in the Confidentiality Certificate he may submit a written request for an extension of the expiration date which shall include a justification for such extension and a revised estimate of the date for completion of the project. Upon approval of such a request, the Secretary will issue an amended Confidentiality Certificate.

(d) The protection afforded by a Confidentiality Certificate does not extend to significant changes in the research project as it is described in the application for such Certificate (i.e., changes in the personnel having major responsibilities in the resaerch project, or changes in the research protocol affecting the number and types of research subjects or the nature of their participation in the project). The recipient of a Confidentiality Certificate shall notify the Secretary of any proposal for such a significant change by submitting an amended application for a Confidentiality Certificate in the same form and manner as an original application. On the basis of such application and other pertinent information the Secretary will either:

(1) Approve the amended application and issue an amended Confidentiality Certificate together with a Notice of Cancellation terminating the original Confidentiality Certificate in accordance with § 2a.8; or

(2) Disapprove the amended application and notify the applicant in writing that adoption of the proposed significant changes will result in the issuance of a Notice of Cancellation terminating the original Confidentiality Certificate in accordance with § 2a.8.

§ 2a.7 Effect of Confidentiality Certificate; exceptions.

(a) Subject to the exceptions set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, a Confidentiality Certificate authorizes the withholding of the names and other identifying characteristics of individuals who participate as subjects in the research project specified in the Certificate while the Certificate is in effect. The authorization applies to all persons who, in the performance of their duties in connection with the research project, have access to information which would identify the subjects of the research. Persons so authorized may not, at any time, be compelled in any Federal, State, or local civil, criminal, administrative, legislative, or other proceeding to identify the research subjects encompassed by the Certificate, except in those circumstances specified in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Exceptions. A Confidentiality Certificate granted under this part does not authorize any person to refuse to reveal information which would identify a research subject where (1) the subject (or, if he is legally incompetent, his guardian) consents, in writing, to the disclosure of such information, (2) the medical welfare of the research subject would be threatened by a failure to reveal such information, or (3) release of such information is required by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 301) or the regulations promulgated thereunder (Title 21, Code of Federal Regulations).

§ 2a.8 Termination.

(a) A Confidentiality Certificate is in effect from the date of its issuance until the effective date of its termination. The effective date of termination shall be the earlier of:

(1) The expiration date set forth in the Confidentiality Certificate; or

(2) Ten days from the date of mailing a Notice of Cancellation to the applicant, pursuant to a determination by the Secretary that the research project has been completed or discontinued or that retention of the Confidentiality Certificate is otherwise no longer necessary or desirable.

(b) A Notice of Cancellation shall include: an identification of the Confidentiality Certificate to which it applies; the effective date of its termination; and the grounds for cancellation. Upon receipt of a Notice of Cancellation the applicant shall return the Confidentiality Certificate to the Secretary.

(c) Any termination of a Confidentiality Certificate pursuant to this section is operative only with respect to the names and other identifying characteristics of individuals who begin their participation as research subjects after the effective date of such termination (see §§ 2a.4(a)(8) and 2a.5 requiring researchers to immediately notify subjects of any termination of the Confidentiality Certificate). The protection afforded by a Confidentiality Certificate is permanent with respect to subjects who participated in research during any time the authorization was in effect.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY RESEARCH

Deadline for Submission of Concept Papers

Notice is hereby given that the deadline for submission of concept papers on Juvenile Delinquency Research topics under LEAA's 1976–1977 Visiting Fellowship Program is extended from November 15, 1975 to December 31, 1975. Concept papers on all other topics will not be included in LEAA's present review cycle.

The Visiting Fellowship Program supports a community of criminal justice scholars at the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice and the National Institute for Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention in Washington, D.C. Fellowship recipients come to the Nation's Capital to work on projects of their own design for periods of three months to two years. The emphasis is on creative, independent research on major issues relating to crime prevention and control and the administration of justice. Interaction with LEAA staff and criminal justice professionals is encouraged through informal discussions, seminars, and conferences.

The Visiting Fellowship Program is open to highly qualified persons in the criminal justice professions or the academic community seeking support on projects related to law enforcement and criminal justice. Each Fellow is selected on the basis of past work either in an academic position or a professional career, the potential impact of the project, the quality and feasibility of the research methodology, and the feasibility of conducting the project in the Washington, D.C. area. Project periods are flexible, but should not begin before July 1, 1976.

Researchers and practitioners are encouraged to take advantage of the extended deadline to submit concept papers on proposed research in juvenile delinquency areas for consideration under the 1976–1977 Program. Concept papers should include details on the juvenile delinquency research topic, the project's scope, methodology, estimated cost and time necessary to complete the research.

SEC. 4. Responsibilities. .01 The Assistant Secretary for Economic Affairs shall be responsible for all matters of policy or subject matter interpretation with respect to this order; and shall serve as the designated official responsible for Department compliance pursuant to section 4.d. of Circular A-107.

Further, the Assistant Secretary may amend, append, or revise the criteria and procedural provisions of this order as deemed necessary, in accordance with the provisions of DAO 200-3 on Department Administrative Orders, subject to approval by the Office of Management and Budget of any substantive revision of criteria.

.02 "Heads of Operating Units and Departmental Offices" shall be responsible for the implementation of this order with respect to all legislative and regulatory proposals originating within their organizations, and for clearing with the Assistant Secretary for Economic Affairs or his designee all analysis certification statements prepared pursuant to Section 6 of this order.

SEC. 5. Inflationary review procedures. .01 Review Requirement and Criteria. Every legislative or regulatory proposal shall be reviewed to determine whether the matter is a major proposal requiring evaluation and certification under Section 6 of this order. The review shall be carried out by applying the six inflationary determination criteria set forth under a. through f., below.

(a) Will the proposal be expected, during any one year period of its implementation, to result in a price change of one percent or more for the most specific affected item or category for which data are regularly published in connection with the Wholesale Price Index, the Consumer Price Index, or the GNP Implicit Price Deflator, or a 1/10 of one percent change in either index or the deflator?

(b) Will the proposal be expected to:

1. Result in increased combined budget outlays by consumers, businesses, and Federal, state and local governments exceeding $100 million in any one year period, or $150 million in any two year period as a consequence of compliance costs associated with the program, or

2. Result in increased budget outlays by either consumers, businesses, or Federal, state and local governments exceeding $50 million in any one year period, or $75 million in any 2 year period as a consequence of compliance costs associated with the program?

(c) Will the proposal be expected to reduce labor productivity by one percent or more in the item which is the unit of focus in the proposal (i.e., workers per ship, safety people per construction site, etc.)? If the proposed action, due to such factors as constraints on output or investment, barriers to substitution of materials supplies, or limitation on use of technologies or skills, would restrict increases in labor productivity which otherwise would have occurred, such restriction shall be considered as a reduction.

(d) Will the proposal be expected to change employment by one percent or more in the activity which is the unit of focus in the proposal?

(e) For the explicitly defined relevant market affected, will the proposal be expected to result in a one percent or more decline in supply of materials, products, or services, or a one percent or more increase in consumption of these materials, products or services after all incipient compliance adjustments have occurred? These materials, products, or services include, but are not limited to, energy and energy products, components of the National Stockpile, materials or services identified as critical by either the National Security Council, Economic Policy Board, or Council on International Economic Policy, and other materials, services, or products as the Secretary may designate. In the case of energy, if the impact on supply or consumption exceeds 1/10 of one percent of total U.S. consumption an impact analysis will be required.

(f) For the same explicitly defined relevant market, will the proposal be expected to result in a clearly identifiable decline in competition, including such factors as limitation of market entry, restraint of market information, or other impediments to the functioning of the market system, after all incipient compliance adjustments have occurred?

.02 Negative finding. If the review determines that the proposal does not meet any of the six criteria, then the subsequent transmittal letter to the Congress (with respect to proposed legislation), or preamble (with respect to rules or regulations being transmitted to the FEDERAL REGISTER), shall contain a statement that the subject proposal has been reviewed pursuant to E.O. 11821 and OMB Circular A-107 and it was determined to have no major inflationary impact.

.03 Positive finding. If the review reveals that the proposal does meet one or more of the six interrogatory criteria, an inflationary analysis must be undertaken by the operating unit or staff office. The provisions of Section 6, below, shall apply.

SEC. 6. Inflationary analysis procedures. .01 The Analysis. When the inflationary review of a proposal yields a positive finding (as explained in Section 5), the originating organization shall effect a detailed economic evaluation. This evaluation shall include, as applicable:

(a) An analysis of the principal cost or other inflationary effects of the action on markets, consumers, businesses or industries, etc., and, where practical, an analysis of secondary cost and price effects. These analyses should include confidence interval estimates where possible and should encompass a time period sufficient to determine all significant economic and inflationary consequences, and the explicit market or markets affected shall, to the extent possible, be decribed using appropriate levels of detail set forth in the Standard Industrial Classification Manual.

(b) Comparison of the benefits to be derived from the proposed action with estimated costs and inflationary impacts. These benefits should be quantified on the basis of generally acceptable value judgments; and

(c) A brief comparison between alternatives and the proposed action, including probable costs, benefits, risks, and inflationary implications.

.02 The Analysis Certification. At all times thereafter, the legislative or regulatory proposal shall include a statement certifying that the inflationary impact of the proposal has been analyzed and evaluated. Further:

(a) With respect to legislative proposals, these evaluations will be forwarded to OMB on request. When the legislation has been submitted to Congress, such information will be forwarded to the Congress on request and, in any event, no later than the date of agency testimony on the proposal; and

(b) With respect to agency rules and regulations:

1. The proposed issuance, the certification, and a summary of the evaluation shall be submitted to the Council on Wage and Price Stability immediately upon certification.

2. The document when presented to the FEDERAL REGISTER shall include, immediately preceding the signature of the authorizing official, the following standard certification language: "It is hereby certified that the economic and inflationary impacts of this proposed regulation have been carefully evaluated in accordance with OMB Circular A-107."

SEC. 7. Additional requirements. .01 In conducting the analysis under paragraph 6.01, all significant value judgments and probabilistic statements must be explicit.

.02 All analysis certification statements made under paragraph 6.02 shall be cleared with the Assistant Secretary for Economic Affairs, or his designee.

.03 The requirements of this order shall be met within existing resources.

SEC. 8. DOC proposals to the 1st session, 94th Congress. With respect to proposals which have already been submitted to OMB or OGC for the 1st Session of the 94th Congress, the following procedures shall apply:

a. The originating operating unit or departmental office shall review the proposal in accordance with Section 5 of this order.

b. If the review results in a positive finding, or if OMB advises that the proposal could have an inflationary impact, an analysis in accordance with Section 6 of this order shall be effected by the originating DOC component before the proposal is submitted to the Congress.

c. In the event that neither OMB nor the originating office or operating unit finds that an inflationary impact is likely, the transmittal letter to the Congress shall include a statement as explained in paragraph 5.02.

Acting Assistant Secretary for Administration.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY FOR COMMUNITY PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT

Delegation of Authority

Correction

In FR Doc. 75-29112 appearing on page 50557 in the issue of Thursday, October 30, 1975, in the sixth line of the document the Item number reading "15" should read "5".

[Docket No. D-75-393]

FEDERAL INSURANCE ADMINISTRATOR

Delegation of Authority

Section 7(i) (6) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act, Pub. L. 89-174, 42 U.S.C. 3531 et seq., authorizes the Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development to "include in any contract or instrument such other covenants, conditions, or provisions as he may deem necessary." Pursuant to this authority, a provision requiring safeguarding of program assets by program participants through insurance or bonding has been included in contracts used in several of the programs of this Department. In order to assure that this safeguarding is adequately carried out at a minimal cost to the program participant, and therefore the Department, the Department provides professional and technical advice and guidance on insurance and bonding matters to program participants. Related to the contract requirements, the Department also provides approval of non-Federal insurance contracts as meeting the contract requirement and endorsement of insurance checks, including loss claim checks, on which the United States of America, the Department, or any predecessor of the Department is a joint payee. These functions until recently had been carried out by headquarters and field personnel of the Assistant Secretary for Housing Management. With the development of insurance expertise in the Federal Insurance Administration, the Secretary determined that these functions should be carried out by that office. Accordingly, the delegation of these functions to the Assistant Secretary for Housing Management was revoked, and the authority for carrying out all aspects of the Department-wide program insurance and bonding function was delegated to the Federal Insurance Administrator in a Delegation of Authority published at 40 FR 37075, August 25, 1975. That delegation omitted a necessary reference to the Urban Growth and New Community Development Act of 1970 (40 U.S.C. 4501 et seq.). That delegation is now being superseded by this one in which the omission is corrected.

SECTION A. Authority Delegated. The Federal Insurance Administrator is, except as provided in section B, delegated the authority and responsibility of the Secretary for all aspects of the Department-wide program insurance and bonding function with respect to the following programs:

(1) Slum Clearance and Urban Renewal Program under Title I of the Housing Act of 1949 (42 U.S.C. 1450-1468), and section 312 of the Housing Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 1450 Note).

(2) Program of Loans for Housing of the Elderly or Handicapped under Section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959 (12 U.S.C. 1701q).

(3) College Housing under Title IV of the Housing Act of 1950 (12 U.S.C. 1749-1749c).

(4) Low-Rent Public Housing Program under the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. 1401 et seq. and 42 U.S.C. 1430 et seq.).

(5) New Communities Program under the Housing Act of 1968 (42 U.S.C. 3901 et seq.) and the Urban Growth and New Community Development Act of 1970 (42 U.S.C. 4501 et seq.).

(6) Comprehensive Planning, 701b Program under the Housing Act of 1954 (40 U.S.C. 461).

This authority and responsibility shall include the following:

1. The authority and responsibility for rendering professional and technical advice and guidance on insurance and bonding matters, including the development and selection of all procedures and training materials.

2. The authority and responsibility for the making of policy with respect to the insurance and bonding matters involved in this delegation.

3. The authority and responsibility for review and evaluation of field office performance of the insurance and bonding function, as well as for recommendations for appropriate corrective actions where needed.

4. With respect to master contracts for insurance and bonding, the authority and responsibility for appropriate bid requests, openings and recordings, analysis, awarding of contracts, ongoing administrative functions (including servicing) with respect to the contracts, and liaison between Area and Insuring Offices, local HUD program participants, and private insurers who issue policies under the contracts.

5. The authority and responsibility to approve or disapprove non-Federal insurance contracts and to execute endorsements on insurance checks, including loss claim checks, on behalf of the Department of Housing and Urban Development on which the United States of America, the Department of Housing and Urban Development or any predecessor agency of the Department of Housing and Urban Development is a payee (joint or otherwise).

SEC. B. Au horily excepted. There is excepted from the authority delegated under section A the power to sue and be sued.

SEC. C. Authority to redelegate. The Federal Insurance Administrator is authorized to redelegate to the employees of the Department any of the authority delegated under section A.

SEC. D. Delegations revoked and superseded. This delegation revokes paragraph 18 of Section A of the delegation of authority to the Assistant Secretary and Deputy Assistant Secretary for Housing Management with respect to the approval of non-Federal insurance contracts and the endorsements on behalf of the Department of insurance checks, published at 36 FR 5006, March 16, 1971. It also supersedes the delegation of authority to the Federal Insurance Administration with respect to the insurance and bonding function, published at 40 FR 37075, August 25, 1975.

Effective date. This delegation of authority is effective as of August 19, 1975.

Secretary,
Housing and Urban Development.

[Docket No. EX75-25; Notice 2]

AUTOMOBILI LAMBORGHINI

Petition for Temporary Exemption From Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards

Automobili Ferruccio Lamborghini S.p.A. of Italy has been granted a 3-year exemption of its Countach model from Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 215, Exterior Protection, on the basis that compliance would cause it substantial economic hardship.

Notice of the petition was published on September 30, 1975 (40 FR 44859) and an opportunity afforded for comment.

Lamborghini's annual production is approximately 350 passenger cars. It manufactured 60 Countachs from June 1974 to June 1975, and anticipates that 20 vehicles per year will be produced under the exemption for the United States market. Although the car entered production relatively recently, its design and engineering date from late 1968 and early 1969 before the proposal and adoption of Standard No. 215, which was initially effective September 1, 1972. The company has spent approximately $268,000 conforming the vehicle with all other Federal motor vehicle safety standards, and it submitted a detailed estimate of 40 changes plus costs necessary to effect compliance with Standard No. 215. Conformance would require $435,960, which is approximately 90 percent of the company's cumulative net profits in the years 1971-73. Lamborghini has spent $17,855 on tooling for bumper equipment to be added to Countachs to be sold in the United States that will afford partial compliance with Standard No. 215. The company intends to conform at the end of the 3-year period. Because of the decline in luxury auto sales in Europe, the company argued that failure to enter the American market with the Countach would cause it further hardship.

One comment was received on the petition, supporting it.

The NHTSA notes that the petitioner has evidenced its good faith by bringing the Countach into compliance with all but a portion of the applicable Federal standards, by the expenditure of sums that are sizable in comparison with its net income. The company's finances appear to have become more marginal with the decline of the sales of luxury automobiles in Europe, and entry of the Countach into the American market (for which money has already been expended) should assist the company financially. The failure of only 60 Countachs to partially meet Standard No. 215 should not have a significant effect upon motor vehicle safety.

For the above reasons, the Administrator finds that a denial of the petition would cause the petitioner substantial economic hardship, and that a temporary exemption is in the public interest and consistent with the objectives of the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act. Accordingly, Automobili Lamborghini is hereby granted NHTSA Exemption No. 75-25 from 49 CFR 571.215, Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 215, Exterior Protection, for its Countach model only, expiring November 1, 1978.

KOEHRING CO.

Petition for Exemption From Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard

This notice denies the petition by Koehring Company for an extension until December 1, 1976, of NHTSA Exemption No. 75-8 excusing it from compliance with Federal Motor Vehicle Safety

V40234 DEC 4 75 XUM

Standard No. 121, Air Brake Systems (49 CFR 571.121).

Notice of Koehring's petition was published on September 5, 1975 (40 FR 41169), and an opportunity accorded for comment. Notice of Koehring's original petition was published on February 13, 1975 (40 FR 6702). The notice that the petition was granted was published on April 22, 1975 (40 FR 17775).

Koehring requested an extension based upon the reasons set forth in both its original and current petitions. The vehicles concerned are trucks, primarily hydraulic excavators and crane carriers manufactured by its Bantam Division. They are six-wheel units with front driving steerable axles. The smaller models are the T–644 excavator and T–350 crane using steering driving axles rated at 11,000 pounds GAWR. The larger models are the T–744 excavator and the T–588 crane using steering driving axles rated at 18,000 pounds GAWR. Koehring stated that it had been unable to find a supplier other than Rockwell Standard to build front driving axles for its lighter vehicles, but "Because of previous order commitments Rockwell Standard will not be able to deliver complying axles to Koehring (until approximately July 1976)." Although Oshkosh Truck Corporation had commented that it could supply Koehring with axles for its heavier vehicles, Koehring, after investigation, argued that Oshkosh would not be a realistic source of supply. The axle ratings differ, and, in Koehring's words, "The Oshkosh Truck axles use air over hydraulic brakes whereas Bantam Division uses full air brakes; the gear ratios available from Oshkosh Truck would require redesign of the gears currently in use by Bantam Division whereas the Rockwell Standard axles would not; the price quoted by Oshkosh Truck is approximately $4,300 to $4,500 per axle as compared to Rockwell Standard's quote of $2,700 per axle." Koehring also argued that relying upon Oshkosh "would require Bantam to * * * start afresh with new designs * * * which might further delay * * * the date on which Bantam Division would comply with FMVSS–121 * * *."

Comments were received from Oshkosh Truck Corporation, Kelsey-Hayes Company, and Warner & Swasey. The three commenters opposed an extension. Oshkosh remarked that Koehring's investigation of its axles consisted of one "brief telephone conversation" summarily describing the axles and that "Koehring did not volunteer technical information or request technical assistance from Oshkosh Truck Corporation." Oshkosh admitted, however, that "the full air brakes required by the Bantam Division do not appear to be available" for axles with 18,000 pound GAWR. Kelsey-Hayes commented that it can presently supply axles through the 16,000 pound GAWR range and will have full air 18,000 pound GAWR axles available in mid-1976. Warner & Swasey noted that Koehring seeks an extension only with respect to one-third of the vehicles that were the subject of the initial petition and that denial of the extension, in its view, should not cause substantial economic hardship to Koehring whose net income in fiscal 1974 exceeded $5,250,000. Both Oshkosh and Warner & Swasey commented that with minor modifications of their high speed capability, the vehicles in question could be permanently excluded from standard No. 121 by the amendment of August 27, 1975 (40 FR 31860), excepting vehicles whose top speed does not exceed 45 mph. (The top speed of the Koehring T–644 excavator is advertised as 52 mph, and the T–744 as 61–62 mph.) Warner & Swasey also argued that an extension would not be in the public interest since Koehring through its exemption has enjoyed an advantage over its competitors Harnischfeger and Warner & Swasey whose petitions for exemption were denied.

On September 9, 1975, NHTSA asked Koehring to provide its views:

> * * * as to why Koehring cannot or is unwilling to meet the "interim" (dynamometer) requirements that are applicable to vehicles with front driving steerable axles having GAWR's of less than 18,000 pounds. Your supplier, Rockwell International, is believed to have front steerable driving axles that can be given a GAWR of 11,000 pounds and permit a vehicle to meet the interim requirements of Standard No. 121. It is also believed to have front steerable driving axles available that can be given a GAWR of slightly less than 18,000 pounds that would permit Koehring's larger vehicles to meet the interim requirements.

The Administrator must make the same findings in granting an extension as he did in issuing the original exemption, specifically that compliance would cause the petitioner substantial economic hardship and that the extension would be in the public interest and consistent with the objectives of the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act.

Koehring's exemption was predicated upon the hardship that might be caused by "economic disruption and uncertainty in the event of a shutdown of facilities during the period before conforming vehicles could be produced" and the effect upon "the economic wellbeing of the community of Waverly, Iowa." Because of the apparent ability of Oshkosh, reflected in its comment, to supply conforming axles, the exemption was limited to the period before June 1, 1975. Since the grant of the original petition it appears that Koehring has been able to conform much of its production to Standard No. 121. Standard No. 121 has also been amended to exclude Koehring's non-conforming vehicles if modifications, that do not appear significant, are performed to reduce their top-speed capability. Even if Koehring chose not to modify its excavators, it does not appear that a denial would cause it to cease operations, since a portion of its production apparently meets Standard No. 121. The Administrator further notes that Koehring has not supplied a dollar figure with respect to the cost that a denial would cause, nor has it answered NHTSA's letter of September 9, 1975. Accordingly, the Administrator is unable to find that a denial would cause petitioner substantial economic hardship. Findings of public interest and consistency with objectives of traffic safety are therefore not reached.

For the foregoing reasons the petition by Koehring Company for an extension of its temporary exemption is denied. NHTSA Exemption No. EX75–8 expires on January 5, 1976.

TVR ENGINEERING LTD.

Petition for Temporary Exemption From Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard

TVR Engineering Ltd. Blackpool, England, has been granted a 3-year exemption from Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 215, Exterior Protection, on the basis that compliance would cause it substantial economic hardship.

Notice of TVR's petition appeared in the FEDERAL REGISTER on September 30, 1975 (40 FR 44859), and an opportunity afforded for comment.

TVR manufactured 450 passenger cars from January 1, 1974, to August 31, 1975. Approximately 80 percent of its 1974 production was shipped to North America (388 cars to the United States, 12 to Canada). On January 3, 1975, its factory was almost completely destroyed by a fire. Petitioner was in the process of designing and testing procedures related to Standard No. 215 at that time, but "all of the stock, including the developmental work in progress, was destroyed." As a result, TVR "was unable to produce and market a production model for the year 1975, and to complete its research, development, testing" and work related to compliance with Standard No. 215. Unless the exemption is granted, "Petitioner will be deprived of its 1976 sales year." The effect of this "will be the financial ruin and collapse of Petitioner's business." Its net income in 1974 was approximately $8,000 (3519 Pounds).

No comments were received on the petition.

Because of TVR's past reliance upon the American market to absorb 80 percent of its production, and the damages incurred in the fire, TVR's prediction that without an exemption the company will be financially ruined appears justified. The agency also notes that even with small resources and production the petitioner has nevertheless, with this one exception, been able apparently to meet all Federal safety standards that apply to its products.

For the reasons discussed above it is found that the denial of the petition would create substantial economic hardship, and that a temporary exemption would be in the public interest and consistent with the objectives of the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act. Accordingly, TVR Engineering Ltd. is hereby granted NHTSA Exemption No. 75–28 from 49 CFR 571.215, Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 215, Exterior Protection, expiring November 1, 1978.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[Docket Nos. 25953, 22322; Order 75–12–5]

FEDERAL EXPRESS CORPORATION ET AL.

Order Granting and Denying Petitions for Reconsideration

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 1st day of December 1975.

By Order 75–3–42, March 13, 1975, the Board consolidated and set for hearing applications in two related dockets. The first application, in Docket 25953, involved the joint request of General Dynamics Corporation (General Dynamics) and certain other investors (the "investors") along with Federal Express Corporation (Federal Express) for disclaimer of jurisdiction in part and grant of an exemption or approval, pursuant to sections 408 and 409 of the Federal Aviation Act, of the acquisition by General Dynamics and the other investors of varying amounts of equity securities of Federal Express.

The second application, in Docket 22322, involved the joint request of Mr. Lester Crown and Trans World Airlines (TWA), for indefinite renewal of the approval heretofore granted by Order 71–11–92 and by letter to counsel for the joint applicants dated February 13, 1972, of the interlocking relationships resulting from Mr. Crown's position as a member of the Board of Directors of TWA, on the one hand, and various close relationships between Mr. Crown and General Dynamics, a business engaged in a phase of aeronautics, on the other hand.[1]

The pertinent facts concerning the transactions and relationships involved in the two applications are set forth in some detail in Order 75–3–42, and need not be repeated here. Various petitions for reconsideration of Order 75–3–42 have been filed.

1. TWA and Mr. Lester Crown have filed a joint petition for reconsideration asking that the issue of the renewal of the TWA/Lester Crown interlocking relationship pending in Docket 22322 not be consolidated for hearing with the matter of control of Federal Express Corporation pending in Docket 25953. The joint petitioners urge that a nonhearing proceeding, through the device of a show cause order, be used to expedite the application. In so doing, the joint petitioners propose a specific restriction on the participation of Lester Crown in any discussion or other action by the Boards of Directors of TWA or General Dynamics having to do with ownership or control of Federal Express or having to do with any transaction in excess of $100,000 between Federal Express and General Dynamics or TWA, or among them all, without prior approval of the Board.

2. The investors have filed a petition requesting that the Board reconsider its order with respect to the inclusion of both the senior bank creditors of Federal Express, and the holders of "nonvoting" equity interests. It is the contention of the investors that the inclusion of the banking creditors[2] in a full evidentiary hearing is inappropriate in light of the pending Institutional Control of Air Carriers Investigation, Docket 26349. To assure consistency with the ultimate findings of the Institutional Control Investigation, the investors request the Board to modify its order by either disclaiming jurisdiction as to the bank creditors or exempting the acquisition pending the outcome of the investigation. The investors contend that the only conceivably unique aspect of the Federal Express financing is the issuance of warrants to the lenders. These warrants, they argue, by their express terms cannot be exercised by the banks, but may only be exercised by transferees of the banks. The petitioners suggest that the Board may specifically reserve a right of prior approval over any sale or transfer of the warrants.

The investors further request the Board to reconsider its decision with respect to the Allstate and Prudential Insurance Companies, holders of "nonvoting" equity interests in Federal Express. While the nonvoting restriction on these shares currently extends only to election of directors, the petitioners state that Allstate and Prudential would be prepared to relinquish any additional voting rights as the Board may determine. They further stipulate their willingness to accept a specific condition that any bulk sale of the shares held by them would be subject to prior Board approval.

Finally, the investors propose an alternate solution. Citing the current financial condition of Federal Express and the possibility of additional financing during 1975, they suggest that the hearing in this case be postponed until a decision is reached in the Institutional Control Investigation.

3. Federal Express has filed a petition for reconsideration, expressing as its primary concern the "potentially staggering cost" of hearings of the scope presently ordered by the Board, as well as its conviction that the procedures instituted are wholly disproportionate to the relatively limited importance of the issues in the present proceeding.

In support of its petition, Federal Express states that the case merely involves consideration of the transfer of control or potential control interests in a noncertificated air taxi operating pursuant to the free entry provisions of Part 298 of the Board's Economic Regulations. As such, it argues, there should be a strong presumption toward the propriety of nonhearing relief. Further, Federal Express contends that the case arises out of relatively short-term financing transactions and does not reflect the purchasers' intent to acquire control. The petitioner also notes that virtually all of the applicant's costs in the case must be borne by Federal Express,[3] and suggests that the cost of the hearings could result in a severe cash drain and might exhaust the working capital needed to sustain the carrier's operations.

Further, Federal Express contends that the opposition to its application by Executive Jet Aviation[4] "might be neutralized" by a firm assurance eliminating the potential competitive threat to that air taxi operator. The petitioner proposes to accept, without objection or reservation, a restriction limiting it to cargo-only operations as a condition precedent to Board approval, in the event that EJA withdraws its prior demand for a hearing and its opposition to approval of the application.

Finally, Federal Express urges the Board to adopt one of three possible courses of action. The first is that the acquisitions of its equity securities should

[1] These relationships include (a) the holding by the Crown family and business associates of a controlling interest in General Dynamics, (b) Mr. Crown's position as a member of the Board of Directors of General Dynamics, (c) Mr. Crown's position as a member of the board and an officer of certain subsidiaries of General Dynamics, and (d) the position of Mr. Crown's father, Mr. Harry Crown, Sr., as a member of the Board of Directors of General Dynamics.

[2] The "bank creditors" consist of six banks who have received, in partial consideration for their loans to Federal Express, warrants for the purchase of common stock. Through increased financing, these banks continue to receive additional warrants as consideration for deferral on interest payments. The current warrant holdings would comprise about 10 percent of the outstanding common stock if exercised. Assuming that Federal Express continues to issue warrants in lieu of interest payments to the extent of their ability to do so under the agreement, the total warrants issued to the banks could equal the equivalent of 18.48 percent of the outstanding common stock. The warrants are not exercisable by the banks, but may be so exercised by any transferee.

[3] By virtue of the Purchase Agreement, dated November 9, 1973, Section 12. C; Submitted as Appendix A to Amendment No. 1 to the Joint Application, filed December 7, 1973.

[4] An answer in opposition to the application as well as a petition for leave to intervene were filed by Executive Jet Aviation (EJA), an air taxi operator. In its answer, EJA requested that the Board assert jurisdiction over the entire transaction, deny the request for an exemption, and either deny the request for approval or, at a minimum, set the matter for a full evidentiary hearing.

V40234 DEC 4 75 XUM

be authorized by exemption. Secondly, in the alternative, it is proposed that the acquisitions may be approved by show-cause procedures. Finally, Federal Express declares that at a minimum any hearings found to be necessary must be limited by the exclusion of institutional control case issues. Additionally, the petitioner urges the Board to extend its disclaimer of jurisdiction to include the two investors, Allstate and Prudential, who purchased "nonvoting" securities.

Upon careful review of the matters presented in the petitions for reconsideration, the Board has decided to grant, in part, the relief sought. The petitioners have persuasively shown that the present scope of the proceedings may be unduly broad, and that with the imposition of appropriate conditions, some of the concerns previously expressed by the Board can be alleviated.

At the same time, however, the magnitude of the operations and financial transactions of the parties is sizeable. After less than three years of operation Federal Express operates one of the largest, if not the largest, fleets of business jet aircraft in the nation. Moreover, as Federal Express itself states, we are dealing with "the establishment of a brand-new and unique air transportation service which is a rare occurrence."

The leading investor in the current financing of this venture is General Dynamics, a business engaged in a phase of aeronautics and one of the country's 100 largest corporations, with 1974 sales of almost two billion dollars and assets of $1.184 billion.[6] The total financing of Federal Express, under the initiative and with the participation of General Dynamics, exceeds $50 million. Further, the new investors apparently control three of the five seats on the Board of Directors.

Given these circumstances, we must reject the petitioners' proposals to proceed by nonhearing procedures. We are not persuaded by the arguments of Federal Express that opposition which exists to its application can be "neutralized" by a stipulation that it would refrain from carrying passengers. While Federal Express clearly is free to so stipulate, it is not at all clear that such a condition would meet the objection to Federal Express' application. In any event, while our decision to set this matter for hearing took into consideration the answer of Executive Jet Aviation opposing the application, it has always been our basic view that a hearing in this instance is needed in the public interest, regardless of lack of formal opposition.

In any case, the proceedings are being limited herein to such an extent that they will not produce too severe a financial burden upon the applicant, but at the same time will allow the Board to exercise its legitimate responsibility under Section 408 of the Act to evaluate the very real question of whether the transactions for which the applicants seek approval affect the control of the air carrier, and if so whether it is in the public interest to approve that control relationship. Accordingly, we will scope the proceeding along the following lines.

Lester Crown-Interlocking Relationships

Order 75–3–42 consolidated for hearing the proceeding in Docket 22322, involving the interlocking relationships of Mr. Lester Crown, with the proceeding in Docket 25953, involving the control and acquisition of Federal Express. Upon reconsideration, the Board has decided to reaffirm its determination that these two matters be consolidated and set for concurrent hearing.

Despite Mr. Crown's willingness to accept a condition which would prohibit his participation in any discussion or other action by the Board of Directors of General Dynamics with respect to important matters concerning Federal Express Corporation, we have determined that a hearing on the question of the pertinent interlocking relationships is required in the public interest. Our determination is based in large part upon the possibility that General Dynamics may be found to be in control of Federal Express within the meaning of section 408 of the Act. In that event, Mr. Crown would be both a director of a certificated airline (TWA), and a director and major stock holder of a business involved in a phase of aeronautics (General Dynamics) which is also in control of perhaps the largest air taxi operator in the nation (Federal Express). Such possible interlocking relationships require close scrutiny under Section 409 regardless of the conditions proposed by the joint petitioners.

The determination under Section 409 of whether the public interest would be adversely affected by the Lester Crown interlocking relationships is closely related to, and to some extent dependent upon, the extent to which General Dynamics might be found to be in control of Federal Express under section 408. We are not convinced that consolidation and concurrent hearing will be unduly burdensome. In the first place, we are confident that the Administrative Law Judge assigned to the consolidated proceeding will, within reason, be able to schedule procedural dates and witness appearances in a manner convenient to the parties concerned. Moreover, by virtue of the automatic extension provisions of section 9(c) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 558), the Board's previous approval of the interlocking relationships involved in Docket 22322 will continue in effect pending final Board determination in the consolidated proceeding, and thus the applicant will not be prejudiced by any delay as a result of consolidation.

Nonvoting Equity Shareholders

The Allstate and Prudential Insurance Companies together own over thirty percent of the equity interest in Federal Express.[7] These shares consist of "nonvoting" Class B common stock only. By their terms, such securities may be converted into voting securities only upon transfer to a holder other than Prudential or Allstate. This nonvoting restriction, however, extends only to election of directors, and does not restrict the right to vote on other corporate matters. As noted in Order 75–3–42, these remaining voting rights in Federal Express present questions under Section 408 of the Act which weigh against a disclaimer of jurisdiction.[8] Moreover, in the absence of a full hearing, the Board cannot, as the investors suggest, simply determine a priori which, if any, of the retained voting rights raise questions of control. However, as an alternative to a hearing, the Joint applicants have indicated their willingness to resolve these potential control problems by, if necessary, relinquishing their remaining voting rights and obtaining prior Board approval of any substantial future transfers of securities held in Federal Express.

Upon reconsideration, the Board has determined that the conditions suggested by Allstate and Prudential will adequately resolve any remaining questions of control in Federal Express. Accordingly, we have decided to disclaim jurisdiction over Allstate and Prudential, subject of the filing of statements by the two investors verifying their relinquishment of voting rights in Federal Express and indicating their acceptance of the prior approval requirement on substantial future transfers of Federal Express securities.[9]

Bank Creditors

The strongest objections in the petitions of both Federal Express and the investors concern the inclusion of the bank creditors as parties to the proceeding. While the petitioners are objecting to the propriety of our decision, there is no contention that the Board lacks the legal right to examine the question of possible control which may result from the debt financing of Federal Express. Section 408(a)(5) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended by Pub. L. 91–62 in 1969, gives the Board jurisdiction over any person who may acquire control in any manner whatsoever.

The Board thus has a legitimate statutory interest in the question of control as it relates to the bank creditors of Federal Express. However, in reviewing the petitioners' arguments, we have taken into consideration a condition proposed [7] Letter of information to the Board, dated October 18, 1974, Appendix A, page 1, Docket 25953.

[8] Such rights presumably include the right to vote on mergers or consolidations, approval of bylaws, sale of corporate assets, basic charter amendments, reorganization of the corporate structure, and voluntary dissolution.

[9] A substantial transfer will be defined as any transaction or series of transactions occurring within a one-year period which results in a transfer of five percent or more of the voting securities of Federal Express.

by the petitioners which will help to alleviate our previously expressed reservations about one aspect of the debt financing of Federal Express. Specifically, in Order 75–3–42, the Board expressed its special concern about interests held by the creditor banks of Federal Express in the form of warrants to purchase common stock. Petitioners point out that the warrants are expressly not exercisable by the banks themselves and suggest that any sale or transfer of the warrants to other persons can be made subject to prior Board approval.

In our view, such a prior-approval requirement will satisfactorily meet the Board's principal concerns over the holding of warrants by creditor banks. Accordingly, upon reconsideration, we will not place in issue the specific warrants currently held by the creditor banks, although we will adopt the suggested prior-approval requirement. However, it is not our intent to completely dismiss the question of the debt financing of Federal Express as an aspect of the entire control issue in the hearing. All credit agreements entered into by Federal Express are pertinent to this case. Consideration of possible conditions on Federal Express in regard to its debt financing, aside from the above-mentioned condition on creditor bank warrant holdings, is certainly within the scope of this proceeding. Consequently, while we have decided not to require that the bank creditors be formal parties to the proceeding, to the extent that they determine it to be in their interest to participate in this proceeding, they may do so pursuant to the Rules of Practice in Part 302 of the Board's Procedural Regulations.

The Major Equity Shareholders

Finally, Federal Express, in its petition, has urged the Board to utilize nonhearing procedures to approve its application. The Board will deny this request. There are still unanswered questions of fact, law, and Board policy related to the acquisition of such a large air taxi operator by a major aircraft manufacturer (General Dynamics) which can only be resolved by a hearing procedure.[9]

Accordingly, it is ordered, That: 1. The petitions of Federal Express Corporation and its investors requesting that the Board disclaim jurisdiction over the acquisition of Federal Express stock by the Allstate and Prudential Insurance Companies is granted: Provided, That, this disclaimer shall not become effective unless, within 30-days of the effective date of this order, Allstate and Prudential, file statements with the Board's Docket Section indicating that:

(a) All voting rights which are now held or may be acquired in Federal Express have been relinquished; and

(b) Any transaction or series of transactions occurring within a one-year period which results in the transfer of five percent or more of the securities of Federal Express will be subject to prior approval of the Board;

2. The petitions of Federal Express and its investors requesting reconsideration of the inclusion of bank creditor relationships in the investigation instituted in Order 75–3–42 is granted insofar as the bank creditors of Federal Express are hereby excused as formal parties to this proceeding and upon the condition that any sale or transfer of warrants to purchase stock in Federal Express which are now held or may be acquired by the creditors of Federal Express be subject to the express prior approval by the Board; and

3. Except to the extent granted herein, the petitions of (1) Lester Crown and Trans World Airlines, Inc., (2) Federal Express Corporation, and (3) the Investors in Federal Express for reconsideration of Order 75–3–42 setting for hearing the applications in Dockets 22322 and 25953 be and they hereby are denied.

This order shall be published in the Federal Register.

INTERNATIONAL AIR TRANSPORT ASSOCIATION

Order Relating to Specific Commodity Rates

Issued under delegated authority November 28, 1975.

An agreement has been filed with the Board pursuant to section 412(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (the Act) and Part 261 of the Board's Economic Regulations between various air carriers, foreign air carriers, and other carriers, embodied in the resolutions of the Joint Traffic Conferences of the International Air Transport Association (IATA). The agreement was adopted at the 14th TC3 Specific Commodity Rates Board and the 20th Joint Specific Commodity Rates Board and has been assigned the above C.A.B. agreement number.

The agreement would establish three new specific commodity descriptions (Item 4306 for "Teleprinters", Item 5210 for "Pottery", and Item 6858 for "Machine parts and Automobile weather shields made of plastic") as well as specific commodity rate for several items to apply between various world markets outside of air transportation. We will approve the new descriptions which have general application within air transportation as defined by the Act but will disclaim jurisdiction with respect to the new rates which involve points solely outside of air transportation.

Pursuant to authority duly delegated by the Board in the Board's Regulations, 14 CFR 385.14:

1. It is not found that the new specific commodity descriptions incorporated in Agreement C.A.B. 25515, which have general application in air transportation as defined by the Act, are adverse to the public interest or in violation of the Act.

2. It is not found that the specific commodity rates incorporated in Agreement C.A.B. 25515 which involve transportation solely between foreign points affect air transportation within the meaning of the Act.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That: 1. That portion of Agreement C.A.B. 25515 described in finding paragraph 1 above, which has general application in air transportation as defined by the Act, be and hereby is approved; and

2. Jurisdiction be and hereby is disclaimed with respect to that portion of Agreement C.A.B. 25515 described in finding paragraph 2 above.

Persons entitled to petition the Board for review of this order, pursuant to the Board's Regulations, 14 CFR 385.50, may file such petitions within ten days after the date of this order.

This order shall be effective and become the action of the Civil Aeronautics Board upon expiration of the above period, unless within such period a petition for review thereof is filed or the Board gives notice that it will review this order on its own motion.

This order will be published the Federal Register.

Secretary.

COMMITTEE FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF TEXTILE AGREEMENTS

CERTAIN COTTON TOWELS PRODUCED OR MANUFACTURED IN PAKISTAN

Entry or Withdrawal from Warehouse for Consumption

DECEMBER 2, 1975.

On June 4, 1975, there was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (40 FR 24042), a letter dated May 30, 1975 from the chairman, Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements, to the Commissioner of Customs, establishing levels of restraint applicable to certain specified categories of cotton textiles and cotton textile products, produced or manufactured in Pakistan and exported to the United States during the eighteen-month period beginning on July 1, 1974. As set forth in that letter, the levels of restraint are subject to adjustment according to the terms of the Bilateral Cotton Textile Agreement of May 6, 1975, between the Governments of the United States and Pakistan.

Pursuant to Paragraph 13 of the bilateral agreement, the Governments of the United States and Pakistan have agreed to permit entry of shipments in Category 31 (other than shop towels) which will exceed the level of restraint established for the agreement period which began on July 1, 1974. The additional amount will be charged against the level of restraint applicable to Category 31 (other than shop towels) for the agreement year beginning on January 1, 1976.

Accordingly, there is published below a letter of December 2, 1975 from the Chairman of the Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements to the Commissioner of Customs implementing this action.

Effective date: December 4, 1975.

ALAN POLANSKY,
Chairman, Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy-DIBA, and Director, Bureau of Resources U.S. Department of Commerce.

COMMITTEE FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF TEXTILE AGREEMENTS

COMMISSIONER OF CUSTOMS,
Department of The Treasury,
Washington, D.C. 20229.

DECEMBER 2, 1975.

DEAR MR. COMMISSIONER: On May 30, 1975, the chairman, Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements, directed you to prohibit entry during the eighteen-month period beginning on July 1, 1974 of cotton textiles and cotton textile products in certain specified categories, produced or manufactured in Pakistan, in excess of designated levels of restraint. The Chairman further advised you that the levels of restraint are subject to adjustment.[1]

Under the terms of the Arrangement Regarding International Trade in Textiles done at Geneva on December 20, 1973, pursuant to paragraph 13 of the Bilaterial Cotton Textile Agreement of May 6, 1975, between the Governments of the United States and Pakistan, and in accordance with the procedures of Executive Order 11651 of March 3, 1972, you are directed, effective on December 4, 1975, to permit entry of cotton textile products in Category 31 (other than shop towels), even though the level of restraint will be exceeded.[2] Shipments entered on and after December 4, 1975 will be charged to the level of restraint for Category 31 (other than shop towels) during the agreement period beginning on January 1, 1976.

The actions taken with respect to the Government of Pakistan and with respect to imports of cotton textiles and cotton textile products from Pakistan have been determined by the Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements to involve foreign affairs functions of the United States. Therefore, the directions to the Commissioner of Customs, being necessary to the implementation of such actions, fall within the foreign affairs exception to the rule-making provisions of 5 U.S.C. 553. This letter will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Sincerely,

ALAN POLANSKY,
Chairman, Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy-DIBA, and Director Bureau of Resources U.S. Department of Commerce.

APPENDIX II

DEFINITIONS OF CODES FOR THE GENERAL NATURE OF EPA COMMENTS

Environmental Impact of the Action.

LO—Lack of Objection.

EPA has no objections to the proposed action as described in the draft impact statement; or suggests only minor changes in the proposed action.

ER—Environmental Reservations.

EPA has reservations concerning the environmental effects of certain aspects of the proposed action. EPA believes that further study of suggested alternatives or modifications is required and has asked the originating Federal agency to reassess these impacts.

EU—Environmentally Unsatisfactory.

EPA believes that the proposed action is unsatisfactory because of its potentially harmful effect on the environment. Furthermore, the Agency believes that the potential safeguards which might be utilized may not adequately protect the environment from hazards arising from this action. The Agency recommends that alternatives to the action be analyzed further (including the possibility of no action at all).

Adequacy of the Impact Statement.

Category 1—Adequate.

The draft impact statement adequately sets forth the environmental impact of the proposed project or action as well as alternatives reasonably available to the project or action.

Category 2—Insufficient Information

EPA believes that the draft impact statement does not contain sufficient information to assess fully the environmental impact of the proposed project or action. However, from the information submitted, the Agency is able to make a preliminary determination of the impact on the environment. EPA has requested that the originator provide the information that was not included in the draft statement.

Category 3—Inadequate

EPA believes that the draft impact statement does not adequately assess the environmental impact of the proposed project or action, or that the statement inadequately analyzes reasonable available alternatives. The Agency has requested more information and analysis concerning the potential environmental hazards and has asked that substantial revision be made to the impact statement.
